Drought Conditions In Illinois Continue

In an effort to weather current drought conditions, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich directed state agencies to conserve water and asked for a similar effort from all Illinoisans. After the 10th driest month of June on record in Illinois, public water supplies are stressed and some private shallow wells are experiencing a decline in water levels.

In response to continuing drought conditions, one week ago the governor activated the Drought Response Task Force. Made up of experts from the Illinois Water Survey, Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources, Water Resource Management, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, the Illinois Dept. of Agriculture, the Illinois Dept. of Public Health, and the Illinois Emergency Management Agency, the team will monitor drought conditions and plan necessary responses, should emergency situations develop.

Gov. Blagojevich directed state agencies to be conservative when watering lawns and washing state vehicles. In addition, he has asked Drought Response Task Force to look at potential conservation measures in state buildings. For instance, the Illinois EPA is evaluating some creative approaches to conserving water, including water-free urinals and automatic shutoffs on sinks.

Continued large water demands are taxing available water production and distribution systems. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has been working with public water supply operators across the state and they report excellent cooperation from their customers. However, during these times, it will be difficult for public water supplies to provide quantities of water that people are accustomed to using. Public water operators have been reaching out to their customers making recommendations on conservation. Others have instituted mandatory water restrictions.

Standard Bank and Trust Co. will hold a ribbon-cutting ceremony for its newest Oak Lawn location on Tuesday, July 12th at 4 p.m. The new branch is located at 111th and Keating. Oak Lawn Mayor Dave Heilmann, Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce representatives, as well as Standard Bank personnel, will attend the event.

Standard Bank and Trust Co. operates 35 locations throughout Chicagoland and Northwest Indiana and has over $1.5 billion in assets.

Gas Supplier Settlement

Attorney General Lisa Madigan announced a settlement agreement with a natural gas supplier over allegations the company earlier this year sent a confusing, governmental-looking mailer to Illinois residents that made big promises on the front but only disclosed actual terms of the agreement - often detrimental to the consumer - on a hard-to-read, green-colored back page. The settlement was entered in Cook County Circuit Court on June 29th.

Madigan said Illinois Natural Gas Savings Corporation, doing business as Illinois Natural Gas Corporation, has agreed not to raise the price of natural gas during the course of its contracts. In addition, the natural gas supplier has agreed to clearly and conspicuously disclose in all future contracts and solicitations that it is not affiliated with any state agency or public utility and disclose the details of its consumer contracts.

The defendants also have agreed to honor all requests for cancellation of contracts for any consumer that signed up for the program prior to the filing of the settlement agreement. The cancellation requests must be July 29th, within 30 days of the consent decree's filing.

"This settlement agreement ensures that Illinois consumers who believe they were misled into signing a contract with Illinois Natural Gas due to misleading advertisements can cancel their contracts with no financial penalties," Madigan said. "We have been assured by Illinois Natural Gas that in the future they will provide promotional materials and contracts that inform - not confuse - consumers."

Madigan said the consent decree is for settlement purposes and does not constitute an admission of guilt by Illinois Natural Gas Corporation. Madigan also said the company will make a $5,000 contribution to a consumer education fund.

Illinois Natural Gas is an alternative natural gas supplier that earlier this year was certified by the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) to participate in a program that allows consumers in northern Illinois to choose a company to supply natural gas. Illinois Natural Gas is one of 11 suppliers that consumers can choose to supply their gas while regulated utilities continue to deliver the gas and provide service and billing.

In April 2005, Illinois Natural Gas began sending letters and two-sided forms to hundreds of thousands of Illinois consumers. The marketing materials urged consumers to sign up for Illinois Natural Gas' "Year 2005 Stable Price and Refund Program." However, Madigan's lawsuit, filed on April 26th, alleged the mailing used deceptive and unclear language to confuse consumers about the terms of the offer and the affiliation of the company.

Madigan's office, which has received 223 complaints directly and approximately 570 complaints from the Citizens Utility Board, believes that at least 200,000 letters were mailed to Illinois consumers.

Madigan alleged in her lawsuit that Illinois Natural Gas led certain consumers to believe through its mailing that the natural gas supplier is actually a government entity and that consumers must sign up for this program to achieve stable pricing for their natural gas.

In addition, Madigan alleged that many terms laid out on the front of the two-sided form have conditions that were not clearly and conspicuously disclosed. Those conditions were typed in small print on a green background on the back of the form and were detailed using confusing language. The conditions often changed the actual terms listed on the front of the form or inserted additional terms that were never mentioned on the front of the form or in the letter.

For example, on the front of the form, Illinois Natural Gas promised consumers refunds, savings and stable prices. But Madigan alleged in her lawsuit Illinois Natural Gas failed to clearly and conspicuously disclose that the natural gas supplier may amend the terms and conditions of the contract and raise gas prices in the future.

Finally, Madigan's lawsuit alleged Illinois Natural Gas violated the Automatic Contract Renewal Act by failing to clearly and conspicuously disclose the automatic renewal clause, including the procedure for canceling the contract.

Assistant Attorney General Katrina Wanzer handled the case for Madigan's Consumer Protection Division.

Madigan said consumers can cancel their contracts with Illinois Natural Gas if the contract was signed before June 29th, 2005, and the request is received by July 29th, 2005. Consumers may cancel by:

- contacting Madigan's Consumer Protection Division at 1(800) 386-5438;
- calling the company directly at 1(800) 309-5160;
- faxing in a written notice of cancellation to the company at 1(800) 306-5016; and
- mailing in a written notice of cancellation by registered mail to Illinois Natural Gas Corporation, P.O. Box 7336, Chicago, IL 60680.

Top Of Maria's Class

There are many impressive things about Sandra Herrera (left) and Jasmine Sepulveda (right), seniors at Maria High School. To begin with they are the Valedictorian and Salutatorian respectively for the class of 2005; they are also the first ones to go to college in their families.

Sandra is the Valedictorian with a 4.76 GPA, she has a passion for singing and performing. She has held roles in Maria plays and musicals since her sophomore year. As a member of the Liturgical Choir she has represented Maria at many different events. Sandra is part of the National Honor Society (NHS) and the Sociedad Honoraria Hispánica, loves playing basketball and badminton, and in her spare time she enjoys reading. "One day I want to have a huge collection of books at home," Sandra said. With a 26 score in the ACT exam, Sandra is enrolled at Loyola University in Chicago to study Math and Pre-Law. "I figure I can't go wrong with math and I really see myself becoming a divorce lawyer," Sandra added. She and her family are long time Chicago Lawn residents.

Jasmine, also a Chicago Lawn resident, is Maria's Salutatorian with a 4.75 GPA. She has been a Gallagher Scholar since fifth grade and has earned several academic scholarships while at Maria. Jasmine is a member and officer of National Honor Society and Sociedad Honoraria Hispánica. Also, she has participated in a Technology Camp for girls sponsored by DePaul University for her demonstrated interest in computer science. Jasmine will be attending DePaul University to pursue a degree in accounting. Her ACT score was also 26. "That is how you get ahead in life, pursue your dream with all you have. Maria has given me the ability to speak for myself and be comfortable among people from all kinds of backgrounds," Jasmine said.

Edgar Lecture Series Begins

The Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum, in partnership with the University of Illinois at Springfield, announced the creation of the Jim Edgar Lecture Series with inaugural speaker David McCullough, prize winning author of several historical blockbusters such as Truman, John Adams and 1776.

For more than a decade former Governor Jim Edgar has been an integral part of the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library and Museum. For the last year, he has served as President of the Board of the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library Foundation, which supports temporary exhibits, conferences, lectures, educational and other programs at the recently opened library and museum. The Jim Edgar Lecture Series will be an annual event. The inaugural lecture will take place on October 24 in Sangamon Auditorium, to be followed by a book signing with David McCullough. A limited number of tickets will be available to the public for $10. Additional ticket information will be forthcoming.

McCullough, author of 1776, is twice winner of the National Book Award and twice winner of the Pulitzer Prize. He has been called a "master of the art of narrative history." His books have been praised for their exceptional narrative sweep, their scholarship and insight into American life and for their literary distinction. His John Adams, one of the most acclaimed American biographies ever published, hit the New York Times bestseller list at number one and remained on the list for more than a year. To date more than two million copies have been sold. His new book, 1776, published last month and already perched atop the New York Times bestseller list, tells the intensely human story of those who marched with George Washington in the fateful year of the Declaration of Independence.

Recidivism Reforms Target Ten Regions

The state is pursuing some of the most aggressive reforms in its history to reduce crime and recidivism in the communities.

Governor Rod Blagojevich has initiated public safety measures to help build the strongest statewide system to aggressively target crime and recidivism.

In Illinois, 42,000 offenders return to their communities each year. Without positive intervention and proactive strategies, 54.6 percent will return to prison within three years. Among this population, those on parole after serving prison sentences for committing non-violent drug offenses account for 42 percent of parolees.

The Sheridan National Model Drug Prison & Reentry Program moves drug-involved offenders through an intensive drug treatment, cognitive skills development, vocational education and job preparation program that begins in prison and follow them through their return to their communities under an extensive case management program with heightened parole supervision. It is estimated that as many as 69 percent of all inmates in Illinois prisons were convicted of a drug- or drug-involved offense.

The Governor's Commission on Community Safety and Reentry, chaired by the Rev. Jesse Jackson and State's Attorney Kevin Lyons, provides leadership, community awareness and champion reforms that reduce recidivism throughout Illinois. The working group is facilitated with the assistance of Department of Human Services Secretary Carol Adams and Department of Corrections Assistant Director Deanne Benos. The Commission is currently hosting public hearings on the question of reentry throughout Illinois.

The Governor has charged the working group with targeting 10 of the highest impact regions of the state, chosen on the basis of having the highest parolee populations in combination with traditionally high crime. By more efficiently focusing resources on these 10 key areas, the team will reach 84 percent of the state's entire entering adult parole population and ultimately establish these regions as sentinels for statewide reform. Two are in the area: Chicago Cook and Collar County Region/Aurora.

McCullough's books include The Johnstown Flood, The Great Bridge, The Path between the Seas, Mornings on Horseback, Brave Companions and Truman. In a crowded productive career, McCullough has been an editor, essayist, teacher, lecturer and familiar presence on public television - as host of Smithsonian World, The American Experience and narrator of numerous documentaries including The Civil War and Napoleon. His is also the narrator's voice in Seabiscuit.

Credit overdue

Let's look at Governor Blagojevich's record for working families.

He raised the state minimum wage to $6.50 an hour - something that helps families put food on the table and brings money to all of our communities.

He extended health insurance for the first time to 74,000 working parents, with two-thirds of the tab paid for by the federal government.

He invested in our children by expanding the Illinois food program to tens of thousands of kids in childcare.

He further invested in the education of our children by expanding preschool for 8,000 at-risk children. That's good for all of us; studies show that for every dollar spent on early education, taxpayers save $17.

The Governor deserves a lot of credit for his hard work for working families, and I've rarely seen an elected official get less credit for what he's done. So let's give credit where it's due: Thank you, Governor Blagojevich, for fighting for working families.

New Law Fills Gaps Created By Federal Drug Benefits Program

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed the 'No Senior Left Behind' law, critical legislation that protects Illinois seniors from the shortfalls created by the federal prescription drug program. In January of 2006, Medicare begins its new prescription drug benefit program and it is expected to increase out-of-pocket drug costs for seniors. The Governor's bill provides a safety net to seniors from those increasing costs. This new law is the nation's most comprehensive state response to fill in the gaps created by the federal Rx drug program.

Effective January 1st, 2006, the same day Medicare prescription benefits come into effect, the new law helps those in need cover costs that are not included under the new federal program. This new program will cover those who were previously enrolled in either the SeniorCare drug program or the Circuit Breaker pharmaceutical assistance program. By signing this law, Governor Blagojevich ensures that both groups are guaranteed the same coverage they previously received. In addition, those who are not eligible for Medicare will have their current SeniorCare or Circuit Breaker pharmaceutical benefits maintained in the new program, which by popular demand of seniors was named the "Illinois Cares Rx" program.

The federal Medicare Modernization Act helps seniors by paying 75 percent of prescription drug costs up to $2,250 after a $250 deductible with an average $35 per month premium. Beneficiaries are responsible for all of their costs between $2,250 and $5,100, with the plan paying 95 percent of costs beyond that top threshold. The gap where a beneficiary has to pay all the drug costs between $2,250 and $5,100 is commonly referred to as the "donut hole."

The new "wrap around coverage" provided to Illinois seniors and persons with disabilities by this law will help cover the increased costs of the Medicare program, including premium costs, coinsurance, coverage during the "donut," and the deductible. For example, a senior whose income is 160 percent of the federal poverty level (around $19,900 for a family of 2) who has annual drug costs of $5,100 would have to spend over $4,000 in out of pocket costs if the new Illinois program did not exist, but less than $1,000 with the new Illinois program. A senior who has $1,800 worth of drug spending would spend $120 on average in the new Illinois program but over $1,000 in Medicare if they did not receive assistance.

Illinois Cares Rx will be administered by the Department of Healthcare and Family Services (formerly IL Department of Public Aid) and the Department on Aging.

Vavra Wins Scholarship

Kelly Vavra '05, a West Lawn resident and New Life Church member, received the Comcast Leaders and Achievers scholarship of $1,000. Mrs. Vazquez, Senior Counselor, nominated Kelly because of her outstanding leadership skills and dedication to each and every activity she gets involved in. "Kelly is a very impressive young woman. She is the vice president of the National Honor Society, a Kairos Leader, member of the Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica, and captain of the volleyball and water polo teams," Mrs. Vazquez said.

After being nominated, Kelly had to write an essay to apply for the scholarship. "I wrote about the responsibilities that come with leadership. It is not only about influencing your peers; it is about demonstrating good qualities and setting a good example," Kelly said. She is involved in community service projects and feels that respect for others is a key element of being successful in life. "I am very proud and thankful to receive the Comcast scholarship," she added.

Kelly is a Daniel Murphy scholar, has taken three Advanced Placement classes and she scored 28 in the ACT. She will be attending University of Miami in the fall with her tuition completely paid for by a scholarship from the university and another award from Maryville Academy. "Wow, I am really relieved, no loans to think about, I am very thankful to all these people who are making this possible for me, can't wait to start college and do my best. My mom, Sandy Vavra, is very proud of me. Maria has given me the opportunity to gain leadership skills. I am a lot more outgoing, more confident, more determined to accomplish and try new things," said Kelly.

Disaster Training For Citizen Corps

Nearly 200 Citizen Corps volunteers from around Illinois were in Springfield last week to learn how they could help their communities be better prepared for any type of disaster.

The volunteers participated in the third annual Citizen Corps Conference hosted by the Illinois Emergency Management Agency (IEMA) and Illinois Terrorism Task Force (ITTF).

"In the past year, more than a dozen new Citizen Corps councils have formed in Illinois, bringing us up to 70 throughout the state," said William C. Burke, IEMA director.

The Citizen Corps program is funded by grants from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, through the Office of Domestic Preparedness (ODP).

The state's Citizen Corps Council, an 18-member committee of the ITTF, coordinates funding for the Citizen Corps program and assists local Citizen Corps councils.

The two-day conference, which took place June 29th and 30th, offered volunteers an overview of the national and Illinois Citizen Corps programs, along with information on grant applications, Community Emergency Response Teams (CERT), Fire Corps and Volunteers in Police Service (VIPS), Neighborhood Watch and the Medical Reserve Corps (MRC).

Participants also learned about state statutes regarding volunteer liability, volunteer management support teams and centers for spontaneous volunteers.

Conference attendees also will be the first in the nation to participate in a U.S. Department of Homeland Security pilot training program on organizing and sustaining Citizen Corps councils.

The training provided guidance on how local councils can structure their missions to be consistent with the National Preparedness Goal (Homeland Security Presidential Directive 8), which will help create consistency in councils across the nation.

Last fall, 166 Citizen Corps volunteers from Illinois were deployed to help with hurricane recovery efforts - the third largest state contingent. Many were sent to Florida to assist hurricane victims, while others assisted with disaster administration in Chicago.

Among Citizen Corps Councils in Illinois are those in Chicago, Evergreen Park, Palos Hills and Tinley Park.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

Earlier this week, Gov. Blagojevich signed the state's first-ever "No Senior Left Behind" law, which he touts as a safety net that will protect seniors in Illinois from the shortfalls created by the federal prescription drug program.

While we applaud the governor for his leadership on assisting older adults afford their much-needed prescription drugs, we are concerned for the health and well-being of the state's elderly, Medicaid-dependent nursing home residents because: As of Aug. 1st, 2005, the Illinois Department of Public Aid (IDPA) will discontinue Medicaid coverage of many common, yet vital, over-the-counter drugs, including pain relievers, laxatives, iron replacements and artificial tears. And, as of Sept. 1st, 2005, IDPA will discontinue Medicaid payment for acid reducers and wound care dressings.

Gov. Blagojevich proclaimed July as "Health Care Month," saying, "We are making sure we don't leave any of our senior citizens behind." If this truly is the case, our state lawmakers would not be choosing to stop paying for pharmaceuticals that Illinois' Medicaid-dependent residents, many who live in nursing homes, so desperately need to heal.

We urge you to call Gov. Blagojevich and IDPA director Barry Maram to tell them to stop these detrimental cutbacks.

Terrence P. Sullivan, Executive Director
Illinois Council on Long Term Care

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

PATRIOT Act

Maintaining a democracy is not easy work. It requires active participation from an informed citizenry. To that end, our government is required to protect the "uninhibited, robust and wide-open" public debate inherently found in the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Without such protection, democracy becomes ineffective.

Successful public debate relies on the ability of citizens to dissent peacefully, making their voices heard without fear of government reprisal for their words or actions. The PATRIOT Act, as it stands, seriously intrudes on the basic American right of debate and dissent. For that reason, we all need to protect our right to be heard, a right that has historically benefited minority and immigrant communities. Traditionally, anti-immigration laws and overreaching prosecutorial discretion make these groups especially vulnerable when speaking out in dissent.

The Justice Department itself recognizes on its web site that "peaceful political discourse and dissent is one of America's most cherished freedoms." Why does it support a law that supplies the government with the tools to successfully and easily stifle that debate?

The government may, and has, used provisions of the PATRIOT Act to acquire information on large groups of U.S. citizens, meeting and organizing both legally and peacefully. In 2004, for example, the government demanded that Drake University hand over a list of people who had attended an anti-war forum at that school. That forum included workshops and nonviolence training sessions.

To take one example, section 505 of the PATRIOT Act allows the government to obtain such information "to protect against" terrorism as part of intelligence investigations. This can and does include all kinds of personal information about political and religious activities. Importantly, section 505 allows the government to gather this information in secret with virtually no independent oversight, so long as the FBI identifies the personal information as necessary. This means that the FBI can demand an entire group's membership database just because it believes one person in that group has a connection to terrorism. Moreover, the government never has to disclose who that person is or who else is on the list.

This means that mere membership in a religious group - a particular synagogue, church or mosque - or in a completely lawful political movement could lead to basically unfettered government ability to access both private and personal information.

As the debate continues behind closed doors on Capitol Hill, it is vitally important that we engage in a public examination of the troubling aspects of the PATRIOT Act, before our right to have those conversations is permanently cut off.

Grandparent Visitation

A new Illinois law, which went into effect Jan. 1, allows grandparents, great-grandparents and siblings to be granted visitation rights if there is an "unreasonable denial of visitation" by one of the child's parents.

Under the law, grandparents must show that the denial of visitation is "harmful to the child's mental, physical or emotional health."

The number of grandparents raising grandchildren jumped 30 percent in the 1990s, with six million children younger than 18 living in households headed by grandparents and other relatives, according to U.S. Census reports. The census found that more than 200,000 children in Illinois live with a grandparent.

While the goal of the new law is to balance the parent and grandparent's rights, the power of the parent is preeminent.

The new law is a departure from a previous law, which had been in limbo. Under that law, grandparents simply had to prove that visitation was in the child's best interests. That law was held unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court because it failed to take the rights of parents into consideration.

The new law also clarifies that petitioners must have support of at least one parent to proceed in cases where the parents have been divorced. In instances where a grandparent has not been raising the child or has had limited contact, a lawyer must use a child psychologist in court to prove that the grandchild would be harmed by not seeing the grandparent.

Statement From U.S. Rep.
Bobby L. Rush On The Retirement
Of Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor

"It is with great admiration that I thank Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor for her many years of service and willingness to weigh in on key issues without prejudice. This country has benefited greatly by her decision to let what is "right" guide her decisions rather than what is popular or partisan. As the first woman to serve on the Supreme Court, her legacy has earned its place in history. I wish her well in retirement, and may her actions serve as an example for her peers and future lawmakers."

"I sincerely hope that President Bush and my congressional colleagues will select a replacement with the same fortitude and vision for equality and justice."

Congratulations to the 2005 Cialis Western Open champion, Jim Furyk, and the excellent field that demonstrated to the golf world that Cog Hill's Dubsread course can reward or humble some of the best golfers on the planet. The P.G.A., Western Golf Association and the Jensek family (golf course owners) provided a great week for the players and spectators. A first class tournament from start to finish at the Lemont course.

Jim Furyk notched his 10th P.G.A. Tour victory (-14,270 total) and his first since the 2003 Buick Open. Locals fondly remember his first major victory at the 2003 U.S. Open at neighboring Olympia Fields. A series of health issues and wrist surgery had stalled Furyk's career recently. He looks to be back in top form now after holding off runner-up Tiger Woods (-12,272) and Ben Curtis (-9,275 total).

The only positives Tiger Woods can enjoy from this week is that he is closing in on the once dominant performances that he used to furnish each week with runner-up performances in the U.S. Open at Pinchurst (three weeks ago) and this Western Open showing. He looks to be ready for the upcoming British Open at St. Andrew's, another major event. Incidentally, Tiger became the 1st player in Tour history to eclipse the $50 million mark for career earnings!

Citing several high profile financial information security breaches across the nation, Gov. Rod Blagojevich has recently signed several pieces of legislation designed to safeguard consumers against identity theft. These bills not only place more stringent regulations on businesses, but also increase the penalties against identity thieves and provide victims with the resources necessary to protect themselves from future violation. The cornerstone of the package, House Bill 1633, makes Illinois the second state in the nation to require companies to quickly notify consumers in the state if their personal information is compromised due to a breach in company security.

The Governor and Attorney Lisa Madigan worked closely with the Personal Information Protection Act. "Over 9 million people had their information stolen or misplaced this year. The Breach Notification Act will force companies to take more responsibility in protecting our personal information," Illinois PIRG consumer advocate John Gaudette stated. House Bill 1633 becomes effective immediately.

Other consumer protection bills signed into law include:

* Senate Bill 1799, requires the Department of Revenue to notify a taxpayer directly if they suspect another person has used their Social Security number to register a business or pay taxes or fees. The bill becomes effective Jan. 1st, 2006.

* Senate Bill 123, requires the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to phase in new Conservation ID (CID) numbers to replace Social Security numbers on hunting and fishing licenses as applicants renew. This change will be phased in over the next year.

* House Bill 2696, prohibits businesses from denying a person credit or utility services, or from increasing a person's credit limits based solely on their status as an identity theft victim.

* House Bill 2697, makes unauthorized copying and transmitting of any financial transaction devices including credit and debit cards, or other devices used to make a payment, get cash, or make a deposit a Class A misdemeanor.

* House Bill 2699, sponsored by Rep. Ruth Munson (R-Elgin) and Sen. Edward D. Maloney (D-Chicago), increases the penalties by one felony class for identity theft and aggravated identity theft crimes. This legislation also increases the penalties against those persons who steal the identities of more than three victims.

All three of the House Bills above become law and are effective immediately.

If you are over age 40 and believe you have been discriminated against by an employer because of your age, a new U.S.

Supreme Court ruling makes it easier for you to file an age bias claim.

The ruling allows an employee to file a lawsuit related to terms and conditions of employment, even if the company did not intend to harm. The new rule, which was issued by the U.S. Supreme Court in March 2005, is expected to open the door for more lawsuits challenging layoffs and changes in employer compensation and retirement plans. But it doesn't mean that older workers will automatically have a leg up if they choose to file a lawsuit. The ruling states that employers can cite reasonable factors such as necessary cost cutting to justify practices that may hurt older workers.

Since 1967, older workers have been protected by the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act. The law, which applies to employees and job applicants who are 40 or older, states that it is unlawful to discriminate against a person because of his or her age with respect to any term, condition, or privilege of employment - including, but not limited to hiring, firing, promotion, lay-off, compensation, benefits, job assignments, and training.

It is also unlawful for employers with 20 or more employees to retaliate against an individual for opposing employment practices that discriminate based on age or for filing an age discrimination charge, testifying, or participating in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation. The law also applies to employment agencies and to labor organizations, as well as to the federal government.

CAGW Report Debunks Federal Direct Student Loan Program

Citizens Against Government Waste (CAGW) released The Direct Loan Program Flunks Out, a report that debunks the supposed benefits of the Federal Direct Loan Program (FDLP).

The FDLP was established in 1993 to provide direct loans to students for college education. Proponents argued that "cutting out the middleman" of private lenders would save taxpayers money. However, participation in FDLP has declined by 29 percent over the past seven years and the program has a deficit of $13 billion.

CAGW analysis and recent studies show the Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP), which uses private sources such as banks or other lenders to provide federally guaranteed student loans, to be superior to the FDLP. In January 2005, one financial aid director told the Manitowoc Herald Times Reporter, "Direct lending has been around for 10 years. If it is so wonderful, we all would have joined."

"Not surprisingly, government bureaucrats fail to duplicate the customer service and savings offered by competitive private lenders," CAGW President Tom Schatz said. "Congress needs to examine the full costs of direct lending when it considers reauthorizing the Higher Education Act this year."

FDLP loans are taken directly from the U.S. Treasury and recipients pay the money back to the federal government. But the Department of Education's (DoED) cash flow estimates have consistently been off the mark. From fiscal years 1995 to 2004, DoED overestimated expected interest payments on outstanding loans by $11.2 billion or 49 percent—almost double what was actually received. The DoED continues to pay more interest to the Treasury than it collects from borrowers.

CAGW's report points out other problems with FDLP. The cost to administer FDLP has skyrocketed from $10 million in fiscal 1993 to $600 million in fiscal 2005, a 600 percent increase.

"Federal loans represent almost half of all financial aid for undergraduate and graduate students," Schatz concluded. "With the enormous taxpayer investment in higher education, taxpayers should be getting the best possible deal and unfortunately, direct lending is not living up to its promise."

The Direct Loan Program Flunks Out, authored by Elizabeth L. Wright, CAGW Vice President for Government Affairs, is available at www.cagw.org.

Gov. Signed Diabetes Check-Off Fund Law

Cubs Legend Ron Santo, WGN radio announcer and former Chicago Cubs' third baseman, and Wild Bill Holden, a devoted Cubs fan who embarked on a 2,100-mile journey to raise awareness of juvenile diabetes, joined Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich, recently, to see the governor sign legislation to raise money for Diabetes Research. House Bill 1581 will create the 'Diabetes Research Check Off Fund' so taxpayers can donate money to diabetes research while they file their taxes. Money collected in this fund will be given to the Illinois Department of Human Services to provide grants for Diabetes Research.

Whalon Lake Dog Park Opened July 1st

A new fenced, free-run dog park opened on Friday, July 1st. The Whalon Lake Dog Park, located on Royce Road in Naperville, will be the second dog park owned and operated by the Forest Preserve District of Will County, joining the Hammel Woods Dog Park in Shorewood. Use of these parks requires an annual permit for each dog, and permits are good for use of both dog parks.

The Whalon Lake Dog Park will actually consist of three parks, two for large dogs, the other for small dogs. (Only one large dog park will be open at a given time. The other will be closed to allow grass to renew.) Each of the two large dog parks is in excess of 7 acres in size, while the small dog park is 2.5 acres in size.

The small dog park is designed for pets that weigh 30 pounds or less or measure 15 inches or less at the shoulder. Small dogs are free to use the large dog park, but dogs larger than the weight or height restrictions should use only the large dog park.

Annual permit fee is $25 per dog for Will County residents and $50 per dog for out-of-county residents. Up to three dogs can be registered per owner.

The separate dog parks grew out of suggestions offered by Hammel Woods Dog Park users. Small dog owners thought their pets would be less anxious if they were not around larger dogs.

Permits can be obtained in person at one of the District's visitor facilities or by mail. Proof of rabies vaccination is required.

A special Grand Opening for the new parks is planned in the fall, on Oct. 1st. The event will feature a full day of activities, food and giveaways.

The Whalon Lake Dog Park is located on Royce Road, 1.5 miles west of Route 53 in Naperville.

For information on obtaining a dog park permit, call (815) 728-8700.

"Market Opportunities In Food Security" Forum

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich's Opportunity Returns program held the "Market Opportunities in Food Security" forum, the first in a series of homeland security business development forums to identify market opportunities to grow and support businesses in the homeland security industry. Experts in food security and homeland defense highlighted current and emerging needs for products, as well as strategies to protect our food supply. Gov. Blagojevich made a commitment to building the Illinois homeland security industry in his State of the State address in February. Illinois is already a national leader in homeland security, and it is only natural to develop, promote and expand this industry and create more jobs across the state.

"I'm committed to leveraging Illinois' history of industrial and technological innovation to meet today's security-conscious market demands in our ongoing efforts to protect the people in our state, nation and world. By teaming our resources, we can meet urgent homeland defense needs and grow Illinois businesses by providing cutting-edge products and services to the global marketplace," Gov. Blagojevich said.

The "Market Opportunities in Food Security" forum was held in partnership with the Illinois Center for Food Safety and Technology to discuss factors currently inhibiting homeland defense and to explore solutions that are being developed by inventors, entrepreneurs and large companies. More than 175 attendees, including food producers, businesses in the food supply chain, distributors and companies that protect the nation's food supply, were on hand, and each sector learned new ways to compete in today's security-conscious world.

Present "Hot Jazz - 6 Cool Nites" Concerts

Each of the six "Hot Jazz-6 Cool Nites" concerts presented the week of July 22-28 at North Central will offer a different combination of featured jazz artists and musical selections to make each evening's performance distinctive.

The concerts, jointly sponsored by North Central College and the First National Bank of Naperville with radio sponsorship from 90.9 FM WDCB Public Radio from College of DuPage, will begin each evening at 8 p.m. in Heining Auditorium, Larrance Academic Center, 309 E. School Street, Naperville.

The concert series is presented in conjunction with the Janice Borla Vocal Jazz Camp, a highly acclaimed educational workshop, which has been featured on the nationally televised PBS news program, "The News Hour with Jim Lehrer," WGN-TV, WTTW Chicago Public Television and HDNET-TV.

This year, new computer-based conferencing technology will bring an additional dimension to the event. This technology allows users to make live, real-time audio and video connections with other users, anywhere in the world.

On Wednesday, July 27, the Janice Borla Vocal Jazz Camp will use this technology to join forces with the KOSA International Percussion Workshop in Castleton, Vermont (www.kosdamusic.com). This video conferencing event will be set up in Heining Auditorium and the audience in Naperville will be able to see, hear and interact in real time with the staff artists of the KOSA camp performing in Vermont, while at the same time the audience in Castleton will be able to see and hear the Borla camp staff artists perform.

The series itself will open on Friday, July 22 and Saturday, July 23, with the entire vocal jazz camp artist faculty: Blujazz Records recording artist Janice Borla, Judy Niemack of Sony Jazz Records and Sunnyside recording artist Jay Clayton, joined by trumpeter vocalist

Floyd Standifer, pianist Dan Harle, bassist Bob Bowman, drummer Jack Mouse and guitarist Jeanfrancois Prins.

Monday through Wednesday, July 25-27, two of the three vocalists will be featured in various combinations, individually and together, backed by Standifer, Prins, Harle, Bowman and Mouse: Borla and Clayton on Monday; Clayton and Niemack on Tuesday and on Wednesday, Brola and Niemack.

On Thursday, July 28, all eight artists will once again join to present a special "Tribute to Miles Davis," performing music composed by and associated with the celebrated jazz trumpeter.

"What makes this series so unique," says Janice Borla, the camp's founder, "is the wide range of jazz material and vocal performance styles it encompasses. Because this series was originally created for the benefit of the vocal jazz camp participants, our intention is to present the widest possible variety of jazz repertoire—blues, standards, bebop tunes, Brazilian and contemporary jazz—as performed by three singers with distinctly different vocal styles and backed by world-class instrumentalists."

In honor of the camp and concert series, Naperville Mayor George Pradel will proclaim July 22-29 "Vocal Jazz Week." The proclamation recognizes the camp, "which has gained an international reputation as one of vocal jazz's most prestigious and unique events." The mayor "urges all residents to support this assemblage of world-class jazz vocalists and instrumentalists who will be performing in Naperville, Illinois during this week."

Presenting sponsor for the event is the First National Bank of Naperville. Media sponsorship is provided by the Daily Herald and 90.9 FM, WDCB Public Radio from College of DuPage. Equipment and services provided by Brookdale Music, Shure Brothers Inc. and Yamaha Corporation of America.

Tickets to the concerts are $15 for adults and $12 for students and senior citizens. A 5 night concert pass also can be purchased for $60 (adults) or $48 (students/seniors).

For concert ticket reservations and further information, contact the Janice Borla Vocal Jazz Camp at (630) 637-5620.

Theatre's New Vision Of Faust

The isolation and loneliness of an old man's cyber existence sets the stage for DuPage Opera Theatre's new vision of Charles Gounod's Faust, opening on July 17th at 6 p.m. with additional performances on July 19th and 23rd on the McAninch Arts Center Mainstage. While this 19th century opera will be sung in the original French (with projected English supertitles), Artistic and Music Director, Maestro Kirk Muspratt, hopes to bring this struggle between good and evil closer to Internet-surfing audiences by updating the image of the famous doctor. This story of moral choices and the ramifications of actions chosen without considering spirituality seems apropos to any age or human culture, and stage director Amy Hutchison's choice to update the settings only brings the questions it poses closer to our understanding.

How do we deal with the cultural clashes between communities of strong faith and communities of logical independence? How does a backdrop of war affect our beliefs? Is it on the world at large we must focus, or are the interactions in our small, daily lives just as soul shattering? These are issues countless authors and philosophers have explored through the timeless story of Dr. Faust. He is a man faced with the personal demons of age and aspirations of a far more exciting life than what he lives. He longs for a second chance, which he knows God will not grant him.

so he turns to the devil Mephistopheles, who will grant his request at a very high price. Faust pays the price to fulfill his desires; unfortunately, because of his choice and the choices of each of the other characters, everyone ends up paying a price too dear. So the question becomes, is redemption possible for any of them?

Within the heavy moral issues, Gounod created a musical loveliness unique to himself. The beauty of the arias and the chorus of villagers might be enough to seduce anyone, let alone the naïve Marguerite, while the depth of Mephistopheles' range can shake a listener's insides. The contrast of darkness and lightness in the music creates the emotionality that forces an audience to admit that, while we might easily judge from our seats offstage, it would be a different and difficult story were we in the skins of those onstage.

Prices are $38 for general admission, with a discounted $36 ticket price available to seniors and students. Group rates are available upon request. Accepted are cash, check, Discover, MasterCard, Visa and American Express.

The McAninch Arts Center is located at 425 Fawell Blvd. (Fawell and Park Boulevards) in Glen Ellyn. Parking is free. For ticket information, call the ticket office at (630) 942-4000 or visit the web site at www.mca.org.

LET'S BE CAREFUL OUT THERE: In case you haven't noticed, summer is here, and with it, the boating season is in full swing. The Illinois Department of Natural Resources wants you to know:

- Most boating accidents can be attributed to reckless boating, boating under the influence of alcohol, or not wearing a life jacket.
- In 2004, 18 people died in boating accidents.
- In Illinois, 15 people might have survived if they had worn a life jacket.
- Most accidents involve boat operators between the ages of 20 and 40 with more than 100 hours of boating experience.
- Most accidents involve open motorboats cruising in a reckless manner.

■TAKE A SAFETY COURSE: Check the IDNR web sites for dates, times and locations of upcoming Illinois Safety Education Programs. Courses this summer are available for boating and hunter safety education. The courses are available for new boaters and hunters, but are also available for those with plenty of experience on the water or in the field. Check the schedule at <http://dnr.state.il.us/lands/education/safety> or phone toll-free at 1(800) 832-2599.

■GOING FOR A BOAT RIDE ALA "BONNIE & CLYDE": Illinois Conservation Police Officers, the Will County Sheriff's Department, and K-9 units from Braidwood and Wilmington joined together in a massive manhunt, resulting in the arrests of two men and a woman who are suspected of committing a series of thefts of boats on the Kankakee River. They have also been linked to the theft of a pickup truck in Sangamon County.

"This was very dangerous and could have turned out very ugly," said Conservation Police Sergeant Mark Simpson. "These suspects were heavily armed. Because of this excellent interagency cooperation, the suspects are behind bars."

A citizen made the original report of the suspects to police at approximately 8 a.m., alerting authorities to the theft of a boat in progress on the Kankakee River. As police pursuit ensued, the fleeing suspects stole and abandoned two more boats, before seeking to elude officers on Bardwell Island.

Officers continued the manhunt on the island, relying on the Conservation Police Force Airboat and canine from Braidwood and Wilmington, as well as Illinois State Police aircraft for assistance. Rugged terrain on the island including grasses growing 12 feet tall, made pursuit challenging to law enforcement. At approximately 1 p.m. the suspects were apprehended.

The suspects were jailed in Will County Jail on a variety of preliminary felony charges. Stolen property valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars has been recovered, but has incurred damage.

■DID YOU KNOW? Anglers pump nearly $600 million annually into the Illinois economy, and 1.2 million Illinoisans fish each year.

■A NEW GENERATION NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT AND GUIDANCE: A recent U.S. Sportsmen's Alliance study shows that the number of new hunters taking to the field is lower than the number of outdoorsmen who, because of age or health issues, are hanging up their guns.

This trend is due in part to the fact that potential sportsmen are not provided with opportunities to experience outdoor traditions. Urbanization contributes to this situation as nearly 80 percent of Americans reside in urban areas and the average family is three or more generations removed from rural life.

This trend can be reversed. Seasoned sportsmen can attract new families to enjoy the outdoors. This can be accomplished on a one-on-one basis or through organized activities such as the Trailblazer Adventure Program. Through Trailblazer, youth and families who would not typically participate in outdoor activities including fishing, archery, shooting sports and much more are given the opportunity to do so.

Over 60 Trailblazer Adventure Programs will take place nationwide in 2005. Over 75,000 participants are expected. Sportsmen are needed to lend their expertise and demonstrate to youth and parents the thrill of the outdoors.

The sportsmen community has the opportunity to significantly increase the number of new sportsmen entering the field. If you or a club representative would like to discuss this "Giving Back" opportunity, please contact the U.S. Sportsmen's Alliance Foundation at (614) 888-4868 or info@ussportsmen.org.

■TEACHER WORKSHOPS: The IDNR Division of Education is sponsoring 19 educator workshops through the Environment and Nature Training Institute program for 2005-2006. These free workshops offer Continuing Professional Development Units for Teachers. Contact the IDNR Division of Education at teachkids@dnr.state.il.us or call (217) 524-4126 for more information.

LaSalle Bank Chicago Marathon Registered Participants Hits 30,000

Registration for the 28th LaSalle Bank Chicago Marathon already reached 30,000 and is heading toward the 40,000 participant cap at record pace - thirty percent faster than last year. The anticipated close of registration for the 2005 race is late-July.

For runners working to achieve their 26.2-mile goal, registering for the Marathon is only the first step. Training is the next and most critical step.

Training Consultant Hal Higdon who has completed more than 100 marathons suggests there are two ways to approach Marathon training: with a group or individually. Either way, marathon training should be grounded in building your mileage, performing long runs and taking days off each week to allow for recovery.

For those who want to train individually, training information is readily available on the Web. Training tips are available through the Marathon's InterActive Training Guide. This official online training program offers novice, intermediate and advanced levels of training. This InterActive Training Guide is provided free to chicagomarathon.com visitors.

For those interested in training with a group, The Chicago Area Runners Association (CARA) LaSalle Bank Chicago Marathon Training Program includes guest speakers for motivation, coaching, pace groups for almost any speed and most important, people to run with. Learn more about this program, which has a 99.9 percent completion success rate during the past 15 years, at www.cararuns.org.

The 2005 LaSalle Bank Chicago Marathon takes place Sunday, October 9 starting and finishing in Chicago's Grant Park. The race will be broadcast live on CBS 2 CHICAGO and ESPN 1000. Last year's race attracted the maximum 40,000 participants. Elite athletes will compete for a portion of the $650,000 prize purse, the highest in the sport. The LaSalle Bank Chicago Marathon draws world-class athletes and participants from all 50 states and from more than 122 countries.

Runners may register online at chicagomarathon.com until the participation cap has been reached or August 15, whichever comes first. There will be no Race Weekend registration. The entrance fee for the Marathon is $90 for U.S. runners and $100 for international runners.

SXU's Setter Signs

Jenna Guide, a setter from Sandburg High School, recently signed a letter of intent to continue her athletic and academic career at St. Xavier University in Chicago as a member of the Cougar volleyball program. Guide, a native of Orland Park, was coached by Kelly Mendoza and Katie Brasher (club coach) during her prep career at Sandburg.

Guide is expected to move to the libero position next season at SXU. She plans to pursue a degree in either education or business. Guide is the daughter of Frank and Janet Guide.

The Health & Fitness Expo will take place Friday, October 7 and Saturday, October 8. The weekend will include more than 150 exhibitors featuring the newest designs in running gear and shoes, as well as the latest developments in sports, fitness and nutrition.

Illinois Parks Provide Perfect Picnic Spots

Amid the piles of paper plates and plastic spoons in local stores, it's easy to envision a family picnic. To make the vision a reality can require foresight and flexibility, with fun the final result. Illinois State Parks, with plentiful picnic tables, pavilions and shade trees, are ideal destinations for any family.

"The family picnic doesn't have to be an elaborate event. Just taking the family to the park for a simple lunch provides fodder for valued family memories," said Joel Brunsvold, director of the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources. "It's not the extravagance of a big vacation that makes an impression on kids - it's the chance to spend quality time with the people they love, away from distractions."

Many Illinois State Parks feature developed picnic areas, with tables and grills. Most often, these are located near toilets. In some cases, drinking water is also accessible. Many parks also feature playground equipment, as well as access to fishing, boating and hiking.

General rules that can enhance the picnicking experience include:

- If possible, make reservations ahead of time, especially for pavilions.
- If using charcoal, make sure the coals are completely extinguished before disposing of them.
- Follow all alcohol rules at the site.
- Be respectful of other campers.
- Keep pets on a leash at all times.
- Pick up all litter, including cigarette butts.
- When packing for the picnic, include bug spray and sunscreen.

"Because admission to Illinois State Parks is free, a visit can be an economical outing that kids remember forever," said Tony Mayville, IDNR director of land management. "Illinois State Parks are one of the greatest entertainment values you'll find anywhere."

27th Annual MS Fundraiser

Registration is now underway for the 27th annual Carol Cohn and Margie Weil Memorial MS Golf and Bridge Outing to raise funds for a cure for multiple sclerosis. The event benefits the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Greater Illinois Chapter, and tees off at 12:30 p.m. on Monday, July 18th at Northmoor Country Club in Highland Park. Participants can enjoy 18 holes of golf or a bridge tournament, followed by a formal dinner and auction.

"The Carol Cohn and Margie Weil Memorial MS Golf Outing proves to be one of our most successful and most fun fundraisers every year," said Joe Weil, co-chair for the event. "We're hoping to raise more than $225,000 this year to support the research that will bring us a cure for MS tomorrow and the programs and services that make life better for people living with MS today."

Spots are limited, so early registration is encouraged. Register by calling (312) 423-1171. Sponsorship opportunities are also available. For more information on sponsorship opportunities, contact either of the event co-chairmen: Joe Weil, (708) 579-9595; or Rick Kaye, (847) 404-7600.

Sponsor Autism Research Bill

A bill co-sponsored by State Sen. Ed Maloney (D-18) would raise money for research to fight autism through a check-off on state income tax forms passed the Illinois Senate 58-0.

Funds raised under the terms of House Bill 18 would be distributed through a program of research grants administered by the Dept. of Human Services.

"I hope that the money raised by this program will get us one step closer to understanding the cause of autism and one step closer to eliminating it," said Sen. Maloney. "This bill, House Bill 18, passed out of the General Assembly without a single vote against it, and I hope the governor signs it into law without delay."

Autism is a developmental disability that affects the functioning of the brain and it appears during the first 3 years of a child's life. Children and adults with autism generally have difficulties in verbal and non-verbal communication, social interactions, and leisure or play activities.

Autism is four times more prevalent in boys than girls and knows no racial, ethnic or social boundaries. Experts contend that one out of 166 children are autistic and that there are 1.7 million children and adults affected by autism in the U.S.

Turn Abandoned Strip Mine Into Tourist Site

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich announced a $325,000 grant to fund some of the actions that are transforming an abandoned Southern Illinois strip mine into a place where tourists will be able to enjoy hiking, hunting and fishing.

The grant brings to $1.125 million the amount of funding in the new state budget to improve the Sahara Woods State Fish and Wildlife Area. The governor's budget also provides funding to hire a new Department of Natural Resources site technician to oversee activities at Sahara

Woods in Saline and Williamson Counties.

"Property that was an eyesore now becomes an asset, benefiting the Southern Illinois economy," said Blagojevich. "Here in the heart of Illinois coal country, this project proves that mining is compatible with natural resource stewardship."

Funding for Sahara Woods includes $325,000 in capital funds, and $800,000 from the Illinois Department of Transportation Park Road Program. The capital funding for Sahara Woods will allow the state to take the next steps toward developing the site. That will include road improvements, building boat ramps, and posting informational signs on the property. IDOT will provide funding to upgrade the existing loop roads with an oil chip surface, grade and reshape ditches, reshape pipe culverts, and build new parking lots.

Sahara Woods State Fish and Wildlife Area will attract tourists to Southern Illinois as it is developed into a premium fish and wildlife area. Opportunities including fishing, deer and turkey hunting and bird watching will be emphasized. The site encompasses approximately 4,000 acres in Saline County. The Sahara Coal Company of Harrisburg donated the land for development in 1999. It includes a 100-acre lake, several smaller ponds, wetlands and wooded areas.

Sahara Woods State national Area is located in Saline and Williamson Counties in Southern Illinois, along Illinois Route 13 and Carrier Mills Road. No date has yet been scheduled when the Sahara Woods State Fish and Wildlife Area will be open to the public. The site was open for archery deer hunting on a limited basis in fall of 2003.

U.S. Portion Of Global Fund To Fight AIDS

U.S. Senators Dick Durbin (D-IL) and Rick Santorum (R-PA) expressed their shared commitment to fully fund the United States' portion of the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria at a total of $800 million in fiscal year 2006. If supported, these funding levels will provide $3.7 billion for all international HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, and malaria programs in fiscal year 2006.

Senators Santorum and Durbin sent a letter to the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Senate Committee on the Budget to underscore the importance of the United States' commitment to international HIV/AIDS assistance programs. In the letter dated March 5, Senators Santorum and Durbin stated, "We urge you to add these funds as the Committee considers the fiscal year 2006 Budget Resolution. If the Committee is unable to add an additional $500 million for the Global Fund, we intend to pursue a floor amendment to add these funds when the budget resolution is taken up by the full Senate."

"The global crisis of AIDS is not a partisan or a political issue. It is first and foremost a human issue," said Durbin. "Every country and every person must accept responsibility but the United States, as the world's wealthiest and most powerful nation, should take the lead in securing resources to fight the global AIDS pandemic. No one should lose access to life-saving treatment because the U.S. didn't come up with our share of the needed funds, which is why Senator Santorum and I are working to fully fund our nation's portion of the Global Fund."

"The HIV/AIDS pandemic has reached a staggering proportion. At the end of 2004, an estimated 40 million people were living with HIV/AIDS. The United States has been an important leader in the effort to fight these infectious diseases and as a result of our efforts, many people are now receiving antiretroviral therapy treatment," said Senator Santorum. "This is one of the most consequential issues of our time and we cannot afford to avoid responding to this crisis. We must continue our commitment of compassion and work in a bipartisan fashion to ensure that the efforts to fight these diseases know no political boundaries. If an amendment to the fiscal year 2006 Budget Resolution is necessary, I hope my colleagues in the Senate will join Senator Durbin and me in adding $500 million to the Global Fund."

New Rental Assistance Program Law Is Signed

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed a new law creating the largest state rental assistance program in the nation. The Rental Housing Support Program will help 4,000 to 5,000 families find safe housing that they can afford. Sponsored by Sen. Iris Martinez (D-Chicago) and Rep. Julie Hamos (D-Evanston), the Rental Housing Support Program is expected to generate $30 million in its first year of operation to help as many as 5,000 families. Less than half the states in the nation have a rental assistance program, and only two states, Massachusetts and Connecticut, provide long-term rental support. The Rental Housing Support Bill takes effect July 5, 2005.

Using BBB Name To Scam Online Buyers

Better Business Bureaus have issued an international alert to warn about individuals who are fraudulently using the BBB name to extort money from online shoppers seeking to purchase "big-ticket" items advertised at "low ball" prices.

The BBB advises consumers to take note of the following:

- The BBB does not operate a "Better Business Bureau Insurance Service," and it does not offer a "BBB Auto Buyers Protection Program."
- The BBB is not a "preferred insurance provider" for eBay or any other equity.
- The BBB does not manage financial transactions for online merchants.
- The BBB does not issue profiles or reports on individuals; BBBs report on businesses.

The fraudulent e-mails attempt to encourage buyers to proceed with the "Better Business Bureau Managed Transaction" by emphasizing that the BBB is an objective third party; protects online buyers and sellers; is highly effective in completing a successful transaction; resolves thousands of cases each month from eBay and other marketplaces; treats your personal information with the utmost care; and has a Privacy Policy designed to protect you.

E-mail addresses affiliated with the scam include support@bbb-paysafe.com, support@bbbsafe.com and support@inc-bbb.com. One consumer said the e-mail she received from "Better Business Bureau Customer Support" had a BBB Torch logo that, when clicked on, transferred her to the bbb.org Web site. In some of the e-mails, "Square Trade Better Business Bureau" or "Better Business Bureau Financial Department" appears as the name of the sender.

The BBB advises consumers to:

- Always contact the BBB when there are questions concerning the legitimacy of an offer.
- Always check with the BBB when its name is being used in an unusual fashion.
- "Click to check" BBBOnline Reliability or BBBOnline Privacy seals displayed on Web sites or go to www.bbbonline.org for a list of merchants meeting BBBOnline standards.

Plan To Restore Special Education Funding

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich and the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) announced their plan to restore funding for a number of key Special Education Programs in Illinois.

These programs serve critical needs that cannot be met by local school districts. When the Governor learned that Fiscal Year (FY) 06 funding for these programs was at risk, he took quick action to restore support for programs serving children with autism, deafness and severe behavioral disorders.

Earlier this year a lack of available Federal Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) Part B funds threatened the FY 06 funding to these programs. When the Governor learned of this situation, he worked with the General Assembly to lift the State restrictions on the State Board's access to Federal IDEA Part B funds. The changes are made by Senate Bill (SB 1815), which has passed the General Assembly and will be signed into law by the Governor.

ISBE announced the proposed FY 2006 allocation for its Federal IDEA Part B Discretionary Grants, which included restored funding for the following programs:

- Illinois Service Resource Center (ISRC) - Center on Deafness $460,000

- Illinois Autism Training and Technical Assistance Project (IATTAP) $732,000
- Assistive Technology Exchange Network (ATEN) - United Cerebral Palsy $550,000
- Emotional and Behavioral Disabilities/Positive Behavior Interventions and Support Network (EBD/PBIS) $3,258,000
- Project CHOICES $800,000
- Project HEAR, Illinois School for the Deaf $50,000

Incentive For Film Makers

Continuing his efforts to make Illinois an attractive location for major motion pictures, television shows and commercials, state Rep. Ken Dunkin (D-Chicago) on Tuesday, May 24th advanced an expansion to the highly successful Film Production Tax Credit he enacted in 2003.

"About five years ago, we started to see a decline in the amount of movies and television shows filmed in Chicago and Illinois," Dunkin said. "We grew tired of watching movies that supposedly take place in Chicago, only to find out the pictures were filmed in Canada or some other state, so in 2003, we passed an incentive program to encourage the movie industry to film in this state. We put our money where our mouth is and it paid off, so I am now working to make the tax credit stronger."

During the 93rd General Assembly, Dunkin sponsored a new law that provides a 25 percent tax credit for film production companies that shoot in Illinois. Dunkin's legislation helped revive Illinois' film industry, as the state saw a 100 percent increase in tax revenue between 2003 and 2004.

Dunkin's new legislation, Senate Bill 1965, raises the tax credit to 35 percent for film production companies that shoot in areas of Illinois with high poverty or unemployment. It further extends the tax credit through the 2006 tax year and makes the credit transferable for up to one year. The legislation also seeks to increase the hiring of minorities and women by requiring applicants for the credit submit and follow a diversity plan.

The House Revenue Committee unanimously approved Dunkin's measure. Senate Bill 1965, co-sponsored by 70 House members, now moves to the full House for further consideration.

Northwestern Receives Award

One of the nation's preeminent symbols of quality in health care – the 2005 National Quality Health Care Award – was bestowed upon Northwestern Memorial Hospital. The award is presented annually by the National Committee for Quality Health Care (NCQHC) with corporate sponsorship from the Cardinal Health Foundation and with legacy partner Modern Healthcare magazine.

Established in 1994, NCQHC's National Quality Health Care Award is presented to a healthcare provider which demonstrates outstanding programs to improve quality, embraces innovation and forward thinking, and establishes ways to measure and evaluate those processes to benefit the community. The award is the oldest and one of the most prestigious health quality awards in the United States.

Northwestern Memorial's recent accomplishments that were considered during the selection process included the successful integration of a process improvement program using industry-leading methodology from Six Sigma, DMAIC (Define-Measure-Analyze-Improve-Control). More than 500 employees have served on project teams which have implemented more than 40 improvement initiatives ranging from clinical programs, transportation services and bed management to financial reporting. In addition, Northwestern Memorial continues to develop and refine its comprehensive clinical information system to improve quality and patient safety by implementing an electronic health record (EHR). During fiscal year 2004, 78 percent of all inpatients had medication administration documented online and 94 percent of Internal Medicine inpatients had the EHR available.

In 2004, Northwestern Memorial also began implementing computerized provider order entry (CPOE) to help ensure effective treatment based on clinical evidence, to improve patient outcomes and to enhance availability of clinical information across a broad network of care providers. By this spring, Northwestern Memorial will have achieved the Leapfrog Standard, which ensures that physicians enter at least 75 percent of medication orders online. Currently, fewer than 3 percent of hospitals nationwide have achieved this standard. Northwestern Memorial is also a national leader in using bar coding and robotic technology for specimen processing. Nearly three million laboratory tests are processed annually at Northwestern Memorial, and use of this technology has reduced result turnaround time by 32 percent, while also increasing accuracy and reducing costs.

Smoke-Free Ordinance Introduced Into Chicago City Council By Request

Alderman Ed Smith (28th Ward), chair of the City Council Health Committee, introduced a comprehensive smoke-free ordinance into the City Council at the request of the American Cancer Society. The ordinance would make Chicago smoke-free in all indoor public places, including workplaces, restaurants and bars.

Every day in Illinois, eight people die from the effects of secondhand smoke.

Just a half-hour of secondhand smoke exposure causes heart damage similar to that of a habitual smoker, according to the Journal of the American Medical Assn.

Secondhand smoke can also lead to stroke and emphysema and is the number one trigger for asthma attacks.

Classified as a Group A carcinogen, a substance known to cause cancer in humans, secondhand smoke is unsafe at any level of exposure.

"It's time for Chicago to change its status as the largest city in the United States that does not protect the health of its citizens, particularly its workers, from secondhand smoke," said Smith.

By passing a smoke-free law, Chicago will join New York City, Boston, Los Angeles and hundreds of other municipalities where comprehensive smoke-free ordinances are in effect.

"Tobacco companies and their allies will use scare tactics about lost revenues and jobs or the inappropriate intervention of government to oppose smoke-free laws," said Steve Derks, CEO of the American Cancer Society, Illinois Division. "While there is irrefutable medical evidence linking secondhand smoke to illness and death, there also is economic evidence that smoke-free laws do not have a negative economic impact on the hospitality industry. Twenty-two independent studies, involving 12 different states, have proven that smoke-free laws have no negative impact on the hospitality industry – in some cases business has increased. Smoke-free laws do not prevent people from eating in restaurants or drinking in bars. They prevent people from dying."

A major new poll reveals that 62 percent of registered Chicago voters broadly support making the city's workplaces, restaurants and bars smoke-free. In addition, 87 percent of Chicagoans would eat out the same or more often if Chicago were smoke-free.

HIV Drug Therapy

Combination drug therapy effectively reduces 90 percent of HIV deaths in African-American injection drug users when they are given ample access to care, according to a new study by The New York Academy of Medicine in the June issue of the American Journal of Epidemiology.

Because this disadvantaged population has historically lacked access to pricey multi-drug therapy, there has long been uncertainty about whether it would reduce their late-stage HIV infection and whether these patients could adhere to such a complex treatment regimen.

The results of this important longitudinal study, conducted over the course of 14 years, show that HIV-related deaths nearly disappeared among these minority drug users when they received access to highly active antiretroviral therapy, or HAART.

"There has been longstanding concern among clinicians and policymakers that some populations may not be good candidates to receive these life-sparing medications," said lead author David Vlahov, PhD, director of the Academy Center for Urban Epidemiologic Studies, and Adjunct Professor in the Dept. of Epidemiology at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health in Baltimore. That concern has been based on anticipation that persons with unstable or marginally stable lifestyles would be less able to adhere to the complex regimens.

"Although medication adherence was not assessed in this study, the dramatic improvement in survival among those on HAART indicates that minority injection drug users are able to follow the drug therapy with success," Vlahov said. "Access to these drugs should be broadened aggressively both in the U.S. and in developing countries."

A research team led by Vlahov and including the Academy's Sandro Galea, MD, DrPH, and scientists from Johns Hopkins and Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, followed 665 minority injection drug users with advanced HIV infection and perilously low CD4 cell counts. Some of the participants were followed for up to 14 years. Before HAART was introduced in 1996 as a standard medical treatment, 15.9 percent of study participants were dying each year. After 1996, when patients in the study received HAART, the annual mortality rate plunged to only 1.2 percent per year.

Two alternative explanations were considered for this dramatic drop in deaths. Vlahov said that those who survived until at least 1996 were simply stronger and healthier from the start; and that use of illicit drugs declined as the study progressed. However, additional analyses did not support these alternative explanations.

Authorize Gang Violence Grants

U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin (D-IL) has introduced legislation to authorize $862.5 million in grants over the next five years to provide local and state prosecutors with essential tools to combat violent gangs. The American Neighborhoods Taking the Initiative - Guarding Against Neighborhood Gangs (ANTI-GANG) Act is a comprehensive bill that will help state and local prosecutors prevent, investigate and prosecute gang crimes.

The National Youth Gang Survey, conducted by the National Youth Gang Center, estimated that in 2002 there were 21,500 gangs comprised of 731,500 members in the United States. The FBI has noted that "street gangs and other loosely knit groups are responsible for a substantial portion of the increase in violent crime in the United States."

"Gang violence is a serious and growing threat in communities all across America," Durbin said. "In Chicago, 46 percent of the homicides last year were gang-related. The Chicago Police Dept. is currently tracking 68 identified gangs, with an estimated 68,000 members. The ANTI-GANG Act is a comprehensive, common-sense approach to fight gang violence that will help communities in Illinois and across the rest of the country as well."

The ANTI-GANG Act of 2005, which is co-sponsored by U.S. Senators Ted Kennedy (D-MA), Patrick Leahy (D-VT) and Russ Feingold (D-WI), contains four major provisions:

- It authorizes $52.5 million for the cooperative prevention, investigation and prosecution of gang crimes; $10 million for technology, equipment and training to identify gang members and violent offenders and to maintain databases to facilitate coordination among law enforcement and prosecutors; $300 million over five years for the protection of witnesses and victims of gang crimes; $60 million for the protection of witnesses and victims of gang crimes; and $50 million for grants to develop gang prevention, research and intervention services.
- It replaces the current provision on criminal street gangs in federal law with a stronger measure that criminalizes participation in criminal street gangs, recruitment and retention of gang members, and witness intimidation.

- It will provide Congress with the necessary data to determine whether to expand the federal role in prosecuting juvenile offenders by requiring a comprehensive report on the current treatment of juveniles by the states and the capability of the federal criminal justice system to take on these additional cases and house additional prisoners.
- It promotes the recruitment and retention of highly qualified prosecutors and public defenders by establishing a student loan forgiveness program modeled after the current program for federal employees.

$2 Million for Teen Pregnancy Prevention Grants Announced

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich announced $2 million in grants for teen pregnancy prevention. The grants included in the fiscal year 2006 budget will be distributed by the Illinois Dept. of Human Services (DHS) to 35 community-based agencies throughout the state.

The DHS Teen Pregnancy Prevention program provides grants to community agencies to reduce teenage pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases and the incidence of HIV/AIDS. Earlier this year, Blagojevich announced the number of babies born to Illinois teenagers continued a nine-year decline in 2003, falling to a record low of 9.7 percent.

Penwomen's Spring Luncheon

The Chicago Branch, League of American Penwomen (LAPW), recently enjoyed an exciting time at the Board Room of Saint Xavier University. The occasion was the annual Spring Luncheon where awards were given to winners of Prose and Poetry competitions.

Members and guests who attended were delighted to hear the poetry of speaker for the occasion, Connie Vogel of Glenview. They were also happy to receive advice from her which would guide their future writing. Vogel, who is a past president of Poets of Chicago, has written over 150 poems, several books, and been published in The New York Times, Rhino, and The New Yorker. The latter publication rejected a poem she had submitted, then wised up and nine months later thanked her for it.

There followed an introduction by Katie Witek, Branch President of NLAPW, Milton, WI., of the chairmen of this year's contests: Erika Deiters, Prose Chair, of Naperville. In turn, the first prize winners were announced, given their awards, and applauded for the reading of their works. They were Louise Hullinger of Beverly, June Wildman of Clearwater, FL, Constance Vogel, Katie Witek, Dolores Baird of Kankakee, and Ruth and Parsapour of Naperville. Other winners included Jean Henning of Marco Island, FL, Nancy Harless of Wever, Iowa and Gwen Griffin of Lake Forest.

A special category of poetry was created this year, dedicated to "The Buttermakers," an oil painting by John H. Vanderpoel which was the nucleus of the John H. Vanderpoel Art Association collection. Winners of this category were Ruth Ann Parsapour, first; Elmira Wilkey of Bourbonnais, second, and Constance Vogel, third. The Vanderpoel Association furnished additional cash awards to these winners.

"The Buttermakers" hangs in the Vanderpoel Gallery located in the Ridge Park Field House at Longwood Drive and 96th St. It was pictured in the three-volume book by William Gerdt, Art Across America. It was praised by Harriet Monroe, founder of Poetry Magazine, when displayed in a retrospective exhibition at the Art Institute following Vanderpoel's death. This year, Poetry Magazine provided a gift of a one-year subscription to first place winner, Ruth Ann Parsapour.

Other members and guests enjoying the luncheon were Madeleine Kutsulis of Palos Heights, former president of NLAPW, Chicago and popular writer for The Beverly Review; Kitty LaBoiteaux, Therese Gump and Catherine Cajandig of Chicago; Elsie Bruce and Ethel Wirtshafter of Beverly; Louise Bruce of Minneapolis; Maureen Rigane of Park Ridge; and Jimmie Lee Buehler of Ashurn.

John Stroger Appoints Martha Martinez

Cook County Board President John Stroger announced the appointment of Martha Martinez as the conference coordinator for the 2006 National Assn. of Counties (NACo) Annual Conference and Exhibition which will be held at McCormick Place from Aug. 4th to 8th. The conference is expected to attract more than 4,000 county officials, executives and employees. Cook County last hosted the conference in 1993.

Ms. Martinez currently serves as the first assistant to the chief administrative officer for Cook County and was part of the 1993 team that hosted the conference. "Martha's experience and work ethic make her the logical choice to manage this event. The team that has been assembled will make the taxpayers proud," said Stroger.

Headquartered in Washington DC, NACo is the only national representative of counties, and acts as an advocate for counties by advancing and promoting policy that its members adopt. NACo's membership totals more than 2,000 counties, representing more than 80% of the nation's population.

"We are honored to have been selected to host this national event. With our rich cultural and ethnic diversity serving as the backdrop for this conference, the selection of Cook County as the host could generate record attendance numbers and contribute greatly to our local economy," Stroger added.

The Chicago Convention and Tourism Bureau estimates that a conference of this size generates approximately $5 million in hotel, food and entertainment receipts. NACo estimates that at the peak of the conference, 2,100 hotel rooms will be booked and that overnight bookings will exceed 9,700.

Cook County will work closely with both the Illinois and Chicago tourism agencies as well with officials from the city of Chicago in ensuring the success of this conference. County staff will serve in additional capacities in planning for the conference.

"Hosting a conference of this size is no small task. From transporting delegates to, and from McCormick Place to security, communications and special events, we are committed to making this the best conference NACo members have attended since we hosted in 1993," Stroger added.

The 1993 NACo conference was attended by more than 4,000 people from across the nation.

U.S. Senator Dick Durbin apologized to the veterans assembled at the VFW's 84th annual state convention in Peoria, Ill. Durbin addressed over 200 veterans at the Saturday, June 25th session. He said his comments about the Guantanamo Bay prison camp do not reflect his support for the U.S. military. Durbin reportedly said he was trying to drive home the point that treatment of prisoners of war does not reflect America's values. He did pledge stronger support for veterans' health care and other needs. Many of the veterans at the meeting praised Durbin for explaining his remarks. At a banquet of the Ladies Auxiliary and VFW members on Saturday evening, Robert Wallace, past National Commander-in-Chief and now the assistant Adjutant General, commended State Commander "Big Bob" Migalich and those who attended the meeting for their kind and courteous acceptance of Durbin's apology. Wallace said Migalich came right to the core of each question he asked and received the answers.

In a letter to the press earlier last week American Legion Department of Illinois Commander Arnold "Art" Ambros asked for an apology from Senator Durbin regarding the same matter. To date I have not heard if he received an apology. Durbin also apologized to the Senate last week.

Commander Praises Swift Response To VA Budget Shortfall

American Legion National Commander Thomas P. Cadmus said he is encouraged that Congress and the administration acted swiftly to cover a recently revealed $1 billion shortfall in this year's VA health-care budget. However, the leader of the world's largest veterans organization added that emergency spending bills are merely a short-term fix to a long-term problem.

"Timely, compassionate care must be delivered to the heroes of past wars and to today's newest veterans - 85,000 and counting - who have come home from Iraq and Afghanistan and now entrust their care to VA," Cadmus said. "It's unfortunate the 2005 VA health-care budget was miscalculated, but it's not surprising. These shortages are becoming annual events because the current discretionary funding formula used to set the budget is inherently flawed. Our elected leaders must now follow recommendations of The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, AMVETS and seven other veterans organizations, in addition to President Bush's own Task Force to Improve Health Care Delivery for Our Nation's Veterans. They must change the funding formula. VA health-care funds must be assured. This is about human lives."

On Wednesday, June 29th, the Senate voted 96-0 to add $1.5 billion to this year's drained VA health-care system. VA Secretary Jim Nicholson on Thursday presented Congress a proposal to add $975 million in emergency spending to cover the shortfall. Also Thursday, Rep. Steve Buyer, R-Ind., chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, praised The American Legion and other veterans organizations for providing what he said was a "more accurate" assessment of VA's budgetary needs than VA's own projections. "We all work from the same data," Cadmus said, adding that the Legion also benefits from having hundreds of field representatives who work closely with VA on the local level. "We know firsthand that VA's health-care system is under-funded and that care is now being rationed. VA health care is not a partisan issue. No American, Democrat or Republican, veteran or not, wants rationing."

In the 108th Congress, Rep. Chris Smith, R-N.J., then chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, and ranking Democrat Lane Evans of Illinois, both introduced bills for assured funding of VA health care. Evans introduced a similar measure in the 109th Congress.

Cadmus said VA must now make a priority of collecting some $3 billion in unpaid bills from insurance companies and other third-party payers. Also, he added, veterans must be permitted to use their Medicare benefits at VA facilities.

"The American Legion looks forward to working with the administration and Congress to better meet the health-care needs of America's veterans," Cadmus said. "Our mission is shared. Our mission is sacred. And it is growing ever more critical as the war against terrorism presses on, producing more wartime veterans who need us."

Road To Recovery

Road to Recovery is one of the many volunteer-based patient service programs offered by the American Cancer Society.

The program relies on volunteer drivers to take cancer patients to their treatments. Lack of transportation has become a major problem for a number of cancer patients. Many patients need daily or weekly treatment, often over a period of months and they simply have no transportation or are too ill to drive. Family and friends may help, but sometimes it's just not enough. Road to Recovery is struggling in many areas of the state, leaving some cancer patients scrambling to find rides to their life-saving treatments.

"We have a critical need for volunteer drivers specifically in the West Cook County area and throughout the state. Cancer patients find it particularly difficult to always rely on family and friends to get to and from their treatments," said Marni Fredrickson, patient services coordinator with the American Cancer Society, West Cook Region.

"Time commitments vary and it is up to the volunteer to decide how much time they contribute. There is an application process and training involved to become a Road to Recovery driver. Supporting the American Cancer Society through volunteer service is a very efficient and productive way of making a personal statement against cancer."

The requirements include holding a current valid driver's license, having a safe driving record and proof of insurance.

If individuals are interested in helping but are unable, or do not wish to drive, volunteer coordinator positions are also available. Coordinators would arrange the rides connecting volunteer drivers with the patients.

The American Cancer Society is dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by saving lives, diminishing suffering and preventing cancer through research, education, advocacy and service.

The society is the only nationwide cancer organization to offer its information service 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Gas Pumps Survival

"The fact is our country is a country that depends a great deal on cars and trucks for our mode of transportation. With the price of gas inching up every day getting closer and closer to $3/gallon in many parts of the country it is becoming more important to look for ways to help reduce gas consumption in a way that is healthy for the environment. Using the EnviroMax Plus Fuel Catalyst everyone who drives a car or truck has it within their power to cut their gas bill and clean the environment."

"The EnviroMax Plus Fuel Catalyst is a unique product that will impact air quality and fuel economy worldwide. Poisons that are released through vehicle exhaust emissions are destroying our environment and our health," says Ray Ritchie, a leading authority on fuel conversation and co-partner with Extreme Research Corporation."

Documented results of the revolutionary US Patented EnviroMax Plus Fuel Catalyst:

- Will increase your fuel mileage up to 35% on your vehicle, which could save you over 50 cents per gallon or $10 per fill-up at the gas pumps.
- Reduces dangerous vehicle emissions by up to 80%.
- Save on your engine repairs and/or tune-ups by reduced engine wear and tear.
- Noticeable increase in horsepower and performance in either your gas or diesel vehicle.
- Does not harm engine or void any warranties on your vehicle.

Scientists are calling EnviroMax Plus Fuel Catalyst, not to be confused with the thousands of existing additive products and gadgets already on the market, the greatest automotive discovery of our time and is marketed exclusively by Extreme Research Corporation of Dallas, Texas.

Durbin's Energy Statment

U.S. Senator Dick Durbin (D-IL) made the following statement on June 15 regarding the inclusion of a Renewable Fuels Standard (RFS) in the energy bill up for debate on the Senate Floor that week. The RFS was included in an amendment offered by Senator Pete Domenici (R-NM) which passed on a 70-26 vote:

"I joined Senators from both parties to pass an amendment that creates a nationwide standard for the use of renewable fuels, including ethanol. The amendment will increase the use of domestically-produced renewable fuels to 8 billion gallons by 2012. This is good news for Illinois."

"Illinois farmers stand ready and willing to contribute to our nation's energy security and independence, and I know they are up to the task. Our state's investment in the ethanol industry exceeds $1 billion and has created nearly 5,000 jobs. Illinois ethanol production alone has increased the national market price for corn by 25 cents a bushel."

"Democrats have set a national goal to cut our dependence on foreign oil by 40 percent in 20 years - a reduction of 7.64 million barrels per day. If we stick with the renewable fuel standard set by the Domenici amendment, we can reduce our dependence on foreign imports by 2.5 million barrels per day 20 years from now."

"Depending on foreign oil means depending on the people who own it. Replacing Middle Eastern oil with Midwestern ethanol is a winner for everyone but the oil sheiks."

TAS Audit Revealed Massive Waste In Contractors Operations

Citizens Against Government Waste (CAGW) recently called for a scaling back of the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) after an audit revealed massive waste in a one-year contract given to a private firm after the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11th, 2001. The audit, performed by the Defense Contract Audit Agency and obtained by The Washington Post, calls into question $303 million of the $741 million spent by NCS Pearson Inc. to hire 60,000 airport passenger screeners.

"The government spent $12,350 to hire each screener," said CAGW President Tom Schatz. "That is more than half of the first-ever screener salary of $23,600. There is no organization in the world that should spend that much to hire an employee. These have to be the most expensive employees in U.S. history, and this extravagance must stop."

The lack of oversight and the failure to follow federal contracting rules led to such expenses as $1,180 for 20 gallons of Starbucks Coffee - $3.69 a cup - at the Santa Clara Marriott in California.

"They paid latte prices for regular coffee," Schatz continued. "This ranks as one of the most wasteful government contracts in memory. Post-9/11 urgency is no excuse for what looks like free-for-all looting of taxpayer dollars."

Important details of the contract were not fixed, allowing the total cost to balloon by more than 700 percent. The hiring process was conducted at 150 hotels and other meeting facilities rather than Pearson's 925 private centers - a disputed decision that resulted in adding $343 million to the cost of the contract. Much of the waste revolves around the army of 168 subcontractors hired by Pearson mostly without competitive bidding. Examples include: $30 to $40 per hour for security guards in the Virgin Islands, double the normal rate; $1,540 to rent extension cords at $5 per day for three weeks at Wyndham Peaks Resort and Golden Door Spa in Telluride, Colorado; and $8,100 for elevator operators at the Marriott Marquis in Manhattan. The company that booked the hotels - which did not even enter into a formal contract with Pearson - took 10 percent off of every room it booked, so it had no incentive to keep costs down. Although Pearson executives blocked a complete review, auditors reviewed "about two dozen of 150 assessment centers and documented unsubstantiated spending at nearly every turn."

The federal government has spent more than $4 billion on improving transportation security since 9/11. In January 2005, Richard Skinner, acting inspector general of the Homeland Security Department, testified that TSA screeners fared no better in detecting prohibited items than screeners prior to 9/11. An April 2005 Government Accountability Office report found that privately employed screeners outperformed government screeners. The Bush administration might soon recommend major reductions in TSA's mission.

"Turning over airport security to a massive federal bureaucracy was a wasteful endeavor from the start," Schatz continued. "It is time to protect both taxpayers and passengers in a more efficient and less costly manner."

Marquette Bank Celebrates 60th Anniversary

Marquette Bank has grown from a single location at the corner of 63rd and Western Ave. on Chicago's south side in 1945 to 21 locations throughout Chicagoland. While other community banks have been bought and merged into larger regional and national organizations, Marquette Bank remains an independent family-owned, friendly bank committed to the neighborhoods and communities in which it is located. Marquette Bank will continue to celebrate its 60th anniversary with more customer contests and special offers throughout the remainder of the year.

Marquette Bank employees take time to commemorate the bank's official birthday on May 12th at the Marquette Corporate Center in Orland Park.

Pass Safe Games Illinois Act

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich recently praised the Illinois General Assembly for passing the landmark Safe Games Illinois Act and reaffirmed his commitment to signing the bill, which will make Illinois the only state in the nation to ban the sale and rental of violent and sexually explicit video games to children under 18. HB 4023, sponsored by state Sen. Deanna Demuzio (D-Carlinville) and state Rep. Linda Chapa LaVia (D-Aurora), won final legislative approval when the House of Representatives concurred with the Senate's amendment. The governor proposed the Safe Games initiative in December.

"The passage of the Safe Games Illinois Act is a landmark achievement for Illinois," said Gov. Blagojevich. "When this legislation becomes law, Illinois will become the only state in the nation to protect children from adult video games. In today's world, parents face unprecedented challenges in monitoring and protecting their children from harmful influences. This bill will make their job easier. I commend the Illinois General Assembly for recognizing the importance and necessity of this bill, and I am pleased to have the opportunity to sign it into law."

"I introduced this legislation because these games are graphic, offensive and intended for adults, not children," said Rep. Chapa LaVia. "Illinois has an opportunity to be the only state in the nation to legislate on this matter, and I am grateful to the governor and my colleagues in the General Assembly for showing leadership on this issue."

Retailers who violate the ban commit a petty offense and face a fine of $1,000. The bill also requires retailers to label violent and sexually explicit video games, similar to the "Parental Advisory" label found on music CDs, and to post signs explaining the video game rating system. A retailer's failure to properly label games or place proper signs is punishable by a $500 fine for the first three violations and a $1,000 fine for every subsequent violation.

48th Annual Venetian Night

Travel back in time and place at Chicago's lakefront for the 48th annual Venetian Night. On July 30th, the City of Chicago and 93XRT will host the parade of enchanting boats, complete with costumed crews and synchronized music.

At 8:30 p.m. approximately 30 decorated boats will set sail along downtown Chicago's Lake Michigan coast, mystifying all-ages crowds ashore. This year's theme "Rock the Boat" will bring out the rock star in everyone, sailing to the music of 93XRT.

Dating back to Aug. 8th, 1958, this city tradition continues to lure an escalating attendance of over half a million people for one spectacular night. The first Venetian Night, modeled after the aquatic festivals in Venice, Italy, consisted of approximately 300 decorated yachts, including a Water Tower replica, Mrs. O'Leary's notorious cow and a Frankenstein tribute.

Venetian Night takes place along Lake Michigan between the Shedd Aquarium at Roosevelt Road and the Chicago Yacht Club at Monroe Street. The Boat Parade begins just after dark at 8:30 p.m., with the spectacular fireworks display launched from Monroe Harbor, following the parade at 9:30 p.m.

Groundbreaking Ceremony In Oak Lawn

A groundbreaking ceremony at 2 p.m. on July 12th will celebrate the construction for the new facility for The Children's Museum in Oak Lawn. The new facility is part of a cooperative effort between the Village of Oak Lawn, The Children's Museum in Oak Lawn, and a joint venture between the Mid-America Morningside Group to build a permanent home for The Children's Museum. The Children's Museum at 95th and 51st Ave. will occupy approximately 11,000 square feet of space of the retail building with the space being specifically designed for the museum's operations and exhibits.

Children and parents are encouraged to attend the groundbreaking ceremony as children will have the opportunity to play a special role in the ceremony. Juice and cookies will follow.

For more information, contact Elizabeth Gelman at (708) 423-6709.

Increases In Financial Aid Awards

Most of the college students eligible to receive grants from the state-funded Monetary Award Program will see an increase in their financial aid awards for the 2005-06 academic year. The 2006 state budget, approved by the Illinois General Assembly and signed by Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich, gives $8 million in new state money for the financial need-based grants. That increase will help Illinois qualify for a matching grant from the federal government of $3.7 million. Combined, almost $12 million in additional funding will be available to help eligible under-graduate students cover the cost of tuition and fees at qualified Illinois colleges and universities.

At a funding level of $339 million last year, the Monetary Award Program grants, administered by the Illinois Student Assistant Commission, helped about 149,000 Illinois students pursue a post-secondary education. This year, with at least $347 million for the financial aid program, the grants awarded will be larger, covering more of the tuition and fee charges that have continued to rise dramatically over the last few years.

"Even though state leaders have protected the Monetary Award Program from funding cuts in recent years and despite the state's poor economic condition, we have reached the critical stage of ensuring the MAP grants are at sufficient level to truly help low-income students afford a college education," stated Larry E. Matejka, ISAC's Executive Director.

Since 2003, each MAP grant has gotten smaller, due to stagnant funding, while college costs have climbed significantly. In 2002, the maximum MAP grant covered all the average tuition at Illinois public universities, but this year's maximum MAP grant covered only 65 percent of those costs tuition and fees, and in some cases the coverage dropped to 45 percent. MAP students, due to their limited family resources, have generally paid the remaining charges by borrowing more student loans, working more hours while attending school or dropping the number of classes in which they are enrolled, even leaving school altogether because they could not afford the costs.

"For the first time in ten years, ISAC is actually seeing fewer applications for MAP grants," Matejka explained. "Family incomes haven't significantly improved, and we know there are as many high school graduates this year as in past years, so the drop in financial aid applications may mean that college is just not affordable for a lot of families. We must reverse this trend and raising MAP grant awards is key to making college affordable."

The added funding for MAP grants will raise the amount awarded to each eligible student by an average of $161, from $2,2863 to $3,024. Students at public universities will see the largest increase in MAP grants, with the average moving from $3,533 to $3,964. These students will still need to cover the remaining tuition and fees, now averaging $7,100 at public universities, but this year marks the first increase in MAP grants after three years of continuous cuts.

For more information, individuals should contact ISAC toll free at 800-899-ISAC (4722) or visit the comprehensive college website, CollegeZone.com. College Zone counselors and materials are available in Spanish.

Schools Open For Parents To Verify Residency

All parents of students who will enroll in District 218 schools for the 2005-2006 school year must present documentation of residency prior to the start of the coming school year. District staff will be available during the summer, including several evenings, for parents to verify residency status.

The Board of Education passed a policy change last year that requires all parents to provide proof of residency for any child who will enroll in District 218 for the coming school year. In the past, only parents of students new to the district or whose home address came into question were asked to verify their residency.

Now parents of all current and incoming students will need to supply proof of residency over the summer months. Parents must present two different and original (no photocopies) utility bills and one of the following: driver's license or state identification card displaying current address.

If parents fail to verify residency during the summer, the district will drop their student's schedule. They would then need to meet with a counselor to re-register.

Board members passed the policy change to avoid the high cost of educating non-resident students.

Days and hours when parents may document their residency status differ by school. For summer 2005, parents may present documentation on the following days and times:

Eisenhower High School, 12700 S. Sacramento, Blue Island: Monday through Thursday through July 20, 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Evening hours will be Thursday, July 21 and Thursday, July 28, from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Harold L. Richards High School, 10600 S. Central Avenue, Oak Lawn: Monday through Thursday through July 14, 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Evening hours and dates are Wednesday, July 13 and Wednesday, July 27 from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Shepard High School, 13049 S. Ridgeland Avenue, Palos Heights: Monday through Thursday through July 28, 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Evening hours are Wednesday, July 13, Wednesday, July 20 and Wednesday July 27 from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Parents of students enrolled at ASPEN High School and Summit Learning Center may verify their residency at registration in early August.

AWJ Summer Picnic on the Pier

The Association for Women Journalists-Chicago invites you to its annual Summer Picnic On The Pier! At 6:30 p.m., there will be about a One-Minute Meeting. More than a parlor game and less than all-out networking, the One-Minute Meeting gives everyone a chance to meet everyone else in a round-robin conducted — more or less — at the speed of light. Or, just come to relax, share a light supper and the best view of the skyline and lake.

The event will take place from 6 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, July 21 at the rooftop of WBEZ/Chicago Public Radio, Navy Pier, 848 E. Grand Ave., Chicago. This is for AWJ members only; all others are welcome to join at the door. For nonmembers wishing to join AWJ, there will be a special Picnic on the Pier membership offer: Pay $50 to join for the rest of 2005 and all of 2006 — a savings of $20.

For more about AWJ-Chicago, see <http://www.awjchicago.org>. For more information, or to RSVP, contact: Libby Sander, AWJ Program Committee member (312) 644-4339 L.Sander@lbpc.com.

Letter To The Editor

Letter to the Editor:

High gasoline prices are the missing link to bankrupt the American economy!

China and Japan own 40% of US Treasury Bonds. In the next two years if China and Japan sell all their US Treasury Bonds there could be a financial disaster worse than 9-11!

The 911 wake up call is ringing in the ears of American tax payers. We can't let foreign governments bail us out of our American debt. Charity begins at home.

The US dollar value will drop into the bottomless pit if China and Japan sell all their US treasury bonds. If China and Japan convert the money from the sale of their US treasury bonds to Euros that would be a double whammy for the USA!

If the price of oil is priced in Euros instead of US dollars then a barrel of oil will cost $80.00 and a gallon of gas will cost $3.00.

The next two years some of Bible prophecy will be fulfilled. The wealth of the wicked will be given to the just! The world will give the devil's money to do the work of the Lord and for Christians to preach the gospel!

Don't let all these doom and gloom scenarios scare you. Just turn your eyes upon Jesus and he will help you through floods, fires, disasters and the desert. Remember the joy of the Lord is your strength!

Chicago Public Library Presents Its Author Series

Every month, the Chicago Public Library presents its Author Series featuring stimulating and informative conversations with renowned authors of contemporary fiction and nonfiction. The Author Series events are always free and open to the public.

On June 7th at 6 p.m. in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium, lower level, at the library, Myrlie Evers-Williams, former chair of the NAACP and widow of Medgar Evers, one of the greatest leaders of the civil rights movement, will discuss and sign her new book, The Autobiography of Medgar Evers: A Hero's Life and Legacy Revealed Through His Writings, Letters, and Speeches. There has been much written on Martin Luther King, Jr. and Malcolm X, but until now, Medgar's story, in his own voice, has not been told.

On June 8th at 5:30 p.m. in the Chicago Authors Room at the library, Tayari Jones, author of the award-winning novel Leaving Atlanta, will read from and sign her new novel, The Untelling. Building on her extraordinary debut, Jones satisfies fans with this moving story about an African American woman coming to terms with the tragedies in her life.

On June 9th at 6 p.m. in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium at the library, Georgie Anne Geyer, veteran foreign reporter and syndicated columnist, will discuss and sign her latest book, When Cats Reign Like Kings: On the Trail of the Sacred Cats. Geyer lightheartedly addresses the history, legends and sagas of the cats that served as symbols of the spirit and royalty.

On June 13th at 6 p.m. in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium at the library, David McCullough, best-selling historian, two-time Pulitzer winner and recipient of the Chicago Public Library Foundation's Carl Sandburg Literary Award, will discuss and sign his latest book "1776." In this book, McCullough chronicles America's founding, focusing on a momentous 12 months in the fight for independence. As McCullough vividly shows, the colonial militiamen beat the British Empire with a great deal of suffering, determination, ingenuity — and, the author notes, luck.

Top Equestrians Compete at International Event

Local residents will have the opportunity to watch some of the most talented horses and riders in the Olympic sport of eventing test their mettle at the Maui Jim Wayne Horse Trials, which take place at the Lamplight Equestrian Center in Wayne, Illinois, July 8th to 10th. This event benefits the Illinois Wisconsin Search and Rescue Dogs Organization and participating Special Olympic programs. The Illinois Special Olympics Equestrian Competition will take place on Sunday, July 10th alongside the show jumping phase of the horse trials.

The divisions of competition are designed for horses and riders at almost every level of the sport. While some are content to win ribbons and bragging rights, others will also use this competition as a stepping stone to hopefully some day qualify for international caliber events in order to pursue their goal of one day representing their country at the Olympic Games.

Admission and parking are free.

For more information on the event, contact Katherine Lindsay at flutie@interaccess.com or call (630) 377-7597. For more information on the sport of eventing, the USEA Gold Cup Series, and the United States Eventing Assn., go to www.useventing.com or contact Amy Daum at (703) 779-0440, ext. 3017, or email amy@useventing.com.

Radogno Honored For Her Support Of The Community First Act

State Sen. Christine Radogno (R-Lemont) was recently recognized by the Illinois Progress Center for Independent Living for her support of the Community First Act, and her commitment to the civil rights and freedoms of people with disabilities.

This was the first time that the Illinois Progress Center for Independent Living has distributed any award at their annual meeting. Diane Coleman, Executive Director of the Progress Center, explained that this award was uniquely inspired by the sponsorship of the Community First Act, which Sen. Radogno, along with Sen. Maggie Crotty (D-Oak Forest) and Rep. James Brosnahan (D-Oak Lawn), sponsored this year.

"We felt that her effort was so important to people with disabilities, old and young, that it deserved to be recognized. Sen. Radogno has dedicated a lot of time and energy to learning about the long-term care system, and I think, on the policy level, she is incredibly knowledgeable and committed to expanding services to people with disabilities," Coleman said.

The Community First Act is an initiative that would authorize disabled citizens - regardless of the severity of their disability - who would have been placed in an institution, to receive community services or support to prolong the time these individuals are able to remain at home and actively involved in their community. The Illinois Progress for Independent Living was a strong supporter of this legislation, and felt that the efforts of its main sponsors should be recognized.

"I am extremely proud to be honored as an advocate for Illinois' disabled citizens - particularly by an active and committed organization like the Illinois Progress Center for Independent Living," said Sen. Radogno.

Congressman Dan Lipinski Invites Nominations For Service Academies

Congressman Daniel Lipinski invites young men and women in the Third Congressional District interested in attending the U.S. Service Academies in 2006 to submit nomination letters to him.

"To be accepted into one of the U.S. Academies is a great honor. Many thousands of gifted young men and women compete each year to be one of those honored to be selected," Congressman Lipinski said.

The service academies include: Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, CO; Naval Academy, Annapolis, MD; West Point Military Academy, West Point, NY; Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, NY. (Coast Guard admissions are based on nationwide competition with no congressional nominations.)

Potential candidates must have reached their 17th birthday but not their 22nd by July 1st, 2006, be a United States citizen, graduated from high school, taken the ACT and/or SAT tests and meet the stringent entrance requirements of their preferred Academy.

The selection of nominees is based upon the "whole person" evaluation. Although nominations will not be made until January of 2006, all interested persons are encouraged to submit their written requests as soon as possible or no later than Sept. 1st, 2005.

Closing date for completed files is Dec. 1st, 2005. Contact Lenore Goodfriend at Congressman Lipinski's Chicago office, 6245 S. Archer Ave., Chicago, IL 60638, (312) 886-0481.

Firefighters/Paramedics Terry Murphey And Joseph Gainor Receive

Special Recognition

At the only July board meeting of the Oak Lawn Village Board on Tuesday July 12th, firefighters/paramedics Terry Murphey and Joseph Gainor received special recognition. The two paramedics were the first to arrive at a residential fire, a resident was leaning out of an upstairs window. The men backed the ambulance underneath the window and led the homeowner to safety having time to move the ambulance out of the way before the firetrucks arrived.

The board voted to finally approve the municipal pay and benefits ordinance, but not before emotions and tempers flared. Trustee Streit, who had requested the numerous delays along with Trustee Olejniczak, stated that he would vote for the ordinance and it would be retroactive, however he still had questions. Streit stated that his every request to Gail Paul for further documentation was met with documents that produced more questions. Trustee Streit cited a case where a person received a promotion that included a large increase in pay, the person then retired. Streit questioned whether this was to increase his pension. Trustee Olejniczak questioned the lack of defined written policy for evaluation. Both trustees claimed serious revisions are needed. Trustee Joy stated that assumptions were being made that were not true, and that the village needed a manager. President Heilmann agreed that a manager is needed, however he questioned whether the village could afford to pay two village managers- with Joe Faber receiving a paycheck until February, 2006. Heilmann also stated that he had emailed an ad he had written to search for a manager but had not heard from all six trustees about the ad and was awaiting their input. During this "free for all" exchange trustees interrupted trustees, talking over each other, audience members interrupted trustees and each other, talking over trustees and other members of the audience and the man with the gavel never used it once.

Finally two items were tabled until the next meeting on August 9th - the resolution that lists the president and the village clerk as qualifying IMRF positions and a request to subdivide at 5807 W. 95th St. Both items were tabled at the request of Trustee Streit.

Hot Weather Driving Precautions

Summer is here and many drivers will be hitting the road for vacations and weekend get-a-ways. "Hot weather brings unique challenges," said Ray Palermo, director of public relations for auto insurer, Response Insurance. "It can present dangerous conditions for both the vehicle and its occupants." Each summer sees more than 7,000,000 car breakdowns on the road and he suggests that most summer breakdowns can be easily avoided.

Before heading out be sure you check the basics, including: oil, transmission fluid, windshield washer, battery level and strength, tire pressure (including the spare), cooling system (which should be flushed and refilled at least every two years), belts and hoses and have a well equipped emergency kit and tool box in the trunk.

When driving in hot weather it's particularly important to keep an eye on the lights and gauges. If your temperature gauge moves up, turn off your air conditioner and turn on your vehicle's heater to its highest and hottest setting. It will be uncomfortable, but it will help draw some of the heat away from the engine. If you are stopped in traffic put the car in "park" and lightly step on the gas to help circulate coolant. If the temperature light goes on or if the gauge enters the red zone, immediately pull off the road to a safe spot, well away from traffic. Do not drive any further - not even to the next exit. Driving with an overheated engine can cause serious damage to the engine.

Do not attempt to remove the radiator cap itself. The pressurized coolant is extremely hot and will spray out with great force. Do not pour water over the radiator or engine, since a dramatic change in temperature could cause damage. After the engine cools a bit, add a 50-50 mix of coolant and water to the reservoir to bring it up to its proper level.

Even when not stranded due to a breakdown, summer heat can pose dangers. Never leave a child or pet in a parked car in summer heat. Even an outside temperature in the 80's can quickly bring a car interior to well over 140°.

Bring a cell phone for emergency calls, but don't use it while driving. Response's studies have shown that driving distractions have become the number one fear on the road.

Two free brochures, Driving Tips for Hot Weather and Hitting the Road Safely, and other information are available by calling 1-800-610-5928 or at its website www.response.com.

Census Bureau Updating Information on American Spending Habits

In July, information about how much Americans spend for health care, groceries, clothing, transportation, housing and other items will be collected by U.S. Census Bureau field representatives from a sample of randomly selected households across the country.

The Consumer Expenditure (CE) Survey program consists of two surveys. About 7,500 households will be interviewed once every three months to obtain data on relatively large expenditures. Over the year, another 7,500 households will keep two consecutive one-week diaries of all purchases. The CE Interview Survey is designed to capture expenditure data respondents can reasonably recall for a period of three months or longer, whereas the CE Diary Survey captures expenditures on small, frequently purchased items that are normally difficult for respondents to recall later (such as toothpaste, bread or for a hamburger from a fast-food restaurant). The results are published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Government economists use the results to update a "market basket" of goods and services for the Consumer Price Index, our nation's single most widely used measure of inflation.

Before the CE surveys begin, households receive a letter from Census Bureau Director Louis Kincannon informing them of their selection. Census Bureau field representatives conducting the interviews will carry official photo identification badges. The law ensures survey respondents' personal information and answers are kept confidential.

Legal Lessons Learned From The 'Runaway Bride'

The recent case of the "runaway bride" has captured the nation. The young woman, a nurse from Duluth, Georgia, told police a phony story about being abducted a few days before her planned wedding. Eventually, she told authorities that she fled because of personal reasons.

The woman agreed to pay the city of Duluth $13,250 to help pay for the costs the city incurred searching for her. She also faces fines and jail time if convicted of lying to the police. She agreed to psychiatric counseling, which doesn't come cheap, and she or her family possibly lost the down payments made to throw the lavish wedding that was planned.

While there are personal lessons to be learned from the saga of the runaway bride, there are legal lessons as well.

Do not lie to the police. The making of a false report to the police of a non-existent crime may constitute the commission of the class 4 felony offense of Disorderly Conduct in Illinois, punishable by up to three years in prison, and a $25,000 fine (restitution could be even more), plus mandatory community service. Similarly, one might be charged with Obstruction of Justice for furnishing false information to police when it is intended to prevent the apprehension, or obstruct the prosecution or defense, of any person. This offense too is categorized as a class 4 felony with the same penalties (although community service is not mandatory for obstruction). However, the mere denial of criminal wrongdoing when questioned by police can not result in criminal liability even if the denial is false.

1. If the police have probable cause to believe that you made a false report, they can arrest you. Any law enforcement officer can make an arrest, usually with a warrant but sometimes without one. A warrant, describing the person to be arrested and the charge made, is issued by a judge or magistrate, and it directs law enforcement officers to arrest a certain person and bring the person before the court.

Upon arrest, a person should be informed of the Miranda warnings, but failure to do so does not affect the validity of the arrest. Miranda warnings include: you have the right to remain silent; anything you say can and will be used against you in a court of law; you have the right to have an attorney present before any questioning; and, if you cannot afford an attorney, one will be appointed to represent you before any questioning.

If arrested, one has the right to appear before a judge as soon as possible, usually within 48 hours unless special needs can be shown to exist. At the first appearance before a judge, the accused has the right to be advised of the specific allegations of the charges, the possible penalties upon conviction, the right to counsel, to plead not guilty and to have a trial by jury, where the state is responsible for proving guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, until which time, the accused is presumed innocent. If the arrested person has minor children, an inquiry should be made as to their custody or the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services should be notified.

2. Before signing a contract, hire an attorney to review it. A wedding is an expensive proposition. Whenever you engage a service, such as a caterer, band, or a photographer to perform work, it's always a good idea to have an attorney review the contract before you sign anything. In general, you should get all estimates in writing. Read the contracts yourself and ask questions before signing.

Never sign a contract with blank spaces. If a supplier says that you must make a deposit, clearly understand the refund policy. And, read and understand what any guarantee covers.

3. Know the grounds for annulment. It remains to be seen if the "runaway bride" and groom tie the knot. But what if they had gone ahead and done so - and one of them decided they wanted out? Grounds for annulment (the legal term is "declaration of invalidity of marriage") vary in different legal jurisdictions but are typically limited to fraud, bigamy and mental incompetency.

In Illinois, they may include the following circumstances:

- A party lacked capacity to consent to the marriage at the time that the marriage was solemnized, either because of mental capacity or infirmity or because of the influence of alcohol, drug or other substances, or the party was forced into the marriage fraudulently (within 90 days after the petitioner learned of the condition);
- A party lacked the physical capacity to consummate the marriage (within one year);
- A party was under age 18 and did not have the consent of his or her parents or guardian or judicial approval (the marriage can be declared invalid prior to the time that the person reaches age 18 when the party could have married legally).

For further information about these and other law-related issues, contact an Illinois State Bar Association member-lawyer in your area or visit www.illinois-lawyerfinder.com.

IDNR & Preschoolers

Teaching young children about Illinois' natural resources is a vital task if they are to be successful stewards of our natural resources in the future. Learners at the preschool level are eager to discover the world around them. To assist with education at the preschool level and with Head Start programs, the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) Division of Education recently mailed sample items and information about the availability of free teaching tools to more than 2,500 preschool and Head Start teachers in the state.

The posters, activity books, activity sheets and CD-ROMs produced by the IDNR Division of Education are developed using the Illinois Learning Standards of the Illinois State Board of Education as their foundation. These supplemental items are designed to be used to supplement existing curricula. They provide information and activities on a variety of natural resources related topics. Spanish-language versions of the activity books are also available.

To order materials from the IDNR Division of Education, visit the online order form. Go to <http://dnr.state.il.us> then click on the "Education" button in the right side bar. On the next page, find the link to the online order form. For more information, contact the IDNR Division of Education at teachkids@dnrmail.state.il.us or (217) 524-4126.

Aquarium's New Additions

Shedd Aquarium's three baby penguins are small enough to fit into your cupped hands - for now, anyway. Two rockhopper chicks, born June 15, weigh a mere 325 grams. But that's more than four times their original weight. When hatched the little chicks weighed only 70 grams. The newest addition, a gentoo chick, born June 23, weighs 90 grams. These chicks gain between 10-25% of their body weight each day for the first several weeks. They will be fully grown in 75 to 90 days.

These baby chicks - both rockhopper and gentoo penguins - currently can be seen on the chilly 40-degree shore of their habitat in Shedd's Oceanarium. For more information about penguins or Shedd Aquarium, guests can call (312) 939-2438 or log onto www.shedd-aquarium.org.

Funds Designated For Homeland Security

On July 9th Governor Rod R. Blagojevich designated more than $1 million in homeland security funding to the Chicago Transit Authority, Metra and St. Louis area Metro East transit districts to help pay for added security costs associated with this week's national threat level being raised from code "Yellow," (elevated), to code "Orange," (high), for the mass transit portion of the transportation sector. The Federal Department of Homeland Security raised the nation's threat level for mass transit systems after terrorists struck London's mass transit system. The elevated alert applies to regional and inner city passenger rail, subways and metropolitan bus systems.

Beginning Thursday morning, July 7th, following the attacks on trains and a bus in London, uniformed police officers and bomb-sniffing dogs in the Chicago and the Metro East area patrolled trains, buses and stations looking for suspicious activity. In the aftermath of the Sept. 11th terrorist attacks, Illinois developed a detailed security plan to respond to times of heightened alert or crisis. After the Madrid bombings in 2004, the Chicago Transit Authority and Metra modified the transit plans, in cooperation with state and federal homeland security officials.

The funding for the assistance, which could total more than $1 million, will come from federal homeland security funds allocated to the state. The Governor asked the Illinois Terrorism Task Force to allocate the money to reimburse the transit authorities for extraordinary expenses associated to the increased security needed to ensure the safety of travelers in Illinois.

Most of the award money will be used for overtime pay for police officers needed for the added security, as well as other expenditures above and beyond their routine activities; these may include bomb-sniffing dogs, increased video surveillance, intrusion detection equipment, and increased inspection of trash receptacles and storage areas and other extraordinary security measures.

Jenny O'Grady Benefit

Friends and family are pooling together their efforts and talents to stage a benefit for car crash victim and young widow, Jennifer O'Grady of Chicago's Morgan Park area.

On Feb. 27th, 2005, newlyweds Henry and Jenny O'Grady were returning from his 31st birthday celebration when the vehicle they were passengers in was struck by another vehicle on the Dan Ryan Expressway. The impact was so great it sent Jenny flying into the air, where she landed on the third rail of the CTA "Red Line" tracks. Henry and the driver were thrown from the car. Henry died on the scene, but miraculously Jenny survived.

St. Germaine Parish in Oak Lawn and the friends of the O'Grady and Visak families will host a benefit for Jennifer and her son Frank to help relieve future financial burdens. The benefit will be held on July 23rd at 115 Bourbon Street, 3359 W. 115th St. in Merrionette Park, from 2 to 7 p.m.

The Morgan Park couple dated for many years and were married three months before the tragic crash. They were very happy enjoying their new life together. That night, they had been discussing their plans to start a family, with the friends they were celebrating with, but it was not to be.

"Jenny is a nurse at University of Chicago Hospital and has been unable to work," said Sue Vogel, friend and co-organizer of the benefit. "Jenny has a very long road ahead of her, and this is why we need as much help as we can get."

The benefit organizers are seeking donations and corporate gifts such as food and raffle prizes for the benefit. Advance tickets for the fundraiser can be purchased for $30 each, by calling Danielle Graber at (773) 238-2549 or Sue Vogel at (815) 521-0836. Ticket price includes food, beer, soda, DJ and live entertainment.

Consumers Have Until July 29th To Cancel Natural Gas Corp. Contracts

Attorney General Lisa Madigan on July 6th informed consumers who received an allegedly confusing mailing and signed up for services with Illinois Natural Gas Savings Corporation, doing business as Illinois Natural Gas Corporation, that they have a right to cancel the service without penalty if they choose to do so by July 29 under a settlement her office has reached with the company.

Following the settlement agreement reached recently with Madigan's office, Illinois Natural Gas has agreed to honor all requests for cancellation of contracts for any consumer who signed up for its program prior to June 29, the agreement's filing date. The cancellation requests must be made within 30 days of the filing date - by July 29.

Consumers may cancel by: contacting Madigan's Consumer Protection Division at 1-800-386-5438; calling Illinois Natural Gas directly at 1-800-309-5160; faxing a written notice of cancellation to Illinois Natural Gas at 1-800-306-5016; or mailing a written notice of cancellation by registered mail to Illinois Natural Gas Corporation, PO Box 7336, Chicago, IL 60680.

Madigan said Illinois Natural Gas Savings Corporation has agreed not to raise the price of natural gas during the course of its contracts. In addition, the natural gas supplier has agreed to clearly and conspicuously disclose in all future contracts and solicitations that it is not affiliated with any state agency or public utility and disclose the details of its consumer contracts.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor

The 1996 Illinois Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) defines marriage as between one man and one woman. That's good, but is it good enough?

Massachusetts had a DOMA, but three judges ruled it unconstitutional last year, forcing the people to accommodate same-sex "marriages."

To justify their action, these judges cited the Massachusetts public accommodations law, similar to the one that Illinois state representatives passed this spring.

The judges also cited the Massachusetts non-discrimination civil rights statute regarding employment, housing, credit and services. Once again, similar to the one that the Illinois legislature passed into law in January, the statute gives special rights to homosexuals, bisexuals and the gender confused. Are you seeing a pattern?

Ironically, the Massachusetts public accommodation statute specifically says it shouldn't be construed to permit "homosexual marriage." It's too bad for Massachusetts that the judges didn't understand that part. It is obvious that a DOMA isn't strong enough to protect the original meaning of marriage in our great state. Amending the Illinois State Constitution with a marriage amendment will secure marriage for future generations.

Call (877) 787-8011 or go to www.protectmarriageillinois.org and download a petition to place a marriage question on the November, 2006 ballot. In a "living for today" kind of world, we must consider what we are passing on to our children.

Drought Response Task Force Reports

Activated by Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on June 26th, the Illinois Drought Response Task Force met July 7th to report on the state's condition after weeks of drought. Climatologists report that since March, the state has only received about half as much rain as it normally does. The Governor directed state agencies, top scientists, and policymakers in Illinois to use all available state resources to minimize the impact of dry conditions on the Illinois economy, and the health and safety of state citizens.

Researchers from the Illinois State Water Survey reported that it is probably that the drought in Central, North Central, and Northeastern Illinois will continue to worsen. Data analyzed by state climatologists indicates levels have been about 50% of normal statewide since March. Soil moisture, river flow and shallow groundwater levels continue to decline.

Rainfall in the coming weeks is critical to Illinois crops, soybeans, winter wheat, oats and alfalfa. The Illinois Department of Agriculture reported restriction of crop growth and stress continues to be an issue with the lack of precipitation across the state. Although some areas received rain in recent days, the quantities were variable and not enough to replenish soil moisture. Most areas are still in desperate need of rain to unroll corn leaves and get soybeans blooming. The state average topsoil moisture was 57 percent very short, 34 percent short, 8 percent adequate and 1 percent surplus.

If conditions worsen, the Governor may be able to issue a declaration. Such a declaration would make federal financial aid available to some of those affected by the ongoing drought.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency suggests state residents make a conscious effort to conserve water while doing everyday tasks. IEPA recommends that everyone should always be mindful of their everyday usage and conserve water to the maximum extent possible.

U.S. Rep Bobby L. Rush Releases Report That Shows The Negative Impact President Bush's Social Security Proposal Would Have On The First Congressional District

In a report by the United States House of Representatives' Committee on Government Reform - Minority Staff, Congressman Bobby L. Rush announced on July 6th the impact of President Bush's Social Security proposal on working families in Illinois' 1st Congressional District. The report finds that the majority of wage earners in the district will face steep benefit cuts under the President's plan.

Congressman Rush requested the study after hearing constituent concerns during a town hall meeting on proposed changes to Social Security earlier this year.

"The idea of privatizing Social Security continues to generate a great deal of debate in this nation, so I wanted an in-depth study on the impact that it would have in my district," said Rush. "With figures that indicate that more than 68% of constituents in the 1st Congressional District would have benefits cut, this disturbing projection not only validates our worst fears, it solidifies my objection to privatization."

Specifically, the report finds the President's plan would cut benefits for over 160,000 wage earners in Rep. Rush's District. There are over 245,000 wage earners in the district who are currently contributing to Social Security. The President's plan would cut benefits for 68% - or more than 166,000 of these employees.

The President's Plan would result in significant benefit cuts for individual wage earners in Rep. Rush's district. For wage earners between the ages of 35 and 55, the average benefit cut would be $1,875 per year. For younger wage earners, the average benefit cut would be $4,245 per year. Over 39,000 wage earners in the district would face benefit cuts of over 20%.

The President's plan would cut total benefits over $12 billion for current wage earners in Rep. Rush's district. Over their lifetimes, wage earners in the district who are currently contributing to Social Security would lose $12.8 billion in benefits under the President's plan. More than 78% of this cut will come from middle-class workers who earn between $30,000 and $90,000 annually.

The President's plan could also cut benefits for widows and surviving children in Rep. Rush's District. Social Security benefits for surviving spouses and children are tied to the benefits earned by the deceased wage earner. Because the President has yet to explain how the benefits cuts he is proposing for wage earners will affect surviving spouses and children, no precise estimate of the impact on his proposal of surviving spouses and children is possible. But the number of survivors likely to be affected is large.

Maloney Bill To Improve GED Program Signed

A bill sponsored by State Sen. Ed Maloney (D-Chicago) that will address long waiting lists and improve data reporting regarding the GED high school equivalency program was signed into law recently.

The bill transfers primary responsibility for administering the GED testing program from the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) to the Illinois Community College Board (ICCB). Currently, only one person from ISBE is assigned to the program.

Under the terms of the legislation, the number of locations where the test will be administered will increase, and that will reduce the number of people who have to wait every year to take the high school equivalency exam.

The Mosque Foundation Of Chicago Condemns London Attacks

The Mosque Foundation of Chicago unequivocally condemns the terrorist attacks that afflicted London this morning. Those responsible for the bombings should and must be brought to justice. There is no justification whatsoever for such a horrific act, neither in Islamic sacred law or any other system of justice.

We join the plurality of humanity and Muslims worldwide in voicing our utter rejection of this act and the psychology and ethos behind it. We extend our most sincere condolences to those who were directly effected by the bombings, the innocent who perished or were injured, as well as their families and friends. Our thoughts and prayers are with them. We constantly pray that God grant humankind peace.

Biggert Reacts to Justice O'Connor's Resignation

U.S. Rep. Judy Biggert (R-IL-13), an attorney and co-chair of the Congressional Caucus on the Judicial Branch, recently issued the following statement honoring Justice Sandra Day O'Connor on the occasion of her retirement:

"Justice O'Connor served as a role model at a time when very few women were pursuing legal careers. As the first woman ever to serve on the U.S. Supreme Court, Justice O'Connor earned her place in history, making a permanent mark on the judicial system that will forever inspire girls and women throughout America.

"She was a steady - albeit unpredictable - presence on the bench. She was incredibly thoughtful and deliberate with her decisions, evaluating every case on its merits. She will be greatly missed."

By THOMAS E. GAVIN

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich recently proclaimed July "Health Care Month" in Illinois, launching a month-long effort to expand, improve and promote access to health care for Illinois families. During the month of July, the Governor will sign new laws designed to improve access to healthcare for working families and seniors, enact meaningful medical malpractice reform, ease the nursing shortage, provide hospitals with nearly $2 billion in new federal funds, help senior citizens afford the high cost of prescription drugs, increase critical cancer screenings for women, raise awareness about various diseases, and increase funding for diabetes research.

According to the governor's press representative, since Governor Blagojevich took office 313,000 more men, women and children have received health care through the Kid Care and Family Care programs - at a time when most states are not only not providing more coverage for the working poor, but also kicking people off of Medicaid or significantly reducing their benefits. This year's budget included funding to add another 56,000 men, women and children. The Kaiser Foundation has ranked Illinois the best state in the nation for providing health care to people who need it.

Cook County State's Attorney Richard A. Devine joined State Sen. Kwame Raoul (D-Chicago), State Rep. James Brosnahan (D-Evergreen Park) and veteran defense attorney Kathleen Zellner to propose legislation that would create a funding pool to fund expedited DNA testing in child murder cases.

According to State's Attorney Devine "There is no crime that so traumatizes a community as the murder of a child. We want to make sure that Illinois has ample funding to promptly fund DNA testing in child murder cases when there is evidence available."

The legislation calls for the creation of a $100,000 pool that would be targeted for DNA testing at a private lab for evidence recovered from the scene of the murder of a child 16 and younger. Tests at private labs can run up to $1,500 each to develop a DNA profile that could be run through the national and state DNA databases.

"I am proud to support this important legislative initiative by the State's Attorney," Brosnahan said. "The state must adequately fund murder and sexual assault cases, but the murder of a child cries out for a quick and immediate response from law enforcement. This legislation would make that happen."

There were 39 children younger than 16 murdered in Illinois in 2003, according to the most recent figures compiled by the Illinois State Police.

Senator Dick Durbin (D-IL) has introduced legislation to provide $862.5 million over five years to beef up police resources, recruit prosecutors and provide better witness protection programs to fight gang, related crimes.

The Anti-Gang Act of 2005 was recently introduced in the Senate and was co-sponsored by Senator Russ Feingold (D-Wis.), Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.) and Ted Kennedy (D-Mass.).

The proposal calls for $250 million in federal funds to develop prevention, intervention and research services; $262.5 million to prevent, investigate and prosecute gang crimes; and $300 million to reinforce witness-protection efforts. An additional $50 million would be spent on technology and data bases used to identify gang members.

Moraine Valley again ranks among the top 8 percent of the 1,157 community colleges nationwide in associate's degrees conferred according to an analysis of U.S. Department of Education data for 2003-2004. The report was published in the June 20th issue of Community College Week.

Moraine Valley is the second largest community college in Illinois and among the fastest growing in the nation. In 2004-2005, 1,564 degrees and certificates were awarded.

Worst Aspects Of Energy Act

Citizens Against Government Waste (CAGW) today highlighted what it considers the worst aspects of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (H.R. 6), which could receive a Senate vote next week. The 700-page bill is chock-full of corporate subsidies, targeted tax breaks and costly regulations while carrying a total cost of $16 billion, twice the $8 billion in the House version.

"The Senate bill is a lobbyist's dream and a taxpayer's nightmare," CAGW President Tom Schatz said. "The energy bill is less a coherent policy than a grab bag of giveaways for special interest. A few provisions stand out as particularly wasteful blunders that will do nothing to reduce the price of gas or the nation's dependence on foreign oil."

- Title XIV: Unlimited Loan Guarantees. Title XIV will guarantee up to 80% of the cost of developing new energy technologies, such as fuel cells, coal-fired power plants and advanced nuclear reactors. When such endeavors fail, taxpayers will cover the losses. The Congressional Budget Office estimates the cost of $3.75 billion in loan guarantees over the first five years, carrying a 20 to 60% risk of default on the loans. But after five years, there is no limit on the amount of loans guaranteed. The guarantees will add a layer of bureaucracy to the Department of Energy at an estimated cost of $400 million in the first five years. Taxpayers should not be forced to subsidize every speculative venture conceived by energy companies, who will profit from the few successes but shovel the losses onto the backs of taxpayers. Unfortunately, an amendment offered by Sens. John Sununu (R-N.H.) and Ron Wyden (D-Ore.) to eliminate Title XIV was defeated by a vote of 21-76.
- $18 billion in tax breaks over 10 years. In addition to providing loan guarantees, some energy sectors would be eligible for tax credits worth more than $2.5 billion. Other tax incentives would be doled out for more energy-efficient homes, new home appliances and hybrid cars. Though all American businesses could benefit from lower taxes, targeted tax breaks are a form of pork that skews market incentives. The free market, not Congress, should decide which form of energy is most efficient.
- Ethanol mandate. This provision would require that 8 billion gallons of corn-derived ethanol be added to the domestic gasoline supply by 2012—double the current mandate—which will raise gas prices for consumers. Supporters claim it will reduce dependence on foreign oil, but the energy required to grow the corn and distill the ethanol means that oil imports will fall by less than .05%. The mandate is nothing more than corporate welfare for Midwestern farmers. The Senate mandate is 3 billion gallons higher and will cost consumers two to four times more at the pump than the House version. Even worse, the Senate bill contains an $8 million giveaway for an ethanol study in the home state of pork-barreller extraordinaire Sen. Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii).

• Hydrogen Car. The Senate bill allocates $3.8 billion over five years toward development of hydrogen fuel cell vehicles and has set a pipe-dream goal of 100,000 such cars on the road by 2010 and 2.5 million by 2020. General Motors, Ford, DaimlerChrysler, Honda, Toyota, Volkswagen and BMW are already working on their own hydrogen-powered vehicles. In May 2004, the National Academy of Sciences stated that a commercially viable hydrogen car would likely take 20 to 30 years to produce.

Film Tax Incentive

Expanding on the tremendous success of the Illinois film industry in 2004, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich continued the revitalization of movie and television production in Illinois by extending the film tax incentive legislation on July 11th that has proven to be instrumental in bringing major film and television projects back to Illinois. Much of this success is due to the legislation that the Governor helped the General Assembly pass in 2003. The Governor extended the film tax credits through 2006 by signing Senate Bill 1965 on the set of Universal Pictures' The Break-Up, a romantic comedy currently filming in Chicago starring Vince Vaughn and Jennifer Aniston. Many other major motion pictures from a cross-section of Hollywood's studios featuring popular talent, including Sandra Bullock, Keanu Reeves, Dustin Hoffman, Will Ferrell and John Malkovich, are now filming or have filmed in the Chicagoland area in 2005.

These projects are estimated to create 5,000 jobs and inject $68 million into the state's economy. In all of 2004, projects filmed throughout the state created nearly 15,000 jobs and generated $77 million, 200 percent higher than in 2003.

Illinois's film industry was in deep decline up until nearly two years ago when the Governor signed Senate Bill 785, which made the state more competitive with other filming locations across the nation and around the world. The law provides a tax credit equal to 25 percent of the first $25,000 in wages paid to Illinois residents working on television and film projects shot in Illinois. The Governor signed Senate Bill 1965 into law, which was sponsored by State Senator Rickey Hendon (D-Chicago) and State Rep. Ken Dunkin (D-Chicago), extending the film tax credit legislation for another year, with provisions making it easier to use and encouraging the hiring of Illinois workers from high unemployment areas.

Save The Swallow Cliff Toboggan Slides

By Elizabeth Doody Gorman

Over the past year, I have received hundreds of e-mails, letters and telephone calls from constituents seeking to save the Swallow Cliff toboggan slides. We now have an opportunity to restore and revitalize this facility. The Forest Preserve District of Cook County recently issued a proposal to manage concessions for the entire district, which would include Swallow Cliff. This presents an opportunity for subcontractors to present proposals for certain locations within the district.

As most residents remember, Swallow Cliff has a long history as a winter sports facility dating back to 1923 when the first wooden toboggan slide was constructed. Over the years many exciting national events were held there, but more importantly residents from the area have memories of great family fun at this wonderful venue.

Unfortunately, until 2002, this site was neglected and the toboggan slides were allowed to deteriorate. Upon my election, I made the revitalization of Swallow Cliff a priority. Recently, my office spearheaded the effort, supported by the majority of Cook County Board members, and we were able to secure $200,000 from Senate Bill 83, which will be used to repair and restore the stairs at Swallow Cliff. This is an excellent beginning, but more needs to be done.

Swallow Cliff now needs the business community and residents of the Southland to help. It is imperative that potential vendors submit proposals in order to ensure that the revitalization of this great cultural venue in our community continues.

Proposals must be submitted to the forest preserve district before Aug. 15. The proposal can be reviewed at www.lizgorman.com, or my office will be happy to provide copies to interested parties.

Elizabeth Doody Gorman represents the 17th District on the Cook County Board of Commissioners. She lives in Orland Park.

Chicago Law Firm Hits A Hole-In-One For Needy Families

On Friday, July 22nd at 9 a.m. golfers will tee off at the Glencages Country Club for the Pugh, Jones, Johnson and Quandt 12th annual Golf Outing and Barbecue. The event, hosted by Stephen H. Pugh and his partners, Walter Jones, Dennis Johnson and Eric Quandt, raises funds to benefit families overcome with financial crisis.

Registered players will golf 18 holes on the championship golf course, enjoy an afternoon meal, and await a raffle drawing for a multitude of prizes from the golf event's sponsors. An additional bonus added to this year's event is the opportunity to win a brand new Jaguar by making a hole-in-one on one of the golf course's holes, courtesy of Howard Orloff Jaguar & Volvo. The event draws in golf enthusiasts from many professions. In past years, Ariel Capital Management's Jason Tyler, Board President for the benefiting charity, outplayed all competition and led his team of four to a triumphant win. Sponsors of the event have included Bank One and American Family Insurance and notable attendees were Linzey Jones, Mayor of Olympia Fields, as well as U.S. District Court Judge Wayne Anderson.

Proceeds will be donated to the Emergency Fund, a non-profit organization that began serving local Chicago families 30 years ago. The Emergency Fund provides immediate financial support to low-income families going through economic crisis or transition.

Event and hole sponsorships, and individual or foursome packages are available. Packages start at $200. For more information, visit www.emergencyfund.org or www.pjllaw.com, contact Beverly Carter at (312) 768-7800.

SAM ROMANO LAKE MICHIGAN FISHING TOURNAMENT: Anglers are invited to participate in the tenth annual Sam Romano Fishing Tournament the morning of July 21 out of Winthrop Harbor Yacht Club at North Point Marina in Lake County. The tournament is a benefit for the Illinois Conservation Foundation's youth fishing, hunting and outdoor recreation programs.

The cost is $1,000 for each five person boat (or $200 for an individual angler). The cost includes a chartered fishing experience on Lake Michigan, breakfast, lunch and awards. For more information, call (217) 785-5091 or register via the Illinois Conservation Foundation web site at www.ilcf.org. Kirby comment: "I have fished this tournament several times, had a great time, and brought home a lot of salmon."

ANIMAL RIGHTS GROUP TARGETING CHILDREN: Anti-hunting organizations are focusing recruitment efforts on our nation's young people in hopes of turning them against America's traditional outdoor heritage.

"NAHEE and the HSUS are slipping their anti-hunting rhetoric into classrooms," said U.S. Sportsmen's Alliance President Bud Pigeon. "The HSUS is in business to end America's outdoor heritage, but many teachers and others who influence our children don't realize this threat. They welcome the group's information into the schools."

Take action! If your child brings home a newsletter or worksheet provided by an anti-hunting group, contact your child's teacher and principal. Let them know that the materials promote organizations that aim to destroy America's outdoor heritage and wildlife conservation.

MUSSEL HARVEST CONTRACTS: Contracts to harvest commercial mussels will be available for a portion of the lower Illinois River from July 15 to Aug. 31. Mussel harvest will be allowed by contract from the mouth of the Illinois River at Grafton to the LaGrange Lock and Dam at river mile 80.1. The Illinois River was closed to commercial mussel harvest in 2004. At that time, biologists believed that the zebra mussel would cause the extermination of native mussel species.

In recent years, zebra mussel have declined in the lower river while the native mussel population appears to be holding steady. This conservative approach to the mussel harvest is designed to allow limited harvest and to gather information to be used in setting future harvest regulations.

Persons interested in obtaining a contract must have an Illinois mussel harvest license and not have been guilty of a fishing violation for the past 12 months. A signed contract will be required of each mussel harvester and a daily report of mussel harvest must be completed.

For additional information or to obtain a contract, contact Commercial Fishing Program Manager Rob Maher at (618) 466-3451.

WINGSHOOTING CLINICS: The Illinois Department of Natural Resources and a variety of participating sponsors are hosting a series of wingshooting clinics for beginners and hunters this summer, from Aug. 20 through Sept. 18.

At select youth/women's clinics, Saturday session instruction is available for young shooters 10-15 years of age. Sunday sessions are for girls and women and are open to all those ages 10 and older. Instructors are certified by the National Sporting Clays Association. All supplies including shotguns and ammunition are provided at youth/women's clinics.

Hunter clinics are designed to enhance the wingshooting skills of hunters 16 and older. Hunters with wingshooting skill levels from beginner to advanced are encouraged to attend. A small fee is assessed each hunter clinic participant to cover the cost of clay targets and refreshments.

Check the IDNR web site <http://dnr.state.il.us> for complete schedule of wingshooting clinics.

SENATORS PLEDGE TO HELP BOY SCOUTS: A bipartisan group of lawmakers, led by Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., introduced legislation to make sure the Boy Scouts of America can use government facilities for gatherings, meetings and events.

"The Support Our Scouts Act of 2005" would protect the organization from attacks by the American Civil Liberties Union and other groups challenging federal support for the BSA because the organization administers a religious oath and prohibits homosexuals as scout masters.

The threat of lawsuits by the ACLU has forced the BSA to pull the charters of thousands of scouting units from public schools.

Annual Fishing Tournament

Anglers are invited to participate in the tenth annual Sam Romano Lake Michigan Fishing Tournament the morning of July 21st out of the Winthrop Harbor Yacht Club at North Point Marina in Lake County. The tournament is a benefit for the Illinois Conservation Foundation's youth fishing, hunting and other outdoor recreation programs. The cost is $1,000 for each five-person boat (or $200 for an individual angler). The cost includes a chartered fishing experience on Lake Michigan, breakfast, lunch and awards. District 218 To Leave SICA

Following months of analysis and consideration of myriad factors, the Board of Education of Community High School District 218 has directed its administration to leave the South Inter-Conference Association (SICA) and pursue a new athletic conference alignment.

Factors affecting District 218's decision include: ensuring that our natural geographic rivalries remain intact; making it easier for parents and students to travel to away games; reducing travel expenses; and, cutting down on travel time, which will remove the need for early dismissals that take away from class time. Keeping games closer to home will help reduce concerns over lengthy trips, especially during inclement winter weather.

Annual Chicagoland All-Star Classic

In 2002, Tim Hardaway of the Indiana Pacers and Bennie Henry had an idea to raise money to benefit underprivileged inner-city youth. Therefore, they founded "The Support Group" which organizes a yearly exhibition game featuring NBA stars.

As a result, on Saturday, July 23rd, at 3 pm, the 4th Annual Chicagoland All-Star Classic will be held at The United Center.

Last year's game drew over 15,000 basketball fans and raised nearly $200,000. Various athletic, arts & crafts and tutoring programs were made possible by the proceeds.

This year's game, to be viewed in person by many of the aforementioned at-risk youth, will include NBA players Tim Hardaway, Antoine Walker, Michael Finley, Juwan Howard, Corey Maggette, Quentin Richardson, Glenn Robinson, Ron Mercer, Marcus Fizer and others. They will play two twenty-minute halves ala college.

Tickets range from $100 for courtside seats all the way down to $15 for 300 Level seating. Group discount prices are also available. For more specifics, please call Martina Smith at (312) 630-9188.

Jenna Guide Signs Letter Of Intent

Jenna Guide, a setter from Sandburg High School, recently signed a letter of intent to continue her athletic and academic career at St. Xavier University in Chicago as a member of the Cougar volleyball program. Guide, a native of Orland Park, was coached by Kelly Mendoza and Katie Brasher (club coach) during her prep career at Sandburg.

Guide is expected to move to the libero position next season at SXU. She plans to pursue a degree in either education or business. Guide is the daughter of Frank and Janet Guide.

"Jenna comes from a great volleyball family and a powerful high school program at Sandburg," said SXU volleyball coach Bob Heersma. "Jenna is the first libero I have ever recruited and I'm looking forward to having her become a Cougar."

New Laws Strengthen Child Support Enforcement

Gov. Blagojevich announced that the State of Illinois will collect a record-breaking $1 billion in child support payments this year. The funds will provide 386,000 Illinois parents with the money they need to care for their children. This dramatic turnaround follows years of poor child support collection. But, over the past two years, Gov. Blagojevich launched a number of innovative and aggressive programs to improve collection to help working parents, including the Deadbeat Parents Website and the New Hire Directory hotline.

To continue Illinois' recent success and further strengthen child support enforcement, the governor signed four pieces of legislation on June 30th as follows:

Making the child support process more efficient: Sponsored by Rep. Cynthia Soto (D-Chicago) and Sen. Iris Martinez (D-Chicago), House Bill 785 makes child support collection more efficient by updating the process to reflect current practices. The law is effective Jan. 1st, 2006.

Adding interest to unpaid alimony: Sponsored by Rep. Patricia Reid Lindner (R-Sugar Grove) and Sen. Susan Garrett (D-Highwood), Senate Bill 95, an initiative of the Illinois State Bar Assn., provides that any new or existing order including any unallocated maintenance obligation (alimony) shall accrue simple interest at the rate of 9% per annum, just as child support obligations. This law is effective Jan. 1st, 2006.

Improving ability to legally serve notices on non-custodial parents: Sponsored by Rep. Lovana Jones (D-Chicago) and Sen. Kwame Raoul (D-Chicago), Senate Bill 955 improves the Department's ability to legally serve notices on non-custodial parents. This law is effective immediately.

Making sure the family receives interest payments first: Sponsored by Rep. Patricia Reid Lindner (R-Sugar Grove) and Sen. Maggie Crotty (D-Oak Forest), Senate Bill 452 simplifies the calculation and distribution of interest on unpaid child support and ensures that collections of interest are paid to the family first. This law is effective Jan. 1st, 2006.

Making payments easier through currency exchanges: Sponsored by Rep. Cynthia Soto (D-Chicago) and Sen. Iris Martinez (D-Chicago), HB 783 allows a non-custodial parent to give certain information to a currency exchange so that their child support payments can be made there, giving the non-custodial parent more access to places where they can make payments.

Older Adults Needed To Lend A Hand

The Southwest Suburban Center on Aging is looking for adults 50 years of age and older who are interested in volunteering their time and share their expertise to work with seniors as part of its "Red Tape Cutters Program."

Red Tape Cutters assist seniors in learning about the various government or public benefits programs for which they may be eligible as well as organizing and completing the necessary paperwork including submitting applications in an effort to help expedite the process and to "cut through the red tape."

Volunteers assist seniors with their paperwork for the Circuit Breaker, SeniorCare and other pharmaceutical programs; Energy Assistance; Medicare Part D Benefits, to name a few. Volunteers donate their time two to three hours a month during the day either at the Center or at one's home. Training is provided for all benefit programs.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Red Tape Cutters or other volunteer opportunities such as the Medicare Fraud Program may contact Linda Carey at the Center on Wednesday or Thursday at (708) 354-1323, ext. 20. For those seniors seeking assistance through the Red Tape Cutters Program, there is no fee.

Award for E-Initiatives

In recognition for its efforts to save resources to benefit taxpayers across the state, the Illinois Department of Central Management Services (CMS) and Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) received a CIO Partnership Award from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The award recognizes both departments' longstanding achievements in information security, and recent leadership on projects using e-authentication technology between the state and national governments.

CMS' award was based on 2004 efforts where the department worked closely with the IEPA, and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the General Services Administration on e-authentication technology between the agencies. The award highlights the effectiveness of advanced technology to validate digital identities and save state and federal resources.

Drunk Driving Penalties Increased

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich today signed several bills aimed at cracking down on drunk drivers, including more jail time for drunk drivers. While 2004 was the safest on Illinois roads in more than 60 years, the Governor wants to do even more to make Illinois highways the safest they've ever been. Governor Blagojevich signed these new laws as the Illinois State Police and Illinois Department of Transportation conduct the largest DUI crackdown in state history during the Fourth of July holiday weekend. The stepped up enforcement effort began June 27th and runs through July 10th.

"Someone dies every day in our state because of drunk drivers," Gov. Blagojevich said. "We will not tolerate drunk driving and that's why I'm signing new laws to crack down on drunk drivers."

The far-reaching, tougher DUI safety measures signed into law today by the Governor range from increasing penalties for DUIs involving death to the creation of the aggravated DUI offense. Bills signed into law today by the Governor are as follows:

- Consistency in DUI sentencing: House Bill 887.
- Tougher penalties for driving on a DUI-revoked license: House Bill 888.
- Harsher sentencing for causing death while DUI: House Bill 1081.
- Chemical testing required for those who hit-and-run: House Bill 1351.
- Interrogations and confessions of aggravated DUI suspects must be recorded: Senate Bill 72.
- More severe punishment for DUI while transporting a child: House Bill 657.
- Harsher penalties for repeat DUI offenders: House Bill 3816.

"I want to thank Gov. Blagojevich for making the statement that we are not going to tolerate drinking in Illinois. These new laws will send a strong message to criminals who disregard the laws of this state that you will be punished. The people of Illinois will not permit drunk drivers to destroy innocent lives and get off with a slap on the wrist, we are now holding these criminals accountable for their irresponsible actions," said Rep. Black.

St. Rita Announces Mustangs Of The Month

St. Rita of Cascia High School bestows the Mustang of the Month Award every month during the school year to a notable student from each class. Teachers nominate students based on the student's overall involvement in the school. The award winners are then selected from those nominated by an award committee. International Lottery Scam From England Surfaces

Attorney General Lisa Madigan warned consumers that a new take on an old scam has surfaced in Illinois. Madigan said reports to her Consumer Protection Division reveal that letters promoting an alleged lottery scam from London, England, have begun showing up in Illinois mail boxes.

Members of the public should keep in mind that the international lottery scheme, which has been around for many years, surfaces from time to time under different names and countries of origin but the scam is always the same. Perpetrators of international lottery schemes often target the elderly and usually contact their victims by mail or telephone.

Madigan said an Illinois senior citizen recently reported receiving a hand addressed, unsolicited letter from Prudent Alliance plc Lottery of London, England, stating the consumer was the winner of an international lottery. The letter advised the consumer that the winning funds of $54,940 were deposited in London. A cashier's check in the amount of $1,999.25 was enclosed in the letter as a first installment of the winnings. Madigan said she believes the cashier's check is a fake and would not clear if cashed by the consumer.

The letter instructed the consumer to call a phone number in London to claim the rest of the lottery winnings. After a neighbor of the elderly consumer brought the letter in to Madigan's Springfield office, a member of Madigan's Consumer Protection Division, posing as the husband of the senior citizen, called the phone number. The "husband" was instructed to cash the check and call back the next business day. However, just a few minutes later the lottery representative returned the call and told the husband that to receive the balance of the winning amount, 4.5 percent in fees must first be paid. The husband was further instructed to wire one half of the fees, or approximately $847, using Western Union to the address shown on the letter.

It also is possible that consumers may be asked for personal bank account information so that the alleged fees may be withdrawn from their accounts, Madigan said.

Madigan said unsolicited letters received by Illinois consumers claiming they have won an international lottery should be considered a scam and thrown away or turned over to postal authorities. Consumers cannot win a lottery for which they have not bought tickets, and cannot win sweepstakes they have not entered. In addition, playing an international lottery by mail or phone is against the law.

Consumers can visit Madigan's Web site for consumer protection information at www.IllinoisAttorneyGeneral.gov or call the Consumer Fraud Hotline at 1-800-386-5438 and 1-800-964-3013 (TTY).

Orr Looks At Voting From November and April Elections

When it comes to voting, men in their early 70s are the most dedicated to showing up at the polls in suburban Cook County, according to figures released by Cook County Clerk, David Orr.

An analysis of the April 2005 Consolidated Election shows that 42.7 % of registered 72-year-old men cast ballots, demonstrating the largest voter turnout of any age group.

Their voter participation far exceeded the county-wide average for turnout among suburban registered voters, which was 27 %.

A similar look at voter participation in the November 2004 presidential election showed that two groups of women—those ages 55 and 61 were the most committed to voting. The Clerk's study showed that 82.4 % of those registered females cast ballots last year, outpacing the county-wide female average of 74 % and male average of 71 %.

The analysis involved using voter registration files from each precinct to retrieve the dates of birth for voters who signed applications to receive ballots on Election Day. The information was then entered into the County's voter database.

The process, which takes several months, produced a gender analysis of turnout figures for registered voters ages 18 to 100.

Although the lowest turnout in the April 2005 and November 2004 elections was among voters in their late 90s, who might have difficulty getting to the polls, they were followed by men in their 20s.

Less than 7.4 % of 27-year-old men who are registered to vote in the April 2005 election cast ballots on Election Day. In the 2004 presidential election, men aged 21 had a 47.3 % turnout rate compared to the countrywide average of 74 %.

Orr noted that the Clerk's Teen Democracy programs seem to be effective in fostering interest in the electoral process among high school students and their older peers. The programs allow students to register their friends to vote and to learn about the importance of elections.

New Rental Assistance Program Law Is Signed

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed a new law creating the largest state rental assistance program in the nation. The Rental Housing Support Program will help 4,000 to 5,000 families find safe housing that they can afford.

Sponsored by Sen. Iris Martinez (D-Chicago) and Rep. Julie Hamos (D-Evanston), the Rental Housing Support Program is expected to generate $30 million in its first year of operation to help as many as 5,000 families. Less than half the states in the nation have a rental assistance program, and only two states, Massachusetts and Connecticut, provide long-term rental support.

The Rental Housing Support Bill takes effect July 5, 2005.

47th Annual Chicago Air and Water Show

Shell and the City of Chicago present the 47th Annual Chicago Air and Water Show on the beautiful lakefront Saturday, August 20th and Sunday, August 21st. More than two million spectators will converge on the lakefront to enjoy the show from Fullerton Avenue to Oak Street, with North Avenue Beach serving as the heart of event festivities. The oldest and largest FREE show of its kind in the United States will present performances by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds and U.S. Army Parachute Team Golden Knights as this year's headliners. The water show begins at 9 a.m. and air show runs from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. both days.

The U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, dazzling audiences since 1953 with their commanding presence and precision flying, roar across the lakefront once again in their F16 Fighting Falcons. This select group of Air Force Pilots performs intricate maneuvers as close as 18 inches apart, often approaching the speed of sound. They represent the skills and techniques demanded of every Air Force pilot and are considered a "mirror image" of every front-line fighter pilot.

Also headlining the show, the U.S. Army Golden Knights Parachute Team will thrill the audience as they plunge from altitudes high above to their target on North Avenue Beach. Rocketing toward earth at an astonishing speed of 120 mph is a way of life for this exhilarating team, which has been performing around the world for more than 40 years.

Strong in tradition and one of the world's premier aviation events, the show also includes a wide array of military and civilian acts. This year's civilian lineup includes, the AeroShell Aerobatic Team, Lima Flight Team, Red Baron Pizza Squadron, Red Bull MIG Magic and Sean D. Tucker and Team Oracle. The Liquid X Freestyle extreme water show will kick-off the festivities both days at 9:00 a.m. performing in Lake Michigan off of North Avenue Beach.

Thoughts On Health & Nutrition

by
Lucinda K. Lysen, RD, RN, BSN

PORTION DISTORTION

Studies have shown over and over again that the more food is put in front of a person, the more he will eat. And since the 1960s, the serving sizes of foods sold in stores and restaurants have become much bigger. This - according to Lisa Young, a nutritionist at New York University - is called "portion creep."

"When given a cookie the size of a Frisbee, or a bagel as big as a flotation device, people run up their calorie intake," said Young. Some other examples of the perils of portion size are:

*One cup of pasta used to be a typical restaurant serving. A cup of pasta has almost 200 calories. Now some restaurants serve three cups of pasta for an entrée, which is nearly 600 calories. (and, again, this is without the sauce).

*Bagels used to be about two to three ounces—about 200 calories. Now they are five to six ounces—more than 400 calories.

*A half ounce cookie is about 50 or 60 calories. But today's jumbo cookies—the diameter of a CD—pack in as many as 400 to 500 calories.

Instead of cutting out such foods altogether, dietitians suggest you "smart-size" your portions. For instance, three ounces of meat is a good portion to eat at a meal, and this is about the size of a deck of cards or the palm of your hand. And watch out for extra-large sizes when you get anything at a fast food chain or the movie theatre. An eight-ounce coke, for example, has about 100 calories. A 20-ounce has about 250 calories. And, a small popcorn at the movies—seven cups, popped in oil—is 400 calories. A large—20 cups—contains about 1200 calories.

For a better understanding of portion control and how to achieve it, you can pick up a copy of Young's The Portion Teller: Smartsizes Your Way to Permanent Weight Loss, at most book stores, published by Morgan Road Books.

Kidney Foundation of Illinois 5K Walk and Health Fair

Approximately 1,000 people laced up their walking shoes at the 6th annual National Kidney Foundation of Illinois Gift of Life Walk presented by Baxter to raise funds and awareness of chronic kidney disease prevention and organ donation.

The 5K walk began at the Soldier Field Great Lawn and traveled south along Lake Michigan before the walkers turned around at 31st Street and headed back to Soldier Field. Among the walkers were kidney patients and transplant recipients of all organ types.

After the walk, the NKFI held a family health fair. The health fair featured dialysis and pharmaceutical company representatives distributing information and healthcare materials on healthcare options and lifestyle choices. NKFI provided free blood pressure and glucose screenings along with additional educational materials and prevention information on chronic kidney disease. Guests were entertained throughout the morning with live music, magic, balloon artistry, face painting and a moonwalk.

NKFI estimates it raised approximately $60,000 at the 5K Walk and Health Fair.

NKFI will launch the nation's only traveling chronic kidney disease screening program that will canvass the state of Illinois, providing free screenings and educational programs. NKFI will partner with federally-funded health care facilities to roll out its Kidney Mobile throughout the state's greatest at-risk communities.

For information on kidney disease and prevention, visit www.nkfi.org.

New Laws Create Vince Demuzio Memorial Colon Cancer Fund and Sarcoidosis Research Fund

In an effort to increase awareness and fund more research for serious disease, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed two bills that will allow Illinoisans to contribute to the fight against disease. The first law provides an avenue for more money to fund colorectal cancer awareness and honors longtime State Senator Vince Demuzio. Sen. Demuzio, the longest serving member of the Illinois State Senate, lost his battle to colon cancer in April of 2004. The second law provides the same avenue to raise money for Sarcoidosis research. Sarcoidosis is a disease that causes inflammation, or swelling of the body's tissues.

Senate Bill 133 creates the Vince Demuzio Memorial Colon Cancer Fund. Money collected in this fund will be

Focus on the Family Decries AAP Report

Focus on the Family Analyst for Sexual Health Linda Klepacki, RN, MPH, recently responded with outrage to the recent report by the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) that recommended teens should have easy access to all forms of contraception.

The report, "Adolescent Pregnancy: Current Trends and Issues," updates the recommendations to clinicians on how to address teenage pregnancy - but fails to reinforce the only message that offers a foolproof way of preventing unintended pregnancies and STDs.

"Abstinence until marriage is the only way to be sure young people are protected from STDs and unintended pregnancies," Klepacki said. "Despite the fact that the AAP acknowledges teen sexual activity and pregnancy rates have been steadily declining for more than a decade, this report insists that pediatricians should merely advise their parents to postpone early sexual activity. At what age does risky behavior become safe?"

The report continues by recommending pediatricians work to educate and provide access to contraceptives, including emergency contraception. In addition, the report advises that pregnant teenagers be informed of all options, even abortion.

"It is inappropriate that the AAP leadership should advise policies that promote anything less than the most healthy, responsible behavior for our children," said Dr. Marilyn A. Maxwell, member of the AAP and of Focus on the Family's Physician Resource Council. "Every teen should be encouraged to practice abstinence, not encouraged to engage in sexual activity because contraception - which is only partially effective in preventing pregnancies or the transmission of STDs - is readily available."

"This report also undermines the rights of parents to direct their children's sex ed," Klepacki said. "Parents are always the primary educators of their children, and it's clear they don't want this type of information being foisted on their children. A 2004 Zogby poll found that 96 percent of parents believe that abstinence from sexual activity is best for teens. In addition, only 8 percent of parents think that condom education and free contraceptives are more important than abstinence - and yet, the AAP advises that policy for its doctors."

"This report is a wake-up call for parents. They absolutely must be on guard against this insidious 'abstinence-plus education' - both in the schools and now in doctors' offices. Parents must continue to instill the highest standard for sexual health in their children: abstinence until and faithfulness within marriage."

given to the Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) to establish and maintain a public awareness campaign in target areas in Illinois with high colon cancer mortality rates. The campaign will be developed in conjunction with recommendations made by the American Cancer Society.

The second new law creates the Sarcoidosis Research Fund. Funds raised by the check off created by House Bill 2470 will go toward grants for Sarcoidosis research.

Sarcoidosis is an inflammatory disease characterized by widespread lesions that may affect any organ or tissue of the body. The liver is frequently affected, as are the skin, lymph nodes, spleen, eyes and small bones of the hands and feet. The disease occurs predominately between the ages of 20 to 40, affects more women than men and occurs more often in African Americans.

Sarcoidosis, which has an unknown cause, is generally a chronic disease, lasting for several years or a lifetime. Some people, however, may have a type that only lasts a few months. Most people have no symptoms, while others may have symptoms that include: skin, lung or eye problems, arthritis, myositis, fever, fatigue and weight loss.

Treatment can control symptoms or improve the function of organs affected by the disease. Not everyone requires treatment and treatment may or may not affect the long-term outcome of the disease.

About 50 percent of Sarcoidosis patients improve spontaneously. The disease is fatal in less than 5 percent of patients.

The new laws are effective Jan. 1, 2006, and the funds will be included on the 2005 Illinois 1040 income tax return.

Cancer Society Raises Awareness Of Effects Of Secondhand Smoke

The American Cancer Society, Illinois Division has launched an advertising campaign aimed at raising awareness about the effects of secondhand smoke on Chicago workers. The campaign currently includes billboards and radio spots. Recently billboards began to appear in high traffic areas around the city. The campaign includes three billboard versions depicting a musician, bartender or waitress who by working in smoke-filled workplaces assume health risks resulting from secondhand smoke. Nearly 3,000 people die each year in Illinois due to the effects of secondhand smoke. More than 250 health, community and civic organizations are members of the Smoke-Free Chicago Campaign, a figure expected to grow rapidly as word of the campaign spreads. Veterans Day at the Illinois State Fair is Sunday, August 14th. There will be a tribute to all of America's war heroes, past and present, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the Fairgrounds in Springfield. Highlights include a free lunch, Veteran information tables (DD 214, employment, health screening), Veterans Parade honoring all veterans, Springfield Municipal Band, Britt Small and USO evening entertainment.

A charter bus will leave Chicago at 5:45 a.m. (board 5:30 a.m.) and arrive at the Abraham Lincoln Museum and Library in Springfield at 9:00 a.m. Riders will board at 10:30 a.m. and leave the museum at 10:45 a.m. to arrive at the Fairgrounds at the Arena at 11 a.m. Departure from the southside is at Montford Point Marine Association, 7011 S. Vincennes Avenue and the northside, 5001 N. Pulaski Rd. The cost is $25 per person which includes bus cost and refreshments. Money is due July 25th, call Rochelle Crump at the Illinois Dept. of Veterans Affairs (312) 814-2744 or (773) 873-6600.

I received a phone call from a woman in Florida who said her friend, whom she met on the internet, was going to travel 7,000 miles on horseback in memory and to honor the men and women that have fought and gave their lives for this great nation. Edward Orniston left Oklahoma on July 4th and is traveling through the United States. When he reaches Florida, my informant will join him for the remaining miles through all of the states. I received an email from Edward. He said he had open heart surgery in 2003 and was told he could never ride a horse again (he is a cowboy) or it would kill him. He said he is riding through the U.S. to show his friends and loved ones that sometime you have to put your life on the line to prove a point. "It is time that someone stands up and puts their life on the line to show all the men and women that we love them and that their fight is our fight," said Edward. "If I die, than I did it my way and showed the world that we are a strong people and that we do love our troops," he said. We wish this man good luck and may God be with him on his journey.

Gov. Blagojevich Signs Bills To Help Veterans Get The Benefits And Jobs They Have Earned

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation that will help Illinois veterans receive more federal benefits and make it easier for veterans returning from active duty to find work. Speaking at the state's "Supermarket of Veterans' Benefits" fair at Chicago's Navy Pier, the Governor delivered on a promise made earlier this year announcing the Illinois Department of Veterans' Affairs will hire 25 new service officers to help Illinois veterans apply for and receive more federal benefits.

As thousands of veterans attended the benefits fair, Gov. Blagojevich signed into law Senate Bill 40, which will give the state accurate information on how Illinois veterans are doing in terms of collecting federal benefits in comparison to veterans from other states, and House Bill 593, which will give veterans returning from active duty preference in keeping the jobs they had been offered before being deployed.

During his State of the State Address in February, the Governor promised to significantly increase IDVA's troop of veterans' service officers to ensure that veterans of Illinois received the full benefits that they had earned. Today, the Governor made good on that promise, announcing that IDVA will now hire 25 additional veteran service officers, which will be deployed across the state to help local veterans apply for their federal benefits.

The veteran service officers (VSO) offer step-by-step counseling and assistance to those veterans who need help filing their benefits claims for both the state and federal governments and can appeal those cases that are rejected. They also provide information on a wide variety of other available state benefits.

A total of $1.5 million from the FY2006 budget will be dedicated to hiring these much-needed officers. The new service employees will also serve as liaisons between the state and the federal VA.

Senate Bill 40, which becomes effective Jan. 1, requires the Illinois Department of Veterans' Affairs (IDVA) to conduct an annual review comparing the benefits that Illinois veterans receive to those of other states and U.S. territories. The law is designed to get better compensation for vets from the U.S. Department of Veterans' Affairs.

According to IDVA, there are over one million veterans in the state of Illinois who are being short-changed over $400 million in federal disability benefits each year.

Safety Campaign Offers Summer Tips For Homeowners

Summer is here and representatives of the Joint Utility Locating Information for Excavators (JULIE, Inc.) encourage homeowners to keep safety in mind when planning outdoor activities and improvement projects.

"Many homeowners are undertaking beautification projects and preparing for parties in their yards during the summer months," said Kevin T. Chmura, director of public relations at JULIE, Inc. "If the planning involves any type of digging, drilling or inserting posts or tent stakes into the ground, a free call to JULIE should be on top of the priority list. Call center representatives are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week to assist with the quick and easy locate request process."

JULIE, Inc. offers the following tips to keep your family safe this summer:

- The most basic: Call JULIE before you dig (1-800-892-0123), regardless of the depth or size of the project. The call to JULIE and service provided by members are free;
- Wait for the excavation site to be marked with paint, flags or stakes (two working days);
- Respect the utility marks; and
- Dig with care—always hand dig within 18" of marked lines.

Illinois law requires anyone digging to call JULIE, Inc. at least two working days prior to the start of excavation and to begin that project within 14 calendar days from the call. The 48 hour notice does not include Saturdays, Sundays or holidays.

Brookfield Zoo's Gorilla Naming Contest Ends on Promising Note

After Binti Jua, one of the most recognizable western lowland gorillas, gave birth to a male infant on May 2nd, Brookfield Zoo challenged the public to come up with a name for her baby. The zoo received more than 1,500 entries, and a truly great name has emerged for this great ape! The name selected is Bakari (pronounced buh-KAR-ee), a Swahili word for "promise" or "one with promise or success."

The name Bakari was submitted by a number of people, but Mary Ann Wolff of Bolingbrook was selected to win the naming contest with her entry. Wolff stated on her entry form, "Bakari is Swahili for 'one who will succeed.' The wisdom, gentleness and maternal guidance of his mother Binti Jua are certain to influence his life. These traits are also symbolic of Brookfield Zoo and its strong commitment to safeguard and nurture the lives in its care."

As the winner, Wolff receives a free day at the zoo that includes a behind-the-scenes tour for her and four of her guests at Brookfield Zoo's Tropic World, the opportunity to assist animal keepers in preparing the gorillas' exhibit with browse and the animals' morning treats, lunch with Tropic World keepers, a Share the Care gorilla package, and a gorilla handprint.

In 1996, the now 17-year-old gorilla mother became world-renowned for picking up a child who fell into the gorilla exhibit and carrying him in a cradling fashion to a doorway where zoo staff could reach the boy.

Since Bakari's birth, he and Binti Jua have established a comfortable routine consisting mostly of eating and sleeping. Binti seems to enjoy motherhood and is very protective of her offspring. She is often seen lying on a tree branch resting with her son on her stomach or sitting on the mountain in Tropic World with Bakari sleeping low on her lap as she munches on some kale. When he is awake, Bakari is very alert and curious as well as strong. His tight grip helps him cling to his mother as she moves around the exhibit. Binti also likes to play with Bakari by holding his hands and stretching them up until he is in a standing position and then sitting him back down again. Just recently animal keepers noticed he is teething.

Choosing the Right Nursing Home

Choosing the right nursing home is an important decision that requires planning. Unfortunately, families often avoid the subject until the last minute before giving it any serious thought. As a result, they may end up with a hospital discharge planner telling them they have only one to two days to choose a nursing home for their loved one. To help families make the right decision, the Illinois Council on Long Term Care offers helpful recommendations on areas to examine during a facility tour.

The best time to visit a nursing home is early afternoon so that a family will be able to visit with staff and residents as well as observe the afternoon meal. When arriving at a nursing home, the family should ask to meet with the admissions director who will answer any questions and conduct a full facility tour. The admissions director will also discuss the facility's costs and explain all considerations regarding Medicare and Medicaid.

Touring a nursing home involves much more than simply evaluating how well it is decorated. Families need to assess the quality of care given to the residents. Do staff members interact well with the residents, and do they treat them with dignity? Are the residents' requests being met promptly? Are the residents clean and well groomed? Do the residents seem happy and involved with facility life?

Bring a notepad and pen to write down both your positive and negative impressions. Taking notes will help you make a better decision. Also, be sure to talk with others - such as clergy, friends, doctors and neighbors - about their experiences regarding the nursing homes you are visiting.

Here are the Illinois Council's suggested areas to consider when taking a tour of a nursing home:

Nursing: Take a good look at the residents. Are they clean? Have the men been shaven? Do the residents have clean, combed hair? Have their nails been trimmed? Are their clothes washed and tidy?

Environmental Considerations: Does the facility feel inviting and comfortable? Are the residents' rooms and the common areas clean and neat? Are there home-like touches to enliven the environment?

Geography: Will it be easily accessible for family and friends to visit their loved one at this location? Is the center near preferred doctors and hospitals?

Financial: Will the financial status of the potential resident be a problem? What will happen if this individual runs out of funds and must go on Medicaid?

Diagnosis: How experienced is the facility in handling the residents' diagnoses? Will the center be able to provide the appropriate care for the residents' medical conditions? What kind of training has the staff received on these conditions?

Activities: Does the facility provide a wide variety of activities on the monthly calendar? How many activities are offered each day? Attend a facility activity - do the residents seem interested and involved? What opportunities exist for involvement with community organizations? What does the facility do to tailor their activities to the residents' previous interests and backgrounds?

Dietary: How much variety is there on the monthly menu? Try one of the facility's meals - how appetizing is the resident's food? Are there enough staff members on hand to assist residents with their meals?

Housekeeping: Do you see housekeepers on hand to keep the facility neat and clean? Is there a consistent, widespread problem with odors? Look closely at the environment - how successfully is the facility keeping everything clean, neat and orderly?

Therapy: Ask the admission director to describe the facility's restorative and rehabilitation programs. Is the therapy room well-equipped, and is therapy being provided? Request examples of how the facility has successfully promoted resident independence.

Resident Well-Being: Talk to the residents themselves about their satisfaction with the facility. Do the residents seem happy, trusting, comfortable and content?

For more detailed information on nursing home issues - including legal, financial and emotional considerations - be sure to visit the Illinois Council's Web site at www.nursinghome.org. The site also contains a comprehensive directory of Illinois nursing homes with detailed descriptions of the helpful services they provide.

Named Among "100 Most Wired Hospitals" For Sixth Consecutive Year

Northwestern Memorial Hospital has once again achieved recognition on the list of the "100 Most Wired Hospitals" as designated by Hospitals & Health Networks, the journal of the American Hospital Association. Noted as a consistent leader in healthcare information technology, Northwestern Memorial is one of nine Illinois hospitals named to this year's list. It is the hospital's sixth consecutive year as a recipient of the prestigious honor.

"We are truly honored to have our efforts continuously recognized as among the best in the industry," said Tim Zoph, vice president and chief information officer at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. "Information technology is a key enabler of change in the health care system, which in the end will help hospitals deliver safer, higher quality and more efficient healthcare."

The "Most Wired" awards are based on voluntary participation in a survey focusing on how hospitals and health systems use information technology to address operational and strategic challenges.

Questions in the survey are updated each year to focus on new technology trends in the industry. This year's survey, which drew participation from more than 1,200 hospitals (about 21 percent of the total number in the country), measured the areas of safety and quality; customer service; business processes; workforce; and public health and safety.

Barry Maram Becomes First Illinois State Official To Receive Prestigious Award In Over 10 Years

The National Governor's Association (NGA) has announced that Barry Maram, Director of the Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services (HFS), will be one of three state officials in the nation to receive an Award for Distinguished Service in State Government at the NGA's 97th annual meeting.

The NGA asked each Governor from across the nation to nominate one state official they deem most deserving of the Distinguished Service Award. Earlier this year, Governor Blagojevich nominated Director Maram for the award citing his superior management and organizational skills. According to the NGA, Director Maram is the first state official from Illinois to receive the award since 1994.

As Director of the HFS, formerly known as the Illinois Department of Public Aid (IDPA), Maram has helped to ensure that Illinois is expanding access to healthcare among the state's working families, to transform the state's child support enforcement system through reorganizing and new technology, and to coordinate a statewide hospital assessment that brought millions of dollars back to Illinois.

Emerald Park Bill Becomes Law

A bill sponsored by State Senator Ed Maloney (D-18) and State Representative Jim Brosnahan (D-Oak Lawn) providing a process for screening sex offenders and other violent offenders before they are able to reside in nursing homes and other licensed facilities was signed into law on July 11.

The bill is a direct response to conditions discovered at the Emerald Park Health Care Center, a skilled-care facility serving both the elderly and the mentally ill, located in Evergreen Park. In April 2005, ten sex offenders were discovered to be residing at the facility. The presence of the sex offenders at the facility came to light after one of them was arrested in a public park in Evergreen Park.

The new law also provides for notification to facility residents and their guardians when sex offenders are residing in a licensed facility. Under the terms of the act, the Department of Corrections is required to provide notice and information to State agencies and local law enforcement when sex offenders are residing, or intend to reside, in facilities licensed by the State.

This situation prompted Evergreen Park to enact an ordinance prohibiting sex offenders from living at long-term care facilities within the village. It also led to a survey of the facility by the Department of Public Health, the results of which caused the Attorney General to begin court proceedings to have the facility placed in receivership and eventually closed.

Villages Exam Water Options

As the old Melissa Ethridge song says ... "Somebody bring me some water!"

Angered over water flow restrictions from Oak Lawn which have resulted in a sea of brown lawns, Tinley Park, Orland Park, Oak Forest and Country Club Hills are now examining other water system options.

Other suburbs affected by the malcontents would be Orland Hills, New Lenox and Mokena, which has their water relayed to them from Tinley Park; and, Matteson and Olympia Fields, which draws from the other aforementioned suburbs.

A June 21st pump failure in Oak Lawn's system worsened an already untenable situation caused by the drought, which has lasted from late Spring to the present. Here are some of the alternatives, not necessarily in order of popularity or feasibility, to maintaining the status quo.

Alternative number one, especially for Tinley and Orland, would be to tap into the Bedford Park line which is capable of pumping 25 million gallons a day into those communities.

Alternative number two, for Tinley and Orland would be to access Homer Glen's existing pipes in the Bedford line. However, they are owned by Illinois American Water Company, which typically charges double what residents in those communities are accustomed to paying.

Alternative number three, would be to lay a new nine-mile long pipeline from Orland to Bedford Park, but the upfront cost would be exorbitant.

Alternative number four, likely the most attractive to the less populated, more eastward suburbs like Country Club Hills, would be tapping into the Hammond line. Its capabilities, however, are far too insufficient to support the needs of towns like Oak Forest, Tinley Park or Orland Park.

On the drawing board is still a proposed $60 million project to build a second pipeline, adjacent to the current one, underneath Central Avenue between Oak Lawn and Oak Forest. Had that pipe been built ten years ago when the plan was first considered, the current crisis would have been largely averted.

For now, the only idea which has gained any kind of multi-suburb support is a $4 million plan to refurbish the current infrastructure.

All options are expensive, inconvenient and/or slow in the offing and, according to some city officials, won't do us or our lawns any good right now anyway. Again ... somebody bring me some water.

Record Number Wearing Seatbelts

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich announced a record number of drivers are wearing their seatbelts and that the state is on pace to set a new safety record on Illinois roads. The Illinois Dept. of Transportation reports that 86% of drivers observed were wearing their seatbelts, up 10 percent from just two years ago. At the same time, 2005 is on pace to record the fewest number of persons killed on Illinois highways since 1924. Forty-one fewer people have lost their lives on Illinois highways during the first six months this year than the same time period last year.

Before the primary enforcement law, police could not pull a driver over based solely on a seatbelt violation. At that time, seatbelt usage was just 76%. Since the governor signed the law in July of 2003, safety belt usage climbed to 83% in June of 2004 and 86% in June of 2005.

In 2004, the first full year of primary enforcement, there were nearly 100 fewer deaths, or 1,356, compared to 1,454 in 2003. Through the first six months of this year there have been 597 deaths, 41 fewer than through the first six months of 2004.

In addition to primary seatbelt enforcement, another law signed by Gov. Blagojevich is contributing to safer roads. The law increased the age of children to be restrained in booster seats from 4 years old to 8 years old. Since the governor signed the law in 2003, the state has hosted a series of car seat inspection events with 21st Century Insurance. Illinois State Police Officers and members of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation have inspected over 953 child safety seat installations. In addition, 21st Century Insurance has provided over 1,000 child safety seats to Illinois families.

Oak Lawn Man Held For Fatal Car Accident

After a fatal car crash that left two dead and one seriously injured, a 22-year-old man, who has yet to be named, was held in custody.

The accident happened on Saturday at about 2:55 p.m. on U.S. Highway 12, just west of Indiana Highway 49, in Porter, Ind.

The car being driven by the Oak Lawn man was driving west bound when it crossed the highway centerline. According to police, the driver lost control of the 2003 Honda Civic, slid sideways and struck a van head-on.

Ernesta Rumbinaite, 18, of Darien was pronounced dead shortly after the accident. She was a passenger in the Civic and was ejected from the car. Sandra Galeckaite, 18, also of Darien, was pronounced dead at the scene. A 22-year-old man from Homer Glen was in serious condition at Porter's Valparaiso Hospital. They both were passengers in the Civic.

Gaelic Park Honors The Feast Of Our Lady Of Knock

Chicago Gaelic Park, the Irish Cultural Center, 6119 W. 147th St., Oak Forest, will commemorate the Feast of Our Lady of Knock on Monday, Aug. 22nd at 7:30 p.m.

The miracle of Our Lady of Knock began on a misty, rainy evening in August 1879. Fifteen witnesses saw a bright light shine over the Knock Parish Church, an Apparition that included the Blessed Virgin Mary, Saint Joseph and Saint John. The faithful watched and recited the Rosary in its presence for two hours. Miracles began days after the Apparition.

Over the years, the visitors to Knock, Co. Mayo, has grown to over half a million and has seen many other exceptional happenings including the healing of the terminally ill.

Gaelic Park honors this event with Benediction, Rosary and Procession to the Grotto led by Fr. Michael Boland and Fr. Kevin Shanley. Refreshments hosted by the Ladies Auxiliary will be available after the ceremony.

For more information, call Gaelic Park at (708) 687-9323.

Replace Your Excess Inventory With Tax Relief And Charity

Tired of clambering around in your small, cluttered warehouse desperately trying to squeeze in lines of new product? Still not ready to give up on those old, overstocked, discontinued, or slow selling products and mark them up as yet another loss? Then you obviously haven't heard of NAEIR, The National Association for the Exchange of Industrial Resources.

Not only does NAEIR offer the solution to this problem, but it also offers it at absolutely 100% no cost. In fact, NAEIR may not only free you of your excess inventory donated, plus half the difference between cost and fair market value, up to twice cost. Other corporations such as (S) corporations, partnerships, and sole proprietors are eligible for a straight-cost deduction.

When dealing with overstocked merchandise, a straight cost deduction is better business sense than trying to clear your stagnant merchandise through a liquidator, who may offer you just cents on the dollar. Also, when dealing with liquidators there is no telling where your merchandise may go. It may go to cut-rate discount houses which may eventually harm your product's image.

When donating to NAEIR you are secure in knowing your products will only be distributed to 501 (c)(3) non-profit organizations, eliminating any worry of flooding your market, and giving your company's image a boost by contributing to a charitable organization.

All of this may sound too good to be true, but when you're getting overwhelmed by the opportunities laying in front of you more incentives begin to find you, such as NAEIR's uncomplicated process and satisfactory service. Making donations is as simple as one phone call. So call 1-800-562-0955 or email donor@naeir.org to receive a free Donor Information Kit.

'Safe Havens' For Abandoned Babies

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation that removes a "sunset" provision of the Abandoned Newborn Infant Protection Act and makes permanent the list of places parents and guardians can safely relinquish their newborn infants.

The governor's approval of House Bill 175 came during a week when three babies were abandoned in the Chicago area.

House Bill 175, bipartisan legislation sponsored by Rep. Beth Coulson (R-Glenview) and Sen. Donne

Trotter (D-Chicago) and approved unanimously by the General Assembly, removes the scheduled July 1st, 2007 expiration of the Abandoned Newborn Infant Protection Act.

The Abandoned Newborn Infant Protection Act grants parents immunity from criminal prosecution if they safely abandon their infants within 72 hours of birth with personnel at designated "safe havens" which are police stations, fire stations, hospitals and medical emergency facilities.

Updated Mobile Homes Ordinance

Cook County Board President John H. Stroger, Jr. has proposed new amendments that would update the County's Mobile Homes and Mobile Home Park Ordinance, which has not been updated since 1972.

The new amendments address fire safety concerns by increasing setback and separation areas. Recent fires in two northwest suburban mobile home parks caused one death and thousands of dollars in property loss from fires that spread from one home to the next. Fire officials contend that when mobile homes are too close to one another fire can easily jump from unit to unit. The revised ordinance requires increased space between the home and the street when the home is a new or replaced unit and also increases the separation between homes.

Other proposed changes include increased penalties for violations, increased license fees, a prohibition against storing flammable liquids under mobile homes, and restrictions on the placement of sheds and accessory buildings.

The Cook County Dept. of Public Health licenses and regulates 30 mobile home communities including approximately 8,000 mobile home sites.

MVCC Seek Displaced Homemakers For Program

Moraine Valley Community College seeks displaced homemakers for participation in the Illinois Support, Training and Employment Program (ISTEP) which offers various services to displaced homemakers to assist them in accessing education programs and entering employment.

A displaced homemaker is someone who was previously married but has lost income due to a divorce, separation, death of a spouse, or other loss of income from a spouse such as a lay-off or disability.

Eligible ISTEP participants can receive funding for education, as well as career counseling, individual and peer support, assistance with transportation and/or childcare and help with finding or upgrading employment. The program is funded through a grant from the Illinois Dept. of Labor.

Interested individuals are encouraged to contact Tamika Montgomery at Moraine Valley Illinois Employment and Training Center (IETC) at (708) 974-5738. The fall 2005 semester begins Aug. 22nd.

Break The Silence: Report Elder Abuse

July is Elder Abuse Awareness Month and Catholic Charities, in conjunction with the Illinois Department on Aging, is reaching out to seniors in a month-long campaign, Break The Silence, in order to raise awareness of this important issue in our society.

What is elder abuse? Elder abuse is a term referring to any negligent act by a caregiver or any other person that causes harm or a serious risk of harm to a vulnerable adult. Elder abuse does not discriminate. Elder abuse can affect people of all backgrounds and social status and can affect both men and women. An elder abuse victim may be your neighbor, friend or family member.

Is elder abuse only physical? No, Illinois law defines abuse, neglect and exploitation as:

- Physical Abuse – inflicting physical pain or injury upon an older adult.
- Sexual Abuse – sexual activity with an older adult when the older person is unable to understand, unwilling to consent, threatened or physically forced.
- Emotional Abuse – verbal assaults, threats of abuse, harassment or intimidation.
- Confinement – restraining or isolating an older person, other than for medical reasons.
- Passive Neglect – the caregiver's failure to provide an older person with life's necessities.
- Willful Deprivation – willfully denying an older person medication, medical care, shelter, food, a therapeutic device or other physical assistance.
- Financial Exploitation – the misuse or withholding of an older person's resources by another.

Who does one call if suspicion of elder abuse is occurring? How does one break the silence? Anyone who suspects that an older person is being mistreated by someone should call the Department on Aging's Senior HelpLine at 1-800-252-866 (voice and TTY) from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Youngsters With Spina Bifida To Enjoy Unique Summer Camp

Youngsters and young adults across the state who have spina bifida will enjoy a summer camp experience while improving their independence skills at Camp Ability®, sponsored by the Illinois Spina Bifida Association at Timber Pointe Outdoor Center, located at Hudson, Illinois, (12 miles north of Bloomington/Normal) on Lake Bloomington. The first one-week camping session, for seven-to-twelve year-olds, gets underway Sunday, July 24. Teens from 13 to 17 years will camp from July 31 to Aug. 6, and young adults ages 18 to 30 will attend a session from Aug. 7 to 13. Camp Ability is the only summer camp in the Midwest specifically for persons with the birth defect.

Now in its 17th year, Camp Ability offers programs designed to help persons with spina bifida develop self-confidence while participating in traditional camping activities, such as boating, fishing, horseback riding and archery plus wheelchair sports. An in-ground swimming pool features a ramp that enables campers who use wheelchairs to enter the pool easily.

In addition, campers participate in discussion sessions designed to help them set and achieve personal goals. This year, each camping session will have an independence coordinator on-site to work with each camper in developing his or her independence goals and to monitor progress.

Adam Rappaport, executive director of Illinois Spina Bifida Association, added, "Each year we try to enhance camping activities. This year, our high ropes course and zip line are in operation. They will use belays to raise campers, with a full safety harness, up some 20 feet in the air. There they can move along a line or zip down a long cable pendulum-style." He added that families of children with spina bifida who are interested in future camping are invited to visit Timber Pointe on Wednesday, Aug. 3rd, to tour the facilities, observe activities and speak with the camp director and counselors.

Rappaport said that the Timber Pointe facility, spread throughout 170 acres of forests, provides easy access to cabins and lodges, wildlife habitats and program areas for the campers, most of whom use wheelchairs or crutches.

For many campers, Camp Ability is their first time "away from home" and the program is a growth experience for both the youngsters and their families. With close supervision by an international staff of counselors, around-the-clock nursing care on site and nearby medical facilities in Bloomington and Peoria, Camp Ability offers a uniquely challenging yet sheltered program.

The nation's number one disabling birth defect, spina bifida is a defect in the spinal cord usually resulting in paralysis from the waist down. Lisle-based Illinois Spina Bifida Association offers services to people with spina bifida throughout Illinois, including educational seminars, family support programs, school scholarships and assistance with equipment purchases and therapy, in addition to Camp Ability.

ADA 15th Anniversary Being Observed In July

The 15th anniversary of the signing of the landmark Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is being observed in July.

As President Bush noted during last year's ADA anniversary, "Today, individuals with disabilities are better able to develop meaningful skills, engage in productive work and participate fully in society." Social Security's Ticket to Work program has been an important part of the effort to move individuals with disabilities into working life.

Nearly all individuals receiving Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability benefits have now received a "ticket" that they can use to get free vocational rehabilitation, employment or other support services from an approved provider of their choice. Social Security pays providers for successfully helping a beneficiary go to work.

Ticket to Work is a voluntary program that also has important provisions to ensure that people with disabilities no longer have to choose between keeping their health coverage and trying to go back to work.

Medicare hospital insurance coverage now extends for eight years and six months after most Social Security disability beneficiaries go to work. Medicare coverage continues even if an individual no longer receives a monthly benefit from Social Security. Medicare coverage for SSI disability beneficiaries may also be extended. Since Medicaid is a state health benefit, the individual states have the option to extend coverage to SSI beneficiaries who work. State Medicaid offices can provide further information. And Ticket to Work has been a success. Within the last few weeks, the number of individuals using a Ticket to Work passed the 90,000 mark.

If you or someone you know is a person with disabilities who would like to become one of the thousands of success stories that the Ticket to Work program is creating, visit our website at www.socialsecurity.gov/work or call Social Security at 1(800) 772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778) for more information.

Durbin and Obama Meet With Transportation Secretary To Discuss Priorities

Last week U.S. Senators Dick Durbin (D-IL) and Barack Obama (D-IL) met with U.S. Secretary of Transportation Norman Mineta to discuss a number of Illinois transportation priorities, including funding for Amtrak, the Northwest Chicagoland International Airport at Rockford (RFD) and modernization at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

President Bush released a budget in February that included zero funding for Amtrak service in Illinois. Last month, the House of Representatives added $550 million to boost Amtrak funding to $1.2 billion.

"Amtrak is vitally important to Illinois," said Durbin. "Unfortunately, the President and his Administration are once again attempting to privatize and eventually eliminate Amtrak rail service. In Illinois alone, more than 3 million Amtrak passengers would be out on the highways and more than 2,000 employees would be out their jobs. Year after year, the President drives Amtrak to the brink of insolvency and Congress is forced to ride to the rescue. I stand ready to reject the Administration's cuts and privatization plan when the Senate Appropriations Committee considers the transportation funding bill next week."

"It doesn't make sense to provide millions of dollars to upgrade and maintain our roads and then to turn around and eliminate funding for rail service," said Obama. "Amtrak service is vital to Illinoisans all across the state, and I will fight any attempts by the Bush Administration to cut its budget."

Durbin and Obama also urged Secretary Mineta to support the Greater Rockford Airport's application for $3 million in Small Community Development Grant funds. The funds would promote passenger service and attract additional airlines to Rockford's airport.

"Rockford plays an important role in Illinois' regional aviation system," Durbin said. "The airport in Rockford is part of the solution to congestion around O'Hare and Midway Airports in Chicago. Securing this grant will benefit RFD's customers, carriers and community."

"The Rockford airport is an important part of transportation and economic development of northern Illinois," said Obama. "This grant will create jobs and help RFD continue to provide the people in northern Illinois with vital air service."

The Senators asked Secretary Mineta to update them on the status of the Federal Aviation Administration's review of the environmental Impact Statement (EIS) of the O'Hare Modernization program. Once FAA approval is secured, the City of Chicago will be free to begin Phase One of the modernization project. Secretary Mineta indicated that the EIS review may be completed as early as the end of this month.

Letter To The Editor

The ongoing attempt by some members of Chicago's city council to outlaw smoking in restaurants and bars is a prime example of a poorly planned and counterproductive public policy. While the city continually looks to the hospitality and tobacco industry for increased tax revenues, it simultaneously tries to hamstring those industries from servicing a significant portion of their client base. Entrepreneurs risk going out of business because the city wants to outlaw the use of a legal product in all areas of the business owner's private property. The subsequent reduction of property tax, income tax and sales tax revenue due to lost jobs will mean higher taxes for everyone else. Businesses in Chicago do not need more government regulation nor do consumers.

According to the Illinois Restaurant Association, sixty-nine percent of restaurants in Chicago are already smoke free. The remainder reserve 50% of their space on average for non-smokers. The answer to any continuing smoking dilemma is to allow independent restaurateurs and barkeepers to determine the needs of their clientele. With the popular trend of ever increasing nicotine taxes and a more health conscious population the natural result will be less and less smoking and more smoke free environments.

By THOMAS E. GAVIN

A few weeks ago we alerted readers the Attorney General Lisa Madigan's office issued a subpoena to obtain more information regarding the advertising and marketing practices of companies selling lollipops as "Pot Suckers." Subsequent to that action Madigan has announced that a New Jersey-based company has agreed to stop selling lollipops known as "Pot Suckers," marijuana-flavored lollipops that display marijuana leaves on the candy packaging. The candy was the subject of numerous news reports and a subpoena from Madigan's office.

While other similar products are also called "pot suckers," ICUP, Inc., is the company that manufactures actual "Pot Suckers." Madigan was informed by ICUP's attorney in a July 1st letter that as of June 28th, ICUP "...made a business decision to stop selling and distributing hemp-flavored candies which are marketed under the name "Pot Suckers." A notice was also placed on my client's website noting this decision. The website is www.icupinc.com. This decision pertains to all sales nationwide..."

While investigating the ICUP products, Madigan's office called 25 stores statewide that said they sold Pot Suckers. Investigators bought the lollipops at several locations.

"These products - easily accessible to children in stores and malls - clearly promote the use of marijuana," Madigan said. "I am pleased that ICUP made the decision to stop selling Pot Suckers and encourage other companies to follow ICUP's lead. Candy should not glorify drug use."

Community college faculty and trustees, will have greater influence on college administration under legislation sponsored by State Rep. Kevin McCarthy (D-Orland Park) that was signed into law recently.

Senate Bill 2112 requires the governor to place at least one faculty member and one trustee from Illinois' 51 community colleges on the Illinois Community College Board. The Illinois Community College Board is made up of 11 members, all appointed by the governor. The Board oversees planning, budgeting, student development and instruction as well as coordination of capital development projects for all community colleges.

Rep. McCarthy serves as Chairman of the House Higher Education Committee. He worked with the Illinois Federation of Teachers and the Community College Trustees Association to draft the bill.

Congratulations to State Senator Christine Radogno (R-Lemont) on her recognition by the Illinois Progress Center for Independent Living. The senators "commitment to the civil rights and freedoms of people with disabilities and her support of the Community First Act" were cited by Diane Coleman, Executive Director of the Progress Center.

"We felt that her effort was so important to people with disabilities, old and young, that it deserved to be recognized. Senator Radogno has dedicated a lot of time and energy to learning about the long-term care system, and I think, on the policy level, she is incredibly knowledgeable and committed to expanding services to people with disabilities," Coleman said.

The Community First Act is an initiative that would authorize disabled citizens - regardless of the severity of their disability - who would have been placed in an institution, to receive community services or support to prolong the time these individuals are able to remain at home and actively involved in their community.

Americans for Tax Reform (ATR) have informed All Points that they applaud the pro-tax payer platform of Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Oberweis. As of this writing, over 1,260 state legislators have signed the Pledge nationally. To obtain a copy of the Pledge, or to learn more about it, visit www.ATR.org or call (202) 785-0266.

Blagojevich Bypasses Legislature And Allocates Tax Dollars To Conduct Cloning Experimentation

On July 12th Governor Rod Blagojevich signed an executive order to fund embryonic stem-cell experimentation in Illinois with $10 million of Illinois tax dollars, after several failed attempts by the legislature to pass a bill.

In his press release, Gov. Blagojevich stated, "no funding will be authorized for research involving human cloning." However, the signed executive order specifically authorizes "somatic cell nuclear transfer" as an acceptable research endeavor. This is human cloning.

"Clones created for experimentation are no different than clones created for reproductive purposes. The only difference between 'therapeutic cloning' and 'reproductive cloning' is that one clone is created, experimented upon, then destroyed by scientists. The other is implanted in a woman's uterus to potentially grow into a tiny boy or girl, if that is even possible," said Jill Stanek, Pro-Life Coordinator for Concerned Women for Illinois.

"Gov. Blagojevich is manipulating language and the public to hide the fact that Illinois taxpayers will now be forced to pay for human cloning experimentation. He aims to funnel $10 million of newly discovered Illinois tax dollars into unethical and ineffective research which destroys embryos, the smallest form of human life," said Stanek.

"Up to now, embryonic, stem-cell experimentation has failed with lab animals. Animals injected with embryonic stem-cells grow cancerous tumors and other unwanted tissues. The quick replication of cells is the very definition of cancer," said Stanek.

"Not only is embryonic stem-cell experimentation unethical and immoral, but it has not helped one human being. This is why private funding has all but dried up. The Governor needs to explain why he is so eager to throw our tax dollars at a dead end when for 30 years adult stem-cells have been curing upwards of 90 diseases without destroying human life. Fifty eight disease are being successfully treated using stem cells from bone marrow alone! And how did $10 million all of a sudden appear in this financially strapped state," asked Stanek?

"Gov. Blagojevich has shown a pattern of disdain for both the legislature and the public. Literally ignoring the FDA's opposition, he pushed open the door for Illinoisans to get prescription drugs from Canada. Following failure of yet another bill, he then ordered pharmacists to dispense the morning after pill, an abortifacient, which has resulted in lawsuits against him. And now this," said Stanek.

Eli's 25th Anniversary Celebrated

Mayor Richard M. Daley is joined by Marc Schulman, President of Eli's Cheesecake, members of the rock band Chicago, Chicago native and food and wine connoisseur for the television show Queer Eye for the Straight Guy, Ted Allen and other luminaries at the Taste of Chicago as they celebrate the 25th anniversary celebration of Eli's Cheesecake.

"I would like to congratulate Eli's Cheesecake on their 25th anniversary of providing cheesecake at their restaurant and at the Taste of Chicago," said Mayor Daley. "Eli's has had a strong commitment to the City of Chicago and to the Taste of Chicago since the festival opened in 1980."

Replacing Specialty Plates Legislation

In response to the overwhelming number of specialty license plates currently available in Illinois, State Senator Christine Radogno (R-Lemont) has co-sponsored legislation that mandates a study of the possibility of replacing specialty plates in Illinois.

The legislation, Senate Bill 248, requires the Secretary of State to begin a study into the feasibility of establishing a standard license plate to replace all, or at least some, of Illinois' specialty license plates with a sticker that identifies the specific classification of the plate.

"Every year the General Assembly considers new proposals for specialty license plates. Currently there are over forty options that the public can choose from and it seems reasonable to expect this number to continue growing," said Radogno. "Exploring the possibility of using a sticker to differentiate between the many different license plates seems worthwhile if money and time may be saved in the long run."

The study would also research the possibility of identifying the county the vehicle is registered in on the license plate, as well as explore the option of attaching a special plate to the front of a vehicle with a standard registration plate on the back of the car.

Radogno explained that the Secretary of State is required to report to the Governor and the General Assembly by March 1, 2006 on its findings. The report will contain cost estimates and a comparison of those estimates to the current costs.

Having been approved by the General Assembly, Senate Bill 248 now proceeds to the Governor for final approval.

"Irish" John Duddy to Fight This Friday

With the luck of the Irish, Bobby Hitz of Hitz Boxing Promotions found a four leaf clover when match maker Jim Borzell contacted him about introducing John Duddy to Chicago's strong Irish boxing community.

A junior-middleweight contender, "Irish" John Duddy (10-0, 9 KO's) is a good-looking, soft-spoken, quick and exciting non-stop puncher. The 5'11", 160-pound Duddy took a chance in relocating to the United States when he began his professional career in 2003. Leaving his hometown of County of Derry in Northern Ireland, Duddy hoped to gain the necessary training and coaching experience to become a topnotch boxer. "I never knew how lucky I was to be Irish till I came to America," said Duddy.

"Irish" John Duddy is promoted by Irish Ropes, managed by the McLoughlin Brothers and trained by Harry Keitt.

Duddy will square off with Pat Coleman (29-11, 20 KO's) at Chicago's AllState

Arena this Friday, July 22nd at 8 p.m. The fight will be broadcast on ESPN2.

Plenty of action will be on display on the undercard as Irish-American heavyweight Malachy Farrell (9-0, 7 KO's) will fight Giuseppe Kidd (3-0, 2 KO's). Farrell is managed by Chicagoland's own Mike Joyce and trained by Marty McGarry.

Other notable fighters displaying their talents on Friday evening include: welterweight female Lois Theobald (14-0), super bantam-weight "Armenian" Artyom Sismonyan (36-3), jr. middleweight Rudy Cisneros (4-1, 4 KO's) and welterweight Nelson Romine (4-1).

To order tickets for the July 22nd event, phone (630) 787-6600 or Ticketmaster: (312) 559-1212 or the AllState Arena box office. Ticket prices are $100 VIP, $50 ringside reserved and $25 general admission. Doors open at 7 p.m., first bout at 8 p.m. For more information, check out bobhitzboxing@aol.com

Juvenile Sex Offenders

A bill sponsored by State Senator Ed Maloney (D-18) that would require juvenile sex offenders to register as adult sex offenders upon reaching age seventeen was signed into law recently.

With the passage of House Bill 4030, upon reaching age seventeen, juvenile sex offenders will be placed on the adult sex offender registry - the one that is available to the general public via the State Police website. Previously, juvenile sex offenders were required to register, but were placed on a registry that was only available to law enforcement and school administrators.

The new law also requires all sex offender registration to be done in person by the sex offender, and requires the sex offender to register in person whenever directed by their local law enforcement agency.

Fit 4 Life Kicks Off

State employees from 10 different agencies are lacing up their tennis shoes and strapping on their pedometers to participate in the Fit 4 Life State Agency Walking Challenge, part of Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich's comprehensive fitness and wellness initiative. The six-week program will challenge state employees to walk 10,000 steps per day. The program has begun and will end the last day of the Illinois State Fair, Aug. 21st.

A startling 66 percent of all Americans are overweight, with more than 30 percent considered obese. Illinois statistics are comparable to the national trend, with more than 60 percent of Illinois adults 18 and older being overweight or obese. Obesity related medical expenditures for Illinois are estimated at $3.4 billion, with $805 million financed by Medicare and $1 billion financed by Medicaid.

Earlier this year, the Illinois Dept. of Public Health (IDPH) piloted a similar walking program and nearly one-third of the Department's employees participated, walking a total of 210 million steps over a 12-week period. Gov. Blagojevich asked Dr. Eric E. Whitaker, state public health director, to offer other state agencies assistance in implementing a similar walking challenge.

A typical adult averages 3,000 to 5,000 steps a day but Fit 4 Life challenges 10,000 steps, which is the equivalent of five miles per day. There are many ways to increase your steps, for example, walking on lunch breaks, parking farther away from the store or work, or taking stairs instead of the elevator.

The Dept. of Human Services (DHS) and IDPH are working together to implement various activities and events that will eventually be a part of Fit 4 Life to raise awareness of the importance of adopting healthy lifestyles.

Participants are able to register to participate in Fit 4 Life and track their progress electronically throughout the six-week program. The competitive challenge will allow employees to see how agencies rank in terms of average number of steps taken per week. At the conclusion of the program, data will indicate which agency has shown the most improvement by comparing steps taken the first three weeks with the final three weeks of the program.

Maloney Bill To Prevent More Than One Sex Offender At An Address

A bill sponsored by State Senator Ed Maloney (D-Chicago) that prevents more than one registered sex offender from living at the same street address was signed into law recently.

House Bill 350 prevents more than one sex offender on parole or court supervision from residing at the same address or in the same building as another sex offender. The new law also requires parole officers to check at least once a month to ensure that this limit is being observed, and requires parole to be revoked when it is not. It also authorizes the Department of Corrections to license transitional housing for sex offenders, setting minimum criteria for the facilities.

The bill was drafted partly in response to conditions discovered at the Emerald Park Health Care Center, a skilled-care facility serving both the elderly and the mentally ill, located in Evergreen Park. In April 2005, ten sex offenders were discovered to be residing at the facility. The presence of the sex offenders at the facility came to light after one of them was arrested in a public park in Evergreen Park.

The Emerald Park Health Care Center was subsequently closed.

WILL THE ELECTRIC BARRIER KEEP ASIAN CARP OUT OF THE GREAT LAKES? Great Lakes activist, and "Do nothing politicians and government officials worst nightmare," Ed Landmichl, Sr. set up a meeting with a group of outdoor writers and Great Lakes interested parties to discuss the much-touted electric Asian carp barrier.

We met at the construction site of the second, much improved barrier, 500 feet downstream from the original highly criticized barrier. The site is located at the base of the 135th Street bridge near Lockport and Romeoville on the Shipping Canal.

The sizable work crew on the project was glad to answer any questions we had, and admitted they were on a tight leash to get the barrier up and running as soon as possible.

Anxious to see the barrier brought on-line were Thomas R. Marks, New York State Director of the Great Lakes Sport Fishing Council; and Phil Moy of The Wisconsin Sea Grant.

Landmichl set the tone for the meeting by producing a dead Asian Big Head Carp that he had just purchased from a fish market. The sale of live Asian carp is illegal in Illinois. Marks said the same was true in New York State with the exception of New York City where live carp are legal. Now that's pretty scary considering that those same carp could be released in New England river systems and destroy commercial and recreational fishing in local lakes, rivers and indeed the Eastern Great Lakes.

Through a meaningful exchange of ideas, the following pros and cons were brought to light: The barrier is calculated to be 99.5 percent effective. When tens of thousands of carp advance on the barrier, that means that five out of every 1,000 could get through. No one knows what the threshold breeding population is for Asian carp. Once established in the Great Lakes, the damage the carp could do would be irreversible, and the present ecosystem could be destroyed.

Landmichl had us take a close look at his dead big head carp. The fish has no teeth, will not eat other fish, but the damage is done by the carp scooping up the zoo-plankton that is the bottom of the food chain, the forage for young fish to grow to maturity. Take that away and there goes your fishery.

The area of the barrier is prone to flooding, this means that carp in the canal or the Des Plaines River could just swim around the barrier, travel upstream via the Sag Canal, Sanitary and Ship Canal and enter Lake Michigan.

The U.S.D.A. and Farmer's Lobby that brought the Asian carp from China should pay to clean up the mess, just like an oil company is held liable for oil spills.

Asian carp can get into Indiana's inland streams and ditches after heavy flooding and rains on the Kankakee River, then into Lake Michigan at Burn's Ditch, Michigan City, or the Indiana Harbor Ship Canal.

The round goby, zebra mussels, sea lampreys and other invasive species brought into our waters in ballast tanks of ocean going vessels have already had a devastating effect on the Great Lakes. The Asian carp introduction into the waterways will test man's and Mother Nature's ability to cope with the situation.

The Asian carp, both silver and big head, are highly excitable. They have been known to jump into boats, knocking fishermen overboard and knocking riders on jet skis off their personal watercraft. The sound and turbulence created by barges and other canal boats could cause these fish to become "excited" and cross the electric barrier.

Since the carp were brought into this country as a food fish (they got into the Mississippi waterway after a flood washed out their fish farm holding pens) perhaps allowing unrestricted commercial fishing of Asian carp would help control the number of carp in our waterways.

The day after our meeting, Landmichl and his dead carp made an appearance at U.S. Corps of Engineers' Aquatic Nuisance Species Barrier Panel Meeting in Chicago. Ed did his best to convince those in attendance to expedite completion of the barrier, which is reported to be eight months behind schedule.

After listening to all the facts, pro and con, and pouring over flood plain maps, I personally feel that it is just a matter of time until the Asian carp make their way into the Great Lakes.

Wildlife Check Off Donations

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich has announced the award of funding to support 45 projects statewide that will enhance animal habitat and protect and restore threatened and endangered species. The projects are financed through Illinois citizen's donations to the Illinois Wildlife Preservation fund. The fund distribution is administered by the Illinois Department of Natural Resources.

The Wildlife Preservation Fund is a voluntary contribution check-off option on the Illinois State income tax form. In the 22 years of the program, a combined total of more than 900 large and small projects have been funded throughout the state through check-off donations totaling more than $4.5 million. More than a half-million people have supported the program by making voluntary donations. The funds have been used to support projects ranging from habitat enhancements to species restoration.

Donations to the Wildlife Preservation Fund are tax deductible. They may be made through the state income tax form directly to the Wildlife Preservation Fund by mailing them to the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, Office of Resource Conservation, Division of Habitat Resources, One Natural Resources Way, Springfield, IL 62702-1271.

Visit With Artist Jack Simmerling

Jack Simmerling, Beverly's favorite artist, will be at the Smith Village Information Center, 10400 S. Western Ave., in Chicago, for an opportunity to area residents to visit with him each day at 1 p.m. from Tuesday, July 26, through Thursday, July 28. Smith village also has arranged for an exhibition of some of his favorite works at its Information Center. It can be viewed from noon until 3 p.m.

"We are delighted to have the opportunity to share Jack Simmerling's lovely paintings and drawings with the community," says Bunny Sugarman, marketing director at Smith Village. "Simmerling's work evokes memories and transports people to a different time and place, and hearing stories associated with them makes them even more special."

Simmerling is renowned for his watercolor paintings and pencil renditions of historic and contemporary American cities. In particular, he has earned recognition for his unique perspective of Chicago, concentrating his attention on historic landscapes and cityscapes. Although he rarely exhibits outside of the Heritage Gallery, which he established in the Beverly neighborhood in 1958, he has assembled a special collection of works for Smith Village to illustrate his vision of Chicago from an historic perspective.

One of his favorites in the exhibit depicts a 1880s brownstone at 20th and Prairie Ave. The building was once owned by his uncle who sold the structure for $2,000. Recently, that neighborhood, which once housed the wealthiest Chicagoans, has experienced a renaissance. Today, his uncle's home would be worth millions. Using memories and photographs to paint this building, Simmerling shows a small slice of life in Chicago that no longer exists. The art exhibit also will include some beloved scenes from the Beverly and Morgan Park neighborhoods.

An extensive list of patrons have commissioned

Simmerling to portray their favorite homes and institutions including the Vanderbilt family's Biltmore Estate, the Chicago Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the University of Notre Dame, the University of Illinois at Chicago, Toyota Motor Sales and Saint Xavier University.

While at the Smith Village Information Center, visitors may enjoy complimentary refreshments, view a scale model of Smith Village and learn more about the $65 million community that will reinvent retirement living in Beverly and the surrounding area.

Smith Village is slated to open in early 2007. The new community, which is being constructed on the current site of the Washington and Jane Smith Community, is the largest development project in the history of Chicago's Beverly neighborhood.

Sponsored by Smith Senior Living, a not-for-profit organization dedicated to serving the lifestyle, housing and healthcare needs of seniors for nearly 80 years, Smith Village will provide independent living, assisted living, memory support and skilled nursing care. Its newly constructed campus will feature large apartments and a host of services and amenities.

For more information about how Smith Village can help seniors enjoy their retirement, call (773) 881-4950 or visit www.SmithVillage.org.

Local artist Jack Simmerling shows Bunny Silverman, marketing director for Smith Village, one of his favorite paintings that will be included in a special, free exhibit at the Smith Village Information Center, 10400 S. Western Ave. in Chicago. Area residents will have the opportunity to visit with Simmerling each day at 1 p.m. from Tuesday, July 26, through Thursday, July 28. The exhibit will include his paintings of Chicago life and history.

Living With Arthritis

Approximately 70 million Americans have arthritis and a new survey by the Rippe Lifestyle Institute shows many are living with arthritis pain needlessly because they don't know which medications are safe.

Says Dr. James Rippe: "We learned from our survey that since these patients are confused, many have stopped or reduced their use of pain relievers. The result is a significant negative impact on their quality of life, that has even forced some patients to limit their daily activities."

Among people with arthritis who heard recent news about pain relievers, 48 percent reduced or stopped taking their medication; of those, 68 percent reported a poorer quality of life.

According to Dr. Rippe, inactivity can lead to more serious conditions such as weight gain, high blood pressure and diabetes. Patients need to understand the implications of untreated arthritis pain and talk to their doctors about which treatment options they should use. Many doctors these days suggest an over the counter medication such as Aleve.

Tips On Trips

Easing Travel Boredom

Traveling in your plans? Whether it's a plane ride halfway around the world, a car ride to visit the grand kids or a daily commute, these tips will help ease travel boredom and make any trip that much more enjoyable.

- Trip Before Traveling-Take a quick trip to the library or bookstore before you hit the road. A few books on tape or CD can make the trip seem to go faster.
- Pace Yourself-Don't try to do too much traveling in one day-especially if you are traveling with grand-kids: Be sure to make regular stops and try to plan your route around some interesting and fun activities. Consider bringing some supplies and having a picnic while en route or a quick game of catch at a rest stop.
- Game On-Travel games can be a fun way to pass the time. For instance, Goplay makes a line of stylish magnetic travel games housed in sleek metal boxes that double as boards. The games are a modern twist on classic favorites such as Chutes and Ladders, Four in a Row, Chess and Checkers. When players arrive at their destination there is no need to end the game-store the compact case in your bag and go. The magnetic pieces will be in the same spot when you return. The games are available at Target and Barnes and Noble.

There are a number of ways to make car trips more fun.

Do You Know Your Risk Of Stroke?

Taking the time to answer a few questions may help to reduce your risk of stroke. Stroke is the No. 3 cause of death of Americans and is a leading cause of disability.

This year it will strike 700,000 Americans of all ages, genders and ethnicities. A member of your family, a friend or neighbor—even you—could be a victim.

Many Americans are not aware of their stroke risk factors, many of which can be prevented or controlled. You can start to take control by knowing what factors put you at risk. Check all boxes that apply to you.

- Age: For every decade after age 55, your chance of stroke doubles.
- Family history: Your mother, father, sister, brother or grandparent had a stroke, or your father or brother had a heart attack before age 55, or your mother or sister had a heart attack before age 65.
- Previous stroke or TIA: You have had a stroke; or TIA (transient ischemic attack) or "ministroke."
- Blood pressure: Your blood pressure is 140/90 mm Hg or higher (high blood pressure), or a health care professional has said your blood pressure is high, or your blood pressure is 120/80-139/89 mm Hg (prehypertension), or you don't know what your blood pressure is.
- Tobacco smoke: You smoke or live or work with people who smoke tobacco regularly.
- Diabetes: You have diabetes (a fasting blood sugar reading of 126 mg/dL or higher), or you need medicine to control your blood sugar, or you have been told you have an impaired ability to control your blood sugar (a fasting blood sugar reading greater than 100 mg/dL).
- Total cholesterol: Your cholesterol is 240 mg/dL or higher, or you don't know your level.
- HDL cholesterol: Your HDL, or "good" cholesterol, is less than 40 mg/dL, or you don't know your HDL cholesterol levels.
- Physical activity: Your physical activity level is less than a total of 30 minutes on most days.
- Carotid or other artery disease: You have been told you have disease in the carotid arteries (the blood vessels that supply blood to the brain) or you have peripheral artery disease (primarily affects blood vessels of the legs).

- Certain blood disorders: You have been told you have a high red blood cell count or sickle cell disease (also called sickle cell anemia).
- Atrial fibrillation: You have a heart rhythm disorder called atrial fibrillation.
- Other heart disease: You have coronary heart disease or other heart condition(s), or you have had a heart attack.

If you checked one or more boxes, studies show you are at increased risk for stroke. See a health care provider for a complete assessment of your risks. The American Stroke Association offers tools and resources to help in management and understanding of stroke risk factors.

Virginia Man Suffers Heart Attack And Chooses St. Francis To Have Triple-Bypass Surgery

William Dangoia of Fairfax, Va., arrived in Illinois June 20 hoping to spend a relaxing week with his niece and her daughter in Orland Park. But little did he know that his plans would be interrupted by a sudden heart attack, and that he would later undergo triple-bypass surgery at St. Francis Hospital & Health Center in Blue Island. Dangoia, who turned 61 June 25, began having chest pains the night of June 21. After consulting with his physician in Virginia, he was taken by ambulance to St. Francis Hospital the next morning.

When paramedics arrived they told Dangoia that he would need to be transported to the nearest hospital, which was not St. Francis. Dangoia's niece, Denise Ebers of Orland Park, however, told paramedics to take her uncle to St. Francis, based on its reputation as a 100 top cardiovascular hospital in the nation. Dangoia heeded his niece's advice, and signed a release form authorizing that he be taken to St. Francis.

Dangoia had triple-bypass surgery June 27 at St. Francis to clear blockage in his heart. When he is released from the hospital, he plans to spend a few weeks at his niece's home in Orland Park before returning to Virginia.

Dangoia had two stents placed around his heart after suffering a heart attack in March. He had planned to stay in Illinois for a week and return to Virginia for a scheduled angiogram June 29.

"You'd like to be with your own doctor when something like this happens," Dangoia said. "But St. Francis is one of the top 100 hospitals in the nation. It doesn't get much better than that."

Explore Options Of Using Generic Drugs

As the price of prescription medicine continues to rise, more people may explore the cost-cutting option of generic drugs. Here are some commonly asked questions about generic drugs, answered by drugstore.com clinical pharmacist Dave Krishna.

Q: How can drugstores sell generic versions of medication for so much less and will they work as well?

A: The FDA lets manufacturers produce generic drugs after the original patent has expired. Because the generic marketplace is more competitive, prices can be less expensive. All generic drugs must receive FDA approval to ensure safety, quality and efficacy.

Q: How can I find a generic version of my drug?

A: Ask your doctor or pharmacist about generic alternatives whenever you refill or get a new prescription. Some online stores, including the drugstore.com pharmacy, provide information on generic options when you purchase a brand name drug. The drugstore.com pharmacy lets you register for e-mail notification of upcoming generic drug launches.

Generic drugs can be a smart way to save on health care costs.

A generic drug may look like a brand name drug but the FDA ensures it is as safe and effective

Insomnia Is Problem For Older Americans

If you or someone you know has been losing sleep over insomnia, you're not alone. For many older Americans getting a good night's sleep is harder than it seems. In fact, sleep medications are estimated to be among the most commonly prescribed medicine for older people. The National Sleep Foundation reports that an estimated 70 million Americans suffer from insomnia, a sleep disorder characterized by an inability to sleep or to remain asleep for a reasonable period of time. The condition, however, is common in older adults, due in part to bodily changes that occur with age.

Difficulty sleeping may be more than just a normal sign of aging

People experiencing insomnia often have difficulty initiating or maintaining sleep, waking too early and not being able to get back to sleep, or waking feeling unrefreshed and lethargic. Insomnia is a most prevalent sleep disorder, and is estimated to cost the U.S. economy nearly $42 billion annually in direct and indirect costs. Although sleep may become more problematic in older adults, the need for sleep does not decrease with age. Sleep loss can cause cognitive difficulties, impaired memory and may contribute to decreased immune function in older people. Sleep deprivation can also lead to reduced energy, difficulty concentrating, diminished mood and greater risk for accidents.

There are a number of reasons sleep becomes more difficult as people age. First, the body goes through many changes that can impact sleep quality. One significant change involves the stages of sleep. With age, the amount of time spent in the deepest levels of sleep decreases, while the amount of time spent in the lighter stages of sleep increases, which makes older adults more susceptible to waking from outside noises or bright lights. As people age, changes also occur in the body's internal clock that can trigger sleepiness earlier in the evening and cause them to wake very early in the morning and have difficulty falling back asleep. This disrupted sleep pattern often results in excessive daytime sleepiness.

Insomnia among older adults also can be caused by underlying medical conditions, such as pain disorders, Parkinson's or Huntington's disease, Alzheimer's, asthma, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, depression and dementia. Some medications commonly taken by older adults also may cause insomnia or daytime sleepiness, including some antidepressants and antihypertensives. Also, taking diuretics too close to bed time can result in frequent awakening due to nighttime urination.

Practicing good sleep habits can help older adults get the full night's sleep they need. Some tips for getting a good night's sleep include:

- Follow a regular sleep schedule and establish a relaxing bedtime routine.
- Create a safe and comfortable place to sleep (e.g., dark, quiet and cool).
- Use your bedroom only for sleeping.
- Avoid long naps during the day.
- Exercise at regular times each day.
- Avoid use of alcohol and cigarettes close to bedtime.

While many medications are available to treat insomnia, the most commonly prescribed drugs may pose safety concerns for older Americans, especially when taken for long periods of time. The most widely used medicines for insomnia are benzodiazepine receptor agonists (e.g., Ambien®, Sonata® and Halcion®), which are also called hypnotics because they suppress the central nervous system to cause sleep. Adverse effects can include impaired motor coordination, dizziness, daytime sedation, confusion and falls. Using these medicines with alcohol and depressants can be life threatening. According to a recent study, older adults who received benzodiazepines were at a significantly increased risk of hip fracture. Patients taking these medications also can develop drug dependence and abuse. Given these risks, use of these drugs among older adults should be carefully considered and closely monitored by their healthcare providers.

Emerging treatments with new ways of working may have fewer side effects and may offer new options for older adults with insomnia. Older adults who have difficulty sleeping are encouraged to speak with their physician about insomnia and potential treatment options.

There Is No Such Thing As A Typical Cremation Anymore

"Cremation isn't just a passing fad," says Mike Gill, owner of Brady-Gill Funeral Home in Tinley Park and Evergreen Park. "Over forty percent of all Americans plan to be cremated, according to the Cremation Association of North America. That's a trend funeral service simply can't ignore."

And the ceremony – or lack of it – surrounding cremation is changing. "It's not merely cremation and no service these days," Gill says. "Most people are opting for a meaningful funeral service as well."

The rationale for selecting cremation is as varied as those who choose it. Some people want the convenience, others like the simplicity or the fact that it's less expensive than burial.

Memorialization is an important aspect of cremation. Grief experts agree that personalizing a funeral service and remembering the deceased help survivors cope with the loss. Cremation caskets for viewings, urns that double as works of art and keepsake containers for scattering or dividing ashes among relatives promote that healing. Urns may be buried, maintained in a niche on cemetery grounds, or displayed at home.

"There's no such thing as a typical cremation any more," Gill says.

For more information on cremation, call The Brady-Gill Funeral Home at (708) 614-9900 or visit its website at www.bradygill.com.

Teaming Up To Fight Osteoarthritis

More than 20 million Americans have been diagnosed with osteoarthritis, the most common form of arthritis. It is a disease that involves the breakdown of cartilage in the joints, often leading to pain and stiffness.

In addition to working with their health care providers, it is important for osteoarthritis patients to be proactive about their health and educate themselves. "There are a number of educational programs available to arthritis patients," says Dr. Howard Sehrtzinger, Medical Director and Team Physician for the College of Mount St. Joseph in Cincinnati. "Patient education programs often improve communication between doctor and patient which can lead to a more productive office visit."

The Arthritis Huddle™ program represents the team approach to fighting osteoarthritis, and was designed to help patients work with their doctors to develop their own personalized osteoarthritis game plans. The program, available at www.arthritisuddle.com, gives osteoarthritis patients access to the latest treatment strategies, educational programs, specialists and advocacy groups that can help them on the road to feeling better.

In addition to information on osteoarthritis, its risk factors, and how it is diagnosed, the site offers tips on diet and nutrition, including recipes for healthy eating, which can be helpful for many arthritis patients. There are also tips from an exercise specialist that include detailed descriptions of many types of exercises that can reduce pain, improve joint function, reduce fatigue and build stronger muscles for greater mobility.

Leading this national health and educational initiative is Hall-of-Fame quarterback, Joe Namath, who has lived with osteoarthritis for more than 30 years.

Not Logging On May Be Bad For Your Health

More and more Americans are using the Internet for health and medical purposes. But older Americans may be missing out on access to important health resources available online, such as streamlined Medicare enrollment, billing and provider information.

A recent study by the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation found that only 21 percent of American senior citizens have gone online to research health information, confirming that most elderly Americans are not using the Internet to become better informed about their health and their health care options.

Web sites such as www.medicare.gov offer such information, as well as information designed to help visitors understand their Medicare benefits and make educated health decisions. Medicare HMOs also let patients check the status of claims, find doctors and fill prescriptions online.

Unfortunately, according to a 2004 Pew Internet & American Life Project report titled "Older Americans and the Internet," "Seniors are also more likely than any other age group to be living with some kind of disability, which could hinder their capacity to get to a computer training center or read the small type on many Web sites."

"If you're an older American who doesn't have ready access to the Internet, there are new options," said Sam Klepper, general manager of Microsoft Corp.'s MSN TV. "A growing number of devices are being marketed that make it easier and more affordable for seniors and other Internet newcomers to go online."

For example, the MSN TV 2 Internet & Media Player sells for about $200 (U.S., plus subscription cost). It lets consumers check e-mail and surf the Web via a television from the comfort of their living room, and doesn't require computer experience to get started.

"These devices are ideal for someone who wants to take advantage of what the Internet has to offer, such as staying in touch with family and friends through e-mail, viewing photo slide shows or researching important health information, but who doesn't want the expense or complexity of a PC," Klepper said.

Some of these devices, such as MSN TV 2, also are helpful for those with less-than-perfect vision because Internet content can be viewed on a large television screen instead of a computer monitor, and text size can be increased to make viewing e-mail and Web site content easier.

"The Internet is moving from being a luxury to a necessity," Klepper said.

Fortunately, manufacturers are recognizing and meeting the needs of a broader group of consumers, by designing products that everybody can use to access important information available online.

More information about MSN TV can be found at www.msntv.com.

Founders Bank To Open In Orland Park

Founders Bank executives and board members were joined by Orland Park village officials, architects and developers as they broke ground on a 22,000 square foot bank building to be located at 14500 John Humphrey Drive. Pictured left to right: Phil Riley, developer; Lyle Campbell, Chairman-Founders Bank; Douglas Campbell, President of the Board of Founders Bank; Helen Socha, Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer, Founders Bank; Village of Orland Park dignitaries, Kathleen Fenton and Edward Schussler; Thomas Bugielski, President and Chief Executive Officer, Founders Bank; Edward Hassan and Ramzi Hassan, developers.

The bank is situated on a 4.6-acre site that will serve as the campus for the bank building as well as two 2-story medical professional buildings. Edwards & Phillips Development Corporation of Orland Park is developing the office complex and owns the two adjacent office buildings.

Thomas Bugielski, president and chief executive officer for Founders Bank commented that, "the bank enjoys a solid base of both business and retail customers who live and work in Orland Park, but who have to travel to our Palos Heights or Tinley Park location. The additional branch in Orland Park was a very natural move made to best serve our customers while bringing the Founders Bank style of banking to many more businesses, families and individuals in the Orland Park area."

Helen Socha, Founders Bank's executive vice president and chief operating officer stated that "the Orland location represents a significant impact to the bank's ability to serve a greater audience within its own market area. As our customers continue to move or expand their businesses to the south and western suburban areas, Founders Bank is positioned to more ably serve them conveniently."

The bank building when completed will be a full-service facility featuring drive up banking, drive up ATM machines, as well as offer all the banks services such as mortgage lending services, commercial services and more. The Orland office will also serve as the headquarters for the bank's Trust and Investment Management Division. "Our trust department has outgrown its present location in the Palos Heights office," stated Doug DeGroot, Senior Vice President. He went on to say that "the trust division at Founders Bank is one of the largest in the southland area. The need for quality trust services has seen a steady increase with the aging population, our new location will make us more centrally located to all of the bank's offices."

Lagastee Mulder is constructing the bank building. Designbridge has been named Interior Architect and The Lombard Company has been named the interior build out firm. The Orland building will represent state of the art bank building construction.

The bank is expected to open in spring of 2006. Olive Oil Slows The Aging Process

As the foundation of the Mediterranean diet, olive oil has long been acknowledged as a key to health and longevity.

With its powerful antioxidants and polyphenols, olive oil prevents the formation of free radicals in the cellular structure, enhancing the immune system and slowing the aging process.

Celebrity beauty expert and makeup artist Joanna Schlip understands the way olive oil can benefit a person's skin. Schlip has worked with some of the world's most celebrated entertainers—she recently did Laura Linney's makeup for the Oscars—and is a member of Oprah Winfrey's "million dollar team."

Applied topically, olive oil can moisturize and firm the skin while protecting against the harmful effects of sun and water.

While working in Italy, she fell in love with the wonders of the Mediterranean and discovered the beauty secret of Mediterranean women—olive oil. Intrigued by the claims, Joanna began incorporating olive oil into her life. Almost instantly, she could feel the difference in her skin and that of her clients.

Schlip is now the spokesperson for a new anti-aging skin care system made in Spain called Oli. The system combines natural olive oil and olive leaf extract with cutting-edge technology to deliver optimum skin-rejuvenating results.

According to Schlip, "Olive oil and olive leaf extract are loaded with powerful minerals, vitamins and antioxidants. Applied topically, they can moisturize and firm the skin while protecting against the harmful effects of external aggressors such as sun and water. This helps prevent the formation of lines."

The 12-product system consists of face care and body care products and nutritional supplements that are intended to provide maximum protection against the aging process.

The face care line includes six products—for all skin types—that protect against the aging process, replenish moisture, and tone and balance the skin.

The body care line is comprised of three products that cleanse and moisturize the body while leaving it with a fresh scent.

The three anti-aging supplements complete the process from the inside out as they deliver the most important nutritional and anti-aging benefits of the highest-grade olive oil, anti-oxidants, and coenzyme Q10 in convenient, daily soft gels.

Oli, LLC., is dedicated to understanding olive oil's health benefits and extracting these for modern use. Established in 2004, the Oli line features a balance of anti-aging skin care products for the face and body as well as nutritional supplements.

Innovative Web Site Helps Seniors Take Medicines Safety

How can you remember details about all the medicines the doctor prescribed for you? Does aging affect how the body processes medicines? Are there ways to avoid side effects? What is the "grapefruit juice effect"? Answers to these questions and more about the safe use of medicines are now only a mouse click away on the senior-friendly government Web site called NIH SeniorHealth.

The site, www.nihseniorhealth.gov, has clear, reliable information about medicines and your body, taking medications safely, and research to develop tomorrow's medicines. People ages 65 and older take more prescription and over-the-counter medicines than any other age group. Older people as a group tend to have more long-term, chronic illnesses such as arthritis, diabetes, high blood pressure and heart disease.

"Many older Americans owe their health in part to new and improved medicines, but using them may be riskier for older adults, especially when several medicines are used at one time," says Jeremy M. Berg, Ph.D., director of the National Institute of General Medical Sciences (NIGMS), which developed the content for the safe use of medicines topic on the Web site. "To help avoid risk, older Americans now can turn to NIH SeniorHealth for accurate, helpful information about how to take medicines safely and manage them wisely."

One of the fastest-growing age groups using the Internet, older Americans increasingly turn to the World Wide Web for health information. In fact, 66 percent of "wired" seniors surf for health and medical information when they go online. NIH SeniorHealth, a joint effort of the National Institute on Aging (NIA) and the National Library of Medicine (NLM), was designed especially with seniors in mind. The senior-friendly site is based on the latest research on cognition and aging. It features short, easy-to-read segments of information that can be accessed in a variety of formats, including various large-print type sizes, open-captioned videos and even a talking version. Additional topics coming soon to the site include shingles, problems with taste and smell, eye diseases, stroke and osteoporosis. The site links to MedlinePlus, NLM's premier, more-detailed site for consumer health information.

The NIA leads the federal effort supporting and conducting research on aging and the health and well-being of older people. The NLM, the world's largest library of the health sciences, creates and sponsors Web-based health information resources for the public and professionals. The NIGMS supports basic biomedical research that lays the foundation for advances in disease diagnosis, treatment and prevention. All three are components of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, MD, part of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

How to Lose 40 Pounds Around Your House

The average American home collects up to 40 pounds of dust each year. That extra weight's not just unsightly, an ounce of dust can house 42,000 mites with as many as 15 different species. In fact, after two years, 10 percent of the weight of a pillow is dead dust mites, and a 9'x12' carpet can collect an average of about 10 pounds of dust per year. But the good news is the average person can burn up to 300 calories from general housekeeping, so check out the tips below and keep yourself and your house lean and clean!

How to avoid dirt and dust in your home (and work off those extra calories):

- Use window blinds that can be wiped clean rather than curtains that have to be dry-cleaned.
- Wash your bedding in hot water, at least 130 degrees to rid them of any mites.
- Try to keep the humidity level below 60 percent. Don't use humidifiers.
- Remove unnecessary objects from walls and ceilings.
- Minimize the number of stuffed animals and store items that can't be washed in the toy chest.
- Remove carpeting wherever possible to minimize dust collection.
- Dust each room weekly. Used mop heads are nesting areas for germs and bacteria that can spread onto the floor. Try using a product that combines disposable pads and an antimicrobial solution. Put your home on a diet by getting rid of pounds of unsightly dust that can accumulate.

Special Events:

- Senior Luncheons: August 12, September 9, October 14, November 11, December 9, 2005 are the remaining luncheon dates (no January luncheon). Luncheons are held at Raday Lodge and the tickets are $7 per person. Treat yourself to lunch with all the trimmings and entertainment once a month.
- Village of Midlothian Historical Society: No summer vacation plans? Take a trip down memory lane, at least 78 years of it. The Historical Society is a wealth of Midlothian history, located at 14609 S. Springfield (across the street from Springfield School) and it is open on the 1st and 3rd Saturdays of the month from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.
- Senior Clubs: Spring is here and if you've been shut up in the winter, it is a good time to break out and attend one or both of Midlothian's senior clubs: Midlothian Buddies meet the 1st and 3rd Thursday and Community Seniors meet the 2nd and 4th Tuesday. Both clubs meet from 11 a.m. until about 3:30 p.m. at Raday Lodge, 145th and Kedzie. Come on out and enjoy the fun and camaraderie.
- Branch Pick Up: Fall branch pick-up will begin September 26 in the Northeast section; October 3 in the Southeast section; October 10 in the Southwest section and October 17 in the Northwest section. Please plan accordingly. Branches should be out at the curb on Monday for pickup sometime during your week. This service is provided to help you with cleanup from normal tree trimming. It is not intended as a tree service for removing entire trees.
- SENIOR ALERT: We cannot stress too much the importance of not opening your door to strangers. If someone comes to your door and claims to be from the Village, ComEd, Ni-Gas or any other "company", ask for identification. If they are legitimate, they will not mind if you call to check if the company has sent them. Village employees have identification and they will be in a village vehicle. The ploy is often to ask you to step outside with them to check something and then, while you are distracted, another individual enters your home to look for valuables and money. Be suspicious of anyone who comes to your door, especially those soliciting home repairs. When in doubt, call the Village Hall at 389-0200 or the non-emergency police number, 385-2534. Remember, if the person is legitimate, they will not mind the inquisition.
- 8th Annual Midlothian Scottish Fair: Mark your calendar for Saturday, September 24th and plan to attend the Scottish Fair for fun day of piping, fiddling Celtic goods, Scottish clan tents, tasty food, Scottish and Irish dancing, storytelling, sheep herding, children's games and activities and great entertainment in the Pub Tent provided by StoneRing and the Ploughboys. Don't miss the fun right in your own backyard... on the Village Green.

Blue Cap Wins Grants For Music Therapy Program

Blue Cap School has received two grants to create an exciting, new music therapy program for the students it serves. The grants include $8,400 from the Willow Springs Foundation in Mount Carroll, Illinois and $16,800 from the Illinois Humane Society in Chicago. The money will provide three years of music therapy for the students at Blue Cap.

"I play music in the classroom and they come alive," says Leah Jowers, a Blue Cap teacher whose research for the school helped win the grants. "Children who don't have the use of their arms will shake the instruments in their hands. I ask them to ring the bells and they respond."

Jowers hopes the music therapy programs will be another way to communicate with the children on a different level. The school plans to hire a part-time music therapist to provide eight hours of music therapy every week. The therapist uses musical instruments and plays tapes to help stimulate the children, grab their attention, and teach them motor skills. For example, a child who beats on a xylophone learns to coordinate muscles to create the sounds. The therapist will assess the specific needs of the 37 Blue Cap students who come from the Chicago Public Schools and 12 suburban school districts.

Young people with developmental disabilities need exposure to music just like all children. Sometimes children with developmental disabilities have limited opportunities to experience music due to transportation, poverty, or lack of mobility. Music education enhances children's understanding of the world, teaches coping mechanisms and self-expression and expands their cognitive and physical abilities. Music also provides multi-sensory stimulation that helps a child develop auditory, visual, and tactile skills. It can create a method of communication for those who are unable to speak.

Blue Cap has provided educational services for children since its founding in 1967, at a time when children with developmental disabilities had few educational opportunities. Parents of the children who lived in Blue Island, Alsip, and Calumet Park realized that in order for their children to go to school, they had to form their own organization. Blue Cap School was born out of this need, and today Blue Cap provides services for over 400 infants, children and adults who have developmental disabilities or delays.

Community Hospital Gets To The Heart Of The Matter

Heart disease remains the number one killer for the entire population as a whole. Historically, men and women turned to the large, teaching medical centers for care in a cardiac crisis. Patients can continually count on Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers for the latest innovations in cardiac testing, procedures and life-saving therapeutic endeavors.

Mary Gleason, an 85-year-old woman from Oak Lawn, has struggled with coronary disease for many years and underwent coronary artery bypass surgery 4 years ago. She recently saw Little Company cardiologist Thomas J. Quinn, M.D., (pictured) who, after testing, found that Mary was having potentially dangerous heart rhythms. It was then determined that she would benefit from an implantable cardioverter defibrillator (ICD).

According to the American Heart Association, an ICD is a device that is implanted to monitor for and, if necessary, correct episodes of an abnormal heart rhythm. If the heartbeat gets too fast, the ICD will stimulate, or shock, the heart to restore a normal rhythm.

Little Company also offers another vital cardiac technology - biventricular pacemakers and defibrillators, which differ from traditional pacemakers and defibrillators. Traditional devices stimulate the right side of the heart. In contrast, biventricular pacemakers and defibrillators stimulate both the right and left sides of the heart. Approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration in May 2002, studies have shown that an ICD with biventricular pacing reduces mortality by up to 40 percent in patients with heart failure.

Look to Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers for the latest innovations in cardiac testing, procedures and life-saving therapeutic endeavors. Outpatient exams are read and interpreted within 24 hours of an exam. To schedule an appointment for testing or procedures requested by your physician, call (708) 499-8550.

Top Most Popular Baby Names

What's in a name? Is your name or your child's name a popular one, or an unusual one? And how does the popularity of American names change over time?

By visiting our website at www.socialsecurity.gov and going to the "Baby Names" webpage, you can find answers to these and many other questions.

For example, Jacob and Emily continue to reign as the most popular baby names in the United States, based on Social Security card applications for children born in 2004. Emily has been the top name for a girl since 1996. Jacob has been the most popular name for a boy since 1999.

The rest of the top 10 boys and girls names for 2004 are: Boys - Jacob, Michael, Joshua, Matthew, Ethan, Andrew, Daniel, William, Joseph and Christopher; Girls - Emily, Emma, Madison, Olivia, Hannah, Abigail, Isabella, Ashley, Samantha and Elizabeth.

Of course, many middle-aged parents or relatives might wonder why they never knew many Jacobs or Emilys when they were growing up. If you do just a little research on our website, you would find the reason why. In 1970, for example, Jacob was number 255 on the popularity charts, and Emily was only slightly more popular at 173.

What else can you find at this webpage? Well, it also lists the 1,000 most popular baby names for 2004, as well as the most popular names in each state and the most popular names for twins. You can also find information for babies, children and parents on the Social Security website, as well as links to other government websites that offer valuable information about pregnancy, caring for newborns and programs and services for families.

For example, you'll find information on "enumeration at birth," the easiest way to obtain a Social Security number of a baby. This automatic, free service allows parents to apply for a Social Security card at the same time they fill out the birth certificate information at the hospital.

Whether you are choosing a popular baby name or applying for retirement, there's something for everyone at www.socialsecurity.gov.

Pilgrim Faith United Church of Christ Presents a Free Concert

On July 31st, at 6 p.m. under the leadership of Anthony Jenkins (back row, right) the Pilgrim Faith UCC praise team will present a concert of Christian Music. This free concert is just one of the many activities that the church participates in within the Village of Oak Lawn. The concert will be on the Village Green.

As one of the oldest churches in the village Pilgrim Faith also provides shelter for the homeless during the winter and a year round food pantry. The food pantry has been in operation for almost 40 years and provides the necessities of life two days a week for a variety of people within the village.

Under the leadership of Rev. Peggy McClanahan, the church provides the opportunity of two services each Sunday, one at 9:30 a.m. and a musically oriented contemporary service at 11:15 a.m. Pilgrim Faith also provides a great number of youth activities as well as Sunday school classes and nursery services at the 9:30 a.m. service.

Pilgrim Faith church has activities for the entire family, youth program for the children and Bible study groups for the adults. Every year there are weekend retreats for men and women, in addition to its intergenerational retreat for the whole family. There are camping opportunities as well for the youth of the church where they join with other youth from around the city and suburbs. The senior youth of the church also provide mission work with trips to Kentucky to help rebuild homes and lives in some of the poorer areas of the country.

The Oak Lawn Village Green is located north of 95th Street on Dumke between Raymond and 52nd Avenue.

Kicking & Punting Camp

So, what was this UFO phenomenon, which repeatedly occurred (usually on Sundays) throughout the 1970's and 1980's?

During that era, there were mysterious reports of high-flying eagles suddenly scurrying to maneuver out of the way of something.

There were puzzled airline mechanics at a loss to explain the deep dent marks on the underbellies of jet planes they were servicing.

Eventually, researchers discovered that the "UFO" sightings were merely Unidentified Football Objects launched into orbit off the explosive foot of the legendary Oakland Raider punter, Ray Guy.

And, now, the man responsible for necessitating the football term "hang time" and who helped his mates gain more territorial advantage than the 17th Century British Navy is sharing his techniques.

Ray Guy is unquestionably every bit the greatest at his positions that Michael Jordan, Babe Ruth and Wayne Gretzky were at theirs.

And if you have a son who aspires to walk in Ray's footsteps you cannot miss this chance to grant your young punter or kicker the opportunity to learn at the feet of the greatest.

The Ray Guy-Kicking- & Punting Academy will hold camp July 29th & 30th at St. Rita High School at 7740 S.

Western in Chicago.

On hand, will be other possessors of elite feet, including: all-time NCAA field goal scoring leader, Billy Bennett; NCAA career punting average leader, Shane Lechler (currently an NFL all-pro); NCAA career yardage and number of punts leader Nick Harris (now with the Detroit Lions); and, of course, the only punter ever drafted in the first round of the NFL Draft, an NCAA All-American, 7-time NFL Pro-Bowler, the man who once punted 619 consecutive times without a block, Ray Guy - "The best punter ever" per John Madden.

Obviously, none of the aforementioned feats could have been accomplished without reliable long snappers. Therefore, to even further hike up the incentive for attending this camp, professional instruction will be provided in long snapping as well.

Needless to say, the Ray Guy Kicking & Punting Academy commands the respect of collegiate athletic programs nationwide. Pursuantly, information on top prospects who attend the camp will be submitted to every college football program in the U.S. for recruitment and scholarship opportunities.

In the 1976 Pro Bowl, one of his punts hit the giant TV screen hanging from the rafters of the Louisiana Superdome. Protect Your Hearing Now To Keep Listening For Years To Come Preserving your hearing may be easier than you know. If you've ever left a concert with ringing ears, you are most likely one of the millions of Americans exposed to dangerous noise. Approximately 28 million people in the U.S. have some degree of hearing sensitivity, according to the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA). Of those people, 80 percent have irreversible hearing loss, although many don't like to admit it.

While some people are born with hearing loss, the majority of those affected suffer from exposure to the day-to-day noise that pollutes the environment. People tend to underestimate the vast number of everyday activities that can potentially damage their hearing. According to ASHA, the sounds of a crying baby, running lawn mower, hair dryer, vacuum cleaner, baseball game and street traffic are all things that can exceed the recommended 85 decibels of sound that eardrums can handle for an extended time. The good news is there are easy ways to prevent this problem.

To help, a leading battery maker and ASHA launched a hearing awareness campaign, called the Energizer® EZ Change® "It's Hip to Hear™" program. The program offers a lifestyle brochure and interactive ways to learn about hearing loss.

"We are dedicated to showing consumers that hearing loss prevention doesn't have to take the fun out of life," said Ernie Petrus, director of sales and marketing for Energizer Specialty Batteries, U.S. "We want to turn up the volume on 'responsible listening' in an engaging way that makes the issue relevant to our lifestyles, focusing on music and hot technologies."

As part of the program, the company is also offering hearing-loss prevention tips to help individuals preserve their hearing so they can enjoy music for years to come. These include:

- Be a responsible consumer. Look for a noise rating when buying recreational equipment, children's toys, household appliances and power tools. Choose quieter models, especially for equipment you use often, like a hair dryer. If there is no noise rating, ask the manufacturer for one.

- Limit periods of exposure to noise. It's not just how loud, how long matters, too. Don't sit next to the speakers at concerts, clubs or auditoriums. If you are at a rock concert, walk out for a while to give your ears a break.
- Inspect your child's toys for noise danger just as you do for small parts that can cause choking. Remember, children tend to hold toys close to their ears which can pose additional threat for hearing damage.
- Pump down the volume. When using stereo headsets or listening to music in the car, turn down the volume. If someone else can hear the music from your headset when standing three feet away, the volume is definitely too high.
- Protect yourself. Wear noise-canceling headphones or ear plugs when exposed to any potentially damaging noise at work, in the community (heavy traffic, concerts, hunting) or at home (mowing the lawn, snow-blowing the driveway).

"The easiest way to guard against future hearing loss is by getting your hearing checked regularly," said Pam Mason, director of Audiology Professional Practices at ASHA. "You should make an effort to get your hearing tested by an audiologist every two to three years, beginning as young as age 30."

For more information on hearing loss prevention or to download a free survival guide, visit the Web site, energizer.com. To find a nearby audiologist, visit asha.org.

MATURE TIMES 2005

Scientists Seek Solutions To Alzheimer's

Today, 4.5 million Americans have Alzheimer's disease (AD) and the number is expected to increase dramatically as the baby-boom generation ages. The brain disorder strikes an estimated one in 10 people 65 and older and half those 85 or older. Without a cure, the Alzheimer's Association estimates as many as 16 million Americans will have AD by 2050.

Fortunately, distinguished researchers are working on the issue, including William E. Klunk, M.D., Ph.D. and Chester A. Mathis, Ph.D., of the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center; John C. Morris, M.D., of the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis; and Ronald C. Petersen, M.D., Ph.D., of Mayo Clinic—each of whom recently won a MetLife Foundation Award for Medical Research in Alzheimer's Disease.

"The goal of the award is to encourage research and to support the future work of scientists who have already made a significant contribution to our understanding of Alzheimer's disease. These four scientists have contributed to the early detection and diagnosis of this dreaded disease," says Sibyl Jacobson, president, MetLife Foundation.

Drs. Klunk and Mathis have developed experimental noninvasive methods of detecting and creating images of the plaques that form in the brain tissue of Alzheimer's sufferers. The researchers use dyes to make the plaques visible to medical imaging equipment. The ability to see these plaques in living patients will help researchers directly measure the effects of therapies now being developed.

Dr. Morris works on ways to identify the earliest symptomatic stages of AD, evaluating new drug therapies in the treatment of dementia, and establishing phenotypes for inherited forms of AD and other dementias.

Dr. Petersen focuses on mild cognitive impairment and whether it becomes Alzheimer's. Those past the age of 65 with mild cognitive impairment are found to be at greater risk of developing AD than healthy individuals the same age.

MetLife Foundation has supported Alzheimer's research through the awards program since 1986. The Foundation also supports the Alzheimer's Association, and has sponsored a documentary on PBS called The Forgetting: A Portrait of Alzheimer's.

Retinal Disease Detection

Pearle Vision in Midlothian is first to offer revolutionary modality for retinal disease detection to patients in the southwest suburbs.

Pearle Vision in Midlothian is the first eye care practice in the southwest suburbs to offer its patients the Optomap retinal exam (Optos North America). This revolutionary modality captures and analyzes an image of virtually the entire retina, for the early detection and management of eye disease. Since Optos first introduced the Optomap exam, nearly one million exams have been conducted worldwide, diagnosing serious eye conditions – such as diabetic retinopathy, retinal detachments and macular degeneration – that could have otherwise gone undetected and often progress without symptoms.

The Optomap retinal exam takes a computer-generated image of the retina, which can be immediately evaluated by Doctors Ronald and Deborah Cope at Pearle Vision, 14702 Cicero Ave. There is no pupil dilation, no eye drops, blurred vision or sensitivity to light. The Optomap retinal exam is a simple, quick and important way to maintain good eye health.

"The Optomap increases the quality of the retinal exam by allowing us to view almost the entire retina at the start of the exam, which can have important implications, not only for detecting eye disease, but also in detecting and managing other medical conditions such as diabetes," said Dr. Ron Cope. "We recommend all of our patients have this exam, which has already detected issues in some of our patients which could have otherwise gone undetected."

Shingles - What Every Adult Over 50 Should Know

If you've ever had shingles, you're not alone. Each year, 600,000 or more Americans are diagnosed with this condition, a painful skin disease caused by a reactivation of the chickenpox virus. Anyone who has had chickenpox is at risk for shingles, though people over age 50 are at greatest risk.

"Shingles is a major health problem in older adults. Launching this Web topic is an important step toward our goal of informing older adults about this debilitating disease," says Anthony S. Fauci, M.D., director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), which developed the content for the shingles topic on the Web site. "Older Americans can turn to NIH Senior Health for accurate, helpful information about shingles diagnosis, treatment and research."

Symptoms

The outbreak of shingles usually begins with a burning, itching or tingling sensation on the back, chest or around the rib cage or waist. It is also common for the face or eye area to be affected.

Some people report feeling feverish and weak during the early stages. Usually, within 48 to 72 hours, a red blotchy rash develops on the affected area. The rash erupts into small blisters that look like chickenpox. The blisters seem to arrive in waves over a period of three to five days.

Shingles can be quite painful. Many shingles patients say that it was the intense pain that ultimately sent them to the doctor. They often report that the sensation of anything brushing across the inflamed nerve endings on the skin is almost unbearable.

Now, information about shingles-how to recognize it and treat it-is only a mouse click away at www.nihseniorhealth.gov.

About Optos

The Optos modality was developed as a patient-friendly examination tool by Douglas Anderson, founder and vice-chairman, Optos, after his son Leif lost the use of an eye when a retinal detachment was detected too late. It incorporates the latest in scanning laser ophthalmoscope (SLO) technology, using low-powered red-green laser beams to capture an image of virtually the entire retina on an "Optomap," a permanent digital record that gives clinicians a view of the retina that is unprecedented with prior technologies.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

Andy Rooney wrote recently on the exorbitant costs of medical care for a doctor's office appointment and for a one-day hospital stay. What he said was true but it's important to know why the charges are so high.

Decades ago a doctor's fee supported him. Now his fee also needs to cover rent/mortgage for an office; salaries for one or two receptionists (to make, change and remind patients of appointments, fax test orders, obtain charts, copy records, etc.); one or two nurses (to obtain information needed for the appointment; take requests for and call or fax drug refill orders; fill out order, return to school/work, and referral forms, etc.); malpractice insurance (which has more than doubled for many physicians over the last decade); and billing costs (for the expert services needed to fill out a variety of insurance, Medicare, and Medicaid forms, submit them and follow up to see that they are actually paid sometime in the next several months).

Why does a doctor need all this help? Because of insurance. When a third party pays a person's medical bills, they need information to determine if it was a legitimate medical service according to the patient's insurance contract. They also require doctors to accept only a percentage of their actual charges. All this extra paperwork takes time and staff. In order to generate enough income to cover all these costs, the doctor needs to see more patients necessitating more office hours.

Sincerely,

Pat Wagner, RN

Thoughts On Health & Nutrition

Lucinda K. Lysen, RD, RN, BSN

WALKING OFF THE POUNDS

Does intensity help a workout? Several years ago, studies were showing that short bursts of intense exercise "jump-started" weight loss and cut needed exercise time. Recently, however, the Journal of the American Medical Association came out with information that delivers a different message. In one study, for example, 184 women were divided into four exercise groups of various intensity and duration combinations, and were asked to cut down to 1200 to 1500 calories a day. All the groups lost weight during the year-long study. Surprisingly, though, while the women in the two groups that did the longer workouts lost an average of 3 to 6 pounds more than those who exercised for shorter periods, the intensity of those workouts did not seem to matter.

Why is this true? The fact that the study participants were sedentary and overweight makes a difference, according to I-Min Lee, MD, associate professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School. When people who do not typically exercise get active, they will lose weight no matter what the intensity they are working at, as long as they burn more calories than they eat. But this does not mean that a stroll through the park is the energy-burning equal of sprinting or hiking up and down hills. "Doing more intense exercise for the same amount of time will burn more calories," according to Lee.

Vigorous exercise will also increase your aerobic fitness, which allows you to work out longer and harder, according to cardiac rehab directors. And if weight loss is your goal, it pays to work out for a longer period of time and/or at a greater intensity.

For those of you with a weight loss problem, who have leveled off after a few months of dieting and exercise, this is the approach you should take. Weight loss only occurs when calorie intake drops or greater energy expenditure occurs. But remember, if you have a medical condition, always check with your doctor before proceeding.

Are You At Risk For Glaucoma?

Glaucoma is a leading cause of blindness in the U.S. But, with early diagnosis and treatment, most people can retain their vision for life.

What is glaucoma?

In a healthy eye, fluid is constantly being made and drained through a small drainage canal. When something blocks or prevents this natural drainage, the pressure inside the eye goes up. Glaucoma is often caused by increased pressure that can develop when the fluids in the eye are not draining properly. This condition eventually damages the nerve that connects the eye to the brain and leads to loss of vision.

Am I at risk?

While the causes for glaucoma are not completely known, we do know that risk factors include family history, race and older age. African-Americans, Hispanics and people with diabetes are also at higher risk of getting the disease.

What are the symptoms?

Sometimes, the condition may come on suddenly; most cases progress so slowly there are often no warning signs before damage inside the eye has already occurred. In most cases, a person's side vision (peripheral vision) is affected.

How is glaucoma treated? Glaucoma can be treated with any of the following:

- Eye drops that lower eye pressure
- Laser therapy that allows for better drainage of fluids inside the eye
- Eye surgery to create a new drainage canal.

If untreated, glaucoma does lead to total blindness. Glaucoma can be detected with a medical eye exam. Ophthalmologists (medical eye doctors) can measure the pressure inside the eye with a quick and painless office test.

EyeCare America offers medical eye services and free information through its national Glaucoma EyeCare Program. This program offers glaucoma eye screenings and care for those at increased risk of glaucoma. Uninsured patients receive the care at no charge.

The Glaucoma EyeCare Program is designed for people who:

- Are US citizens or legal residents
- Have not had an eye exam in 12 months or more
- Are at increased risk for glaucoma (family history, race, age).

People may call the toll-free help line at 1-800-391-EYES (3937) anytime to see if they qualify for a glaucoma eye exam or to request free eye care information.

EyeCare America's Glaucoma EyeCare Program is co-sponsored by Pfizer Ophthalmics. Glaucoma doesn't have to interfere with leading a happy, sighted and fulfilling life. Regular eye checkups can help save your sight and for some people they don't cost a thing.

Detecting Glaucoma early can save your sight!

New Online Medical Guide

When it comes to your health, you shouldn't have to make compromises because of the high cost of many prescription medicines. Affordable generic medicines might be the answer to your high health care costs.

Doctors and pharmacists across the United States understand how expensive prescription medicines can be. That's why more than half of all prescriptions filled in the United States last year were generics. Generics offer the same medicine and same results as brand name prescriptions but at a price that can be 30 percent to 80 percent less expensive.

In 2003, for example, the average price of a prescription filled with a generic drug was $30.56, while the average price of a brand name drug was $84.21. That's a difference of $53 per prescription when you choose the generic.

Because of the lower cost, generic medicines allow you to have more money to spend on other things—a vacation, home improvements, or savings for a rainy day.

Are generic medicines the same as the brand? Yes. All generics must be approved by the Food and Drug Administration, the same agency that approves the brand version. And by law, a prescription generic medicine must have the same medicine, strength, dosage as the brand medicine. It also must be manufactured under the same strict quality guidelines as the brand.

Because the FDA requires generics to meet high standards, you can be sure that the generic medicine you receive will provide you with the same results as the more expensive brand drug it replaces.

Generic medicines are available for many chronic diseases and new generics reach the market every day. The next time your doctor writes a prescription, ask if an affordable generic medicine is available. Your doctor and pharmacist can help you select the right prescription to improve your life for less.

For more information about generic medicines, visit the FDA at <http://www.fda.gov/cder/ogd/> or the Generic Pharmaceutical Association at <http://www.gphaonline.org/aboutgenerics>.

Sweet Adelines Appreciation Day

Sweet Adelines International, one of the world's largest and most respected music associations for women, announced Barbershop Music Appreciation Day which was held on July 13th.

In local events, the sound of ringing barbershop chords as Sweet Adelines International members from across the nation and worldwide sang songs arranged in four-part harmony, barbershop style. More than 300 choruses and 15,000 members participated in this special event.

Barbershop Music Appreciation Day marked the organization's 60th anniversary. On July 13th, 1945, founder Edna Mae Anderson of Tulsa, Oklahoma brought a few women together in her home. The women wanted to participate in - the "chord-ringing, fun-filled harmony" that their husbands, members of the men's Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet

Singing in America (SPEBSQSA), were singing. From that meeting grew the nucleus of what was to become Sweet Adelines International.

The organization has stayed true to its original goals, entertaining and educating thousands of people every year. It may look and sound different today, but deep inside its members are the same women aspiring to perform, to achieve and to experience the joy of singing and the thrill of ringing chords that weave harmony into lives and into the world around us.

Sweet Adelines International is a musical force in the United States and around the world. The membership of nearly 30,000 women, all singing in English, includes choruses in most of the 50 United States as well as in Australia, Canada, England, Finland, Germany, Ireland, Japan, New Zealand, Scotland, Sweden, Wales and the Netherlands. There are also prospective choruses in Denmark, Greece and United Arab Emirates.

Barbershop Music Appreciation Day offers thousands of people the opportunity to experience this entertaining art form. A Sweet Adelines chorus is full of energy, great sounds and a spectacle of enthusiastic singers. Social Security Gives Answers

MEDICARE PRESCRIPTION DRUG PLAN

Question:

My wife and I have just received an application in the mail for extra help in paying for Medicare prescription drugs. I am unsure if we would be eligible for this program. Is there an easy way to determine if we might qualify before we complete and mail the application?

Answer:

Yes, Social Security has created a "Qualifier Tool" on its web site at www.socialsecurity.gov. Simply by entering information about your income and things that you own, the qualifier tool tells you whether you probably qualify or probably do not qualify for extra help with prescription drug costs. Or you can call Social Security at 1(800) 772-1213, TTY 1(800) 325-0778, and request a copy of the worksheet, "What You Need To Complete The Application For Help With Medicare Prescription Drug Plan Costs."

RETIREMENT

Question:

I worked as a teaching assistant for a couple of years in the 1970s, and then quit to raise a family. I am now working again but plan to quit when my husband retires. I will only have about 18 years of total work under Social Security. Is there a minimum Social Security retirement benefit?

Answer:

There is no minimum monthly Social Security benefit. Your benefit is calculated based on your highest 35 years of earnings, and in years when no earnings are reported, zeros are added in. However, you should know that a spouse is entitled to up to one-half of the retired worker's full benefit. If you are eligible for both your own retirement benefit and for benefits as a spouse, we always pay your own benefit first. If your benefit as a spouse is higher than your retirement benefit, you'll receive a combination of benefits equaling the higher spouse's benefit. For more information, visit Social Security's web site at www.socialsecurity.gov.

Question:

I retired from the U.S. Army several years ago, after 23 years of service, and receive a military pension. How will my military retirement affect my Social Security benefits?

Answer:

You can get both Social Security benefits and military retirement. Generally, there is no offset of Social Security benefits because of your military retirement. You will get your full Social Security benefits based on your earnings. More information may be found in our fact sheet called Military Service and Social Security, which is available on the Internet at www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/10017.html

SURVIVORS

Question:

My three children receive monthly survivors' benefits from Social Security. But my oldest son turned 18 on July 5th, 2005. Will his last payment be in June or July?

Answer:

Your son's benefits stop the month he becomes age 18 or the month he becomes 19 if he is still attending elementary or secondary school full time. His last payment will be for the month of June but he will receive his last payment in July. You will be notified by mail before the last payment.

DISABILITY

Question:

I know that when you get disability benefits there's a medical review every so often. How often is that?

Answer:

The timetable used to conduct medical reviews depends on several factors, including how severe the condition is and what the likelihood is that it will improve. The letter that Social Security sent you when you were approved for disability benefits tells you when to expect your first medical review. Generally, if improvement was expected, the first review is probably within six to 18 months. If improvement was considered possible, then your case will be reviewed every three years. If improvement is not anticipated, your case will be reviewed every five to seven years.

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME (SSI)

Question:

I get Supplemental Security Income (SSI) because of a disability and know that I'm supposed to report changes in my living and working arrangements. I am now in the process of divorcing and finding a new place to live. Also, I hope to try going to work again before the end of the year. Can I wait and report all of these changes at one time?

Answer:

No, you need to report any change within 10 days after the month that it happens. Not reporting changes in a timely manner could result in not getting paid all the money you are due. It can also result in you getting more than you are due, in which case you will have to pay the money back. You can report your changes by calling Social Security at 1(800) 772-1213, TTY 1(800) 325-0778, or by visiting your local Social Security office. For more information on what to report, visit www.socialsecurity.gov.

Question:

My aunt receives Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and is, I think, beginning to show signs of Alzheimer's disease. I'm also worried that she's becoming unable to manage her benefit payments. Can anything be done to help her?

Answer:

If a person is unable to manage his or her own funds, we can arrange to send the SSI payments to a "representative payee." This can be a relative or someone else who agrees to manage and use the money for the well being of the person getting benefits. For more information, see the publication, A Guide for Representative Payees. You can get a copy online at www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/10076.html, or by calling Social Security at 1(800) 772-1213, TTY 1(800) 325-0778.

Kids Art Classes

Registration is currently open for the final session of summer art classes for children at The Log Cabin Center for the Arts, which begins on July 25th. The Log Cabins are a part of The Center, 12700 Southwest Highway in Palos Park.

Outdoor Art for Kids features an immersion into the worlds of art and nature. The children will explore the Children's Farm and its surrounding woods, fields and creeks. According to Center Program Director Lois Lauer, these areas provide not only the subject matter for the young artists but also provide fun and action, inspiration, and raw materials.

The two-week session beginning July 25th meets on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9 until 11 a.m.

Summer art instructors Emily Sawyer and Amanda Miller, both former camp counselors at The Center, will teach the children to use a variety of artistic media and techniques, including drawing, painting, papermaking, papier-mache, printmaking, and more. Lauer adds that the classes are kept small to encourage individual self-expression.

Advance registration is required. For further information, interested persons should call The Center at (708) 361-3650.

Illinois Bans Cell Phone Use By Drivers Under 18

On the heels of releasing new statistics showing that Illinois is on pace to witness the lowest number of traffic fatalities in over 80 years, on July 15th, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed several new laws focused on teenage drivers. One new law bans drivers under the age of 18 from using cell phones. A second law requires drivers under 18 to make sure that their teen passengers are properly buckled up in the front and back seats. Traffic crashes are the leading cause of teenage fatalities – and teenage drivers have a fatality rate that is nearly two times higher than older drivers. Illinois joins a handful of states that restrict teenagers from using cell phones while driving.

These steps to protect teen drivers come one day after the Governor announced that Illinois' safety belt use is at an all time high. The Illinois Department of Transportation reports that 86% of drivers observed are wearing their seatbelts, up ten percent from two years ago. At the same time, 2005 could record the fewest number of persons killed on our highways since 1924. Forty-one fewer people have lost their lives on Illinois highways than the same time last year.

According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), two out of five deaths among U.S. teens are the result of a motor vehicle crash. The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety reports that, per mile driven, teen drivers ages 16 to 19 are four times more likely to crash than older drivers.

Senate Bill 229 requires drivers under 18 to make sure that their passengers under 19 are wearing seat belts in the front and back seats. According to the CDC, compared with other age groups, teens have the lowest rate of seat belt use. In 2003, 18% of high school students reported they rarely or never wear seat belts when riding with someone else.

SB 229 and HB 1565 become effective Jan. 1.

"Music Bash 2" Fundraiser

This "Fundraiser" battle of the bands will feature D.J. Cruisin' Joe, The Crabs, Caliente, and Johnny Justice & The Southside Railroaders.

Donations are $25.00 in advance (or $30 at the door). Food and refreshments are included with the ticket price.

Public Safety Officers Fund is a non-profit charitable organization and all money it raises goes to help the families of Police Officers and Firefighters who have lost their lives in the line of duty.

Veterans And Soldiers
News
By Lori Taylor Ph: 708.388.2425

Thank you to Robert W. DeKerf of Orland Park for the following information to share with all of you. Robert said he wonders if any surviving Air Force veterans would be interested in seeing a very famous World War II B24 H bomber named "Witchcraft." The bomber will fly into the Chicago/DuPage Airport on July 29th and be on display through July 31st. The Collings Foundation has renamed their famous restored B24-H bomber to honor the 467th Bomb Group, 790th Squadron of which the most famous B24-H was assigned. "Witchcraft" flew a total of 130 combat missions without aborting a mission due to enemy action or mechanical problems. It was recognized as one of the most revered B24's in the 8th Air Force. Robert also sent a picture of a model of the "Witchcraft" which should appear on this page. Thanks again, Robert, this is the kind of information I like to receive to share with all of our veterans and soldiers and their families, plus any other interested persons.

Hometown-Murray VFW Post 9773 will hold a GI breakfast on Sunday, July 31st from 8 a.m. to 12 noon at the "Mess Hall," 9092 Main St. in Hometown. The menu includes scrambled eggs, bacon, sausage, pancakes, toast and 'The Soldiers Blue Plate Special' SOS-chipped beef on toast, coffee and juice. The cost is $4 per person which benefits veterans, the military and their families and the community. For more information, call (708) 422-9800.

On Monday, July 18th, Colonel Art Clark of the United States Marines ate lunch with the young members of the Oak Lawn Library's summer reading program. Colonel Clark then spoke of his experiences in the military and answered questions from the audience. This was a part of the library's "Superheroes - Powered by Books" program which includes everyday heroes in the community. Children, their parents or caregivers brought a sack lunch to share with their local hero, Colonel Clark. The Colonel is also an officer with the Oak Lawn Police Department.

Rich Wahlberg, a member of Bremen VFW Post 2791 in Tinley Park, and members of his post have formed a support network for families of soldiers serving overseas. The support group includes family members of about 19 Tinley Park residents serving in Iraq and Afghanistan as well as veterans. The veterans tell about what military life is like and they help comfort the families of those now serving. Members exchange tips on shipping care packages and letters and they share stories with the group. The group meets the first Tuesday of each month at the VFW Post 2791, 17147 Oak Park Ave. in Tinley Park. For more information, call the post at (708) 532-2323.

At the recent VFW State Convention I spoke with a young man from the Fallen Heroes Memorial Foundation who said the purpose of the Foundation is to dedicate a monument for all of the fallen soldiers of the Iraq/ Afghanistan conflict shortly after all of the soldiers are brought home. It is their intent to lobby Washington and develop a voice for the families of the fallen soldiers and so these soldiers are not forgotten. Some of the organizations supporting the Foundation are the VFW, American Legion, Iraq War Veterans, Soldiers Angels Foundation, Disabled American Veterans and Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. For more information, check www.fallenheroesmemorial.org or write to Fallen Heroes Memorial Foundation, P.O. Box 84, Willow Springs, IL 60480.

This quote comes from the Evergreen Park American Legion Post 854 bulletin: Into each life some rain must fall, especially if you left the car windows open.

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Kenneth M. Daliege, son of Mary and Kenneth Daliege of Midlothian, was recently meritoriously promoted to his current rank while serving with Electronic Attack Squadron 130, Naval Air Station, Whidbey Island, Oak Harbor, Washington. Daliege joined the Navy in July 2000.

Marine Corps Pfc. Larry E. Tello, III, son of Phyllis and Larry Tello of Midlothian, recently was promoted to his current rank while serving with Marine Aviation Training Support Group 53, Naval Air Station Whidbey Island, Oak Harbor, Washington.. Tello is a 2002 graduate of Bremen High School in Midlothian and joined the Marine Corps in May 2004.

Goodbye for now and God bless you and God bless America!

Maloney Bill To Investigate Veterans' Benefits

A bill co-sponsored by State Senator Ed Maloney (D-18) requiring the Illinois Department of Veterans Affairs to conduct an annual review comparing benefits received by Illinois veterans with the benefits received by veterans of other states was signed into law recently.

The completed review must be reported to the Governor, the General Assembly, and the Illinois Congressional delegation each year.

"Compared to other states, Illinois' veterans are provided with one of the lowest disability benefit payments in the nation," said Senator Maloney. "That's unacceptable. Illinois is ranked number 50; while Puerto Rico - which isn't even a state - is ranked number 1. I hope that by conducting such an inquiry on a yearly basis, we can shed some light on why Illinois veterans receive comparatively so little, and we can start to reverse that alarming trend."

Only approximately 55,000 of Illinois' 922,000 veterans receive disability payments, a rate of six percent. The national average of veterans receiving disability payment is 10 percent. The Department of Veterans Affairs in Chicago has been noted for its problematic system. Many Illinois Veterans have to wait many years for rulings and appeals with regard to benefits, and some veterans have died before receiving responses to claims.

There will be a growing demand of services from the Department of Veterans Affairs in the very near future. Soldiers, wounded from their military service in Iraq and Afghanistan, are surviving at an unprecedented rate thanks to the improved medical technology, improved equipment, faster surgery, and evacuations, among other things.

Proponents of the new law include the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

Cemetery Statue Stolen

On the morning of Monday, July 11th, a volunteer worker was making his usual rounds at Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery in Elwood. Suddenly, he noticed something missing — a bronze statue weighing approximately 500 lbs.

All that remained was the three-foot tall cement block upon which it stood.

Since 2001, the statue stood as a memorial to the 48 workers who lost their lives in 1942 when an explosion occurred at the Army Ammunition Plant in Joliet. The explosion rocked and rumbled the ground for 50 miles around.

The statue (of a man holding a lunch pail) was created in Italy and shipped to the cemetery in time for a June 9th, 2001 memorial ceremony made possible by a $37,000 fund-raising drive head-manned by Elmo Younger.

Younger, before serving in the army in World War II, had once worked at the plant. He fears that the perpetrators, who have committed treason in his eyes, probably intend to sell it for scrap.

Summer School Enrollment

The 2005 summer school enrollment at Moraine Valley Community College rose to a record high of 11,491 students. Credit enrollment also is at an all-time high for summer school, breaking the 10,000-student mark for the first time with 10,021 students who registered for a record 45,201 credit hours. Since 1999, enrollment has risen every year, a 37 percent increase.

The majority of students enrolled - 61 percent - are taking college transfer classes, and 26 percent of the students are enrolled in career program courses. Female students outnumber males, making up 63 percent of the enrollment, while in-district students account for 83 percent of the enrollment. The average age is 27.

Pictured is a model of the famous B24-H "Witchcraft" which will fly into the Chicago/DuPage Airport on July 29th and will be on display through July 31st.

Hotline For Insurance Questions

The Illinois Insurance Hotline is an industry-sponsored educational resource that answers general insurance questions, offers guidance to those dealing with insurance problems, and distributes a variety of educational materials. The organization assisted more than 5,500 consumers in 2004, and would like to see this number increase in 2005. Janet Patrick, Hotline Director, said, "People get insurance information from a variety of sources - agents, company representatives and, of course, the Internet. We want Illinois residents to know they can also turn to the Illinois Insurance Hotline for help."

In 2004 the largest percentage of the Hotline's calls (48%) concerned property casualty insurance matters. Life and health calls were next in line, comprising 31% of the call volume. The balance fell into the miscellaneous call category. Ms. Patrick commented, "Personal lines auto and homeowners insurance issues have come in at the top of the list for several years now." Patrick identified some of the common questions consumers ask.

- What options do I have when my auto (or homeowner) policy has been non-renewed?
- Can you help me find a telephone number to reach an insurance company?
- What can I expect in the claim process?
- What companies offer Medicare supplements?
- How does XYZ Company compare with regard to complaints and financial strength?

The Illinois Insurance Hotline has assisted thousands of Illinois consumers in its 14 years of operation. The resource was created as a means of offering consumers increased access to insurance information and educational materials. Consultants do not sell insurance. Consumers can use a toll-free telephone number to speak with a Hotline consultant on property, casualty, life and health insurance issues. Consultants can be reached between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday by calling 1 (800) 444-3338.

Karahalios Sworn In

Illinois State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka who supported and encouraged him, congratulates James N. Karahalios at the recent swearing in ceremony of 20 Associate Judges of the Circuit Court of Cook County at the James R. Thompson Center in Chicago. Honorable James N. Karahalios graduated from Par Ridge High School. He attended University of Illinois, followed by DePaul College of Law. He spent the first seven years as an attorney as an Assistant Cook County's State's Attorney, after which he left the office to enter private practice as a solos practitioner and as an associate with various private firms. His current practice consists primarily of personal injury cases. He has a broad range of litigation experience in state and federal courts, at the trial and appellate levels, in civil and criminal law matters. He is married with four children.

Schumer Must Withdraw From High Court Confirmation Process

New York Democratic Sen. Charles Schumer should bow out of the confirmation process for seating Sandra Day O'Connor's replacement on the U.S. Supreme Court because he has already acknowledged he won't give any likely nominee a fair hearing. Focus on the Family Action Vice President of Government and Public Policy Tom Minnery said today.

Schumer, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, was quoted in news reports in recent days as promising to "go to war" over President Bush's nominee to replace O'Connor, no matter who it is.

"Sen. Schumer went so far as to admit he's not concerned about the judicial backgrounds or qualifications of the man or woman the president ultimately selects," Minnery explained. "For him to say 'It's not about an individual judge' but about 'the overall makeup of the court' makes it clear his only interest is in obstructing any nominee who doesn't subscribe to his brand of judicial activism."

Schumer also implied that the filibuster compromise worked out among 14 moderate senators of both parties to allow confirmation of some of Bush's appellate court nominees would have little bearing on whether filibusters will be launched against a Supreme Court nominee.

"It is impossible, in light of these comments, for any candidate likely to be advanced by the president to get a fair hearing from Sen. Schumer," Minnery said. "Senators are constitutionally obligated to offer their advice and consent on court nominees. All Sen. Schumer is prepared to offer is his disgust and contempt—and for that reason he should recuse himself from taking part in the confirmation process."

"To do anything less is to deny the forthcoming nominee his or her right to a fair and impartial hearing and an up-or-down vote in the full Senate."

Standard Bank Holds Opening Ceremony

Standard Bank and Trust Co. opened a second Oak Lawn location with a ribbon-cutting ceremony Tuesday, July 12th. The new branch is located at 111th and Keating. Oak Lawn Mayor Dave Heilmann, Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce representatives, as well as Standard Bank President and CEO Lawrence P. Kelley attended the event.

"Standard Bank is also celebrating its 25th Anniversary as a member of the Oak Lawn community," explained marketing communications coordinator Erin A. Durkalski. "We have held several celebrations and raffles so far this year to thank the Oak Lawn community for its continued support."

Standard Bank opened its first Oak Lawn location at 4001 W. 95th St., on April 1st, 1980. At that point in time, the addition of this branch grew the bank to a total of two branch locations. Since then, Standard Bank has grown to 36 branches in Illinois and Indiana and an anticipated 38 by the end of the year.

Assistant Branch Manager of the new Oak Lawn location Nancy Merlo said, "I believe this particular location will round out our geographical coverage for our Oak Lawn customers. It is a great location and I have already had the pleasure of meeting lots of great people."

This new branch, a former La Salle Bank building, brings the number of current Standard Bank locations to 36. The bank is also currently building in Lockport with an anticipated opening of mid-August and Merrillville, Indiana with an anticipated opening in the Fall of this year.

Standard Bank and Trust Co. operates 36 locations throughout Chicagoland and Northwest Indiana and has over $1.5 billion in assets.

Dr. Vaught, Chiropractor

Dr. Frank Vaught, owner of Crestwood Chiropractic & Rehab, 13657 S. Cicero in Crestwood, defines chiropractic as "the removal of interference in the nervous (life/flow) system by restoring normal biomechanics of the spine for optimal health."

He believes with relentless sincerity that this removal is best achieved through chiropractic methods, nutrition and rehabilitative exercise. The removal of "interference" strengthens the nervous system and increases the power of your organs and immune system. The result is not only relief from back pain, but also the reduction or elimination of bronchitis, asthma, high blood pressure, arthritis, common colds, and scores of other maladies which the average individual has resigned themselves to live with.

Depending on the condition of the patient, Dr. Vaught might employ a low-velocity/high amplitude method (soft approach) or a high velocity/low amplitude technique (a more robust treatment). Either way, his impassioned goal is to rid the patients' bodies of toxins, stress and trauma and immeasurably upgrade their quality of living.

Dr. Vaught, who is also the Head Chiropractor of the Windy City Thunderbolts baseball team and a member of our country's Army Reserves, speaks with uncommon love and compassion as he orates about his profession. It pains him to think of people (from children to seniors) who undergo invasive surgery - often unnecessarily; or the endless prescribing of drugs which does little more than mask ever-worsening physical problems while inducing one's body cells into craving even more drugs.

Dr. Vaught may well prove to be a godsend for somebody reading this article.

They were Carl K. Court-right, Nicholas A. Grabarek, Meghan M. Lehnhardt, Nicole R. Schmitz and Amy M. Zavala.

To be named to the dean's list, a student must be in the top 10 percent of his or her college while carrying a full course load.

Brookfield Zoo's "Hug A Bug"

Brookfield Zoo is abuzz with your favorite creepy-crawlers for "Hug A Bug," a family festival of what flits, flutters and flees, Aug. 12th-21st. Part of the zoo's summerlong Lions, Tigers, Bears...and Bugs event, "Hug A Bug" is the grand fly-nale to months of getting up-close and personal with different animals.

While at "Hug A Bug," step into the web of Chicago's own Redmoon Theater and its Big Bug Brigade Parade, created especially for zoo-goers. Your little bug-a-boos will love the fun, colorful costumes of this performance troupe that is known for outlandish innovation.

"Hug A Bug" will also hum with music. On Aug. 20th the zoo will welcome The Wee Hairy Beasies, a one-time, off-beat performance of animal-themed tunes performed by local folk-rockers Jon Langford with Sally Timms, Kelly Hogan, and Devil in a Woodpile. On Aug. 21st, a special Radio Disney Day will get young social butterflies jitterbugging to a performance by hip teenage singer Ashley Garland and jiving to the youthful pop band Everlife. At the end of Radio Disney Day, zoo visitors can meet and chat with the musicians. On Aug. 14th, all ages will rock British Invasion-style to the sounds of British Export, a Beatles tribute band.

The zoo is proud to host some of the city's best children's music performers during "Hug A Bug." Live concerts for children will take place at 2 p.m. daily, including an appearance by Grammy Award-winning favorite Ella Jenkins on Aug. 16th.

On Thursday and Friday, Aug. 18th and 19th, join with friends from Fisher-Price® for Chicago's largest playgroup event for children and their parents. From 10:30 to 11 a.m., children, ages one to five and their parents can enjoy a "Day at the Zoo with the Little People®." Join the Little People friends as they learn about zoo animals and how they sound and move, using games, songs and play. Then, from 12:30 to 1 p.m., children, ages three to six can experience "Animal Care and Rescue with the Rescue Heroes®." Join the Rescue Heroes Team to explore how animals live in the wild and how zookeepers take care of them at Brookfield Zoo. After each playgroup, we will have a scavenger hunt to find answers around the zoo and win a small prize from Fisher-Price. An adult must accompany children taking part in either program.

Families can fly into the face of competition, too, during "Hug A Bug," testing their wits in contests such as "Beetle of Fortune," "Who Wants to be a Buggin'are?," "Roach Run," "Arthropod Idol," "Bee Dance," and the "Apreynmantis."

Other "Hug A Bug" activities include creepy crawly crafts and a repeat performance by popular zoo guest the Green E, the Environmental Elvis, who shakes, rattles and rolls his way through conservation tips. Daddy-long legs - and mommy too - will be interested in a display of more than 25 modern, vintage and dune buggy Volkswagen beetle cars on Aug. 13, presented by the Northeastern Illinois Volkswagen Association, accentuated by an afternoon parade of cars.

"Hug A Bug" festivities take place from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day at Brookfield Zoo. For a complete schedule of events and performances or to purchase tickets in advance to the zoo - including the Zooper Pass, a discounted all-inclusive ticket - go to www.BrookfieldZoo.org.

Beginning at 11 a.m. each day, animal print slap bracelets will be given to the first 250 kids who make their way to the east mall.

Rep. Dan Lipinski Introduces Legislation To Help The Uninsured

Congressman Dan Lipinski (D-IL) joined Congressman Mark Kennedy (R-MN) to unveil legislation recently that would help millions of Americans who are currently without health insurance obtain coverage for themselves and their families.

"Uninsured Americans face a crisis that threatens not only their good health, but their financial stability as well," said Congressman Lipinski. "More than 45 million Americans - a greater number than the combined populations of Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Minnesota - do not have any health insurance."

In 2003, 1.4 million more people lost their insurance as compared to 2002, a troubling continuation of recent trends. Many of these people are uninsured because their employer does not offer health coverage and they lack access to a government health insurance program. Others have lost their jobs and their medical benefits as well.

The Fair Care for the Uninsured Act of 2005 creates a fully refundable tax credit of $1,000 for an individual or up to $3,000 per family to buy health insurance. Not only does Fair Care help the uninsured acquire health insurance, but it also empowers recipients to choose the health insurance plan that's right for them.

Giving more individuals an opportunity to purchase health insurance is not only beneficial to them, but it is better for insured Americans as well. Families who cannot afford health insurance often have no other health care option than the hospital emergency room. The cost of an emergency visit is 3-4 times more expensive than the cost of a regular office visit and when the uninsured turn up in the emergency room, they usually cannot pay for the care they receive.

Critics have argued that Fair Care interferes with the employer-based health care system. However, under Fair Care, only persons who do not have access to workplace health coverage qualify for the tax credit. Furthermore, the legislation includes worker protections requiring employers to continue their health plans during the first five years after enactment.

H.R. 765 recognizes the importance of the health insurance Safety Nets that already exist in 32 states, such as the Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan (CHIP) in Illinois, for those who are otherwise uninsurable. Fair Care builds upon the success of these programs for older, less healthy Americans by expanding them to all 50 states.

Roosevelt Univ. & Prairie State College Sign Dual Admission Agreement

Students can now enroll in both Prairie State College and Roosevelt University at the same time, making it easy and seamless to earn associate's and bachelor's degrees, thanks to a Dual Admission Agreement signed on July 19th by Charles R. Middleton, president of Roosevelt, and Paul N. McCarthy, president of Prairie State.

Through the Dual Admission Agreement, Prairie State students are able to create a four-year plan for completing the bachelor's degree at Roosevelt, assure a smooth transfer of credits between institutions, guarantee graduation requirements as long as continuous enrollment is maintained, and facilitate early financial planning.

Interested students should submit applications for admission to both Roosevelt University and Prairie State College, along with required documents. The Roosevelt application fee will be waived. After the admission offices review the materials, each institution will notify students regarding acceptance to its institution.

Admission counselors at both Prairie State College and Roosevelt will work with students to ensure that Prairie State credits transfer easily. Participating students will also benefit from Prairie State College's Transfer Guarantee, which ensures transferability of all courses that have been approved for enrollment by PSC counselors.

Once enrolled at Roosevelt, students will be guaranteed completion of the bachelor's degree within the minimum number of terms required for the chosen major, provided Roosevelt guidelines related to transferable courses are followed.

While enrolled at Prairie State, the dually-admitted students will have full access to Roosevelt's offices of admission, student services, financial aid and the library. In addition, Roosevelt financial aid counselors will advise students on Roosevelt scholarships and how to finance their education. Students are also welcome to participate in lectures, cultural events and other opportunities for enrichment.

The new Dual Admission Agreement will be in effect beginning with the Fall 2005 term. For information, call 1-877-APPLYRU.

Pork Alert: Senate Interior Appropriations Bill

As families across America pack their suitcases and get ready for summer vacations, Senate appropriators have loaded up the fiscal 2006 Interior Appropriations Act with $926 million worth of parochial projects to beautify their states for the tourist season. The bill is scheduled to go to the Senate floor. Ignoring the president's request for a lean budget, the Senate Appropriations Committee weighed down this year's Interior bill with funding for programs slated for elimination, including $489.6 million in Environmental Protection Agency state and tribal assistance grants, and $10 million for the Bureau of Land Management's Rural Fire Assistance Program.

Here is a sampling of some of the pork projects added by Senate appropriators:

Alaskan Wildlife. Once again, Senate Interior Appropriations subcommittee member Ted Stevens (R-Alaska) brought home the most amount of pork, a total of $68.5 million, including: $25 million for grants to address drinking water and infrastructure needs in rural and native Alaskan communities; $1.8 million for the Alaska SeaLife Center for eider and sea otter recovery activities; $790,000 for the Bering Sea Fisherman's Assn.; $150,000 for the Alaska Whaling Commission; and $98,000 for the Alaska Sea Otter Commission.

Bacon for the Big Sky State. Senate Interior Appropriations Subcommittee Chairman Conrad Burns (R-Mont.) grabbed $33.4 million for Montana projects, including: $2 million for the Fuels-in-schools bio-mass program; $1.25 million for the Western Heritage Center's distance learning and tribal histories project; $1.4 million for whirling disease research; and $400,000 for a bear DNA sampling study.

Wild and Wonderful West Virginia. Senate Appropriations Committee Ranking Member Robert Byrd (D-W.Va.) piled $18.9 million in parochial pork in the Interior bill, including: $3.65 million for projects at Harpers Ferry National Historic Park; $3.5 million for the New River Gorge National River; $2 million for the National Alternative Fuels Training Consortium at West Virginia University; and $100,000 for the National Coal Heritage Area.

Peace Garden State. Senate Interior Appropriations subcommittee member Byron Dorgan (D-N.D.) added $10.2 million in pork projects for North Dakota, including: $2 million for the Center for Air Toxic Metals at the University of North Dakota; $350,000 for leafy spurge eradication efforts; $200,000 for the Garrison Dam National Fish Hatchery for hatchery renovation; and $200,000 for the International Peace Gardens.

Citizens Against Government Waste is a nonpartisan, non-profit organization dedicated to eliminating waste, fraud, mismanagement and abuse in government.

Illinois Has New Official State Amphibian And State Reptile

The Eastern Tiger Salamander will soon be named Illinois' official state amphibian, while the Painted Turtle will take its place as the official State reptile, said State Senator Christine Radogno (R-Lemont), who sponsored the legislation designating the new State amphibian and reptile.

The animals were chosen as a result of an initiative by Lieutenant Governor Pat Quinn and Representative Robert Biggins, who teamed up with the Chicago Herpetological Society and the Brookfield Zoo to sponsor the state's first-ever virtual election for an official state symbol.

Advocates of the virtual election sent out letters to schools throughout Illinois encouraging teachers to include the election in their curriculum, Radogno said that 75,196 people voted in the election. Voters had to choose between the Eastern Tiger Salamander, the Gray Tree Frog, and the American Toad in the amphibian category, and the Painted Turtle, the Garter Snake, and the Eastern Box Turtle in the reptile category.

The voting kicked off at last year's State Fair, and the Eastern Tiger Salamander, who received 19,217 votes with 51% of the vote, and the Painted Turtle, who received 16,742 votes with 45% were the favorites.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

When SBC went to Springfield earlier this spring with a sweeping deregulation bill, consumers knew they were in for a tough battle. So when the Illinois House of Representatives stood up to the giant phone company, consumers breathed a sigh of relief.

SBC's bill would have eliminated key consumer protections that prevent unwarranted phone rate hikes and penalize SBC for poor service. Higher phone rates and a drop in service quality were on the horizon if the measure had been approved.

Although the Senate originally approved the SBC bill, the House, under Speaker Michael Madigan's leadership, refused to pass it without major changes, which SBC refused to make. Gov. Rod Blagojevich also opposed the SBC bill and late in the session both houses approved a two-year extension of the current act, which was set to expire June 30th.

There may come a time when restrictions on SBC's prices and service quality can be eased, but we're not there yet. As long as the vast majority of Illinois residents still have no real options to SBC, deregulation is a dangerous path.

We commend the members of the Illinois House of Representatives for realizing that sensible state regulation is the only way to protect consumers and keep the phone companies honest.

Sincerely,
s/s Sarah L. Bolton-Head
CUB Board Representative
1st Congressional District

Brookfield Zoo Helps Animals Stay Cool

Even with a sizzling high of 100 degrees on Sunday, July 24th, animals at Brookfield Zoo had it made in shade. Animal experts at the zoo used a variety of ways to keep animals comfortable despite the heat.

Earlier this month the zoo provided snow in the summer for Payton, the polar bear. Generated by a snow-making machine, the snow surprised zoo visitors and staff by remaining in the Bear Grotto for the better part of a hot day.

Ice bottles and giant ice cubes are more the norm, however, and they abound at Brookfield Zoo on warmer days. For some species, zookeepers freeze stainless steel pans of water and food items to provide animals with tasty, icy treats.

Keepers often cascade water across the habitats of larger animals on steamy days, to cool their surfaces. They also gently spray animals with cool water or provide them with soothing mists. This is another area where customization comes in.

For animals that like to wallow when temperatures climb, like rhinos, pigs and pygmy hippos, keepers ensure a steady flow of muddy water to give relief. In excessive heat, keepers refrain from washing dried mud off the animals when they emerge from wallows.

At Brookfield Zoo's Hamill Family Play Zoo, rabbits and guinea pigs keep cool with soda pop bottles filled with frozen water that they like to lie next to, like big ice pillows. Next door, at the Children's Zoo, animals such as goats, raccoons and groundhogs relish ice chips, ice piles and added shade.

In the summer, Brookfield Zoo most closely watches the health of its animals with heavy coats that come from cooler climates. But there is one animal that thrives in heat: the Addax antelope, from the Sahara Desert. On the hottest days they lie in the sun.

To help humans of all ages regulate their body temps at the zoo, air-conditioned buildings and shade trees abound. There are a lot of shade trees at the zoo. It is a lovely park for outdoor adventures.

What is more, the zoo has installed misting stations at periodic points throughout the grounds, for visitors to take a break and cool themselves with a fine spray of overhead mist. Kids love them, and the zoo is about to install several more and will have a water play area open for children outside of the Living Coast exhibit within the next few weeks.

Schedule Back To School Checkups And Vaccinations

The Cook County Department of Public Health (CCDPH) is reminding parents that children are expected to be up-to-date with their immunizations and physical and dental examinations before the start of the school year.

"To beat the rush, it's important to schedule your child's appointments as soon as possible," said John H. Stroger Jr., President of the Board of Cook County Commissioners. "Illinois law requires immunizations for children attending public, private or parochial elementary or secondary schools. Also, children entering kindergarten, fifth and ninth grades must receive school physical examinations."

Additionally, as of July 1, the state is requiring that all kindergartners, second and sixth graders get an oral hygiene exam. Each child will be required to show proof of the exam during the school year, or the school may hold the child's report card. A child may receive a waiver if there is proof of undue burden, or lack of access to a dentist.

"Childhood immunizations and physical exams are some of the safest ways of protecting children from harmful and even deadly diseases," said CCDPH chief operating officer, Stephen A. Martin Jr., Ph.D., M.P.H. "We can't stress enough the importance of regular dental exams. Poor oral hygiene can lead to poor school attendance, poor grades and poor adult health."

The health department stresses that for continuity of care, it's best if children have a private family physician and dentist who will be able to provide routine preventive screenings and immunizations as well as assess the health of the patient. "Having a regular provider who is familiar with the health needs of the child offers the best option for the patient," said Dr. Martin.

State law provides exemptions from the immunization requirements for religious or medical reasons.

Free, walk-in CCDPH immunization clinics (see eligibility requirements) and (by appointment) dental clinics are offered for suburban Cook County children 18 years or younger. For more information regarding back-to-school immunizations and dental exams, call (708) 492-2150 for immunization information and (708) 492-2140 for Dental Health Services. TDD for hearing/speech impaired: (708) 492-2002.

Children are eligible for no cost vaccinations if they are: enrolled in Medicaid or uninsured or Native American or Alaskan Indian, or under-insured (health insurance does not pay for vaccination).

A vaccination schedule follows.

Measles: Two doses of live attenuated measles vaccine, the first dose at 12 months of age or later, and the second dose at least one month after the first; a physician diagnosed case of measles; or, laboratory confirmed evidence of immunity.

Polio: Three or more doses administered at appropriate intervals with the last dose being a booster received on or about the child's fourth birthday.

Diphtheria, tetanus (lockjaw), pertussis (whooping cough) (DtaP): Four or more doses administered at the appropriate intervals with the last dose being a booster received on or after the child's fourth birthday.

Mumps: One dose of mumps vaccine at 12 months of age or later; a physician diagnosed case of mumps or laboratory confirmed evidence of immunity.

Rubella: One dose of rubella vaccine at 12 months of age or later, or laboratory evidence of immunity.

Hepatitis B: Three doses of hepatitis B vaccine with the first two shots at least four weeks apart and the third shot administered at least four months after the first shot.

Varicella (chicken pox): Required for children entering day care, pre-kindergarten or kindergarten for the first time. One dose of varicella vaccine on or after the first birthday, proof of prior varicella disease or laboratory evidence of immunity.

Haemophilus influenza type B (Hib): Children two to five years of age starting pre-kindergarten school program must show proof of having received the primary series (3 doses of Hib vaccine at two months apart) and a booster dose at one year of age. However, children two to five years of age who have not received their primary series of Hib vaccine must show proof of receiving at least one dose of Hib vaccine at 15 months of age or older.

Safe Games Illinois Act

Surrounded by parents and pre-teens in a public library in Aurora, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed the landmark Safe Games Illinois Act, making Illinois the only state in the nation to ban the sale and rental of violent and sexually explicit video games to children. HB 4023, sponsored by State Sen. Deanna Demuzio (D-Carlinville) and State Rep. Linda Chapa LaVia (D-Aurora), won final legislative approval in May. The governor first proposed the Safe Games initiative in December.

The Safe Games Illinois Act, House Bill 4023, bans the rental and sale of violent and sexually explicit video games to children younger than 18. Retailers who violate the ban commit a petty offense and face a fine of $1,000. The bill also requires retailers to label violent and sexually explicit video games, similar to the "Parental Advisory" label found on music CDs, and to post signs explaining the video game rating system. A retailer's failure to properly label games or place proper signs is punishable by a $500 fine for the first three violations and a $1,000 fine for every subsequent violation.

HB 4023 is effective Jan. 1, 2006.

Enroll Newborns in College Illinois

Parents and grandparents who enroll newborns and infants in College Illinois!, the state's $29 prepaid tuition program, before Aug. 1 can take advantage of an annual opportunity the program affords each summer to parents of children 12 months of age and younger. College Illinois! plans will be offered at 2004-05 prices - likely lower than expected prices on 2005-06 plans set to go into effect when the program's general enrollment period opens in late October.

College Illinois! protects parents and grandparents from future tuition inflation by allowing them to lock-in current rates to cover future college costs at colleges nationwide.

Because College Illinois! prices increase each year due to tuition and fee increases at the state's public universities, families purchasing a College Illinois! plan early in a child's life have a greater cost savings than families who postpone the purchase of a prepaid tuition contract until the child is older. The upcoming deadline provides an extended opportunity for families of newborns to lock in a price now to cover future college tuition and fees before contract prices are set for the next general enrollment period that opens in October.

Parents and grandparents who are interested in a secure option for their child's educational future are encouraged to visit collegcillinois.com before the Aug. 1st deadline for program information, materials and newborn enrollment guidelines. Online registration is also available and only takes about 10 minutes. Interested persons without online access should call the program toll-free at (877) 877-3724.

Marjorie Busch, 87 Will Take Flight

Lewis University is working with ManorCare Health Services in Hinsdale to help one of its residents meet a long-held wish. On Friday, July 29th, 87-year-old Marjorie Busch, formerly of Westchester, will board one of Lewis' airplanes to take to the skies again as she did as a 20-year-old. In the 1940s, Busch and her sister took flying lessons at Morton High School in Cicero. Marjorie earned her pilot's license and stayed with her hobby for a few years. Unfortunately, she was not able to fly as often as she wished because she could not always afford the $4.50 per session.

Through ManorCare's Heart's Desire Program - a program which makes it possible for ManorCare's residents to relive a past experience or to try something they have always wanted to do - Busch will get her wish as she flies with Lewis' Chief of Pilot Training Keith McGill. Lewis' Flight Dept. is donating the flight.

Weather permitting, Marjorie will "take flight" again at 10:30 a.m. on July 29th at the Lewis University Airport in Romeoville.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The nonprofit sector is paramount to every Illinois community. Among other things, nonprofits house the homeless, feed the hungry, enrich lives with music, educate the young and provide recreational opportunities that may otherwise be unavailable. In fact, four out of five people benefit from the services of at least one nonprofit every day.

Regardless of type, size or mission, nonprofits are wholeheartedly dedicated to making a positive difference in people's lives. Still, to truly benefit from the philanthropic services of nonprofit organizations, it is critical we ensure they remain focused on fulfilling their missions while effectively managing their resources.

The Donors Forum of Chicago, the region's premier resource for leadership, education, research and action on behalf of nonprofit organizations, has spearheaded the "Preserving the Public Trust Initiative." The initiative is a first-of-its-kind project in Illinois designed to help grant-makers and other nonprofits take precise, concrete steps to adhere to the high ethical standards and strong governance principles expected of them.

A first step in the initiative is the "Illinois Nonprofit Principles and Best Practices," practical guidelines that cover a wide range of important issues facing nonprofits, such as board governance and responsible stewardship. The guidelines, endorsed by Attorney General Lisa Madigan, are designed to enhance nonprofits' abilities to meet and exceed their objectives, and are useful to nonprofits, regardless of their financial and staff resources, experience and governance structures.

The overwhelming majority of Illinois nonprofits are dedicated to ethically and effectively fulfilling their missions. Together we can make certain each nonprofits philanthropic potential is realized and our communities benefit from the good nonprofits offer. I encourage you to learn more about this significant initiative and the importance of nonprofit organizations by visiting the Donors Forum Website www.donorsforum.org/publictrust or by calling (312) 578-0090.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

There are three little words that are continually overlooked in the fetal stem cell debate: it doesn't work.

The fetal stem cell groups have floated all kinds of hopeful come-ons to get government grants because they can't raise private money to fund their research. Why not? It's simple. No results. Fetal stem cell research has not produced one cure or therapy to date, not even in the lab rats.

The private sector wants to see invested capital producing useful results. Governments, on the other hand, are notorious for not caring about end products. All that seems to matter to them is that they be seen as doing something, taking action, making a stand. Results don't matter because nobody checks.

My advice to Governor Blagojevich is to stop wasting our money on bankrupt research just so you can look good.

Judy Biggert Statement

U.S. Rep. Judy Biggert (R-IL-13th) issued the following statement in reaction to President Bush's nomination to the Supreme Court of Judge John Roberts:

"It would be difficult to find in a Supreme Court nominee a better qualified candidate with more impressive credentials than Judge John Roberts. I am hopeful that the U.S. Senate will execute its responsibility - without the undue influence of special interest groups - to ensure that it is confirming a man with the judicial temperament, intellectual acuity, and respect for the Constitution that will serve our country well in the years to come."

Biggert is a lawyer and Co-Chairman of the Congressional Caucus on the Judicial Branch. She is a former clerk to The Hon. Luther M. Swygert, U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit.

Chicagovolunteer.net seeks to make it easy for northern Illinoisans to give back to their communities. You can find opportunities that best match your talents and interests by searching the type of organization, skills that are needed by the organization, time commitment you are able to give, as well as location of the organization.

Congressman Bobby L. Rush (1st Dist.-D), in partnership with the Metropolitan Library System, a regional library consortium that consults with and advocates continuing education for a number of libraries in south Chicagoland, launched the Student Zone section of the Congressman's newly enhanced Website to ensure that even his youngest constituents have the opportunity to learn and gain instant access to the inner workings of the federal government.

Designed to assist the growing demand of kids interested in government, the Student Zone also provides parents and teachers with referral sites that include tips on how to keep kids safe while surfing the Internet. College bound students can obtain access to scholarships, information on Illinois universities and colleges, as well as a step-by-step guide on how to secure a military academy appointment from Congressman Rush.

Students unable to find information they need can call or e-mail an information savvy librarian at their local library who will be ready and waiting to assist with any questions or guidance needs.

State Rep. Bob Rita (D-Blue Island) has alerted All Points that legislation he sponsored which is designed to stimulate economic development in the Village of Robbins, was signed by the Governor on July 19th.

According to Rep. Rita "the economic downturn of the last few years has had a dramatic effect on the Village of Robbins. This project is important for the economic development of the area and I am pleased that the General Assembly agreed to assist this area of my district."

House Bill 406 allows the Village of Robbins to speed up the process of opening a non-hazardous waste transit facility. Site approval through the Illinois E.P.A. usually takes six to nine months. The operation of the Robbins site will still be required to obtain a permit from the state E.P.A.

Fast-track approval of the waste transfer station will allow Robbins to refinance a $500,000 mortgage. Additionally, the municipality will receive minimum monthly royalty payments of $56,000 from the waste company. The company is also awaiting approval of this project before committing resources to Robbins' infrastructure, which will be used to fund fire, police, and public works services.

Supervision For Most Dangerous Sex Offenders

To help safeguard Illinois communities from sex offenders, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed several important pieces of legislation on July 10th that will strengthen the state's efforts to keep close tabs on sex offenders following their release from prison. The laws signed will better protect children and the public by tightening restrictions and supervision of sex offenders. The cornerstone of the package, House Bill 2386, creates a lifetime supervision program for the most serious sex offenders. The law also provides for the Prisoner Review Board to decide the conditions of parole, how long it will last and what action will be taken if the inmate violates the conditions. In cases of a parole violation, the inmate can serve up to two years in prison, unless it's a new crime. Parole will also prepare progress reports every 180 days after the offender's release from incarceration regarding the offender's adjustment and compliance with conditions of parole, as well as participation and progress in sex offender treatment. The progress report will be submitted to the Prisoner Review Board, the chief of police and sheriff in the municipality and county where the offender resides and is registered. The law also states that supervising officers will receive specialized training in the supervision of sex offenders.

With the Governor's signature, Illinois joins 13 other states in the nation that have some form of lifetime supervision laws.

File Lawsuit To Stop Pentagon From Moving F-16 Aircraft

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich and Illinois Attorney General Lisa Madigan filed a lawsuit on July 21st in federal court to stop U.S. Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld and the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission (BRAC) from moving F-16 aircraft from the 183rd Fighter Wing in Springfield. Gov. Blagojevich said that the Pentagon's May 13th recommendation to move the F-16 aircraft violated federal law, which dictates that he must give his consent for this type of realignment. Attorney General Madigan filed the lawsuit on behalf of the governor in United States District Court for the Central Division of Illinois, Springfield Division.

Gov. Blagojevich sent letters last week to both Defense Secretary Rumsfeld and BRAC Chairman Anthony Principi saying that he will not consent to the Dept. of Defense's recommendation to move F-16 aircraft from Springfield.

The governor has been leading a coordinated effort for more than two years with the Illinois Congressional Delegation, other elected officials and local leaders to prevent Illinois' military bases from ending up on the BRAC list that will be announced in September. He consistently has stressed that these actions are a threat to our national and homeland security and are not cost effective.

Gov. Blagojevich presented Illinois' detailed and comprehensive analysis refuting the U.S. Dept. of Defense's recommendations that would take almost 1,900 jobs from the Rock Island Arsenal, strip the 183rd Fighter Wing in Springfield of its F-16 aircraft and more than 600 jobs and eliminate more than 2,000 jobs from the Great Lakes Naval Training Center at a BRAC Regional Hearing last month in St. Louis.

The Commission will publicly release its BRAC report by Sept. 8th and send it to President Bush. The President has until Sept. 23rd to approve or disapprove the list. The BRAC list must then be sent to Congress by Nov. 7th, who must also approve or disapprove the list.

Illinois Legislators Instrumental In Passing River Locks Upgrade Legislation

Illinois lawmakers were instrumental in U.S. House of Representatives' passage of H.R. 2864, the Water Resources Development Act (WRDA). The bill approves new locks construction for the Upper Mississippi and Illinois Rivers and passed through the House with a 406-14 vote.

Several Illinois legislators testified on behalf of WRDA passage, including Jerry Costello, Belleville; Rahm Emanuel, Chicago; Lane Evans, Rock Island; Ray LaHood, Peoria; John Shimkus, Collinsville; and Jerry Weller, Morris.

"We appreciate that these Representatives are passionate about the need to pass locks and dams legislation and testified on behalf of WRDA passage," says Earl Williams Jr., soybean farmer from Cherry Valley and the Illinois Soybean Association (ISA) president. "Soybean farmers have been asking for immediate authorization for construction of new locks on the Upper Mississippi and Illinois Rivers and our hard work is paying off."

WRDA legislation provides funding for construction of seven new 1,200-foot navigation locks, along with small-scale navigation improvements and ecosystem restoration on the Upper Mississippi and Illinois Rivers. The current lock and dam system was constructed nearly 60 years ago and was designed for 600-foot barges. Today, most barge tows are 1,200-foot long, which require the tow to be split and sent through one section at a time. The delays increase transportation costs, pressure soybean prices, and disrupt export sales.

The key lock locations include 20, 21, 22, 24 and 25 on the Mississippi river, and Peoria and LaGrange locks on the Illinois Waterway. ISA has strongly supported the need for modernization so U.S. soybeans remain competitive in the world market. More than 75 percent of soy exports move to world ports via the river system.

"The Senate must now take up their version of WRDA legislation and we understand this may not occur until after the summer recess," says Williams. "That gives Illinois farmers ample opportunity to talk with our Senators and ask for their support, too."

Tape "Illinois Law" Series

The Illinois State Bar Association (ISBA) recently completed the taping of Legal Misperceptions, two half-hour programs presented as part of the "Illinois Law" series, an ISBA cable production.

Appearing on the shows, moderated by attorney Martin A. Dolan (seated), of Dolan & Shannon, P.C.; in Chicago, are (from left) Edna Turkington-Viktora, a Cook County Circuit Court Judge, First Municipal District; Palos Heights attorney Naomi H. Schuster of Alsip and attorney Susan M. Brazas of the Rock City law firm of Barrett & Gilbert.

"Illinois Law" is a cable production of the ISBA. The 30,000-member ISBA, with offices in Springfield and Chicago, provides professional services to Illinois lawyers, and education and services to the public.

Governor Strengthens Penalties

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation to strengthen penalties for people who injure or kill emergency management workers and volunteers while they are responding to an emergency. The new law also increases penalties for individuals who attempt to prevent emergency management workers from performing their jobs and imposes a mandatory sentence of natural life in prison for first degree murder of an emergency management worker.

Senate Bill 190 increases penalties for violence against emergency management workers while they are performing their duties. Workers include both paid and volunteer workers for local and county emergency management agencies, the Illinois Emergency Management Agency (IEMA), the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), the American Red Cross, and any other local, state or federal agencies assisting in disaster response.

The bill was unanimously approved by the General Assembly. The new provisions go into effect Jan. 1.

Franchise Initiative For Women

Women are increasingly joining the ranks of those who purchase a franchise, and it's easy to understand why. Owning a franchise is being an entrepreneur except that you don't have to invent the wheel. The product or service and the business model may have a greater likelihood of success.

For women who may be interested in investing in a franchise, the Women's Business Development Center (WBDC) has adopted a new program, the Franchise Partnership, which provides prospective franchisees with services that include workshops, one-on-one counseling and assistance with loan packages to help them.

As part of the initiative, the WBDC will launch an outreach program for prospective franchisees and a series of workshops. In addition, the WBDC will present a franchisee workshop at its 19th annual Entrepreneurial Woman's Conference on Sept. 13th and 14th at Chicago's Navy Pier. Also at the conference, franchisees who want to do business with women will be invited to participate in the Women's Business and Buyers Mart.

Information can be obtained by calling (312) 853-3477 or by visiting the WBDC Web site at www.wbdc.org.

New Law To Reduce Business Costs And Increase Workers' Benefits

Celebrating a major victory for both business and labor, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation recently that dramatically changes the workers' compensation system to reduce costs for businesses, increase benefits for workers, and fight fraud. After the governor made workers' compensation reform a top priority in his 2005 State of the State address, he convened negotiations over several months with business and labor leaders and members of the General Assembly that resulted in the first major overhaul of Illinois' workers compensation system in nearly 20 years.

"We want to attract more jobs to Illinois, and helping businesses save money on the cost of workers compensation insurance is a good way to do it. Businesses currently spend too much money on workers comp and workers don't receive the benefits they deserve. This new law addresses both problems," Gov. Blagojevich said.

According to the National Insurance Crime Bureau, workers' compensation fraud costs employers $6.5 billion a year nationwide, and Illinois is the 19th most expensive state in the nation when it comes to workers' compensation premiums. Illinois companies pay 40 percent more for workers' compensation than neighboring states Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana, with many low-wage workers still needing stronger workers' compensation benefits and support.

The governor worked closely with Sen. Terry Link (D-Lake Bluff) and Rep. Jay Hoffman (D-Collinsville), sponsors of House Bill 2137, to curb soaring costs of workers' compensation and decrease financial risks for employers, increase monetary benefits for employees who are injured or killed on the job, and heighten enforcement of fraudulent activity.

This aggressive and comprehensive workers' comp reform marks an unprecedented victory for businesses, workers, medical care providers and insurance professionals. The new law:

Implements a medical fee schedule. Creates cost containment in workers' compensation for Illinois business owners by joining 44 other states in implementing a medical fee schedule that will be indexed to the Consumer Price Index (CPI). This is expected to save Illinois businesses millions of dollars annually by limiting the amount that may be charged for medical procedures. This will reduce medical costs, a primary expense in workers' compensation cases.

Substantially increases worker benefits. Increases the minimum benefit for a worker killed on the job from $400,000 for 20 years of payments to the greater amount of $500,000 or 25 years of payments. It also increases burial benefits for fatally injured workers to $8,000 from $4,200 and provides more benefits for low-wage workers.

Establishes a fraud unit. A workers' compensation fraud statute and investigation unit within the Illinois Dept. of Financial and Professional Regulation's (IDFPR) Division of Insurance will investigate charges of workers' compensation fraud, including uninsured employers. It strengthens penalties and fines, creates a work-stop order for employers who fail to obtain workers' compensation insurance and allows for reporting of fraudulent claims by employees. This unit will help to find fraud and deter future fraud from within the system. It will save businesses money by eliminating the need to pay for unjustified claims.

Creates a third panel to the Workers' Compensation Commission. Commission will expedite resolution of disputed claims that will allow injured workers to receive quicker treatment and return to work sooner. This reduces costs for business by lowering medical cost due to quicker treatment, as well as decreasing litigation costs. It increases penalties for unreasonable delays of workers' compensation benefits from $10 per day to $30 per day and from $2,500 per claim to $10,000 per claim.

"Having been involved with the Illinois Workers' Compensation system for nearly 20 years, this is clearly the most comprehensive workers' compensation reform in a generation. It addresses multiple issues, including fraud investigation, cost containment for employers, improving the hearing process for both workers and employers, and increasing benefits for widows, widowers and orphans. This is a win-win for both employers and employees of the state," Illinois Workers' Compensation Commission Chairman Dennis Ruth said.

HB 2137 is effective immediately.

First Black Director Selected

The Flight Director Office at Johnson Space Center has recently selected the first African American Flight Director in NASA history. Illinois born Kwasi Lindsey Alibaruho, Group Lead for Environmental Control in the Space Shuttle is among nine Flight Directors of the 2005 class.

The Flight Director is the senior official in charge of real time decisions during a Space Shuttle or Space Station Mission. Kwasi is the son of Dr. Gloria Lindsey Alibaruho, an International Consultant, formerly of Maywood, now of Atlanta and Dr. George Alibaruho, a Senior Advisor to the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa in Addis Ababa. He holds a B.S. in AVIONICS from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Massachusetts. He has done graduate studies at the University of Houston. The 32 year old Alibaruho has been at NASA for nearly ten years.

Alibaruho is the nephew of Eugene Moore, the Cook County Recorder of Deeds.

Blagojevich Requested Assistance

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich requested federal disaster assistance for drought-stricken Illinois farmers who have sustained substantial crop losses this year.

In a letter to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Johanns, Gov. Blagojevich asked for all 102 Illinois counties to be declared natural disaster areas. If approved, the declaration will qualify farmers for USDA assistance programs, including low-interest emergency loans.

A near-record dry spell from March to June stunted crop growth across the state, especially in corn, which received inadequate moisture to pollinate. A paltry 8.5 inches of rain fell during those four months, about half the normal total, making the March through June period the third driest since weather records were first kept in 1895.

Assessments compiled by the Farm Service Agency indicate the damage is severe. More than 117,000 farmers statewide reported production losses, including 74,000 who estimated the drought will destroy 30 percent or more of their crops. Sixteen farmers said their crops are a total loss.

Topsoil moisture in Illinois is rated 63 percent very short, 25 percent short and just 12 percent adequate. Conditions are most critical in North Central Illinois, where the National Weather Service classifies the drought as extreme, its second-highest designation. The region, which is framed by the cities of Bloomington, Peoria, Rockford and DeKalb, consists of some of the state's most fertile farmland, including four of its top six crop-producing counties.

Federal disaster declarations are quite common. In Illinois, the last such declaration was in January of 2004. It included 42 counties in southern Illinois that sustained losses to their soybean crops because of drought.

PROPOSED WATERFOWL SEASONS: The Illinois Department of Natural Resources is proposing a 15 day early Canada Goose season for Sept. 1st to 15th and a nine day teal season for Sept. 10th to 18th. The proposal has been endorsed by the IDNR Natural Resources Advisory Board and is awaiting approval by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Early Goose Season - The 15-day statewide early Canada goose season includes a bag limit of five birds in the north-east zone and two in the remainder of the state, which includes the north, central and south zones. The possession limit in each zone is twice the bag limit. Hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. The Canada goose population is estimated at more than 93,000 in Illinois. Canada geese taken in the September season do not count toward the regular season quota.

Early Teal Season - The statewide blue-winged teal season is Sept. 10th to 18th from sunrise to sunset. The daily bag limit is four with a possession limit of eight. The spring breeding population estimate is 4.58 million birds, allowing for a nine-day season. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service teal harvest strategy requires at least 4.7 million-breeding blue-winged teal to allow a 16-day season. The rest of the waterfowl hunting seasons are expected to be announced later this summer.

ANNUAL FAMILY ORIENTED OUTING: Now is the time to schedule Sept. 24th and 25th to attend the Northern Illinois Hunting and Fishing Days. Learn how to train a dog; throw a tomahawk; paddle a canoe; shoot a bow, shotgun and BB gun.

Plenty of hands-on activities for the entire family. Stocked kids fishing pond; outdoor women's seminars; giveaways; 80 plus exhibitors; food; free admission and parking.

The hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days at Silver Springs State Fish and Wildlife Area, 13608 Fox Road, Yorkville, Illinois. Visit their web site at www.huntingandfishing-days.org.

20,000 NON-RESIDENT ARCHERY DEER PERMITS SEEMS LIKE OVERKILL TO ME: The Illinois Department of Natural Resources is accepting applications for 2005 non-resident archery deer permits. The permits will be issued through a computerized random lottery drawing this summer involving those hunters who apply by phone or through the Department web site through July 31st.

Up to "20,000" combination archery deer permits have been allocated for non-resident bow hunters. The combination permits consist of one either-sex permit and one antlerless-only permit. The fee for the non-resident combination archery deer permit is $325 plus a processing fee of $2.50 and 2.5 percent of the total sale. Sounds like real money-maker for the state, private landowners and outfitters, to me.

Non-resident hunters may apply through July 31st via telephone at 1(800) 705-4164 or through the IDNR web site: <http://dnr.state.il.us/admin/systems/index.htm>.

Clients of outfitters licensed by the IDNR will be given preference in the drawing for the first 7500 of the 20,000 permits. Clients of licensed outfitters should contact the outfitter prior to applying to receive a certificate number to be used in the application process to verify their client status. "Wow! At these numbers of permits and dollars involved, resident hunters are sure to see land previously available to them for deer hunting disappear into the hands of the outfitters, or leased to non-resident hunters."

AUTO-ANIMAL COLLISIONS: Cars and motorcycles crash into deer more than 4,000 times a day, and that's taking an increasingly deadly toll on people. Last year a record 210 motorists were killed in collisions with animals, mostly deer. That was more than the previous year and more than twice the number in 1993, according to a study by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety.

Deer are involved in about 75% of fatal animals involved accidents. In all, there were 1.5 million deer crashes last year, injuring 13,713 people and causing $1.1 billion in vehicle damage, the Institute said.

PRESIDENT'S BUDGET FOR GREAT LAKES: President Bush is requesting $50 million in the FY 2006 Budget to implement the Great Lakes Legacy Act. This is an increase of nearly $28 million and more than doubles the level funded by Congress in FY 2005.

The natural beauty of the Great Lakes is only one aspect of this vital national. More than 30 million Americans located in cities and communities depend on the Great Lakes for their drinking water.

The five Great Lakes make up the largest surface freshwater system on earth and generate more than $1 billion from the recreational fishing industry. The Lakes support the shipping trade and provide food for millions of Americans.

Tips For Making Outstanding Photos

Whether packing for a picnic in an Illinois State Park or stepping into the backyard, more and more people are grabbing their cameras before walking out the door. As the popularity of photography as a hobby increases, the Illinois Department of Natural Resources is inviting those who take pictures of Illinois nature and wildlife to share their best shots, with a chance at prizes.

The magazine Outdoor Illinois, published by the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, is seeking entries for its sixth annual photo contest. This year's theme is "Prairie State Seasons."

Adele Hodde, Outdoor Illinois Director of Photography offers these tips for taking good pictures:

- Choose a focal point and make all background scenery enhance it.
- Use a tripod.
- Follow the rule of thirds when framing the image in your viewfinder. Divide an image into three parts horizontally and vertically.
- Respect wildlife by viewing it from a safe distance. Do not interrupt its behavior.
- Whether it is feeding or resting. Do not come between a parent and its offspring.
- Do not damage or remove any plant or habitat.
- Be patient—wait for the ideal shot.
- Use a faster shutter speed when photographing animals in motion, such as birds. Use a slower shutter when photographing moving water to create a softer image.

Photos submitted for the contest must be taken in Illinois and will be judged in five categories:

- Wildlife, Backyard/Urban Wildlife
- Scenic/floral
- Recreational activities
- Young shutterbugs (qualifying photographs can be any of the above four categories, but must be taken by a photographer age 12 or younger).

Contest winners receive prizes, and the winning photos will be published in the February, 2006 issue.

Sertoma's Super Sale

Sertoma Centre Foundation, Inc.'s Housewares Super Sale, July 9 and 10, at Tinley Park Convention Center drew crowds of bargain hunters along with a few familiar faces. Sen. Debbie Halvorson (D-Crete) joined the many shoppers looking for fantastic buys on a multitude of household items including china, crystal, silverware, kitchen appliances, outdoor accessories, furniture, barware, home décor and more – all for a great cause.

Sale profits help support Sertoma Centre, Inc. with two locations in Alsip – Administrative Office & Insite Training Systems at 4343 W. 123rd St. and the Martha Polacek facility at 4100 W. 127th St. The nationally accredited, non-profit was founded in 1971 by three local Sertoma Clubs providing job training programs and employment services to more than 650 individuals with developmental, physical, emotional and mental disabilities.

Programs range from a high school transition program for students, ages 16 to 21; packaging & assembly, classes detailing social skills, on-site job training, and supervised community housing in 11 area homes for individuals older than 21; to the Young-at-Heart seniors program for elderly participants.

To serve these individuals who come from 45 south and southwest suburbs to the Centre daily, Sertoma only receives approximately 75 percent of its funding from the State of Illinois. The remaining monies must be generated by fund raisers, such as the super sale. Sertoma Centre is one of a handful of charities to be a designated recipient of overstock and unsold inventory from the International Housewares Show each year in Chicago at McCormack Place. Sertoma Centre, in turn, resells the household items to the public at discounted prices.

To find out more about volunteering your time or to receive notification of the next super sale, e-mail mjones@sertomacentre.org or call Melanie Jones, director of advancement & communications. (708) 371-9700, extension 206 for more information.

New WVON Radio Headquarters

Approval was granted by the Chicago City Council for a plan allowing the city to provide financial assistance to Midway Broadcasting Company for the creation of a larger headquarters, which also will become the new home of WVON radio.

Under the plan, Midway Broadcasting's headquarters will move from 3350 S. Kedzie Ave. to a much larger location at 1000 E. 87th St. The new location will comprise two buildings and consist of 54,000 square feet.

The city is assisting in the relocation and expansion effort by making $1 million in Tax Increment Financing available to Midway Broadcasting. The total cost of the project is estimated at $4.7 million.

The expansion will allow Midway Broadcasting to retain 25 jobs in the city and create six additional positions.

Energy Plan Will Give Wind Power A Major Boost In Illinois

The Illinois Commerce Commission adopted Gov. Blagojevich's Sustainable Energy Plan on July 19th. The plan will greatly increase the use of renewable energy and energy efficiency that will create jobs, boost investment in rural communities, protect the environment, promote energy independence and help stabilize energy prices.

Gov. Blagojevich praised the leadership of Commissioner Bob Licherman, who led the ICC review of the plan, and utility companies, consumer watchdog groups and environmental organizations for coming to agreement after years of deadlocked negotiations.

Under the plan's Renewable Portfolio Standard, the state's largest electric utilities will begin supplying 2% renewable energy to their Illinois customers by Jan. 1st, 2007, increasing 1% annually to 8% by 2013. Illinois currently gets only about one-half of one percent of its electricity from renewable resources and has only about 100 megawatts of wind energy in operation. Under the governor's plan, this requirement will lead to more than 3,000 megawatts of power generated from renewable sources by 2013, enough to serve about 1 million Illinois households. At least 75% of this renewable energy – or more than 2,000 megawatts – would be generated by wind power, Illinois' most abundant and affordable renewable energy resource.

The ICC also adopted an Energy Efficiency Portfolio Standard that will lead to greater investment by electric utilities in programs that save energy. By 2007, electric utilities will meet 10% of growth in demand for electricity through energy efficiency, ramping up to 25% by 2015.

Relaunching Heart Transplant Program

Chicago lags far behind other major metropolitan areas in the number of heart transplants performed. Therefore, a team of surgeons and cardiologists at the Bluhm Cardiovascular Institute of Northwestern Memorial Hospital is relaunching a heart transplant program in hopes of maximizing the area's organ usage and saving more lives.

Chicago is the nation's third largest city, yet Chicago surgeons perform about 50 heart transplants a year – 60 percent fewer than their colleagues in New York City and Los Angeles.

"Some Chicagoans are leaving the area to have their heart transplants, or more troubling, are needlessly dying not knowing that they are candidates for transplant. At the same time, about 20 donor hearts were exported out of the city last year," says Patrick McCarthy, MD, co-director of the Bluhm Cardiovascular Institute, and chief, Cardiothoracic Surgery. "Our goal is to increase donor awareness and maximize organ usage, ensuring more hearts stay in the Chicago area. We'd like to see the number of heart transplants done in this city tripled."

Dr. McCarthy came to Northwestern Memorial 16 months ago from The Cleveland Clinic, where he led a program performing approximately 75 heart transplants per year and boasting the world's lowest mortality rates (80 percent survival at five years). "There is a very real need in Chicago for a prominent heart transplant program that can help raise awareness among referring cardiologists and the public and help the city deliver more hearts to Chicagoans in need," says Dr. McCarthy.

"A new program at Northwestern Memorial will help to elevate the number of heart transplants in Illinois and provide hope to the hundreds of people in Illinois waiting for lifesaving heart transplants," says Jarold Anderson, president and CEO, Gift of Hope Organ & Tissue Donor Network.

Dr. McCarthy's first task in launching the program was the recruitment of Edwin McGee, Jr., MD, also from The Cleveland Clinic, to the position of surgical director of the Bluhm Cardiovascular Institute's Heart Transplant Program.

"Our goal is to compete with the country's most elite heart transplant centers, making people feel they can stay closer to home for state-of-the-art heart care."

Under the plan, utilities will help their customers install more efficient heating and cooling systems, lights and equipment that will slow the growth in energy use and help lower energy bills for homes and businesses.

Both of Illinois' two largest electric utilities – ComEd and Ameren Corporation – have pledged to implement the plan and will begin accepting proposals from wind developers this fall.

Hot Weather Tips To Safeguard Seniors

When temperatures and humidity rise, nursing homes around Illinois go on alert. Seniors are particularly susceptible to complications from hot weather because of decreased awareness of heat exhaustion and heat stroke due to age. The Illinois Council on Long Term Care, a statewide association of long term care facilities, is offering valuable tips to the public on how to keep seniors safe and comfortable during this summer's heat wave.

As part of its effort to protect seniors from extreme heat, the Council has sent its members a "Heat Protocol" developed by the Illinois Dept. of Public Health. The Council works closely with the Illinois Dept. of Public Health, the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid, and the Chicago Dept. of Public Health to educate the public about extreme heat.

Based on the experience and expertise nursing homes have gained in serving the elderly, the Illinois Council on Long Term Care advises everyone to take the following steps to protect seniors from extreme heat:

- Use an air conditioner to keep rooms cool. If air conditioning is unavailable, open windows on opposite ends of the house or building to cross-ventilate and increase airflow. Additionally, move seniors to the coolest area of the house or building.
- Regularly tend to individuals who are most at risk for heat-related illnesses, including elderly with heart, circulatory and pulmonary conditions. Many medicines, including those used for heart conditions, depression and allergies, also can make a person more susceptible to heat stress.
- Encourage seniors to drink more fluids. Because of decreased thirst awareness, seniors do not always know when they need fluid. They should drink on a regular basis rather than only when they are thirsty.
- Ensure the elderly are wearing light-colored, loose-fitting clothing that allows the body to release heat.
- Shade windows exposed to direct sunlight.
- Keep an eye out for seniors with signs of discomfort.

Children from households that meet Federal guidelines are eligible for free or reduced-price meal services. With the 2005-2006 school year, each household should complete one application for all children that attend the same school district.

All meals served must meet the U. S. Department of Agriculture meal requirements. However, if a child has been determined by a doctor to have a disability and the disability would prevent the child from eating the regular school meal, this school will make substitutions prescribed by the doctor. If a substitution is needed, there will be no extra charge for the meal. If you believe your child needs substitutions because of a disability, please contact the school for further information.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced-price meal services, households must complete the application as soon as possible, sign it, and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available in the principal's office in each school. Households should answer all applicable questions on the form. An application which does not contain all the required information cannot be processed and approved by the school. Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) participants may be eligible for free/reduced-price meals and are encouraged to complete an application for meal benefits.

The required information is as follows:

FOOD STAMP/TANF HOUSEHOLDS: If you received a letter with an eligibility certificate for school meals, return the eligibility certificate to the school your child attends. You do not have to complete this application to receive meal benefits. Households that currently receive food stamps or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) for their child(ren), only have to list the child(ren)'s name and food stamp or TANF case number and sign the application. Applications listing Link card numbers cannot be used for free or reduced-price meals.

ALL OTHER HOUSEHOLDS: If a household's income is at or below the level shown on the income scale, children are eligible for either free or reduced-price meal services. Households must provide the following information: (1) the names of all household members; (2) the social security number of the adult household member signing the application, or indicate if the adult does not have a social security number; (3) the amount of income each household member received last month, how frequently it is paid; and where it came from (wages, child support, etc.); and (4) the signature of an adult household member.

The information on the application may be checked by school or other officials at any time during the school year.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. Households that are not eligible now but have a decrease in household income, an increase in household size, or have a household member becomes unemployed, should fill out an application at that time.

In certain cases foster children are eligible for free or reduced-price meal services regardless of the household income. Households that have foster children living with them and wish to apply free or reduced-price for meal services for them should complete the application. Homeless, migrant, and runaway youth are categorically eligible for free meals; please contact the school homeless liaison or migrant coordinator.

Households that do not agree with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss it with the school. Households also have the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the following official:

West Nile Threat Remains High

According to the surveillance done by the Mosquito Abatement Districts of Cook County (MADs) and the Cook County Department of Public Health (CCDPH), almost 120 positive culex mosquito samples have been identified as carriers of West Nile virus. During mosquito season, May through October, the health department and the MADs routinely survey areas with mosquito traps to determine the presence of West Nile virus (WNV).

The culex mosquito, also known as the house mosquito, thrives in both urban and suburban environments. The female mosquitoes lay their eggs in buckets, tin cans, tires, storm drains, catch basins, unused swimming pools or birdbaths which hold stagnant water. Eventually the larvae develop into adults capable of spreading the virus.

"It is important that residents do not become complacent. The number of West Nile virus positive birds and mosquito pools are increasing throughout the County. During periods of low rainfall and high temperatures, such as what we are seeing now, the life cycle of the house mosquito is accelerated. Heat drives the process," added Dr. Martin, Cook County Department of Public Health Chief Operating Officer.

In addition to the positive mosquito samples, six birds in suburban Cook County have tested positive for the virus, out of 25 submitted.

WNV is transmitted through the bite of a mosquito that has picked up the virus by feeding on an infected bird. Most people with the virus have no clinical symptoms of illness, but some may become ill three to 14 days after the bite of an infected mosquito. Symptoms may include fever, headache and body aches.

Anyone who develops symptoms such as high fever, confusion, muscle weakness, severe headaches or stiff neck should see a doctor immediately. These symptoms may indicate meningitis or encephalitis, two potentially life-threatening illnesses. Diagnosis is made through a blood test, but no specific medication exists to treat or cure the disease.

For more WNV prevention information or to report a dead bird or animal, call CCDPH at (708) 492-2650, or visit these sites:

FACT OR FICTION: DIET SODA HELPS WEIGHT LOSS?

While regular soda remains the "king" of the soft drink industry, diet soda has increased consistently in the American diet since the early 1990's. Huge marketing campaigns and the American desire to lose weight have bolstered consumption to levels never imagined possible by soft drink companies. But the findings from this "switch" to diet soft drinks over fifteen years remains somewhat mysterious. Better weight control must be part of the picture, right? The truth of the matter is that diet soda may actually enhance obesity, not reduce it.

In a large, long-term study undertaken by the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, researchers found that those consuming diet sodas gained more weight over the study period than their counterparts consuming regular soft drinks. The data were reported at the Annual Meeting of the American Diabetes Association in San Diego last month.

The study followed over 600 people for up to 8 years. The participants were of normal weight at its beginning, ranging in age between 25 and 64. They initially were interviewed regarding their soft drink intake—i.e., what type they preferred (regular vs. diet), how many cans per day they consumed, etc.

The findings over the eight years were as follows:

With regular soft drink consumption—approximately 33 percent of those drinking one to two cans per day became overweight or obese approximately 47 percent of those drinking more than two cans per day became overweight or obese

With diet soft drink consumption—approximately 54 percent of those drinking one to two cans per day became overweight or obese
approximately 57 percent of those drinking more than two cans per day became overweight or obese

Most diet drinks have no calories, so obviously, they cannot—in and of themselves—cause obesity. So several theories were proposed by scientists. The first is that although diet soda may be sweet to one's palate, your body still knows it is empty of nutrients, so it, in turn, goes on a mission to find the nutrients (and calories) elsewhere. Another theory, which some scientists believe is "right on the mark," is that we develop a certain mind-set in which we believe that because diet soda is calorie-free, we have the license to eat other foods more freely. Consequently, we end up in a calorie surplus after all.

It is mostly a matter of portion control and exercise which will allow for weight loss, as our nation of overweight people is finding. If you watch what you put on your plate and pour in your glass, and stay physically active on a regular basis, you will surely find yourself in better shape, health care professionals continually preach. And, when it comes to beverages, "consider more healthful alternatives, and save the sodas for weekend treats," said Tedd Mitchell, MD, medical director of the Wellness Program of the Cooper Clinic in Dallas, Texas.

Continuing Heat Poses Health Risks

With temperatures rising into the 90s and high humidity levels, Cook County health officials are warning residents to exercise caution during periods of extreme heat by curtailing outdoor physical activity as much as possible and by taking other precautionary measures:

"Make sure you take in enough fluids, limit the amount of time you spend outdoors and avoid direct sunlight," said Cook County Board President John H. Stroger, Jr.

Normally, the body has ways of keeping itself cool, by letting heat escape through the skin, and by evaporating sweat (perspiration). If the body does not cool properly or does not cool enough, the victim may suffer a heat-related illness. Heat-related illnesses can become serious or even deadly if unattended.

Heat exhaustion can result when too much time is spent in a very warm environment, resulting in excessive sweating without adequate fluid and electrolyte replacement (salt and minerals). Symptoms may include dizziness, headache, nausea, abdominal cramps, shallow breathing, cold and clammy skin, muscle tremors and heavy perspiration. Persons with heat exhaustion should be moved indoors to an air-conditioned room, or if outside, to a shaded area.

Heat stroke can result from overexposure to direct sunlight, or to very high temperatures. Symptoms include an extremely high body temperature (above 103 F), red, hot and dry skin, rapid pulse, throbbing headache, dizziness, nausea and confusion.

If heat stroke is present, find a cool place, preferably an air-conditioned setting – loosen the clothing, put the person in a semi-sitting position, and bathe the head and body with cold water.

Death or permanent disability can result if medical attention is not sought promptly.

Monitor Those at High Risk

Although anyone at any time can suffer from heat-related illness, some people are at greater risk than others.

- Infants and children up to four years of age are sensitive to the effects of high temperatures and rely on others to regulate their environments and provide adequate liquids.
- People 65 years of age or older may not compensate for heat stress efficiently and are less likely to sense and respond to change in temperature.
- People who are overweight may be prone to heat sickness because of their tendency to retain more body heat.
- People who overexert during work or exercise may become dehydrated and susceptible to heat sickness.
- People who are physically ill, especially with heart disease or high blood pressure, or who take certain medications, such as for depression, insomnia or poor circulation, may be affected by extreme heat.

Visit adults at risk at least twice a day and closely watch them for signs of heat exhaustion or heat stroke. Infants and young children, of course, need much more frequent watching.

The Cook County Dept. of Public Health recommends following these guidelines:

- Drink 1 to 1½ quarts of fluid daily to prevent dehydration. Water, fruit juices and juice drinks are the best choices. Avoid alcohol and caffeine because they dehydrate the body.
- Avoid highly salted foods.
- Plan activities for the coolest part of the day – before noon or in the evening.
- Wear light colored, lightweight clothing. If you must go outside during the hottest part of the day, wear a hat.
- Use a sunscreen with a sun protection factor (SPF) greater than 15 to protect yourself from sunburn.
- While outdoors, rest frequently in a shady area.
- Never leave children, the elderly or pets in a parked car, not even for a few minutes. Brain damage or death can occur from the rapid rise of temperature inside the vehicle.

If there is no air-conditioning at home, residents should find relief in public facilities such as libraries, shopping centers, senior centers, movie theaters and restaurants. Senior citizens may want to contact their township, local church or community group about being escorted to the nearest cooling center.

For more information regarding heat-related illness, call CCDPH at (708) 492-2000. Or log onto: www.cookcountypublichealth.org, TDD (708) 492-2002.

Myasthenia Gravis Disease Symptoms

A smile, a steak at your favorite restaurant, a long walk through the park...for most of us, these things are easy to take for granted. However, a diagnosis with an autoimmune, neuromuscular disease called Myasthenia Gravis can make these and other seemingly simple tasks feel beyond reach.

Myasthenia Gravis (MG) is a chronic disease characterized by abnormal weakness of the voluntary muscles of the body. Symptoms can include a drooping eyelid, blurred or double vision, slurred speech, difficulty chewing and swallowing, weakness in the arms and legs, chronic muscle fatigue and difficulty breathing. The weakness increases with continued activity and can be improved with periods of rest. Everyone is not affected in the same way, and symptoms and severity vary.

These symptoms can appear similar to other diseases and physicians unfamiliar with the disorder may not recognize the characteristics to make an appropriate diagnosis. For this reason, it is probable that the prevalence rate is actually higher than the current estimated 70,000 individuals in the United States.

There is no cure, but symptoms can be managed with the proper treatment. These available treatments are sufficiently effective that most patients will lead normal lives. The various forms of treatment include medications, thymectomy (surgery to remove the thymus gland), plasmapheresis (removal of abnormal antibodies from the blood stream), and IVIG treatments (the addition of good antibodies to the bloodstream).

Founded in 1952, the Myasthenia Gravis Foundation of America (MGFA) is the only nonprofit voluntary health agency in the United States. Its mission is to facilitate the timely diagnosis and optimal care of individuals affected by MG and to improve their lives through programs of patient services, public information, medical research, professional education, advocacy and patient care.

To learn more, call 1-800-888-6208 or visit its website at www.myastheniagravis.org.

Pharmacies Who Refuse To Fill Prescriptions

July 26th, the House of Representatives Committee on Small Business held a hearing on the disturbing trend of pharmacies who refuse to fill valid prescriptions for contraception. The hearing highlighted the "Emergency Rule" issued by Illinois Governor Rod Blagojevich, which requires pharmacies to fill all valid and legal birth control prescriptions without delay.

A representative from Governor Blagojevich's office testified at the hearing, along with representatives from the American Pharmacies Association and Megan Kelly, a woman from Geneva, Illinois who was refused her prescription for birth control and emergency contraception.

"When I went to pick up my medication, the pharmacist on duty said she would not fill my prescriptions because of her beliefs, and that I would have to get my prescriptions filled elsewhere," said Megan Kelly in her statement during the hearing. "As in my case, this practice can result in humiliation and - based on the nature of the medication - poses a health risk when the prescription is not filled in a timely manner."

On Feb. 23, 2005, a pharmacist at a Chicago Osco store refused to fill prescriptions for contraception for two women who are patients of Planned Parenthood/Chicago Area (PP/CA). PP/CA registered a complaint with the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation. To educate women about the dangerous trend of pharmacist refusals to fill prescriptions and to urge them to take action, PP/CA also organized a protest of nearly a hundred advocates in front of the pharmacy. The rally drew attention to the issue of pharmacist refusals and sparked a public debate about the rights of women to receive basic health care in Illinois and around the country.

Pharmacist refusals are not limited to Illinois or any particular location. Planned Parenthood has received reports from across the nation of pharmacists refusing to fill women's prescriptions for both regular birth control and emergency contraception.

For more information on pharmacist refusals, including a state-by-state guide to major pharmacy chains and their policies, visit www.fillmypillsnow.org and www.plannedparenthood.org.

Checks Are In The Mail

Attorney General Lisa Madigan joined officials and representatives from all 49 other states, Washington, D.C. and Puerto Rico in announcing that settlement checks are being sent this week to 76,000 consumers nationwide, including more than 3,500 Illinoisans, who purchased the prescription heart medication Cardizem CD between 1998 and 2004.

Madigan said 3,515 Illinois consumers will receive a total of $1,167,684 to compensate for overpayment for Cardizem CD and its generic equivalents between 1998 and 2004. Nationwide, more than $24 million will be distributed to compensate more than 76,000 individual consumers. The states' plan to distribute money to consumers was approved by U.S. District Court Judge Nancy Edmunds on May 31st, after the Supreme Court refused on May 23rd to review the settlement.

The settlement resulted from more than five years of litigation begun by private plaintiffs against Aventis Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Andrx Corporation and affiliated entities. The lawsuit alleged that Aventis and Andrx violated antitrust laws when they illegally agreed that Aventis would pay Andrx nearly $90-million to stop Andrx from bringing its less expensive generic version of Cardizem CD to market. The delay in the availability of the generic form of Cardizem CD meant consumers, medical insurance companies and the government had to purchase the higher-priced brand name version of the drug for at least an extra year, the Attorneys General alleged.

Ride for the Red participants can bring their bikes to enjoy a ride, a family picnic, and a chance to win a 2005 customized 5th Horseman Chopper by Windwalkers, all while benefiting the lifesaving programs of the Greater Chicago Red Cross.

"We're excited to offer Chicagoland riders and their families a unique way to support the local Red Cross," said Karen Crumback, volunteer chairperson for Ride for the Red. "We're especially thrilled to offer a one-of-a-kind raffle this year. If you've always wanted to own a customized Chopper, now is your chance to fulfill that dream and support a great cause."

Raffle tickets can be pre-purchased for $100 now until Sept. 10th by calling (312) 729-6120 or visiting www.rideforthered.com. The Chicago Red Cross will raffle the grand prize of a 2005 rare, Windwalkers customized 5th Horseman Chopper with 110 Rev tech engine - a $45,000 value! Only 500 raffle tickets will be sold, and the winner will be announced at the Ride for the Red picnic on Sept. 10th.

Ride for the Red event tickets are $20 in advance and $25 on the day of the ride. Children under 16 are free when accompanied by an adult. Registration opens at 9 a.m. and the engines rev up for the ride at 10 a.m. The picnic begins at noon and includes food, music, beverages and a raffle. To find out more details or to register, visit www.rideforthered.com or call (312) 729-6120.

Surgical Packets

The Dept. of Financial and Professional Regulation (IDFPR) announced on July 25th that registration packets for surgical assistants and surgical technologists are now available in Illinois. Registration of surgical specialists will increase the quality of health care for Illinois citizens, meeting Gov. Blagojevich's goal of providing high quality health care to all Illinoisans. Knowing that surgical staff are registered and have met national accreditation standards will improve the success rate of treatments and increase patient confidence.

The Department estimates that about 200 surgical assistants and 800-1000 surgical technologists working in hospitals and clinics across the state will apply for registration. Registration of these two health-related specialties is available only to surgical technologists and assistants who have completed programs that are recognized by one of several national accreditation organizations.

The application packets contain detailed instructions and requirements and are now available to be downloaded and printed at www.idfpr.com. Initial registration costs $100 and renewals (every two years) cost $62.50 per year.

Veterans And Soldiers News

By Lori Taylor Ph: 708.388.2425

I would like to share this with you. It is the story behind the song "Taps."

Reportedly, it all began in 1862 during the Civil War, when Union Army Captain Robert Ellicombe was with his men near Harrison's Landing in Virginia. The Confederate Army was on the other side of the narrow strip of land. During the night, Captain Ellicombe heard moans of a soldier who lay severely wounded on the field. Not knowing if it was a Union or Confederate soldier, the Captain decided to risk his life and bring the stricken man back for medical attention.

Crawling on his stomach through the gunfire, the Captain reached the stricken soldier and began pulling him toward his encampment. When the Captain finally reached his own lines, he discovered it was actually a Confederate soldier, but the soldier was dead.

The Captain lit a lantern and suddenly caught his breath and went numb with shock. In the dim light, he saw the face of the soldier. It was his own son. The boy had been studying music in the South when the war broke out. Without telling his father, the boy enlisted in the Confederate Army. The following morning, heartbroken, the father asked permission of his superiors to give his son a full military burial despite his enemy status.

His request was only partially granted. The Captain had asked if he could have a group of Army band members play a funeral dirge for his son at the funeral. The request was turned down since the soldier was a Confederate. But out of respect for the father, they did say they could give him only one musician. The Captain chose a bugler. He asked the bugler to play a series of musical notes he had found on a piece of paper in the pocket of the dead youth's uniform. This was granted. The haunting melody, we now know as "Taps" used at military funerals, was born with these words.

Day is done,
Gone the sun,
From the lakes,
From the hills,
From the sky,
All is well,
Safely rest,
God is nigh.

Fading light,
Dims the sight,
And a star,
Gems the sky,
Gleaming bright,
From afar,
Drawing nigh,
Falls the night.

Thanks and praise,
For our days,
'Neath the sun,
'Neath the stars,
'Neath the sky,
As we go,
This we know,
God is nigh.

Hometown-Murray VFW Post 9773 is having a GI breakfast on Sunday, July 31st from 8 a.m. to noon at the "Mess Hall," 9092 Main St. in Hometown. The menu includes scrambled eggs, bacon, sausage, pancakes, toast and the Soldier's Blue Plate Special SOS (chipped beef on toast), coffee and juice. The cost is $4 per person. Donations benefit the veterans, the military and their families, and the community. For more information, call (708) 422-9800.

Orland Park Police Sgt. Patrick Duggan and his neighbor, Illinois Army National Guard Staff Sgt. Philip Bresnahan, recently made a flag exchange. Duggan sent an Orland Park Police Department flag to Bresnahan who flew the flag over his base in Balad, Iraq. The members of Bresnahan's unit, the 3625th Maintenance Company, all signed the flag and returned it to Orland Park with an American flag they had also flown over the base, with certificates of authenticity. The signed flag is on display in the lobby of the Frederick T. Owens Village Hall right next to the village's Hometown Heroes Board. The Heroes Board was created in April 2003 and shows the photos, local information and military service of area residents currently serving in the military. To post a photo of a loved one on the Heroes Board currently serving in the military, call the village Media Relations Office at (708) 403-6145.

The U-505 Submarine is now on display at the Museum of Science and Industry, 57th and Lake Shore Drive. The exhibit contains nearly 200 artifacts, including an authentic German Enigma machine, a T5 acoustic torpedo, historic film footage, photographs, radio transmissions, and audio narratives from the veterans who made the capture. The exhibit includes much more and will captivate adults and kids. It is included in the general admission of the museum. An optional, ticketed onboard tour of the U-505 is $5 per guest. For quick entry into the museum, purchase tickets on line at www.msi.chicago.org or call (773) 684-1414 for advance reservations or more information.

I hope you enjoy reading this column as much as I enjoy writing it. Good bye for this week and God bless you and your loved ones and God bless America!

Governor Signs Veterans Benefits Bills

Building on his commitment to continuously help Illinois' veterans and members of the Armed Forces, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed into law several bills on July 23rd that will give Illinois soldiers, veterans and their families important relief when it comes to property taxes, will eliminate certain state fees, and will make it easier for men and women in active service to keep their children in the same school district when they are called up.

Governor Blagojevich, who also attended the Department of Defense World War II 60th Anniversary Commemoration held July 23rd at Navy Pier, signed into law House Bill 270 which increases property tax exemptions for disabled veterans and their spouses; House Bill 551 which gives national guardsmen and reservists a 180-day extension to file their property taxes; House Bill 544 which eliminates the initial fees for the Gold Star plates; House Bill 2550 which waives camping, hunting and fishing fees for Illinois residents who are members of the Armed Forces and are returning from active duty; and House Bill 156, which allows called-up soldiers to keep their children in their same school district and not have to pay out-of-district tuition.

The World War II 60th Anniversary Commemoration is a series of nationwide memorial events recognizing the 16 million Americans who were called to service during World War II for their extraordinary sacrifice. Past events have been held in Boston, San Diego and Washington, D.C. Some 987,000 Illinoisans served during World War II, of which 22,000 perished in combat.

HB 270, which takes effect immediately, increases the property tax exemption for disabled veterans and their spouses from $58,000 to $70,000. The original exemption was created to give property tax relief to veterans who have had federal state grants to rehab their homes to accommodate for their disabilities.

A property tax exemption decreases the assessed value of property, which results in a reduction in property tax owed to the county of residence. So far this year, more than 350 veterans are receiving the current benefit, while a dozen more are in the application process.

HB 551, sponsored by State Rep. William B. Black (R-Danville) and State Sen. Dale A. Righter (R-Mattoon), gives national guardsmen and reservists who are Illinois residents extra time to pay property taxes incurred while on active duty. Returning soldiers will now have an additional 180 days from the time they return to pay their property taxes without a penalty. The legislation becomes effective immediately.

Currently, the law did not require Illinois residency or include national guardsmen and only gave them a 30-day extension to pay delinquent property tax bills without incurring a penalty.

HB 544, which becomes effective Jan. 1, removes the $15 initial issuance fee for Gold Star license plates, which are issued to parents who have lost a child that was in the service.

The new law reduces the total fee from $93 to $78. Since most drivers have already renewed their current

Gold Star Plates for the upcoming year, the fee elimination will begin in 2007 and has minimum impact on state coffers.

HB 2550 provides that Illinois residents, who are members of the Armed Forces, the Illinois National Guard, or the U.S. Armed Forces Reserves and have returned from service, will be allowed to camp, fish and hunt in the state without paying a fee.

Under previous rules, all veterans had to pay $19.25 for a Sportsmen's License, which includes hunting and fishing, and on average $20 per day to camp at a state park.

Veterans will also receive a free State Habitat Stamp, which is worth $5.50. Funds from the normal purchase of these stamps are used for national area development.

Both houses of the state's legislature unanimously approved HB 2550, which takes effect immediately.

HB 156, which becomes effective immediately, provides that children of soldiers who have been called up to service, can stay in their same school district without having to pay out-of-district tuition if they are forced to live with a relative who lives outside the district.

Under the new law, a child's residence would not change for enrollment purposes, even if they are temporarily living out of the district. This exception would apply only for the duration of the parent or guardian's military service obligation.

VFW Aux. State President

There will be a different color for each type of cancer. The object is for each president to fill her wreath. Proceeds will go to the Cancer Aid and Research Program. The second project is the Illinois Patriotic Art Endowment fund to raise funds to make it possible for the Department of Illinois Ladies Auxiliary to have a perpetual endowment fund for the Young Patriotic Art Program awards.

Letter To The Editor

Letter to the Editor,
Governor Blagojevich claimed he is taking the high moral ground by using my tax dollars to fund stem cell experiments on the tiniest of humans, embryos. This man needs to retake Ethics 101.

Just as gruesome is the fact that in order to conduct these experiments that dissect tiny embryos for their stem cells, researchers equally want the ability to clone humans. And taxpayer funding of human cloning is in Blagojevich's executive order. This is right out of a sci-fi horror movie.

I certainly do not want my hard earned tax dollars to pay for the destruction of millions of pre-born human babies and for cloning them. No way!

Operating Engineers vs. Teamsters

On Friday night, Aug. 5th, one of the most outstanding amateur boxing exhibitions in recent memory will be introduced to the Chicagoland region. The International Brotherhood of Operating Engineers Hall - Local #150 will serve as host as the top amateurs from Cook County will face-off against the best of DuPage County. It's the Operating Engineers vs. the Teamsters ... a rock-um, sock-um series of bouts sure to satisfy the most ardent boxing fans.

According to promoter Jerry Elsner, "our slogan 'Tough Guys Don't Do Drugs™' is designed to capture the attention of young athletes, of all colors and economic circumstances, who wish to channel their energies into a positive, competitive direction." He continued, "With the assistance of a number of interested patrons, including former Senator Patrick O'Malley (of Palos Park), several disadvantaged youngsters are being introduced to a sport that rewards both their individual efforts and offers a club atmosphere where they can grow and interact with their peers. Incidentally, all profits from this evening will be used to build a youth center. Everybody's a winner!"

The International Brotherhood of Operating Engineers Hall is located at Joliet Road and LaGrange Road in Countryside. The doors open at 6 p.m. with contests to begin after 6:30 p.m. In addition to the fight action, the evening highlights will include: prize drawings and raffles, a beer wagon, ice cold drinks and a bevy of beauties serving them. DJ's will provide music both inside and outside the Engineers Hall. There will even be a 350 gallon dunk tank for interested participants. For more information and tickets call (630) 778-9191.

Sugar Creek Exhibit Opens This Weekend

A Sugar Creek Exhibit Opening, featuring new exhibits that interpret the "green" components of the Forest Preserve District of Will County's Sugar Creek Administration Center, will be Saturday, July 30th, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This special program is free of charge and open to all ages.

The new exhibits are mounted both inside and outside of the building. Two tours, at 10 a.m. and 12 noon, will introduce visitors to the exhibits and the many energy-saving features and abundant use of recycled material that make the administration center a model of "green" architecture. From solar panels on the roof to carpeting made from plastic bottles, the building points the way to possibilities existing today to limit the impact on the environment of construction and day-to-day operation.

In addition to the tours, the Exhibit Opening will feature Jeff Green, of Renewable Energy, who will provide information on incorporating green technologies into your home, and raffle prizes, sample green products, and energy efficiency kits that will be awarded to

History Demonstration

The Isle a la Cache Brigade will bring insight into what life was like here in the Illinois Territory during the mid-18th century during a "Living History Demonstration." Sponsored by the Forest Preserve District of Will County, this family program will be Sunday, Aug. 21st from 12 noon to 2 p.m., at Isle a la Cache Museum in Romeoville. The "Living History Demonstration" is free of charge and open to all ages.

The brigade will demonstrate skills used in the 18th century fur trade. At any given program, you may find potters, musket shooters, cooks, seamstresses, or craftsmen sharing their talents. The brigade was made up of reenactors who represent voyageurs, Courier Debois, French women, Metis, and Natives. Come and share this slice of history.

For additional information, call the Forest Preserve District of Will County at (815) 727-8700, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., weekdays.

lucky winners. Refreshments will be available.

At the Exhibit Opening, district staff will collect Personal Digital Assistants (PDA's), cell phones, and pagers for recycling. These electronic devices will be refurbished or scrapped for parts, therefore keeping their toxic components from ending up in a landfill. These items will be sent to CollectiveGoods, which will make a cash donation to the Sierra Club for these items.

The Sugar Creek Administration Center is located at 17540 W. Laraway Road, one mile east of Route 53, in Joliet.

Workers' Picketing Rights

Building on his longstanding commitment to protect workers' rights and improve conditions for hard-working men and women across the state, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich recently signed legislation that broadens picketing rights for labor unions and other workers involved in labor disputes with their employers.

House Bill 1480 allows people involved in labor disputes to picket, post temporary signs, park vehicles and set up tents or other temporary shelter areas for the picketers on public right-of-ways without having to require a permit. Currently, cities which are often employers with whom unions might have labor disputes sometimes use public safety issues to suppress a union's right to picket during a dispute.

Rep. Brandon Phelps (D-Harrisburg) and Sen. Debbie DeFrancesco Halvorson (D-Chicago Heights) sponsored HB 1480, which allows for picketing in public right-of-ways. A public right-of-way is defined as a portion of a highway or street next to a roadway for accommodating stopped vehicles or for emergency use, that portion of a street between the curb lines, or the lateral lines of a roadway and the adjacent property lines.

White Awards Adult Literacy Grants

Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White has announced the release of nearly $6.6 million in fiscal year 2006 literacy grants for 176 local literacy projects located throughout Illinois.

"These grants give our literacy providers some of the important financial resources they need to help students enhance their reading, writing, math and language skills," White said. "This year more than 30,000 adults students will be served by Secretary of State Adult Volunteer Literacy tutoring projects. Our partnership with literacy providers and volunteer tutors gives students the tools that will help them achieve their personal and professional goals."

Locally, Prairie State College in Chicago Heights received an Adult/Volunteer Literacy Grant in the amount of $62,000.

Moraine Valley Community College in Palos Hills was awarded an Adult/Volunteer Literacy Grant in the sum of $55,000.

South Suburban College in South Holland earned one Adult/Volunteer Literacy Grant and eight Workplace Skills Enhancement grants totaling $143,928.

Adult/Volunteer Literacy Grants provide training for volunteers who tutor adults over age 16 in basic reading, math, writing or language skills. Individual grants are awarded to libraries, community colleges, school districts, community-based organizations, volunteer organizations and correctional facilities. Almost $4.5 million is being awarded statewide this year.

Workplace Skills Enhancement Grants provide on-site instructional services to employees of Illinois businesses to enable them to enhance their basic reading, math, writing or language skills, maintain their employment and increase their eligibility for promotion. Individual grants are awarded to businesses and educational providers who operate in partnership to advance the employees' learning. More than $557,000 is being awarded this year for this type of grant.

Family Literacy Grants provide instructional services to parents and children to enhance their basic reading, math, writing or language skills both together and separately. Participation by the entire family increases the benefits of the instruction. Individual grants are awarded to a partnership of educational agencies, including an adult literacy provider, a child-at-risk organization and a public library. More than $1.5 million is being awarded in fiscal year 2006 for grants of this kind.

White is encouraging citizens interested in assisting Illinois literacy efforts to become a volunteer tutor. Persons may contact the Illinois Adult Learning Hotline at 1-800-321-9511 for information about becoming a tutor. Queen Of Peace Hosts Camp

Queen of Peace High School is in the midst of the annual series of summer athletic camps for students in grades 3-12. Sports offered include: golf, tennis, basketball, volleyball, softball, soccer, cross-country, and track and field. Coaches and Peace students serve as leaders for the camps, working in groups and one-on-one with students to sharpen their skills in their particular sport. Athletic Director Darlene Graf notes this year's camps are already going very well and is especially anxious to see what the incoming frosh have to offer.

Maureen Foley (right), a recent graduate of St. Catherine Grammar School, is one such student who will start school in the fall as a Peace frosh. She came to participate in the Peace cross-country camp. Foley notes that she has always enjoyed running in the summer, but has never been part of a cross-country team because, like most grammar schools, St. Catherine's does not offer the sport. "I just like running," Foley commented as she smiled, drinking water after finishing a mile run with Peace sophomore Annette Nowacki (pictured left).

Foley notes that she was confident about choosing Peace for her high school. She was impressed by the Open House, and her two older sisters both graduated from Peace. She notes: "I already knew it was a great school."

Lewis University Raises Funds For McFaul Scholarship

Lewis University's College of Education is asking for $100 from 100 people. That's what it will take to reach its campaign goal of $10,000 for the Dr. Shirley A. McFaul Education Scholarship, benefiting elementary education majors at the university. With a campaign deadline of Dec. 15th, this goal will allow the scholarship to be awarded for the very first time in the 2005-06 academic year.

Established in 2002, the scholarship was created shortly after the death of beloved Lewis education professor Shirley McFaul. Dr. McFaul, 59, died in May of 2002 from leukemia, leaving faculty, staff and students deeply saddened by the loss of such an enthusiastic and tirelessly dedicated educator, mentor and friend.

A Naperville resident, Dr. McFaul joined the Lewis faculty in 1985 and served as chair of the Dept. of Education (now College of Education) from 1986-89. She was coordinator of Elementary Education from 1989-92 and director of Elementary Education from 1993 until her untimely death. It is estimated that during her tenure at Lewis, she influenced more than 700 future grade school teachers. When multiplied by the 25-30 children taught by each of those teachers every school year, Dr. McFaul's impact quickly grows exponentially.

The names of all those who contribute to the current scholarship campaign will be added to a bulletin board display, located just outside the College of Education on the third floor of the Learning Resource Center on the Lewis main campus in Romeoville. The 100 contributors also will be entered in a drawing for a variety of prizes.

For more information or to make a contribution, contact Lewis University's Office of Development at (815) 836-5244.

Veterans' Health Care

U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin (D-IL) requested an investigation on July 26th by the Government Accountability Office (GAO) into the process used by the U.S. Dept. of Veterans Affairs (VA) to estimate the number of patients expected to seek health care services when making their annual budget determinations. Durbin was joined in his request by Sens. Daniel Akaka (D-HI), Ranking Democrat on the Senate Veterans' Affairs Committee, Patty Murray (D-WA) and Ken Salazar (D-CO).

Last month, the Senate passed emergency supplemental funding for the VA to fix a shortfall of more than $1 billion for fiscal year 2005. One of the primary reasons for the shortfall was the VA's significant underestimation of the number of recently returned veterans from the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan who would seek health care from the VA.

In a letter to the GAO, the Senators noted that for the current fiscal year, VA had forecasted an annual growth in demand for health care of 2.3 percent. In April of 2005, the agency discovered that growth has actually reached 5.2 percent. The VA's budget had assumed 23,553 veterans of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan would come to the VA system for care. The most recent estimate of patients who fought in Iraq or Afghanistan is 103,000. Overall, the VA has underestimated the number of veterans seeking health care in three of the last four years.

A review of the Department's most recent budget submissions reveals that in three out of the past four years, the VA has significantly underestimated the number of patients in four areas: acute hospital care, medical visits, inpatient hospital care for dependents and survivors, and dependent and survivor outpatient care.

In their letter, the Senators specifically asked the GAO to investigate VA's processes for developing patient estimates to determine if there are systemic problems in the Department's methodology or if the estimates are subject to inappropriate political pressure to conform to the Bush Administration's budgetary limits and policies.

The Senators also requested that GAO make recommendations for how to improve the VA's budgeting process so veterans can receive the care they deserve and members of Congress are not supervised by budget shortfalls in the future.

Gigantic Dust Cloud

It might sound like the occurrence and the only beginning of a science fiction movie, but particles from a sandstorm in the Sahara Desert last week were swooped two miles up into the atmosphere and have formed into a gargantuan dust cloud.

In fact, its estimated size is almost equal to that of the 48 adjacent United States.

The phenomenon is made possible by a tropical wave, which is a type of weather system.

This seemingly ominous mass is traveling west & passing over Florida at approximately 60 miles per hour even as we speak (or read).

Not to worry, though. This is a fairly common threat it poses is slight. Individuals who have respiratory conditions and dwell under its path (South Florida to South Texas) are advised to take extra precautions than normal.

Otherwise, the massive dust cloud is expected to have only a scenic effect. Sunrise and sunset will beautifully play off the countless drifting sand particles and the normal colors will be enhanced.

Barring another freakish weather system, the cloud will stay south and the visual display will probably be visible to South Floridians, South Texans and folks in Mexico only.

Winners In Literacy And Art Competitions

Chinatsu Ikeda, a Moraine Valley international student from Osaka, Japan, living in Hickory Hills, and Stacey Bell of Markham earned national recognition for their submissions to the League for Innovation's 2004-05 National Student Art and Literary Competition. Ikeda's oil on canvas painting entitled, "Chinatsu Eating" earned "Honorable Mention" in the competition, while Bell's short story, "Money Jar," earned third place.

Moraine Valley submissions to the League for Innovation in the Community Art and Literary competitions were announced earlier this spring when several student poets, essayists, authors, and artists were recognized at the college's Board of Trustees meeting in May. From a pool of approximately 85 Moraine Valley students, 14 earned Moraine Valley recognition for their submissions, which were then forwarded to the national competition.

Other entries in Literary Competition included: Poetry, first place, "Mr. Potato Head," by Joseph Maher of Orland Park; second place, "Glengarry Glen, Lost" by Mary Testa of Darien and third place, "Wool Underwear," by Gabriella Mufic of Orland Park.

Personal Essay, first place, "Of Mice and Me," by Robert Moir of Chicago Ridge; second place, "Big Mack" by Nancy Craig of Orland Park and third place, "The Journey Home" by William Lewis of Burbank.

Short Story, second place, "The Boys Who Found Hope Floating" by Mary Fleming of Crestwood and third place, "The Final Challenge" by Jason Zeber of Orland Park.

Other entries in Art Competition: Adobe Photoshop, "The Vectors Made Me Do It" by Daniel Niemeier of Palos Hills; Fiber-based Photos on a Bedframe, "A Lot of One Thing" by Patricia Stell of Oak Lawn; Pastel, "That Was Now, This is Then" by Lionel Sapkus of Burbank, and Mixed Media, "Incredibly-Bull" by Sandra Montoya of Oak Lawn.

The winners were awarded cash prizes of $100 for first place, $50 for second place and $25 for third place. The first place winners' entries were submitted to the League for Innovation in the Community College Student Art and Literary Competition at the national level. The League for Innovation is an international consortium serving community colleges with strategic directives for best practices. Moraine Valley is a charter League member.

In other news, several Moraine Valley students were selected to compete in the Skyway Conference Art Competition earlier this year. Students representing Moraine Valley in the competition included Sandra Montoya, Ken Beckwith of Chicago, who entered a pen on paper piece entitled Little Faces in the Carpet; and Jessica Miller of Oak Lawn, who entered a charcoal on paper piece entitled Standards.

Protect Homeowners From Predatory Lending

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich moved to protect homebuyers from predatory lending in Cook County's at-risk communities and reduce the incidence of foreclosures by signing into law a bill that provides borrowers with critical information on home loans and helps state regulators and law enforcement track and crack down on dishonest lenders.

Joined by House Speaker Michael J. Madigan (D-Chicago) and State Sen. Martin A. Sandoval (D-Chicago), Gov. Blagojevich signed into law House Bill 4050, which will allow the state to develop a pilot program designed to increase homebuyers' knowledge about the loans they are considering and to reduce the number of foreclosures resulting from overly expensive home loans.

The law directs the state's Dept. of Financial and Professional Regulation to create a database for mortgage loan applications in a pilot area in Cook County. The communities most affected by high foreclosure rates will be among those designated as 'pilot' regions for the new program.

The database will collect information on all mortgage loans, including refinances and home equity loans issued by mortgage companies and brokers in the pilot regions of Cook County. Under the program, mortgage companies and brokers must enter information about the borrower and the borrower's loan into the Internet-based database. This database will be able to automatically analyze the details of each loan and determine if the loan agreement meets credit-counseling standards set by the Department.

If the review determines that a loan has potentially abusive characteristics, the borrower must attend HUD-certified credit counseling paid for by the lender. The credit counselor must enter a recommendation about the loan and the borrower into the database. Before the mortgage is closed, the title company must also enter further information into the database. The database will then produce a certificate of compliance that will either say that all the information is consistent with previous information, or that there is inconsistent information which may indicate there is a problem with the loan. When the mortgage is closed, the certificate of compliance must be recorded with the mortgage. The information recorded in the database will be kept strictly confidential and stored on a secure platform controlled exclusively by IDFP.

HB 4050 becomes effective on Jan. 1st, 2006. IDFP has one month after that to designate the pilot areas for this program. The pilot program lasts for four years.

Eight Are Injured When Truck Strikes Van

While attempting a left-hand turn onto Central Avenue in Oak Lawn, Sirieyh Hammad's van was struck by a truck. The 25-year-old Chicago Ridge woman and seven other passengers, including five children, were injured, but not seriously.

Unfortunately for Hammad, the truck had the green light and, therefore, the right-of-way, when she tried to complete the left turn in front of it.

Hammad will appear in court on August 31st in Bridgeview on charges of failing to yield and failure to ensure that passengers were properly restrained.

Astronomy Program

"Perseids - A Heavenly Display of Shooting Stars," a free family program sponsored by the Forest Preserve District of Will County, will be Friday, Aug. 12, 9 p.m., at Plum Creek Nature Center, in Beecher. The program, designed for persons at least 12 years of age, requires registration by Aug. 10.

If you've never seen a shooting star or if you would like to see one again, then this is the event for you. Perseids, named for the constellation Perseus, from which the meteors appear to radiate, are the favorite of meteor shower watches. August is much more suitable to extended outdoor viewing than are November and December when other meteor showers are visible. Our backyard astronomers will be on hand to answer questions and introduce you to other heavenly phenomena.

Plum Creek Nature Center is located at Goodenow Grove Forest Preserve, 1.25 miles east of the intersection of Routes 1 and 394 on Goodenow Road, south of Crete.

For registration and information, call (815) 727-8700, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

New Laws To Reduce Nursing Shortages

Delivering on a promise made during his State of the State address last February, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich July 28th signed into law six bills that will help reduce the nursing shortage in Illinois and mean better access to health care across the state. This announcement comes on the heels of several administrative actions by the Blagojevich administration to help reduce the nursing shortage, including streamlining the licensing process for nurses, adding funding to the Nurses Education Scholarship Program, and increasing funding for training nurses and other health care professionals.

At Chicago's Mercy Hospital, the Governor signed Senate Bill 1842, which establishes a groundbreaking nursing externship pilot program for Puerto Rico nurses; Senate Bill 2064, which eliminated the pre-test exam for foreign nurses; and Senate Bill 201, which will increase patient safety and reduce the risk of errors by eliminating mandatory overtime for nurses.

SB 1842 establishes a first-in-the-nation externship program for registered nurses licensed under the laws of another state or territory of the United States who wish to practice in Illinois and are preparing to take the National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX). The law will allow these nurses, primarily from Puerto Rico, to work under the direct supervision of a registered professional nurse licensed in Illinois while they are enrolled in a course which prepares them for the state exam and acclimates them to nursing and health care delivery in our state. In conjunction with SB 2064, it will increase diversity within the nursing profession and prepare nurses educated in a U.S. territory for practice in Illinois. The law, which becomes effective immediately, was sponsored by State Representative Cynthia Soto (D-Chicago) and State Senator Miguel del Valle (D-Chicago).

SB 2064 will make Illinois more competitive in attracting new nurses. It clears the way for nurses trained outside of the U.S. to enter the work force faster. Under prior law, these nurses had to pass not only the standard national nurse licensure exam (NCLEX) but also sit for a special test (CGFNS) to become licensed in Illinois. With the CGFNS test only offered four times a year, it was virtually impossible for hospitals in Illinois to successfully recruit foreign trained nurses. The new law will maintain nursing quality because foreign nurses will still have to pass the national exam but will speed up their entry into the workforce. The act sponsored by State Senator Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) and State Representative Susana A. Mendoza (D-Chicago) become effective immediately.

SB 201 will also be critical in attracting more nurses to Illinois, and will greatly protect patient safety by reducing the risk for medical errors when staff has worked too many hours. The bill, which eliminates mandatory overtime for nurses, provides that hospitals may mandate a nurse to work overtime only in an unforeseen emergency circumstance. If they must do so, a nurse may not work more than four hours beyond her/his regularly scheduled work shift. In addition, a nurse may not be punished for refusing to work overtime, and if a nurse works 12 hours there must be an eight-hour rest period before working again. The bill represents a compromise between the Illinois Nurses Association and the Illinois Hospital Association. State Representative Angelo Saviano (R-Elmhurst Park) and State Senator Donne E. Trotter (D-Chicago) co-sponsored SB 201.

Chicago Air And Water Show

Shell and the City of Chicago present the 47th Annual Chicago Air and Water Show on the beautiful lakefront Saturday, August 20th and Sunday, August 21st. More than two million spectators will converge on the lakefront to enjoy the show from Fullerton Avenue to Oak Street, with North Avenue Beach serving as the heart of event festivities. The oldest and largest FREE show of its kind in the United States will present performances by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds and U.S. Army Parachute Team Golden Knights as this year's headliners. The water show begins at 9 a.m. and air show runs from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. both days.

The U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, dazzling audiences since 1953 with their commanding presence and precision flying, roar across the lakefront once again in their F16 Fighting Falcons. This select group of Air Force Pilots performs intricate maneuvers as close as 18 inches apart, often approaching the speed of sound. They represent the skills and techniques demanded of every Air Force pilot and are considered a "mirror image" of every front-line fighter pilot.

Also headlining the show, the U.S. Army Golden Knights Parachute Team will thrill the audience as they plunge from altitudes high above to their target on North Avenue Beach. Rocketing toward earth at an astonishing speed of 120 mph is a way of life for this exhilarating team, which has been performing around the world for more than 40 years.

Strong in tradition and one of the world's premier aviation events, the show also includes a wide array of military and civilian acts. This year's civilian lineup includes, the AeroShell Aerobatic Team, Lima Flight Team, Red Baron Pizza Squadron, Red Bull MIG Magic and Sean D. Tucker and Team Oracle. The Liquid X Freestyle extreme water show will kick-off the festivities both days at 9:00 a.m. performing in Lake Michigan off of North Avenue Beach.

Water Restrictions In The Future

Once upon a time, the Chicagoland area had an apparent inexhaustible supply of water.

After all, droughts, which occurred nearly twice a decade in the early 1900's, became more and more rare as the century progressed and, year after year, our rainfalls doubled those of many other areas of the country.

Secondly, Chicago's use of Lake Michigan, one of the largest fresh water sources on the planet, was completely free of any quantity restrictions.

Thirdly, suburbs mostly fended for themselves, using well water drawn from aquifers over 500 feet below ground level. Aquifers are geological formations of permeable rock below the earth's surface, which contain and conduct ground water.

However, times have changed. There will come a time in the future, according to experts, where 2005-type water restrictions will be the norm rather than the exception. Why?

Unfortunately, statistically speaking, we are overdue to endure droughts such as this year's and the ones from the early 1900's on a more consistent basis; it's simply law of averages.

Further, other states on Lake Michigan's shores have successfully pressured the federal government into placing limits on how much of its water we can tap for Illinois.

Finally, along about 1970, water drawn from deep aquifers dwindled and took on a foul taste. And while there are still plenty of aquifers, most of them are too shallow - too close to the earth's surface to be untarnished by pollution or unaffected by weather conditions. Plus, it is still not known how reliable aquifers are or how well they can be harnessed.

Other than water restrictions, there are no immediate solutions. The idea of increasing the cost of water is likely to have about the same effect on water consumption as increasing the cost of gasoline had on driving - virtually none!

Therefore, barring a miracle or a technological breakthrough, some predict that, within two decades, water restrictions will become an ongoing way of life.

Woman's Wish Came True To Fly

Eighty-seven-year-old Marjorie Busch called it "the best day of her life" when she visited Lewis University in Romeville on Friday, July 29 to fly in a Cessna 182RG with Lewis' Chief of Pilot Training Keith McGill. A resident of ManorCare Health Services in Hinsdale, Busch, formerly of Westchester, boarded the airplane and took to the skies again as she did when she was a 20-year-old.

In the 1940s, Busch and her sister took flying lessons at Morton High School in Cicero. Marjorie earned her pilot's license and stayed with her hobby for a few years. Unfortunately, she was not able to fly as often as she wished because she could not always afford the $4.50 per session.

Through ManorCare's Heart's Desire Program - a program which makes it possible for ManorCare's residents to relive a past experience or to try something they have always wanted to do - Busch got her wish to fly again with Lewis' Flight Department donating the flight.

According to McGill, Busch took the controls for about half of the flight which lasted about 25 minutes, and even took some turns in the process. "I wasn't nervous at all and I feel fine," said Marjorie, shortly after touching down at the Lewis University Airport. "Some of the feelings came back from when I first flew, and everything looked beautiful from up there."

Busch estimates having logged close to 1,000 hours of flying time in the 1940s. Following her flight at Lewis, she and representatives from ManorCare went out to lunch to celebrate.

REAL ID Act

Secretary of State Jesse White appointed his Inspector General Jim Burns to chair a committee that will recommend changes Illinois should make to comply with a new federal law that orders every state to require, verify and store specific identification documents before issuing driver's licenses.

Although Illinois already meets many of the identification and security requirements, the Secretary of State's office will need to make some procedural and legislative changes to comply with various components of the law. Those changes include verifying all identification documents presented by applicants with the original issuing agencies and then scanning and storing the documents electronically.

States were given three years to comply with the REAL ID Act, which was signed into law May 11. Driver's licenses from states that do not meet the new federal standards by the deadline could not be used for federal purposes, such as boarding an airplane or entering certain federal buildings.

Federal rules that have yet to be released will shed more light on certain aspects of the law and help states get a better handle on the total operational impact and cost. For instance the law isn't clear as to how states will have to verify identification documents with issuing agencies. Because there isn't currently a network in place to verify birth certificates with every county or jurisdiction that issues them, they may have to be checked manually before driver's licenses could be issued. It's also unclear at this point if current drivers would be subject to all the new identification requirements.

Although states face many logistical hurdles to implement the changes, the biggest obstacle may be the cost. White said it's too early to put a price tag on Illinois' changes, but he said the federal government should reimburse states for their expenses.

Gov. Blagojevich Vetoes Three Gun Bills

In a move supported by police forces and municipalities across Illinois, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich vetoed three bills on July 31st that would have weakened protection designed to prevent criminals from purchasing and carrying guns, and destroyed a valuable police database. Governor Blagojevich's vetoes built on Friday's action that closed the gun-show loophole.

Governor Blagojevich vetoed Senate Bill 57, Senate Bill 2104, and House Bill 240, all bills backed by the National Rifle Association.

Senate Bill 57, if not vetoed, would have closed the gun-show loophole, but also required the destruction of the Illinois State Police's vital firearm purchases database. This database is used by the Illinois State Police to investigate gun crimes and prepare for raids on possible gun traffickers. Governor Blagojevich pushed for and helped pass Senate Bill 1333, which cleanly closes the gun-show loophole without impacting the database. The governor signed SB 1333 on Friday.

If it had not been vetoed, HB 340 would have eliminated the waiting-period for gun owners trading in firearms. This would have allowed an individual to trade-in a hunting rifle or small caliber handgun for a military-style assault weapon, without delay.

Senate Bill 2104 would have overridden local laws concerning transporting firearms. The veto of SB 2104 allows many towns and cities across Illinois, including Chicago, that have stricter firearms laws to keep their communities safe by enforcing laws that they deem appropriate.

Bioterrorism Summit

The recent terrorist attacks in London is a reminder that tragedy can strike anytime and anywhere. The Illinois Department of Public Health wants to ensure emergency personnel, hospitals, emergency response agencies, local public health departments and others are prepared, if and when, disaster hits the state.

To that end, the Department and the Illinois Public Health Association (IPHA) joined forces to co-sponsor a three-day Bioterrorism Summit 2005 - "Staying Strong and Vigilant in the Heartland" in St. Charles. It was designed to give participants the opportunity to share ideas and learn how to best prepare for natural disasters, environmental health accidents, terrorist attacks or disease outbreaks.

More than 700 participants from the Department, Illinois Emergency Management Agency, local health departments, police and fire departments, and hospital personnel throughout the state attended the fourth annual summit, which was paid for by a grant from the U.S. Centers for Diseases Control and Prevention (CDC).

State To Create Database Of Medical Professionals

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed key disaster preparedness legislation on July 22nd that will give state agencies the critical information they need to better coordinate public safety efforts in the event of a major disaster. House Bill 3819, sponsored by Sen. Mattie Hunter (D-Chicago) and Rep. Roger Jenisch (R-Bloomington), requires the Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) to create a database of all the licensed medical professionals in the state.

The Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation (IDFPR) will provide information on medical professionals to IDPH, which will be used to contact health care professionals to assist in a bioterrorist attack or massive public health emergency. The registry will include all active-status health care professionals who could be contacted to volunteer their medical skills during emergencies.

The law goes into effect immediately.

Lipinski Opposes Central American Free Trade Agreement

On July 27th, Rep. Dan Lipinski voted against the Central American Free Trade Agreement (CAFTA) citing concerns about the loss of American jobs, poor labor standards, and lax environmental protections. The U.S. House of Representatives approved CAFTA on a 217-215 vote.

"Despite promises by proponents of various trade agreements such as the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the Chinese Permanent Normal Trade Relations (PNTR) pact, these deals have not produced American job growth," said Rep. Lipinski. "In fact, since entering NAFTA, the U.S. has lost nearly 2.5 million manufacturing jobs, including 47,000 here in Illinois alone."

CAFTA would implement a trade agreement between the United States, the Dominican Republic, and five Central American nations: Costa Rica, Honduras, Nicaragua, El Salvador and Guatemala. CAFTA would likely exacerbate our already record trade deficit. Last year, the United States had an unprecedented $617 billion global trade deficit. The U.S. already runs a trade deficit of $2 billion with the six CAFTA nations, and CAFTA most certainly has the potential to increase that. In addition, CAFTA does not require these countries to improve their environmental laws to meet any minimum standards, which are critical to improving water systems and protecting public health in these trading countries.

"Undoubtedly, trade is an important component of our national economy and I am a strong proponent of fair trade laws," Congressman Lipinski said. "I believe we should negotiate these trade deals to better protect American jobs, the environment, and fair-labor standards, and to encourage stronger economic growth."

CCAGW Urges Senate to Permanently Repeal Death Tax

On behalf of its more than one million members and supporters, the Council for Citizens Against Government Waste (CCAGW) on July 27th urged the Senate to permanently repeal the estate tax. Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) has signaled his intentions to push a vote on the issue before the end of the week. The House of Representatives has already passed the Death Tax Repeal Permanency Act of 2005 (H.R. 8). After working for months, a group of senators has failed to agree on a compromise bill that keeps the estate tax in place at a lower rate.

Prior to the temporary repeal of the death tax in 2001, families who inherited an estate with a value of $650,000 or more were subject to a 55 percent tax. The tax cut package gradually reduced estate tax rates and increased the exemption. However, these changes will disappear and the death tax will return in full force in 2011. Without passage of H.R. 8, Americans who own a home and have invested some of their earnings in the stock market for their retirement could see a large portion of their estate disappear.

A study conducted in 2001 by Douglas Holtz-Eakin and Donald Marples shows that eliminating the estate tax would correspond to increased household savings of between $800 and $3,000 annually. A recent report by the American Council for Capital Formation concluded that U.S. estate tax rates are among the highest in the world. The top U.S. federal marginal death tax rate is higher than that of all other countries surveyed except for Japan and Korea. The lowest tax rate in the U.S. - at 45 percent - is also nearly twice as high as the average top foreign tax rates.

Homecare Bill Signed Into Law

Governor Rod Blagojevich (D-IL) has signed SB 159, a homecare bill, into law. This bill was initiated by the National Private Duty Association, who worked in partnership with the Illinois HomeCare Council and Life Services Network to lobby for support for the bill. The bill was also supported by AARP, Illinois Hospital Association (IHA), Alzheimer's Association - Greater Illinois Chapter, and others.

SB 159 will provide safeguards for home care consumers and workers. This bill was originally sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Maggie Crotty (D-Oak Forest) and Rep. Sidney Mathias (R-Arlington Heights). The bill in total was co-sponsored by 49 senators and representatives.

The bill creates a licensure program for home services and home nursing agencies under the Illinois Department of Public Health. Home Services Agencies provide services directly, or as a placement agency, for the purpose of placing individuals as workers providing specified services for consumers in their personal residence. The services being provided include: assistance with activities of daily living; housekeeping; personal laundry; and, companionship.

The license will be based on a social model and will ensure consumer and worker protection through the requirement of criminal background checks and notifications of each parties' rights and responsibilities. It also requires workers to report elder abuse, neglect or financial exploitation. The council believes it will impact approximately 500 agencies in Illinois which are not currently required to be licensed to provide non-medical care of this type. Licensure will go into effect Sept. 1, 2008. In putting these changes into place, it is ensuring consumer protection and quality of care.

All Points Southwest

By THOMAS E. GAVIN

Last week U.S. Senator Dick Durbin alerted All-Points that the U.S. House passed an energy bill which could have a major impact on the daily lives of most Americans. He further noted that the President is expected to sign this legislation. According to Senator Durbin, "Congress had an opportunity to pass a comprehensive energy policy, but we fell short of achieving this important goal. The legislation does not fully address the most critical energy issue facing Americans today: our growing dependence on foreign oil and the impact this dependence has on our economic security and national security."

"Thankfully, this bill contains a renewable standard that increases the use of domestically produced renewable fuels to 7.5 billion gallons by 2012. This will reduce oil consumption by 2 billion barrels cumulatively over the next 7 years. This change will be good for America's economy, good for our energy security, and good for Illinois farmers. More than 40% of the ethanol consumed in the U.S. annually is produced from corn grown in Illinois. Illinois farmers stand ready and eager to meet the new challenges in this bill. I believe the renewable fuels standard can lead to greater energy security for our nation."

Senator Durbin voted for the passage of this energy bill, even though he felt that a more comprehensive plan may have been initiated. He stated that "this is only the beginning, and not the end, of the energy debate in America."

The Higher Education Committee is looking to fine-tune higher education policies in Illinois in order to increase graduation rates, leading to a brighter future for our young people, better and more abundant job opportunities, and a stronger Illinois economy.

The meeting will take place this Thursday, August 4th in Room 302 of the University of Illinois-Chicago's Student Center East Tower (formerly Chicago Circle Center), 750 South Halsted. The meeting starts at 9:30 a.m.

Emergency Loans for Disaster Areas

After visiting drought-damaged fields in Northern and Central Illinois, July 27th, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich congratulated the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) for designating all but one of Illinois' 102 counties as agricultural disaster areas. The Governor formally requested a disaster declaration from the federal government for Illinois counties hit hard by this summer's drought. The USDA's decision will allow farmers and ranchers to apply for federal assistance. The Governor applauded U.S. Agriculture Secretary Mike Johanns and the USDA for their quick response.

The announcement will make all qualified farm operators eligible for low-interest emergency (EM) loans provided by the Farm Service Agency (FSA). Farmers in eligible counties may apply for the loans up to eight months from the date of the declaration to cover part of their actual losses.

In addition to EM loans, USDA has made several other programs available to assist farmers and ranchers in recovering from damage by this year's drought including the Emergency Conservation Program, Federal Crop Insurance, and the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program.

Cook and Will counties were among the 93 counties designated as primary disaster areas due to the drought.

Boost Use Of Biodiesel

In another aggressive effort to promote energy independence, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich on July 28th signed into law a measure to boost the use of biodiesel throughout Illinois. The law requires state government, county and local governments, school districts, universities and community colleges and mass transit agencies to fuel their diesel vehicles with 2 percent biodiesel, a renewable fuel typically made from soybeans.

This new law, the second bill the Governor has signed this summer to promote biodiesel, solidifies Illinois' status as the nation's leading biodiesel user. Early this summer, Gov. Blagojevich approved legislation that provides rebates for drivers using fuels with a minimum 20 percent biodiesel blend.

State facilities already use 2 percent biodiesel fuel in accordance with an executive order issued by the Governor in 2004. Local governments, community colleges and mass transit systems will now join the state in boosting biodiesel use.

Biodiesel helps reduce air pollution and protect public health by cutting emissions of soot, carbon monoxide and global warming gases.

House Bill 112 is effective July 1, 2006.

Pie In The Park

The second annual Pie In The Park and Old Fashioned Ice Cream Social will be held in the park in Bishop Hill, Illinois on Aug. 13 from 1 to 4 p.m.

A pie judging contest will be held and all pie bakers are encouraged to enter by submitting an entry form and two identical pies. One will be for the contest and the other will be for the silent auction to be held after the presentation of awards for the winning pies. A pie walk will be held, with live music provided by the Beanwalkers, who will also provide an afternoon of music during the Old Fashioned Ice Cream Social.

Homemade ice cream provided by The Red Oak Dining Room and homebaked pies will be served, along with coffee courtesy of the Colony Store. Cost is $3 per person. A children's Chomparoo, pie eating contest, will begin at 3 p.m. And the popular pie throwing event will conclude the day's events; pies will be auctioned off for the pleasure of putting a pie in the face of some very brave volunteers. This is sure to be a good time, with good food, good music and good clean fun.

This event is sponsored by the Bishop Hill Guest & Commerce Association. All proceeds from this event will be used to promote Bishop Hill and the Bishop Hill web-site www.bishophill.com.

Antique Tool Show & Sale

A chance to see the hand tools that built America returns to Garfield Farm Museum in LaFox, Ill. on Sunday, Aug. 7th at the 13th annual Antique Tool Show & Sale from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. This is the only joint Midwestern show of the Early American Industries Assn. (EAIA) and the Mid-West Tool Collectors Assn. (MWTCA) open to the public. Members of both organizations will have 19th and 20th century tools on display and explain how the tools were used.

This annual show is a rare opportunity because it is open to the general public. Antique tool shows of this caliber are usually reserved only for members of collecting associations. If one has seen an old tool and been curious about what it was or used for, this is an opportunity to talk with experts. In addition, many of the collectors are the last American generation to have a close association with hand tools. Computer design and robotics have replaced many tool and die craftsmen that made this hi-tech age possible. "This show documents the passing of an era," said Jerome Johnson, museum director. "This is an opportunity to ask that retiring generation of tool workers what life was like."

The members of these two exceptional organizations go to great lengths to research and understand the tools they collect. Their work not only preserves the actual tools for the future, but also preserves the associated skills and crafts. In the past, there have been over 40 participating collectors offering parts of their collection for sale often to pay for their latest prized acquisitions.

Visitors and novice collectors will find this a wonderful opportunity to experience the wide variety collection themes and learn the value of tools. Many visitors have come with an old tool from the barn or basement and left with a great wealth of knowledge. The museum will also be offering tours of the 1846 teamster inn and tavern beginning at 10 a.m. Regular Sunday tours of the museum will continue after 1 p.m. when the show concludes. Show admission for adults is $5 and children 12 years and under is $2.

Garfield Farm Museum is a 370-acre historically intact former 1840s prairie farmstead and teamster inn, which is being restored as an 1840s living history farm museum. The museum has had support from over 2,700 households from 37 states to save and preserve the site. Garfield Farm Museum is a 501-c-3 not-for-profit organization which greatly depends on individual memberships and donations to meet the operating and educational programming expenses.

For more information on how you can help preserve this wonderful link to our nation's past, contact Garfield Farm Museum at (630) 584-8485 or e-mail info@garfieldfarm.org.

NOT ALL BOAT TRAILER LIGHTS ARE CREATED EQUALLY: It makes no difference whether you're towing a camper, snowmobile, ATV or boat. The trailer lights have to be in good working order.

The lights on boat trailers take a lot of abuse. They are exposed to the elements, regularly submerged in fresh and saltwater, and subjected to bad roads and rough boat ramps. It is not unusual for lenses to crack and break or for lights to burn out.

When replacing or repairing trailer lights, it is important for boat owners to remember that not all trailer lights are created equally - particularly when comparing standard incandescent lights to the newer light emitting diode (LED) lights that are available today.

ShoreLand'r, a leading manufacturer of boat trailers, has researched the advantages and disadvantages of both technologies and offers consumers these insights and suggestions when purchasing a new trailer or replacement lights for an existing trailer.

"ShoreLand'r is closely watching LED light technology and we're waiting for the DOT to establish specific standards for LEDs," says Butch Williams, ShoreLand'r sales representative. "Currently, the LED lights that match or exceed the quality and performance of incandescent lights are significantly more expensive."

The long life expectancy of an LED lamp means that better technology and greater care must be taken during the design and production of the lamp. This translates into a higher initial cost but lower replacement costs over the life of the trailer.

There are some distinct advantages to LED lights such as lower amperage draw, instant-on capability for quicker reaction time and the ability to integrate features like flash, strobe and synchronization without any external switching systems. However, the trailer experts at ShoreLand'r point out that the advancement from incandescent to LED diodes is a huge leap in technology that is similar to going from analog to digital. Adapting the application of LEDs to boat trailers will take more time and study to perfect.

"Boat owners will benefit from LED technology in the near future, but they should be very cautious about replacing their incandescent trailer lights until these issues are resolved," says Williams. For more information on trailer lights and the complete line of ShoreLand'r boat trailers, visit www.shorelandr.com or call 1-800-859-3028.

POWER OUTAGE KILLS 300,000 LAKE TROUT: A seven hour power outage at the federal fish hatchery in Warren, PA killed 300,000 lake trout that were ready to stock Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

According to the USFW, a scheduled power outage for line repair was followed by a surge that blew out the hatchery's backup generator. The lake trout lived in concrete raceways that used pumps to circulate oxygenated water. About one-half of the 600,000 fish died, and stress could lead to more deaths. The yearlings were tagged and scheduled to stock Lakes Erie and Ontario early the following month.

The Warren hatchery was the sole supplier for lake trout for the lakes. In addition to the hatchery costs of the fish, the loss could have an impact on the recreational fishing industry. Lake trout are long-living fish that typically grow up to 20 lbs., so missing a year of them has long-term effects. (Credit to the Great Lakes Basin Report.)

If you have any questions,

Southwest Suburban Conference

The South-Inter Conference Association (SICA) will be disbanded after the 2005-06 school year and the "South Suburban Conference" will come into existence beginning 2006-07.

The new 11-team conference will consist of Tinley Park, Oak Forest, Oak Lawn, Argo, Bremen, Eisenhower, Evergreen Park, Hillcrest, Reavis, Richards and Shepard.

The reason for realignment was attributed to a supposed need for more "logical" conference boundary lines. However, some feel that it is partly a reaction to allegations of segregation against SICA received by the Illinois State Board of Education.

The Board is still following up on the accusations.

Your Home Away From Home

Thoughts On Health & Nutrition

by
Lucinda K. Lysen, RD, RN, BSN

YOUR SCALE: ANTICANCER ALLY

Next time you reach for your favorite dessert, remember: studies show that being overweight triggers high levels of the hormones leptin and estrogen. Too much of this can spur growth in abnormal cells and set the stage for cancer. Here are some new reasons to get on the weight loss bandwagon:

1. Adult leukemia has been found to almost double in overweight women compared with those of a healthy weight. A Minnesota Medical School study of over 37 thousand women has found.
2. Cancer of the esophagus was 3.7 times more likely among obese than normal weight people in a Vermont VA Medical Center review of nine studies including over 1,000 people with the disease.
3. Among 1,050 women, Stony Brook University researchers found that the very obese—over 232 pounds—were five times as likely to get colorectal cancer as healthy weight women.
4. Obese women had three times the risk of developing endometrial cancer over nine years as those at a healthy weight in a Dutch study of 62,600 women.

Ways to Decrease Your Appetite

Eating small amounts of healthy fat throughout the day can diminish your appetite according to University of California research. Fat signals your brain that you are full. Nuts, seeds, and olives are examples of healthy fats which can be used to replace carbs and saturated fats.

Another way to suppress appetite is by regular exercising. This tends to raise your endorphin levels in your brain and relaxes your nervous system. In turn you are less apt to reach for those high calorie snacks during the course of the day. What better opportunity than the summer months to get up and going on getting back into shape!

Offer Water Exercise Programs

Waterford Estates, one of Chicagoland's finest retirement communities, proudly offers water exercise programs developed specifically for seniors, which provide a healthy balance of recreation and physical activity, promote cardiovascular fitness, reduce pain caused by arthritis and other conditions, improve flexibility and range of motion, and increase muscle strength and metabolism.

Water exercise has long been touted for its benefits, particularly among the senior population. The buoyancy of water provides a wonderful source of bodily support, thereby minimizing impact on feet, knees and hips. In chest-deep water, 90% of one's body weight remains supported, so that muscle pain associated with exercise is all but eliminated. Additionally, water exercise expends more energy than similar land-based exercise programs. For example, an older adult can burn 525 calories per hour of water exercise, compared to 240 calories on land. Best of all, no swimming skills are needed to enjoy the benefits of water exercise.

The indoor pool at Waterford Estates is maintained at a balmy 90 degrees, and ranges in depth from 3.5 to 5 feet deep, making it the perfect place for warm water exercise. Currently, classes are held weekly Monday through Friday, and are open to non-residents of Waterford Estates, as space allows.

For non-residents of Waterford Estates, there are several water exercise packages available. For a monthly fee of $35, you can attend up to 3 classes per week (these classes can be mixed between afternoon and evening time slots). For a monthly fee of $24.50, you can attend up to 2 classes per week, however, these are only for the evening classes. If you want to pay as you go, a single class payment of $4 will be required. Remember that advance registration is necessary for all classes.

For more information on Waterford Estates' outstanding water exercise program for seniors, call Diana Duda, Certified Arthritis/Aquatic Specialist, at (708) 755-8292. Waterford Estates is conveniently located at 17400 S. Kedzie Ave. in Hazel Crest.

Elder Abuse Awareness

Governor Blagojevich has proclaimed July as Elder Abuse Awareness Month in Illinois. The abuse, neglect and financial exploitation of the elderly is an extremely serious problem in our society. Over the past 12 months more than 8,600 reports of elder abuse were received through Illinois' elder abuse program.

Studies indicate that for every one reported case, 10 go unreported. This means that the vast majority of victims are suffering, often for years, because no one cares or knows to report the problem. Many victims suffer from multiple impairments, often involving Alzheimer or other forms of dementia, and most are subject to multiple types of abuse.

There is help for older persons who are being mistreated. If you suspect elder abuse, make a report to PLOWS Council on Aging at (708) 361-0219 or to the Senior HelpLine at (800) 252-8966 during regular business hours. On nights, weekends and holidays, reports are taken at (800) 279-0400. The identity of reporters is kept confidential and reporters are immune from criminal and civil liability.

PLOWS Council on Aging is a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting persons who are age 60 or older and who live in the townships of Palos, Lemont, Orland and Worth. PLOWS programs and services help clients to remain in their homes, living independently with dignity, in the community.

Food Service Certification Programs Are Being Offered

There is a course scheduled in Orland Park at Georgios Comfort Inn on Tuesday, Sept. 6th and 13th. Classes are also held in Alsip at the Baymont Inn & Suites on Tuesday, Aug. 9th and 16th and Monday, Sept. 26th and Oct. 3rd. The cost is $150 for certification and $75 for re-certification. The cost includes the instruction, course text and exam. To register, call (888) 793-5136.

First Two Human Cases Of West Nile Confirmed

A 55-year-old man from Kane County and a 55-year-old man from suburban Cook County are the first Illinois residents this year to be diagnosed with West Nile disease, Dr. Eric E. Whitaker, state public health director, announced.

Dr. Whitaker said the Kane County man became ill in mid-July and is hospitalized with West Nile encephalitis and the Cook County man, who reported some travel out-of-state, first experienced symptoms in late June and is hospitalized with West Nile disease.

West Nile virus is transmitted through the bite of a mosquito that has picked up the virus by feeding on an infected bird. Most people with the virus have no clinical symptoms of illness, but some may become ill three to 14 days after the bite of an infected mosquito.

Additional information about West Nile virus can be found on the Department's Web site at www.idph.state.il.us/envhealth/wnv.htm or people can call the West Nile Virus Hotline at (866) 369-9710 Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Government Practices Aimed At Pharmacies

Concerned Women for America (CWA) of Illinois applauds the efforts of Congressman Don Manzullo (R-IL), Chairman of the House Small Business Committee, who, presided over hearings regarding blatant and coercive government practices aimed at pharmacies.

On July 25th, Congressman Manzullo heard disturbing testimony about bullying tactics surfacing in various states, including Illinois, to force pharmacies to dispense the dangerous and controversial so-called "morning-after-pill" despite any moral, religious or other reservations. Governor Rod Blagojevich recently signed an Executive Order threatening Illinois pharmacies that resist dispensing the drug for any reason.

In addition, there are federal ploys in progress to punish pharmacies nationwide if they refuse to dispense the pills, regardless of any states' laws and efforts to protect them. Consequences of their refusal may include heavy fines and possible revoking of their license.

After the hearings, Chairman Manzullo summed up the concerns this way: "Pharmacists shouldn't be forced to choose between their business and their beliefs."

CWA of Illinois State Director, Kathy Valente, agreed, "Shutting down businesses for political reasons is a classic example of tyranny. This kind of government arrogance threatens our constitutional liberties and must be stopped."

She added, "Governor Blagojevich is beholden to the people of Illinois, not the abortion lobby."

Offering one possible solution to this crisis, Congressman Manzullo suggested identifying pharmacies that would dispense the certain drugs & establish a directory for patient use.

Echinacea Findings

Echinacea, an herb that is processed into lozenges and pills to combat cold symptoms, has grown into a $300 million industry.

Now, however, a team of researchers at Virginia School of Medicine has eschewed Echinacea as a genuine symptom reliever. In their study, the school subjected 399 people, otherwise in good health, to a cold virus.

The results were identical among those actually treated with Echinacea versus those treated with a placebo version.

These findings corroborate a similar study done in 2003 in which 407 children were tested. In this earlier study, Echinacea was even found to have mild side effects in a small percentage of patients.

Birth Control Coverage

First Lady Patti Blagojevich launched a new website designed to help women learn how to have their birth control costs covered by their insurance companies. Mrs. Blagojevich also announced that seven leading contraceptives are now available through the state's I-Save Rx program at discounts of as much as 79% off the price currently charged at pharmacies in Illinois.

The web site, www.contraceptives.illinois.gov, provides information on which insurers now cover contraceptives. This new coverage, which was mandated by law when Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed the Contraceptive Equity in Health Insurance Act in 2003, can help women save an average of $400 per year on the cost of their contraceptives. The website provides links to the large insurance providers in Illinois, helping women better understand which contraceptives their particular plan covers. The site also includes a toll-free number (1-800-280-4149) and an online form where women can report to state regulators if their insurance company is not complying with the new law.

Smith Village Exercise Programs

Summertime is often a great time to launch a new exercise regime, but this summer's extreme temperatures, the worst since 1988, demand some special considerations. Fortunately, even with the heat and humidity seniors can exercise, but it is more important than ever to address summer safety issues.

"It is never too late to start exercising," says Donna Boyle, nurse education coordinator at Smith Senior Living including Smith Village, the state-of-the-art senior living community now under construction in Chicago's Beverly neighborhood. "Exercise helps prevent heart disease, diabetes, osteoporosis and improve muscle mass. Seniors really thrive when they make an effort to stay active. This year, however, they need to be very cautious about the impact of sustained hot weather."

Walking is one of the best exercises for people over 65. Connective tissue like cartilage, ligaments and tendons become less elastic with age, so low impact exercise like walking, swimming, yoga and cycling are perfect for senior citizens.

Walking with good form can help improve speed, endurance and workout efficiency. When you walk make sure that your heel hits the ground first and you roll through to your toes, swing your arms, stand up straight and contract your stomach. Walk briskly, but be mindful of breathing. You should be able to talk and walk at the same time. If you find yourself out of breath, slow down or take a break.

Thirty minutes of brisk walking, three times a week, can help prevent chronic disease, according to Boyle. This is true even if a person doesn't walk 30 consecutive minutes, but takes several shorter walks through the course of the day. "We find that seniors living in continuing care retirement communities like ours get a boost of energy when they move in," says Boyle. "They take many little tiny walks through the course of the day, to visit a friend's apartment, to take a class or to get their hair done. They never have to go far, but because they are up and about, they quickly begin to see improved health."

"Two keys to safe summer exercise are water and sunscreen," says Boyle. "Even if you will only be outside for a little while you want to protect your skin with a sunscreen that has an SPF of at least 15."

When exercising in warm weather staying hydrated is key. Have a glass of water before you leave and carry a little bottle of water with you.

Even with water, very hot days can be dangerous. If the temperatures soar the best thing to do is look for indoor options. The new Smith Village will have an exercise room with all the equipment needed for a great indoor workout. However, if you do decide to head outdoors, it is best to go in the early morning or early evening when the temperatures are milder. Then be sure to drink lots of water, wear light, loose clothing and stick close enough to home that you can head back if the heat is too much to handle. People over 65 are susceptible to heat exhaustion, which left untreated leads to heat stroke. If you experience thirst, fatigue or cramps you need to get out of the heat right away, get some water and rest, explains Boyle.

Strength training and exercises to promote flexibility can help maintain muscle mass and range of motion. "The best bet is to speak with a professional to get help in creating a strength and flexibility routine," says Boyle. Smith Village will provide a personal trainer to help residents get started in the fitness room and there will be regular exercise classes.

At Smith Village, a full slate of activities allows residents to pursue a variety of physical, intellectual, social and spiritual interests. Slated to open in early 2007, the $65 million community is the largest development project in the history of Chicago's Beverly neighborhood.

Constructed by Smith Senior Living, a not-for-profit organization dedicated to serving the lifestyle, housing and healthcare needs of seniors for nearly 80 years, the new community will provide independent living, assisted living, memory support and skilled nursing care with large apartments and a host of amenities.

For more information about how Smith Village can help you stay engaged, call (773) 881-4950 or visit www.SmithVillage.org.

Announces $1 Million In Budget To Fund Health Care

In an on-going effort to improve access to health care in Illinois, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich announced on July 31st that the new state budget includes $1 million for the implementation of the Health Care Justice Act. This funding will allow the Adequate Health Care Task Force, which held its first meeting on Monday, Aug. 1st, to begin working on a comprehensive health care access plan for Illinois.

Recent estimates indicated that nearly 14 percent of the Illinois population lack health insurance and many residents have experienced periods of time when health benefits were not affordable, available or adequate in covering all their health care needs. Disproportionately large numbers of working poor, minorities and young adults are often entirely without coverage.

The Health Care Justice Act, which was signed into law last year by Gov. Blagojevich, creates the 29-member Adequate Health Care Task Force, which is charged with developing a comprehensive health care access plan.

The task force's plan must provide all Illinois residents with access to a full-range of preventative, acute, and long-term health care services. The Act requires recommendations to be submitted to the General Assembly and strongly encourages enactment of a plan by Dec. 31, 2006. The plan is to be implemented by July 1, 2007.

Nursing Mothers Exempt From Jury Duty

In a continued effort to expand rights for new mothers, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation on Aug. 1st that will allow nursing mothers to be automatically exempt from jury duty if they request it. Previously, judges could excuse jurors on a case-by-case basis, but there were no automatic exemptions. Last year, the governor signed the Right to Breastfeed Act, which allows women to nurse in both public and private places without fear of being asked to leave.

Senate Bill 517, sponsored by Rep. Paul Frochlich (R-Schaumburg) and Sen. Don Harmon (D-Oak Park), will provide additional support to the 70 percent of Illinois women with infants who breastfeed their newborn infants and 34 percent who continue to breastfeed after six months.

Breastfeeding is recognized as the optimal form of infant nutrition. According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, breast milk is easy to digest and contains antibodies that can protect infants from bacterial and viral infections. Infants who aren't breastfed will be more likely to develop asthma, allergies, and obesity in childhood. They are also likely to suffer more colds, flu, ear infections, and other respiratory illnesses.

Breastfeeding is also healthy for mothers, lowering the risk of breast and ovarian cancers and possibly the risk of osteoporosis and hip fractures after menopause. Nursing also helps mothers bond with their infants, making them feel secure, warm, and comforted.

Illinois is one of the leading states in enacting legislation to protect breastfeeding mothers. Prior legislation from 1995 excludes breastfeeding from being considered an act of public indecency and the Nursing Mothers in the Workplace Act from 2001 requires employers to provide adequate space and time for mothers to breastfeed at work.

SB 517 is effective Jan. 1, 2006.

Queen of Peace High School senior Megan Baker (pictured) of Beverly was named valedictorian of her senior class and is the first recipient of the Fra Angelico award. The Fra Angelico award was created for Baker because, as Principal Noian-Fitzgerald commented at the school's Senior Awards ceremony, "Our first recipient is unparalleled in having shared exceptional artistic expression with our entire community for more than four years." Fra Angelico was a Dominican artist known for his devotion to his community and his dedication to painting; Pope John Paul II named him patron of artists.

Baker is an accomplished pianist and singer who has lent her gifts at concerts, liturgies, talent shows and competitions. She has accompanied six musicals, participated in four IHSA Solo & Ensemble contests earning multiple perfect scores and has conducted music practices. She participated in the Southwest Symphony concerto contest and was selected for the IHSA jazz ensemble. In addition, she has written original choral and piano arrangements. Noian says of Baker, "Megan has elevated our fine arts program to a new level. Because she shared her artistry and love of music with us and made Queen of Peace a truly more beautiful place, we bestow the Fra Angelico award on her with great gratitude."

Beyond her fine arts work, Baker earned the valedictorian honors while taking many Advanced Placement classes. She is also a member of the National Honor Society, Spanish National Honor Society, the Peace Ambassadors, and is an officer with the Chamber Singers. Baker also completed the four-year St. Catherine of Siena Scholar program with a focus on music in education. She will attend Notre Dame University in the fall to pursue a degree in English.

Top Most Popular Baby Names

What's in a name? Is your name or your child's name a popular one, or an unusual one? And how does the popularity of American names change over time?

By visiting our website at www.socialsecurity.gov and going to the "Baby Names" webpage, you can find answers to these and many other questions.

For example, Jacob and Emily continue to reign as the most popular baby names in the United States, based on Social Security card applications for children born in 2004. Emily has been the top name for a girl since 1996. Jacob has been the most popular name for a boy since 1999.

The rest of the top 10 boys and girls names for 2004 are: Boys - Jacob, Michael, Joshua, Matthew, Ethan, Andrew, Daniel, William, Joseph and Christopher; Girls - Emily, Emma, Madison, Olivia, Hannah, Abigail, Isabella, Ashley, Samantha and Elizabeth.

Of course, many middle-aged parents or relatives might wonder why they never knew many Jacobs or Emilys when they were growing up. If you do just a little research on our website, you would find the reason why. In 1970, for example, Jacob was number 255 on the popularity charts, and Emily was only slightly more popular at 173.

What else can you find at this webpage? Well, it also lists the 1,000 most popular baby names for 2004, as well as the most popular names in each state and the most popular names for twins. You can also find information for babies, children and parents on the Social Security website, as well as links to other government websites that offer valuable information about pregnancy, caring for newborns and programs and services for families.

For example, you'll find information on "enumeration at birth," the easiest way to obtain a Social Security number of a baby. This automatic, free service allows parents to apply for a Social Security card at the same time they fill out the birth certificate information at the hospital.

Whether you are choosing a popular baby name or applying for retirement, there's something for everyone at www.socialsecurity.gov.

The First Night Of The 27th Annual Chicago Jazz Festival

For the third consecutive year, Symphony Center hosts the First Night of the Chicago Jazz Festival. This year's concert celebrates the 70th anniversary of DownBeat magazine with a unique performance featuring three generations of jazz musicians: pianist John Medeski, Louis Hayes and the Cannonball Adderley Legacy Band, and The Zawinul Syndicate with Joe Zawinul.

The program begins with a rare solo piano set from John Medeski of Medeski Martin & Wood, who won "Best Electric Jazz Group" in DownBeat magazine's Critic's Poll in 2001 and 2002. Next up is Cannonball Adderley's drummer Louis Hayes with Vincent Herring on alto saxophone and Jeremy Pelt on trumpet, in a tribute to legendary saxophonist Cannonball Adderley. The concert closes with a performance by The Zawinul Syndicate with keyboardist Joe Zawinul. Zawinul, a former member of Cannonball Adderley's band and a perennial DownBeat award winner, makes his Symphony Center debut with this rare United States performance.

This concert is presented in collaboration with the Mayor's Office of Special Events and the Jazz Institute of Chicago, and DownBeat magazine as part of the 2005 Chicago Jazz Festival.

Park Lawn Players Return To The Stage

The Park Lawn Players returned to the stage for their second musical review, "Give My Regards to Broadway," a spectacular musical celebration held at Park Lawn School and Activity Center. The choir is made up of 29 individuals with developmental disabilities enrolled in various Park Lawn programs.

The stage was picture perfect as the curtain opened to a brightly lit city sky scene. The choir, directed by Park Lawn staff, Debbie Alba and Nikki Miller, Jill Tysko, performed to an audience of over 300. They enjoyed the music of some time honored classics such as "Singing in the Rain," "Put on a Happy Face" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy" to selections from today's hit musicals including "Dancing Queen" and "Hakuna Matata." The show concluded with a group sing-along of "Somewhere over the Rainbow."

The production raised over $1500 for future Park Lawn Player productions. The group is already gearing up for a special performance at Park Lawn's 50th anniversary dinner-dance on Oct. 1st at DiNolfo's Banquets in Homer Glen.

Biggert Backs Private Property Rights Protection Act

U.S. Rep. Judy Biggert (R-IL-13) is pressing for legislation to restore the property rights threatened by the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling in Kelo v. City of New London.

Introduced by House Judiciary Committee Chairman James Sensenbrenner (R-WI-5) and Ranking Member John Conyers (D-MI-14), the Private Property Rights Protection Act, H.R. 3135, would prevent the federal government or any authority of the federal government from using economic development as a justification for exercising its power of eminent domain. Biggert is an original co-sponsor of the legislation.

On June 23, the U.S. Supreme Court issued a 5-4 ruling in Kelo v. City of New London in which it held that the creation of a more lucrative tax base can justify the government's taking of private property from one small homeowner and giving it to a large corporation for a private research facility. The court held that "economic development" can be a "public use" under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause* justifying the government's taking of private property.

"How can we continue to encourage an ownership society when it suddenly becomes acceptable to take away homes and businesses that belong to hard-working, tax-paying Americans," asked Biggert. "This bill will right a wrong that serves to severely threaten homes, small businesses, and other private property throughout Illinois and across the nation."

The legislation also would prohibit any State or municipality from using economic development as a justification for exercising its power of eminent domain whenever federal funds would contribute in any way to:

Any project for which the State's or municipality's power of eminent domain is exercised; or

The exercise and enforcement of the eminent domain power over any such project.

"Protection of private property is at the core of democracy," Biggert said. "If Congress doesn't act, no one's home will be safe."

Biggert also joined her colleagues in expressing Congressional disapproval of the Kelo v. City of New London Supreme Court decision with House passage of H. Res. 340. Biggert, a co-sponsor of the resolution, joined the House in agreeing to H. Res. 340 by a vote of 365-33.

* The Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution provides in part that, "nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation."

When I was at the St. Christopher Fiesta in Midlothian last week I met Buenaventura Albor, aka, Ben Albor, who is a veteran of the Korean Conflict. Ben recently had a medical mishap which has somewhat disabled him. While he was in the hospital Ben thought of an idea to contribute to the war against terrorism. He designed a beautiful 3-inch by 4-inch decal with the eagle and shield and a message honoring the men and women serving and making the ultimate sacrifice for our nation. As America's veterans are getting older it is estimated that close to 10 million of this country's nearly 25 million military veterans are now in their senior years. For many, everyday activities such as reading a newspaper are becoming a challenge. Even younger veterans injured in the service may find they now need help with tasks they used to manage easily, such as turning the pages of a book or reading the print of the sports page. A free library service is available to help veterans with a physical handicap that makes it difficult to read. The program, known as Talking Books, loans members a wide selection of recorded books and magazines, Braille books and magazines, and music scores in Braille and large print. Applications to join the Talking Books program may be requested from your closest library. A searchable list of locations is available at the Web site, www.loc.gov/nls. The application requires the signature of an official source such as a doctor, caseworker or an NLS regional librarian in order to join the program. Once an application is completed, the playback equipment for the Talking Books program will be sent within three working days. An initial shipment of books and catalogs is usually sent within the following two working days. An NLS reader advocate may also follow up to better personalize the selection of materials. Materials are shipped and returned via the U.S. Postal Service at no cost. To learn more, call 1(888) NLS-READ (1-888-657-7323).

Local WW II Veteran Gets "Drafted"

Local WW II Army Air Corps veteran Robert DeKerf of Orland Park was called back into service to complete the painting of the "nose art" on the WW II vintage B-24 Liberator bomber "Witchcraft" at DuPage Airport in West Chicago. In 1944, T/Sgt. Robert DeKerf was a flight engineer with the 467th Bomb Group when he painted the "nose art" on the aircraft which was to fly a record total of 130 missions...all successful without the loss of a crewmember or turning back due to mechanical troubles.

That aircraft was affectionately known as "Witchcraft" by the many crews of the 467th, and the crewmembers who flew aboard knew the magic that made her the most famous B-24 that ever flew. The name "Witchcraft" came from the application of a "nose art" painting on the nose of the plane depicting a comical witch flying on a 50-caliber machine gun instead of a broom. These paintings were the only way a crew could personalize their ship and give it a special good luck charm that helped them make it back from each mission. That little painting that identified the famous plane made Bob DeKerf famous too...he was the artist!

Bob DeKerf was reunited with his plane and was voluntarily "drafted" to add a little more authenticity to the only B-24 flying in the world! Making his home in Orland Park, DeKerf found out about the Collings Foundation's Wings of Freedom Tour that brings the B-24 Liberator and its sister ship, the B-17 Flying Fortress, to over 130 cities nationwide each year. Upon investigating, DeKerf found out that this B-24, the only one still flying in the world, had been repainted just this year as his old ship "Witchcraft!" Seeing pictures of the replica "nose art" on the bomber, he noted that there were some items left off the new artwork that were on the original. The Collings Foundation heard from Bob DeKerf and invited him out when the aircraft made a visit to DuPage Airport in West Chicago from July 29th through 31st to paint those corrections on the aircraft himself.

"We didn't even have time to let the paint dry," DeKerf noted as he reminisced about painting the image right before they took off on the final leg of the flight to England from Dakar. "The paint left little streaks down the side of the fuselage and made it look like she was flying. Everyone thought that was the way we meant to paint it!" DeKerf flew a total of 26 of the 130 missions on "Witchcraft" as flight engineer and remembered a time when the record-breaking plane almost didn't survive.

Flag Amendment Fixes Constitution

By Patrick H. Brady

As we near a Senate vote on the flag amendment, which passed the House for the 6th time June 22, the hysteria in the media runs wild. They fear it could pass and in their frenzy they distort the facts. From recent radio and TV interviews it is clear to me that many of them have not read the amendment and do not understand its purpose or impact. Tragically, they mislead their audience and are blatantly unfair to the truth. As an aside, many of those who fight for the right to desecrate the symbol of our country are outraged at the desecration of the symbol of many terrorists. Let's look at the truth.

Many in the media support flag desecration as free "expression." One need only think of the many types of expression to know why the Founders wisely eschewed that word. Some, in desperation to fit their objections into the First Amendment, use the word "speech" in contradiction of the dictionary and in defiance to reason.

Sixteen years ago 90 Senators voted for a statute to protect the flag after the Supreme Court, in Texas v. Johnson, took that right away. Those Senators could not have so voted if they believed flag desecration was constitutionally protected speech. Three of four Americans, all 50 states and over 70 percent of the Congress agree that desecrating the flag is not speech.

Critics say the amendment protects the flag and changes the Bill of Rights. It does neither, and this is important to understand.

The flag amendment says: "The Congress shall have power to prohibit the physical desecration of the flag of the United States." An amendment, of itself, does not protect the flag. It simply takes control over the flag away from the courts and returns it to the people where it resided until 1989. Once the amendment is ratified, and only then, can a law be passed to protect the flag. This point is fundamental for those Senators who seek a statute to protect Old Glory. They can have a statute, but only after an amendment is ratified by the people.

As for changing the Bill of Rights, consider this. By judicial fiat, with a single vote from one Supreme Court Justice, flag desecration was inserted into the Bill of Rights. If you deny this then answer this question: If the Court had declared that flag burning was not speech, would they then have amended the Bill of Rights?

One pundit feared the amendment would curtail the rights of those who hate us. There are no laws against hating, but there are laws against hateful conduct. Flag burning fits both roles. But this is about rights, the right of the people to protect their flag, the right of the majority to rule, the right of the people to define their Constitution. And beyond the flag, this issue spills over into the right to protect our children from pornography, the right to own property, to pray, to post the Ten Commandments, and to say the Pledge of Allegiance.

If we can recapture our flag, we will have begun a march to recapture our Constitution.

Retired U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Patrick H. Brady is a recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor, credited with the medical evacuation of over 5,000 combat casualties while serving as a "Dustoff" helicopter pilot during the Vietnam War. He is Chairman of the Board of the Citizen's Flag Alliance, a coalition of more than 140 civic, fraternal, veterans, minority and business organizations representing some 20 million Americans determined to return to the people their right to protect Old Glory.

Shell Pipeline Settlement

Attorney General Lisa Madigan announced that a Houston-based gasoline pipeline operator responsible for dumping contaminated soil at a Kane County landfill has agreed to pay more than $100,000 in state penalties and donate $50,000 to a local recycling program.

The settlement agreement, filed on July 22nd in Kane County Circuit Court, resolves a September 2004 lawsuit filed by Madigan's office against Shell Pipeline Company LP, a Delaware limited partnership.

According to the 2004 lawsuit against Shell Pipeline the company operated the North Line Pipeline, a gasoline pipeline that extends between St. Louis, Missouri and Chicago. In late 2003 and early 2004, the defendants discovered contaminated soil along a portion of the North Line. The soil was discovered during line integrity tests being conducted by Shell Pipeline pursuant to a federal and Washington State consent decree signed following a major pipeline explosion in Bellingham, Washington in 1999. Shell Pipeline did not initially disclose the existence of the federal consent order to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) or Madigan's office, which discovered the link to the federal consent order during its investigation into the disposal of the contaminated soil.

The contaminated soil, found in a rural agricultural area near Limestone Township, in Kankakee County, was left over from a 1988 gasoline release.

After the contaminated soil, which was regulated as a hazardous waste, was discovered, Shell Pipeline removed, transported and disposed of the soil at Settler's Hill Recycling and Disposal Facility in Geneva. However, the facility was not permitted to accept hazardous waste, and Shell Pipeline did not inform the facility that it was disposing of hazardous waste.

Madigan's 2004 lawsuit against Shell Pipeline charged the company with multiple violations of the Illinois Environmental Protection Act and the Illinois Pollution Control Board Land Pollution Control Regulations for improperly disposing of hazardous waste.

As part of the settlement, Shell Pipeline has agreed to pay $105,000 to the Illinois Environmental Protection Trust Fund and donate $50,000 to the Kane County Electronics Recycling Program. The donation is subject to acceptance by the Kane County Board.

Madigan said Kane County officials hired an independent contractor that has determined the risks outweighed the benefit of removing the soil from the landfill. Shell Pipeline has ensured the state that its hazardous and non-hazardous waste excavations are now in full compliance with all environmental laws and regulations. Shell Pipeline no longer operates the North Line Pipeline.

Require Gun Locks With Handgun Sales

In an effort to promote handgun safety for Illinoisans, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation on July 30th requiring that all handguns that are sold by federally licensed firearms dealers in Illinois include a safety lock. Senate Bill 1832, sponsored by Rep. Deborah Graham (D-Oak Park) and Sen. Don Harmon (D-Oak Park), comes after the Governor signed legislation closing the gun show loophole on Friday. SB 1832 is effective Jan. 1.

The new law requires that any handgun sold or traded in the state of Illinois by a federally licensed firearms dealer must include a safety lock of some kind. This can be either an external device that attaches to the handgun with a key or combination lock or an integrated mechanical safety, disabling, or locking device that is built into the handgun. Either method is designed to prevent the handgun from being discharged without first deactivating the lock.

Approximately 40% of American households with children have a gun, which translates to 22 million children in 11 million homes across the United States. Of gun-owning households with children, one quarter only "occasionally" lock and store the bullets in a separate place from the gun. This level of access to firearms led to more than 1,530 children killed from firearm accidents between 1996 and 2001. Gun safety locks may have prevented some of these deaths.

Violators of the new law will face penalties of up to six months in jail and a minimum fine of $1,000. Second or subsequent violations lead to up to one year in jail.

Topinka Offers Identity Theft Protection Tips

Illinois State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka and Citizens Equity First Credit Union (CEFCU) welcomed Frank Abagnale, the real life character behind the movie "Catch Me if You Can," in presenting a free informational program on "How to Protect Yourself from Identity Theft" at the CEFCU Center Stage on the Peoria RiverFront on Tuesday, July 19. Topinka (right) is pictured with Frank Abagnale (left) and Susan K. Yoder (center), Vice President Marketing, CEFCU.

Statistics from the Identity Theft Organization show during a 12 month period, nearly 7 million people became victims of Identity Theft. "Now if you were to get your calculators out, you'd realize that this means 799 people become targets of Identity Theft crimes every hour," said Topinka.

Identity theft is everywhere...on the internet, in malls, workplaces and in the home. "These thieves are getting smarter and smarter," said Topinka. "They've moved on from victimizing one person at a time to stealing databases with thousands, and sometimes even millions of individuals being exposed," she added.

For more information about the Treasurer's financial education and identity theft prevention programs, call (217) 557-0885 or by visiting the website at www.state.il.us/trea.

Annual Painted Ladies Contest

Since we are now in mid-summer, the Chicago Paint & Coatings Assn. would like to remind you that there is still time to enter the 19th annual "Chicago's Finest Painted Ladies" competition. The "beauty contest" for homes, which began on Memorial Day, continues through Labor Day, Sept. 5th.

Home and business owners within 50 miles of Chicago who are busy beautifying their property are eligible to enter the contest. While repainting your home this summer, consider submitting your "labor of love" for this very special award! It will make all your hard work more worthwhile.

There may be those just starting their paint project. Local libraries have a number of books on how best to prepare your dwelling for repainting. Size and style are not a factor in the judge's decision. Single-family, multi-family, Victorian, Queen Anne or commercial buildings have been among the dwellings entered. The only measurement will be the craftsmanship and beauty of the paint application. In some neighborhoods, the imaginative use of color has inspired other home or business owners to pay more attention to the details of painting by adding color.

It is hoped that 2005 will produce a bumper crop of entries. The contest covers an area within 50 miles of Chicago. Also, Chicago and the suburbs are divided into sections (North, Northwest, West, Southwest, South and Northern Indiana) as well as two categories (Professional and Non-Professional). When the contest concludes, winners are chosen from each category and section. These winners are then notified and invited to attend an awards ceremony to honor their achievement. A plaque featuring their "Painted Lady" is also presented as a commemorative prize. Chicagoland is the only area in the country conducting this competition.

You may receive an application by contacting the Chicago Paint & Coatings Association, 400 E. State Parkway, Suite 216, Schaumburg, IL 60173, or by phoning (847) 755-9850. To view past winners or obtain an entry/application form, visit the CPCA web site, www.chicagopaint.org.

Maloney Law Saves Schools From Frivolous Lawsuits

A bill sponsored by State Senator Ed Maloney (D-18) that will save Illinois schools from frivolous lawsuits regarding the transfer or dismissal of school principals has been signed into law.

Under Illinois law, any elementary or secondary school's principal that is being moved to another administrative position or to a teaching position is entitled to a timely written notice, an explanation of the facts surrounding the reclassification, and private public hearings on the reclassification.

Some law firms were interpreting the law to mean that principals being fired aren't entitled to the same rights as those who are being moved to other administrative positions or to teaching positions. Under that interpretation, districts would be able to dismiss principals just before the beginning of a new school year without a means to challenge the decision other than suing the district.

"This bill ensures that any principal outside of Chicago whose administrative contract is not renewed - whether because they are being transferred or because they have been dismissed - will be reclassified according to the same procedures and with the same procedural rights," said Senator Maloney. "That's only fair, and I believe this change has been overdue for a long time."

The Illinois Principals' Association says that they have successfully argued many such cases in court, and they believe that the change made by Maloney's law will clarify the existing law's intent and prevent needless future lawsuits.

Stiffer Penalties For Habitual Criminals

In his ongoing effort to help keep Illinois communities safe from gun violence, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 2nd signed into law House Bill 1039, a bill that creates stiff new penalties for habitual criminals - identified as individuals who have been convicted of two or more violent crimes - who are caught with guns. This action by Gov. Blagojevich will help reduce gun violence by putting those who repeatedly endanger our neighborhoods in prison.

House Bill 1039, sponsored by Rep. James D. Brosnahan (D-Oak Lawn) and Sen. Martin A. Sandoval (D-Cicero), creates a new offense, "Armed Habitual Criminal." The bill states that a person with two or more past convictions for any of a list of specific violent crimes, including first degree murder, sexual assault of a child, arson, robbery, home invasion, and gunrunning, is in violation of this law if they receive, possess, sell or transfer a firearm.

Nationally, according to Bureau of Justice statistics, 18% of state prisoners and 15% of federal prisoners were armed when they committed the offense for which they were imprisoned. Among those who carried a firearm during the offense, about 8% of state and federal prisoners carried military-style, semi-automatic weapons. These firearms included the UZI, Tec-9, and MAC-10 handguns, and AR-15 and AK-47 rifles. Among inmates in prison for more serious offenses such as murder, rape, sexual attack, robbery and assault, 30% of state offenders and 35% of federal offenders carried a firearm while committing the crime.

Habitual criminals have a proven history of terrorizing our communities and a record of associating with others who have chosen a lifestyle of crime, which can include gang members, drug dealers and gun traffickers.

For these criminals, HB 1039 will serve as a deterrent to stay away from guns or receive prison sentences of 6 to 30 years, the equivalent of a Class X Felony. The bill also requires truth in sentencing, meaning the convicted offender must serve at least 85% of the sentence.

HB 1039, effective immediately, builds on the Governor's continuing effort to stop gun violence in Illinois.

Are You Eligible For Extra Help To Pay For Medicare Prescription Drug Costs?

By John Flynn
Social Security District Manager

Beginning in January 2006, Medicare will offer prescription drug plans to beneficiaries. But now is the time to see if you qualify for some extra financial help in paying for your monthly premiums, annual deductibles and prescription co-payments under the new program.

From late May through mid-August, Social Security is mailing letters to nearly 19 million people who are potentially eligible for this extra help. The letter includes an application and a return-addressed, postage-paid envelope.

If you receive a letter in the mail, please read the information carefully. The letter will explain the prescription drug program, and tell you how to apply for the extra help. Those who qualify for the extra help could save an average of $2,100 per year.

Even if you do not get an application in the mail, you still might be eligible for help with prescription drug costs. See if you might qualify and apply online at Social Security's web site, www.socialsecurity.gov. You also can contact Social Security at 1(800) 772-1213, TTY 1(800) 325-0778, for more information or to apply over the telephone.

To qualify for the extra help, a person or married couple living together must have limited income and resources. You can qualify for this help as an individual if your total annual income is below $14,355 and your resources are valued below $10,000. The limits for a married couple living together are higher: $19,245 in combined annual income and $20,000 in resources. These resources can be slightly higher – an additional $1,500 per person – if you will be using some of your money for burial expenses. Even if your income is higher, you still may be able to get some help if, for example, you or your spouse supports other family members who live with you, if you have earnings from work or if you live in Alaska or Hawaii.

There are also certain exclusions from both income and resources. For example, your home and cars are not counted as resources. So if you think you might be eligible, you should apply.

It is important to note that some beneficiaries will automatically qualify for the extra financial help. Anyone who has both Medicare and Medicaid, or Medicare and Supplemental Security Income, or anyone whose state pays his or her Medicare premiums, will not have to complete an eligibility application. But even if you automatically qualify for extra help, you still need to enroll in a Medicare-approved prescription drug plan to obtain both coverage and the extra help.

For more information about getting extra help with Medicare prescription drug costs, call Social Security at 1(800) 772-1213, TTY 1(800) 325-0778, or visit www.socialsecurity.gov. To learn more about the Medicare prescription drug plans, call 1(800) 633-4227 or visit www.medicare.gov.

Background Checks Now Required At Illinois Gun Shows

Taking an aggressive stand against gun violence, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich, joined by Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley, on July 29th signed legislation that closes the gun show loophole that allowed gun buyers to avoid comprehensive background checks. Senate Bill 1333, sponsored by Sen. John Cullerton (D-Chicago) and Rep. Harry Osterman (D-Chicago), requires gun sellers at firearm shows to request background checks for potential gun purchasers. The new law takes effect immediately.

SB 1333 requires gun sellers, who are not federally licensed firearms dealers, to request background checks from the Illinois State Police (ISP) before they can sell guns at gun shows. If ISP determines, after a background check is conducted, that the buyer is qualified to own a gun, the state police will issue an approval number that is valid for 30 days, during which time the sale must take place. Additionally, the seller must retain records of sales for at least ten years and make those records available to law enforcement agencies for criminal investigations.

In recent years, the U.S. Dept. of Justice, U.S. Dept. of Treasury, and the Bureau of Alcohol, Firearms, Tobacco and Explosives reported that between 2,000 and 5,000 gun shows take place annually – Illinois being among the top ten states for the most gun shows. A June 2000 federal study found that almost 26,000 guns recovered after crimes came from gun shows or flea markets. The federal reports also found in gun show investigations, felons are associated with selling or buying guns almost half the time.

Guns purchased at gun shows have been used in some of this country's notorious and deadly crimes – including the 1999 Columbine High School tragedy in Colorado. The two 17-year-old boys who shot 26 students, killing 13 of them before turning the guns on themselves, obtained two shotguns and an assault rifle from a friend who purchased them at gun shows from private sellers. The woman later stated that had she been required to undergo a background check at the gun show, she never would have purchased the guns for the boys.

The signing of SB 1333 builds on the governor's continuing effort to stop gun violence in Illinois.

Carol Palmer Wardlaw Receives $25,000 And Named "Super Star" Among Community Health Nurses In The Chicagoland Area

Imagine being a nurse working in an inner-city high school health center serving more than 1,200 students and dealing with puberty and chronic illness, eating disorders and obesity, STDs and teen pregnancy, depression and self-esteem issues – all before the lunch bell rings! This is what 54-year-old Carol Palmer Wardlaw, MSN, BSN, does every day as the manager and family nurse practitioner at Huginnie Crane Adolescent Health Center located inside the Crane Technical Preparatory Common School on the city's West side. Wardlaw was recently chosen as winner of the 2005 VNA Foundation Super Star in Community Nursing Award and recipient of a $25,000 unrestricted cash award to recognize her significant contributions to community and public health nursing in Chicago.

Wardlaw has a great passion for serving adolescents in the predominately African American neighborhood in which she serves. In fact, for the vast majority of her patients at the Huginnie Crane Adolescent Health Center, administered by Rush University College of Nursing and run in collaboration with the Cook County Ambulatory and Community Health Network, Wardlaw is their first contact and often their only available access to health care. The students Wardlaw serves come to the center with complaints ranging from everyday headaches and stomach pains to more serious medical issues such as appendicitis and unplanned pregnancy. Wardlaw is known for relating to and respecting the students she serves and has become a trusted authority within the school. Through Wardlaw's dedication and commitment to helping battle teen pregnancy at Crane, her center has seen a rapid decline in teen pregnancies, down from 60 in 1994 to only nine in 2005. In addition, Wardlaw is also very committed to the prevention of sexually transmitted diseases (STDs), and has witnessed a steady decline of chlamydia from 16% of the center's patients to 12% over the past four years.

Never one to sit idle, Carol Palmer Wardlaw has also been instrumental in the organization and development of the Illinois Coalition for School Health Centers and has played a major role in recruiting members and establishing this organization throughout the state. The Coalition's mission is to improve the physical and mental health status of Illinois' youth by providing access to quality health care through the development, stabilization and expansion of school-based and linked health centers. Wardlaw's efforts have not gone unnoticed. This May, she received the first-ever "Advocate of the Year" award from the ICSHC for her advocacy work to promote the need for and benefits from school health centers. She is also active in supporting the National Assembly for School Health Care and has helped to train school health center staff throughout the country.

Wardlaw also takes very seriously her position as a role model to health practitioner students and, since 1996, has served as a Practitioner/Teacher for Rush University College of Nursing in Chicago.

Growing up with her parents and three siblings in downstate rural Pembroke Township, Wardlaw always knew she wanted to become a nurse. Her earliest memory of caring for "patients" was extracting splinters from her siblings' fingers and diagnosing and treating the occasional playground scrapes and bumps. When Wardlaw was 19, she read a newspaper article about Cook County School of Nursing and wrote the school to inquire about the profession.

The school urged young Wardlaw to enroll and shortly thereafter she was accepted and began earning her nursing diploma. Upon graduating the school's three-year program, Wardlaw started her first job as a staff nurse at Mt. Sinai Hospital where she also served as the hospital's diabetes educator. In that position, she helped newly diagnosed patients cope with and manage their diabetes thus beginning her long career as a patient educator and advocate.

After eight years at Mt. Sinai, Wardlaw went back to school to pursue a Bachelors of Nursing at DePaul University. There she met a professor who suggested she pursue nurse practitioner training at the University of Wisconsin at Oshkosh. Upon receiving her Master's degree, Wardlaw worked for more than a decade as a family nurse practitioner at Winfield Moody Community Health Center in the Cabrini Green neighborhood offering prenatal, well women and family planning care to predominately African American and Hispanic women. A colleague at Winfield Moody recommended Wardlaw to the medical director at Huginnie Crane Adolescent Health Center in 1993, where she has been employer ever since.

Letter To The Editor

The United States Supreme Court made a judgment to throw out the Ten Commandments in a courthouse in 2005!

The God of Israel won't be mocked. The reason that most of the United States is in a drought and earthquakes are happening in 2005 is the wrath and judgment of the God of Israel against the United States. The God of Israel made the United States Supreme Court and out of their ignorance of the law, not allowing God's Ten Commandments in the courthouses will destroy the moral law of the land! In the next two years if the United States Supreme Court rules in favor of man instead of God, the United States people will suffer the most since the birth of our nation. There will be financial, physical, spiritual, moral and natural disasters suffered in the United States, valley of dry bones land! The God of Israel is warning us in the weather changes and birth pangs of planet earth's natural disasters, moaning and groaning for the Supreme Court's stupidity!

May the God of Israel have mercy on the United States of America!

Unhealthy Smog Days

As Illinoisans suffer the 13th unhealthy ozone day of the summer, Illinois PIRG's Clean Energy Illinois campaign continued to demonstrate strong public support for a shift to clean energy today. Advocates delivered a third installment of more than 3,200 new citizen postcards to the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC). Since May, more than 8,500 citizens have sent postcards, letters and e-mails supporting a strong, enforceable clean energy standard for ComEd and Ameren, the state's two largest utilities. The ICC is in the process of implementing Governor Blagojevich's "Sustainable Energy Plan," including a clean standard requiring Illinois electric companies to ensure that at least 8% of its power comes from clean renewable energy sources by 2013. A shift to clean energy will mean substantial reductions in air pollution from old, coal-burning power plants.

Across the country, wind and solar power technologies are providing an increasing proportion of our power. Illinois has the potential for 9000 MW of wind capacity in our rural areas, enough to power 2 million homes. Harvesting the wind can mean big bucks for rural Illinois. Farmers who lease their farmland for wind turbines can make $4,000 to $8,000 per year. These projects also generate property tax revenues for rural counties, and jobs in the manufacture, installation and maintenance of the turbines.

Unfortunately, Illinois utilities are behind the curve in developing this potential. ComEd and Ameren rely on dirty, dangerous, and unsustainable energy sources for 99 percent of the electricity that powers our homes, offices and industries in Illinois. Fifty-four percent of our power comes from coal-burning power plants, which emit hundreds of thousands of tons of air pollution, toxic mercury, and global warming gases each year, more than all but just four other states. The other 45 percent of our power comes from nuclear power plants, which are responsible for the creation of extremely toxic nuclear waste, which remains in storage across the state.

Last month, the ICC voted unanimously to adopt the goals set out in the Governor's Sustainable Energy Plan, but left most of the implementation details undecided. On Aug. 18, ComEd and Ameren are expected to file "tariffs" committing to achieving the clean energy goals of having 2% of their power generated by clean, renewable sources by 2007, increasing to 8% by 2013. Although they have voiced support for the program publicly, the specific terms of their agreement will be contained in their tariffs, which will be enforceable.

Village Board votes To Postpone Special Services Area Ordinance For Proposed Target Project

At the request of Mayor Dave Heilmann, the board voted to postpone approving an ordinance that would establish a special services area for the proposed Target Project and Municipal Parking Lot. Mayor Heilmann stated that after gathering all the Target information and reviewing all the information he determined that when the original plans changed the incentive to Target did not. The revised plan called for a smaller store. According to the Target attorney the construction of the smaller store would cost more and there would be a loss of revenue. Mayor Heilmann has requested documentation but as of yet has not received the documentation. Residents cheered as the vote was taken.

Fire Lieutenants Scott Sobel, Peter Lombardi, and Edward Brand were promoted to captain and Fire Engineer Steve Rocky was promoted to lieutenant. New fire fighters Rick Sorley, Eric Berge, Christopher Trybula, Pete Krauss, Timothy McKee, Russell Engel, and Dana Bartunek received their oath of office.

Police Officer Daniel Miller was awarded a commendation for his service in Iraq. The commendation states that Miller's performance under arduous conditions was exemplary. The standard of excellence he displays on a daily basis as an Oak Lawn police officer was the same performance that he used to lead his men under combat conditions, train Iraqi units, and help spread the seeds of democracy to the Iraqi people. Miller was called to active duty in June, 2004.

A resident who lives near Napleton Honda complained that the dealership does not adhere to the village ordinances, ignoring signs that state no turns into the residential area, driving dealership cars on the street without plates, and when the no parking signs were in place they too were ignored. He stated he has called the police numerous times but to no avail. The resident requested the no parking signs be reinstalled and that number of signs be increased from three for the whole block.

Trustec Thomas Phelan stated that he has been researching a possible solution to the vacated property at 110th and Cicero. He questioned whether anyone had considered developing the total property. In doing the research, he discovered Wheaton has a Town Square developed by Lifestyle Development. The square contains premium specialty stores and restaurants. According to Phelan, this mix of stores and restaurants is not available in this area. Phelan added that this is just an idea for this area. Mayor Heilmann stated that thus is only in the exploratory stage, he wants all trustees to be open minded about this possibility and he would be in contact each trustee.

The August 23rd meeting has been canceled. The next regular meeting will be held September 13th.

Illinois Schools Bill Package Focuses On Paperwork Reduction

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed four bills into law on Aug. 4th that will help Illinois schools by reducing paperwork, speeding up reimbursements and allowing local districts more flexibility. By signing House Bill 3680 and 404 and Senate Bills 1734 and 1851 into law, the Governor is building on his effort to reduce administrative red tape, letting schools focus their attention on the important work of educating children. Since the Governor appointed a new State Board of Education in the fall of 2004, it has already reduced the volumes of school administrative rules by 400 pages, eliminated the teachers' certification backlog and significantly improved the accuracy and timeliness of school performance reports.

HB 3680 removes the requirement that school districts certify to the Illinois State Board of Education that serious safety hazards continue to exist within the district. Current law allows local school boards to provide free student transportation to their students based on the local board's annual determination that walking conditions within 1.5 miles of the school present a serious safety hazard, based on Illinois Dept. of Transportation guidelines. School districts must continue to make this determination on an annual basis, but are not required to submit certification to ISBE. The new law, effective July 1st, 2005, removes redundant paperwork and reporting for local districts.

SB 1734 removes a requirement for school districts to submit claim forms for reimbursement from the Driver Education Fund. The new law establishes Driver Education Fund reimbursement to districts on a quarterly basis instead of annually and removes the provision that a district's reimbursement could not exceed the per-pupil instruction and practice driving costs.

HB 404 allows schools flexibility when administering the 1.5-day Prairie State Achievement Examination (PSAE). The new law provides that a school may shorten the day below five clock hours to accommodate the required testing procedures and still allow the shortened day to be counted towards the 176 days of pupil attendance required each year.

Current law requires five clock hours of instruction. However, if a district has already "banked" additional minutes by exceeding the five-hour minimum on other school days, those districts can count the shortened day as a full day towards the Average Daily Attendance requirement. Although districts could do this in the past, it required a modification of the School Code from the ISBE. Under this law, school districts are afforded the flexibility without additional paperwork.

While the Illinois School Code requires attending of 300 daily minutes, if a district has already "banked" additional minutes by exceeding the five-hour minimum on other school days, this law allows those districts to count the shortened day as a full day towards its Average Daily Attendance requirement.

SB 1851 removes specific statutory dates for districts to file estimated reimbursement claims for the cost of providing transitional bilingual education services. Previously, the law stipulated four dates throughout the calendar year, and placed districts at risk of forfeiting their State reimbursement if they did file final claims by July 20th each year.

August Is Child Support Month

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich announced that August is Child Support Month and honored the Division of Child Support Enforcement with an official proclamation recognizing its success in strengthening enforcement and increasing collections for Illinois' children. Governor Blagojevich recently signed five bills into law that further improve the state's child support services under the Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services (HFS).

In July, Governor Blagojevich announced a record breaking $1 billion in child support payments have been made this year. The funds will provide 386,000 Illinois parents with the money they need to care for their children. More than $100 million of the $1 billion collected went to parents whose child support was severely overdue. Collections on cases receiving enforcement services from HFS grew 8.5 percent, surpassing the national average of 3 percent growth.

During the month of August, HFS outreach staff will travel throughout the state to increase awareness on the new innovative and aggressive programs the Governor has implemented to improve collection for Illinois' working families.

Child support is the second largest income source for low-income families who qualify for the program. In 2003, more than 846,735 children in Illinois were owed child support payments totaling about $3 billion, with a collection rate of 28 percent. Today, the collection rate is 32 percent, with 741,787 children's support being enforced by the Department of Healthcare and Family Services.

This dramatic turnaround follows years of poor child support collection. But, over the past two years, the governor launched a number of innovative and aggressive programs to improve collection to help working parents, including a Deadbeat Parents Website that identifies parents who owe more than $5,000 in child support payments, resulting in the collection of over $172,000 in back payments.

Service Learning Initiative To Begin

Lewis University and the United Way of Will County will launch a service learning initiative through this year's University Welcome Days. On Friday, Aug. 26th, more than 300 incoming students will work with local agencies and organizations throughout the community to lend a helping hand. Lewis volunteers will participate in projects ranging from renovating a residential center for homeless women and children to cleaning land of debris and litter for the local park district.

Local United Way partner agencies and participating organizations will include Trinity Services, Camp Fire USA Prairie Council, Catholic Charities Daybreak Center, Des Plaines Valley Public Library, Lamb's Fold Women's Center, 4-H of Will County University of Illinois Extension and the Joliet Park District Pileher Park Woods. Working alongside these students will be Lewis faculty and staff members, who will lead a discussion the following day on the experience of volunteering and connecting with the community.

"The service learning project is a mutually beneficial 'win-win' for both Lewis University and the United Way partner agencies," said Mark Urban, Assistant Vice-President of Resource Development for the United Way of Will County. "It will engage new Lewis students in supporting their community, and the organizations greatly benefit in the form of much needed labor resources. The initiative is yet another example of Lewis University's unyielding support of our United Way of Will County."

Developed by Lewis' First Year Experience Task Force and Student Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR), the days' activities are designed to present students with an enriching experience of volunteerism.

"The community service effort is important because it encourages our students to think of their life experiences beyond the campus community," said Kathryn Slattery, Dean of Student Services at Lewis and board member of the United Way of Will County. "As they grow and develop, we want them to have a strong sense of community involvement and responsibility. Hopefully, the afternoon of service for others will be the first of many during their time at Lewis University and throughout their lives."

Recent Lewis graduate Paul Sevcik, who is continuing his volunteer efforts as a student by serving as a Lasallian Volunteer, spoke about the appeal of volunteering, especially on a campus like Lewis. "Lewis University has many opportunities for outreach," he said. "By taking part in these activities, students can make friends, join a cause, and become a catalyst for change. It really is a thrilling feeling when you realize that you actually can make a difference in the life of just one person at a time! It all becomes worth the effort and so you want to do it again."

Scheduled from Thursday, Aug. 25th through Sunday, Aug. 28th on the university's main campus in Romeoville, Lewis' Welcome Days serve as a continuation of the university's Orientation Program, helping new students to transition from high school to college life, or to make the move from another college to Lewis. Welcome Days provides students with an opportunity to meet other new students, faculty and staff; to identify their skills, abilities and interests as they plan their academic course; and to familiarize themselves with the university campus, its services and programs.

Welcome Days includes a variety of events such as an Introduction to the College Experience (ICE) class for first-year students; a Picnic-Under-the-Pavilion for students and their families; a special welcoming session from the Black Student Union, the International Student Assn. and the Latin American Student Organization; a photo session, including keepsake photos of students and their families; and a wide range of other social events from live music on the University Green to a scavenger hunt, a block party, a Mexican Fiesta and various activities in the Student Recreation and Fitness Center. A special Mass also will be held on Sunday evening for students, parents, and faculty and staff.

Judy Baar Topinka Offers $50,000 In Scholarships

Illinois State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka (pictured) is currently accepting applications for the second annual "Bright Dreams - A Promise for the Next Generation" scholarship program designed specifically for grandparents to help send their grandchildren to college.

A total of $50,000 in scholarship money will be awarded to the winners of a 500 word essay contest answering the question, "My grandchild would make a great... (fill in the blank)."

The competition will be divided among five regions and judged by volunteers from the Illinois Retired Teachers Association. Eight Bright Start scholarships will be awarded in each region: one for $5,000, two for $1,500 and five for $500. The regions are: 1) Cook County; 2) the Collar Counties; 3) Northern Illinois; 4) Central Illinois; and 5) Southern Illinois. Each region will have an independent review board which will select the winners based on how well the theme is addressed.

The applicant must complete and sign the 2005 Bright Start Bright Dreams Program application and mail with the essay by Sept. 15. The essay should be approximately 500 words and be clearly hand written or typed. Only one entry is permitted per individual.

Winners will be notified in October via certified mail to the address indicated on the application.

The scholarship will come in the form of a 529 Bright Start College Savings Account which offers exceptional tax benefits. Contributions are deductible from Illinois income taxes and qualified withdrawals are exempt from Illinois and federal income taxes.

For further information or to request an application, contact the Treasurer's Office at (877) 43-BRIGHT (877-432-7444), (217) 558-4983 or visit either www.state.il.us/treas or www.brightstartsavings.com.

Concerned Women For America Of Illinois Reminds Senators Durbin And Obama: We're Constituents, Too

Concerned Women for America (CWA) is the nation's largest public policy women's organization. As such, the leadership of CWA of Illinois requested a meeting two weeks ago with Illinois' U.S. Senators Dick Durbin and Barack Obama to ask them to vote to confirm President Bush's Supreme Court nominee, John G. Roberts.

To date, CWA of Illinois has not received so much as a courtesy call from Senator Durbin's office, and Senator Obama's representative stated "it would take awhile.... several weeks" before even discussing a meeting date.

"However, this is a time sensitive issue," said CWA of Illinois' state director Kathy Valente. "Senate hearings on Judge Roberts' nomination are anticipated to begin in one month. Both of our senators have already demonstrated obstructionist leanings toward Judge Roberts' nomination, and we want to urge them to stop."

On July 20, Senator Durbin stated, "The president had an opportunity to unite the country with his Supreme Court nomination.... Instead, by putting forward John Roberts' name, President Bush has chosen a more controversial nominee and guaranteed a more controversial confirmation process."

"Perhaps Senator Durbin is concerned Judge Roberts might say something 'controversial' like compare the U.S. military to 'Hitler, Stalin and Pol Pot,'" said CWA's national chief counsel, Jan LaRue. "This would certainly not 'unite the country.'"

Likewise, according to the Chicago Tribune on July 21, Senator Obama "wonders whether Roberts has the wisdom and balance to be a Supreme Court justice. In every walk of life, you know people who are really smart but have no sense.... And what you hope for in a justice is somebody who is smart but more importantly also has good sense."

"There is no denying that the left's attack on judicial nominees depends not on who the judge is but on who the president is," said Valente. "There's the 'advice and consent' role of the Senate according to the Constitution and then there's the left's 'distort, demand and delay' version."

"Every indication suggests that Judge Roberts respects the Constitution as a document that says what it means - not more, not less," continued Valente. "His extensive experience shows he is well equipped to resist the temptation to substitute the actual words of the Constitution with his own whim."

"Concerned Women for America will strongly support Judge Roberts all the way to confirmation. If our senators will not meet with us, we will encourage them publicly to vote in favor of Judge Roberts' nomination, and certainly not filibuster him," said Valente.

Adjustments To I-PASS

If you have an I-PASS, chances are you received a yellow postcard, which pointed out adjustments to your I-PASS agreement, some of which need clarification.

One of the comments on the card warns "failure to observe traffic rules in I-PASS lanes" could result in a suspended account.

According to Illinois State Toll Highway Authority Spokesperson Joelle McGinnis, first of all, the wording is designed only to remind people of the message of safe driving near toll plazas; secondly, to date, nobody has had their pass suspended for speeding or any other traffic violation; and thirdly, the Tollway still intends to keep its promise that I-PASS will not be used for law enforcement.

The yellow postcards were mainly circulated for the benefit of individuals who have failed to revise outdated information in their account file, or pass through the I-PASS lane when their account is in arrears or has been terminated. For these motorists, The Tollway reserves the right to invoke a $25 fine.

Also, the agreement allows for the deduction of a toll from your account in cases where a transponder fails to register it.

Rep. Dan Lipinski Proposes Comprehensive, Common Sense Compromise to Medical Malpractice Reform

Recently, U.S. Rep. Dan Lipinski (IL-3rd) joined Brian Baird (WA-3rd), James Moran (VA-8th), and C.A. "Dutch" Ruppersberger (MD-2nd) in introducing a comprehensive, common sense compromise to medical malpractice reform.

HR 3378 will: constrain medical liability insurance costs that have forced many quality doctors to abandon medicine; curb merit less lawsuits that drive insurance and health care costs up; protect the rights of patients with legitimate malpractice claims; and improve the overall quality of health care by implementing improved measures for medical error reporting.

"Unfortunately, medical malpractice lawsuits tend to be a legal game between powerful special interests rather than a mechanism for average citizens to seek and receive just compensation for real pain and suffering," Rep. Lipinski said. "Our bill ensures that victims of malpractice can obtain justice without undermining the world's best health care system."

The comprehensive medical malpractice reform bill includes these key provisions:

- Setting reasonable, inflation-adjusted limits on non-economic malpractice damages;
- Excluding medical devices and pharmaceuticals from the cap on non-economic damages;
- Providing mediation alternatives to litigation;
- Penalizing merit less lawsuits and the repeated filing of unfounded litigation;
- Improving state medical boards and establishing best practice standards;
- Offering legal protections for the good faith reporting, investigation, and enforcement of medical errors;
- Establishing voluntary, confidential reporting procedures for medical personnel, like those used by the FAA;
- Requiring the medical liability industry to justify rate increases and pass savings along to consumers;
- Providing liability protection for practitioners and institutions mandated to treat indigent patients.

"It is time for a practical solution to medical malpractice," said Congressman Lipinski. "This legislation provides solid protections for patients and competent, caring physicians, such as establishing national guidelines for State Medical Disciplinary Boards and promoting mediation programs that will expedite compensation to victims and allow doctors to offer a sincere apology without fear that it could be used against them in court."

"In Illinois we particularly understand the need for medical malpractice reform with many communities having experienced a significant loss of physicians, especially those in the OBGYN and neurosurgery specialties. This bill provides the vehicle for a comprehensive solution for the entire nation. It will improve the availability, cost, and quality of health care for all Americans."

The bill has been referred to House Energy and Commerce and Judiciary Committees.

Senate President Emil Jones Honored By College Summit

Illinois Senate President Emil Jones was honored with the College Summit "Let Talent Shine" Award on Saturday, Aug. 6th at the University of Chicago.

College Summit is a non-profit organization that nearly doubles the college enrollment rate among low-income youth by working in partnership with students, high schools, colleges and the local philanthropic community.

The "Let Talent Shine" Award is the organization's highest award and is given to community leaders for their extraordinary efforts in helping causes for young people, especially those geared toward the improvement of higher education for low-income students.

"Every young person who has the grades and has the drive should be able to attend college," President Jones said. "College Summit provides them with the tools to apply, be accepted and finish their education. I am honored to be recognized by an organization that works with these young men and women to secure a brighter future for them."

President Jones has been an outspoken advocate and supporter of programs in higher education to benefit minority and underprivileged youth. He has also staunchly supported increases to the Monetary Assistance Program that provides grant funding for non-conventional students who attend college.

President Jones has also established a youth foundation that has awarded over 125 scholarships over the past 8 years to young men and women who exhibit academic excellence and are public service oriented.

All Points Southwest

By THOMAS E. GAVIN

It has been increasingly thought provoking to read articles containing various allegations attacking Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley and his administration. Questions regarding improprieties have created a climate of confusion and unrest in some circles. More disillusioning is an atmosphere which could have the potential to discourage investors or business owners from bringing their business to Chicago. The Mayor has quite a dilemma.

In response to both his critics and loyalists, Mayor Daley has proposed the creation of an independent Public Service Commission that would be responsible for the hiring and promotion of all career-service city employees.

While he acknowledges that change is necessary, he also recognizes a need to protect city employees from the possibility of criminal prosecution for hiring or promoting someone based on the recommendation of a public official.

"If an applicant who has done political work is hired on the basis of a subjective interview, that hiring could be viewed with suspicion and the person who did the hiring might place himself in legal jeopardy," Daley said. "If a city employee, who also is active politically, is promoted, the same would be true."

"We're also talking about an alderman or other elected official recommending a qualified applicant for employment, or someone who has worked on political campaigns seeking a city job. I don't want to put any city workers who are doing their jobs in that position. The only alternative is to move all hiring and promotions out of City Hall. Period."

The proposed three-member Public Service Commission would be responsible for filling all city jobs by the Shakman Decree, which includes all but about 1,000 city positions. Presently there are approximately 38,000 city jobs.

The Mayor would appoint the chairman, subject to approval by the City Council, and the Council would appoint the other two commissioners.

The commission would adopt standards and guidelines for city employment and test, interview and hire job applicants and according to the Mayor the commission could begin functioning before the end of the year.

The city will present the plan to the Federal Court presiding over the Shakman Decree, and to the legal counsel, representing the plaintiffs in Shakman, in order to advise them of the proposed changes and, when necessary, to secure court approval. We'll keep you informed.

Congressman Bobby L. Rush (D-1st District) is teaming up with SCORE (Counselors to America's Small Business) to offer a business training workshop from 3 to 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 24th at the congressman's office located at 3235 W. 147th Street in Midlothian. This workshop's goal is to assist those interested in starting new businesses or expanding existing small businesses with expert financial and managerial advice. To participate, call (708) 385-9550 or visit younus.suleman@mail.house.gov.

Devine's Bad Check Program

State's Attorney Richard Devine's new Bad Check Restitution Program, aimed at assisting local merchants who are victimized by bad checks in obtaining full restitution, has resulted in $284,241 in repayment on 22,249 checks since the program's inception in January. The program relieves victims of the burden of paying collection fees without adding to the financial burden of the criminal justice system.

The program operates as a unique effort between private and public sectors to address the estimated millions of dollars in bad checks passed in Cook County every year, most of which goes uncollected. Devine's program enables Cook County merchants to receive restitution without paying collection fees, while first-time bad check offenders may avoid criminal prosecution by paying restitution and attending a mandatory, eight-hour intervention class. All of this is accomplished with no cost to taxpayers.

Offenders agree to voluntarily participate in the diversion program instead of facing prosecution. To avoid prosecution, a first-time offender must pay full restitution and costs; pay for and attend an educational class; and pay an administrative fee. More serious offenders, repeat offenders, or those with criminal history not suitable for diversion may be directed for prosecution.

In operating the program, the State's Attorney's Office partners with American Corrective Counseling Services (ACCS). ACCS operates similar programs in about 60 counties in a dozen states. The largest programs are operating in Los Angeles, Miami and San Diego. In Illinois, ACCS operates bad check programs in 19 counties.

How the program works:

The victim makes personal contact with the check writer.

- If unsuccessful in collecting money, the victim contacts the program by calling (800) 365-2960 or by emailing to cookil@checkprogram.com. Additional information is available on the Bad Check Restitution Program web site: www.checkprogram.com/cook-countyil

countyil

The victim fills out a crime report, attaches originals of checks and notification documents and mails it to the Cook County Bad Check Restitution Program, P.O. Box A3984, Chicago, IL 60608-3984.

A check is eligible for this program if:

- The amount of the check is no more than $5,000 (or multiple checks do not exceed this limit). There are no minimum dollar restrictions.
- The check was received in Cook County, deposited in a bank in exchange for goods or services, and was presumed "good" at the time of acceptance.
- A courtesy notice was sent to check writer allowing 10 days to make the check good.
- The check is submitted to the program within 90 days from the date of the check.
- A photo I.D. (driver's license, state identification card) was recorded at the time of the transaction.

The eight-hour education seminars teach basic money management, checkbook balancing, budgeting and the habits needed to avoid bouncing checks. More than 725 offenders have participated in the seminars during the program's first six months. Participating merchants include Jewel-Osco, Wal-Mart, Dominick's, Target, Food 4 Less, Marshall Field's, Cub Foods, Whole Foods and Best Buy.

Grant Recipient

The Wayne R. Gray Educational Grant Committee has selected the recipient for the 2005-2006 school year. The Grant was established honoring Mr. Gray (right) for his years of service to the Indian Programs by the YMCA Network (formerly Southwest YMCA) Council of Chiefs.

This year's recipient is Sean O'Connor (left) who resides in Palos Heights and will be attending Loyola University in Chicago to pursue studies towards a business major in economics and finance. Sean was chosen as recipient of the Grant for his scholastic achievements and service to the YMCA and community.

A committee was established to develop the criteria for the Grant, administer and evaluate the applications from qualified members of the Y Adventure Guides (formerly Y Indian Guides). Members of the Committee are Wayne Gray, Lynn Gray, former Children's Pastor and Lorelle Cutforth, retired Assistant Superintendent of Schools, District 123 in Oak Lawn.

The Grant is available to all members of the YMCA Network Y Adventure Guides, past and current, who wish to pursue studies at institutions of higher education and can fulfill the established criteria.

Demonstrate New Voting Machines

The League of Women Voters, South and Southwest Suburban Cluster, will provide a demonstration of new voting machines to be used by suburban Cook County voters in 2006 at the Women Together Luncheon to be held on Aug. 19th at the Holiday Inn Select and Convention Center in Tinley Park. The exhibits begin at 9 a.m. with the luncheon following at 12 noon. The voting machine display will be held during the exhibits.

Cook County Commissioners Deborah Simms, Joan Patricia Murphy and Liz Gorman have assisted the League in arranging this demonstration in cooperation with Cook County Clerk David Orr's office. The Clerk's office is in the process of replacing punch card equipment with optical-scan technology for the March 21st, 2006 gubernatorial primary election. In addition, plans include one touch-screen machine for each of suburban Cook County's 2,402 precincts to aid voters who are blind or otherwise physically disabled. League members will be registering voters at the event. Two forms of identification will be needed, one of which must have a current address.

The South and Southwest Suburban League Cluster was formed recently to collaborate on programs and to promote the Leagues in the region. This cluster includes Leagues from Dolton/Harvey/Riverdale, Homewood-Flossmoor, Palos-Orland Area and Park Forest Area.

In-Water Boat Show, August 25-28

Though the hundreds of new power and sailboats, not to mention the latest wave of marine products, are what draw people to the Michigan City In-Water Boat Show, it's the fun feature attractions that keep them coming back. Two new additions, the "Bob Villa" of boating and a 4,000-gallon fishing "pond," are set for Lake Michigan's biggest in-water boat show, Aug. 25-28 at Washington Park Marina in Michigan City, Indiana.

Ship Shape TV. It's the Home Improvement of the boating world but there's no bumbling Tim Taylor. Rather, the affable and accomplished John Greviskis writes, produces, directs, and stars in the weekly TV series that reaches over 30 million homes on Fox Sports Net, the Sunshine Cable Network and satellite TV.

Catering to both sail and powerboat owners, Ship Shape TV is more than just another how-to show. It educates and motivates people to feel better about boating. Greviskis says that too many people have given up boating because they perceive maintenance to be too big a factor. It's not.

By watching his show, he hopes boaters will be better prepared to do basic maintenance and enjoy learning ways to even improve their boats.

Appearing Friday through Sunday, offering boat trailering seminars and greeting show goers, Greviskis will be presented at the Boat Show by the Chicagoland Area GMC Dealers.

Another new attraction is a 4,000-gallon aquarium-on-wheels, the Hawg Tank. Boasting 40 ft. of glass sides, through which visitors watch the bass and other species of fish in the tank, a bass angling professional gives periodic live seminars. This unique "theater" allows the audience to watch the lures cast into the water and see how the bass reacts to the various presentations.

For complete information about the Boat Show, visit www.michigancityboatshow.com.

Y-ME Softball Tournament

The Y-ME Breast Cancer Organization Softball Tournament will be celebrating its 11th anniversary on Aug. 27th at St. Christina Fields and Mt. Greenwood Park.

In the past 11 years this event has grown into a recognized citywide women's softball tournament. In 1994, 16 teams made up of neighborhood women came out to play for a very worthy cause. Last year's numbers exceeded 56 teams, who traveled from the north, west, east and south side of the city and suburbs. Each team and each player participating in the tournament seems to know someone who has suffered from breast cancer. Many have lost their battle with the horrible disease, but so many more are fighting to overcome their illness.

Kathy O'Shea, the founder of the event, Donna Redmond and Eileen Corley have organized the tournament since the beginning and continue to raise awareness and money for Y-ME. They spend an enormous amount of time planning for this annual event and because of their tireless efforts on behalf of Y-ME, they have raised over $150,000.

Every woman that signs up for this tournament receives a T-shirt, a goody bag (filled with coupons, promotional items and flyers from businesses and sponsors) and a sense of gratification. Lunch and cold drinks for all participants will be available as the tournament runs all day.

To join us this year as we celebrate the 11th anniversary, as a player, sponsor or volunteer, contact Kathy O'Shea at (773) 779-0172, Donna Redmond at (773) 445-7080, Eileen Corley at (773) 445-7138 or Fran Hurley-Dorgan at Alderman Rugai's Mt. Greenwood office, (773) 238-8776.

All donations large and small are greatly appreciated. We sincerely hope that you see this as an opportunity to support an organization whose work is important to all our lives as well as the lives of our mothers, sisters, daughters and friends.

La Rabida Annual Gala "Black & White Ball"

The Friends of La Rabida, a group that supports the children and staff at La Rabida Children's Hospital, will honor Richard M. Burrige Sr. of RMB Capital Management this year at its Annual Gala on Sept. 23rd. This year's gala, "The Black and White Ball," will take place at the Four Seasons Hotel beginning at 7 p.m. Burrige is being honored for his longtime support of non-profit organizations and various children's charities, including his unwavering commitment to La Rabida.

Joli Burrell, President of the Friends of La Rabida, is the event chairperson. This year's co-chairs are Chaz Hammel-Smith Ebert, Lyle Logan of Northern Trust, Elizabeth and Frederick Thomas of Mayer, Brown, Rowe & Maw, and Andrea and Richard M. Burrige Jr. of RMB Capital Management, daughter-in-law and son of Richard.

Burrige has strongly supported La Rabida by serving as former chairman of its board of trustees and continues to be an active member. Richard has given in excess of $3 million to a wide variety of non-profits and serves on several board committees. It is important to note that this figure represents a significant portion of his personal net-worth. Throughout the years, his generosity has furthered ongoing research efforts for medical advancements and he continues to enhance education by funding multiple universities. Non-profits such as The Wellness House of Hinsdale, Rush University Medical Center, Providence St. Mel's School and the YMCA of Chicago have soared to new heights, thanks to his personal gifts, guidance and dedication while dozens of charities have benefited from his philanthropy. Tickets and tables are still available. Ticket prices are $500, while tables of 10 are $5,000, $10,000 and $25,000. Sponsors will receive recognition for their support through their level of donation: platinum $25,000, silver $10,000, and bronze $5,000. Awards vary from plaques on the Friends donor wall, an article in the hospital newsletter on the sponsoring organization with a circulation of 7,000, tickets to a cruise on Lake Michigan, and other awards. All sponsors will have full-page ads in the program book. For further information on the gala, contact Debra Marillo, La Rabida's Vice-President of Development, at (773) 753-9606.

The First Night Of The 27th Annual Chicago Jazz Festival

For the third consecutive year, Symphony Center hosts the First Night of the Chicago Jazz Festival. This year's concert celebrates the 70th anniversary of DownBeat magazine with a unique performance featuring three generations of jazz musicians: pianist John Medeski, Louis Hayes and the Cannonball Adderley Legacy Band, and The Zawinul Syndicate with Joe Zawinul. The program begins with a rare solo piano set from John Medeski of Medeski Martin & Wood, who won "Best Electric Jazz Group" in Downbeat magazine's Critic's Poll in 2001 and 2002. Next up is Cannonball Adderley's drummer Louis Hayes with Vincent Herring on alto saxophone and Jeremy Pelt on trumpet, in a tribute to legendary saxophonist Cannonball Adderley. The concert closes with a performance by The Zawinul Syndicate with keyboardist Joe Zawinul. Zawinul, a former member of Cannonball Adderley's band and a perennial DownBeat award winner, makes his Symphony Center debut with this rare United States performance.

This concert is presented in collaboration with the Mayor's Office of Special Events and the Jazz Institute of Chicago, and DownBeat magazine as part of the 2005 Chicago Jazz Festival. Tickets are $13 to $45 and may be purchased by calling PhoneCharge at (312) 294-3000 or (800) 223-7114, or by visiting either the CSO's Web site at www.cso.org or the Symphony Center Box Office at 220 S. Michigan Ave. Box office and PhoneCharge hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sunday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. For group rates, call (312) 294-3040. Artists, programs, and ticket prices are subject to change.

This year, visitors will have the opportunity to enjoy it all in the midst of the new landscaping project, donated by the Illinois Nurserymen's Assn. The site is paved, so it is easily accessible to those in wheelchairs or pushing strollers.

Conservation World is open daily from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. New this year, visitors can take a ride on a Voyager Canoe, which seats 20 people. Daily entertainment includes the Scheers' Lumberjack Show, the Purina Incredible Dog Team, the Bass Tub, and Henson Robinson Zoo's Birds of Prey and Reptile programs. Demonstrations include chainsaw carving, a world-champion whip cracker, and field dog demonstrations. Especially for kids are fishing clinics, complete with casting contests, rock climbing, and a 3-D archery and BB gun range, and visits from Smokey the Bear.

CIRCUS CELEBRATES 67TH YEAR IN 2005

The Kelly Miller Circus, founded during the Depression, is marking another milestone this year as it celebrates its sixty-seventh anniversary. Founded in 1938 by Obert Miller and his sons, Kelly and Dore, this traditional tented circus has seen the passing of over half of this century and still offers the same great family entertainment it presented in its humble beginnings.

Thanks to the sponsorship of the Midlothian Chamber of Commerce and St. Christopher School, the all-new 2005 edition of the Kelly Miller Circus will be in town on Tuesday, Sept. 6th for two performances at 4:30 & 7:30 p.m. at St. Christopher Church parking lot (147th & Keeler). This year's show features elephants, horses, and a cast of international circus stars under a beautiful circus big top. The tent raising itself is a great free show that will take place at about 8:30 a.m. and the public is invited.

Enjoying a day at the circus means a lot more than just old-fashioned family fun. The event is a fundraiser for the Midlothian Chamber of Commerce and St. Christopher School. Buying tickets in advance means the public can save money as well as support the year-round projects of this local organization.

TRACKER BASS CLUB FISHING TOURNAMENT: "It was hot, it was steamy, it was smoking, but so were the competitors for the Tracker Bass Club's annual open team tournament," said Tracker Bass Club's president Glenn Pazanin.

Booked as the Cal-Sag - Lake Michigan Tournament, once the 44 boats launched from Alsip, they were free to fish any waters of their choosing. They ranged far and wide, as far North as Wilmette Harbor, and East to the Port of Indiana.

The only fish that counted in the tournament were large mouth or small mouth bass, but other fish caught and released included trout, crappie, bluegill, perch and rock bass.

The club started a few years ago with membership limited to owners of Tracker Boats, that soon changed and the club now takes in members regardless of the manufacturer of the boat they own. The popularity of the club grew because they fish a variety of waters such as Wolf Lake, Shafer Lake, Des Plaines River, Lake Michigan, St. Joe river, Monroe Lake and others.

For information on joining the Tracker Bass Club, contact Rich at (708) 307-3952.

COULD ILLINOIS BE NEXT? In an effort to expand the strength of the sportsmen's voice, five states - Arizona, Maryland, Michigan, Montana, and Tennessee - will be reviewing legislation to allow persons to register to vote when they purchase a hunting, fishing or trapping license. By simplifying the voter registration process, these efforts will make it easier for sportsmen to participate in the political process.

Protect Fans And Players From Violence At Indoor Sporting Events

On Aug. 7th, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich took legislative action to protect fans, athletes and others from violence at indoor sporting arenas, by signing into law House Bill 1432, which makes assaulting or battering someone at an indoor collegiate, professional or Olympic event an aggravated offense.

Although outdoor events previously qualified for aggravated penalties in case of assault or battery in Illinois, indoor ones did not.

HB 1432 provides that assault at an indoor facility where a sporting event is taking place, constitutes a Class A misdemeanor punishable by up to a year in jail. In comparison, regular assault is a Class C misdemeanor with penalties of up to 30 days in jail. Assault occurs when someone threatens or attempts a physical attack on someone else.

The legislation also stipulates that battery at an indoor sporting event is a Class 3 Felony, punishable by 2 to 5 years in prison. Battery occurs when an assailant actually makes physical contact with another individual or when someone is physically injured by an attack.

Recent national and even international cases involving violence at indoor sporting events illustrate the problems caused by this trend, and the need for urgent action to protect fans and their families.

HB 1432, which becomes effective Jan. 1st, 2006, was sponsored by Sen. Kirk W. Dillard (R-Westmont) and Rep.

Tom Cross (R-Plainfield).

In July 2004, Gov. Blagojevich signed legislation making assaulting a sports official or coach within an athletic facility or its immediate vicinity an aggravated assault. The offense is a Class A misdemeanor.

Oak Lawn Grudge Match

August 18th has been set as the date for the somewhat highly anticipated grudge rematch between the Oak Lawn Police Department and the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce softball teams.

The Oak Lawn P.D. confiscated the first game in late July.

However, there are unsubstantiated reports that the revenge-minded businessmen from the Chamber of Commerce have already conducted emergency strategy sessions in efforts to achieve a turnaround in August.

Police Department informants claim that Chamber members were seen huddled around a conference table as their team C.E.O. made a passionate presentation to the team in preparation for the rematch.

Indications were that he began the meeting expressing concern over the negative 5 to 4 run ratio experienced in the first game, which resulted in the final deficit.

Accompanied by an easel and a pad, he waved his pointing stick over a bar graph (in much the same manner as their bats waved over pitches in Game 1) which demonstrated how the O.L.P.D.'s run production skyrocketed in the later portion of the game while their's leveled off. Team consultants pinpointed a definite correlation between the first game defeat and utter lack of athleticism.

Undaunted, some of the determined businessmen proposed that, instead of softball uniforms, the team might perform better in their traditional shirt and tie attire. This would enable the pitcher, for instance, to utilize his tie to conceal a foreign substance which could project into less hits by the Police Department.

However, some members saw this as too risky a venture, citing that the Police could conceivably bring trained dogs, under the guise of mascots, to sniff out such a plot.

Notwithstanding, the Minutes of the Meeting closed with a statement forecasting that "The O.L.P.D. had better wear baseball-proof vests in the field this time."

The Oak Lawn Police are not releasing any further comment at this time beside the official statement, "The Chamber's chances of victory are very suspect."

Biologic Therapies For Bowel Disease Show Promise

Research presented recently at Digestive Disease Week 2005 (DDW) highlights three promising biologic therapies that may provide new treatment options for millions of people suffering with inflammatory bowel diseases (IBD) worldwide. Clinical trial results show that Alequel, adalimumab (Humira) and infliximab (Remicade) are effective in decreasing the severity of IBD symptoms and increasing rates of clinical remission and response in patients. DDW is the largest international gathering of physicians, researchers and academics in the fields of gastroenterology, hepatology, endoscopy and gastrointestinal surgery.

IBD currently affects more than a million Americans and leads to many millions of dollars in lost productivity and missed days of work every year. IBD is an umbrella term referring to several chronic diseases that cause inflammation of the intestines, including ulcerative colitis and Crohn's disease. Symptoms for both conditions are very similar and it is often difficult for physicians to differentiate between the two. The most common symptoms of both ulcerative colitis and Crohn's disease are diarrhea, abdominal pain, fever, fatigue and weight loss.

"Crohn's and ulcerative colitis are serious and complex diseases with varied treatment options. Unfortunately, the available therapies are not effective in many patients," said John Johanson, M.D., of the University of Illinois. "These findings deliver promising news for patients who do not respond to currently available therapies and is a much needed step in improving the lives of people suffering from IBD."

Skin Care Publications

Whether you're 14 or 40, you want your skin to be smooth and clear. But skin diseases from acne to eczema affect millions of people of all ages. Learn how to ease the suffering of these conditions with a new, free package of publications from the National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases.

Acne is a pretty big deal to teenagers since nearly 85 percent of them develop the disorder. Find out about what causes acne, the treatments that will and won't work, and how to properly care for your skin with "Questions and Answers About Acne."

Atopic dermatitis, also known as eczema, is a long-lasting disease that causes the skin to become extremely itchy and inflamed, triggering swelling, redness, and scaling. It commonly affects infants and young children. The publication "Atopic Dermatitis" covers the symptoms, treatment options, and common irritants to avoid.

Like eczema, psoriasis is a skin disorder that causes scaling and inflammation. The itching and pain of psoriasis can cause significant physical discomfort, which may interfere with daily activities such as walking and sleeping. "Questions and Answers About Psoriasis" explains what causes this chronic skin disease, how it is diagnosed, and the various medications and therapies that are available.

There are three easy ways to get the free Skin Care package: send name and address to Skin Care, Pueblo, Colorado 81009; visit the web site at www.pueblo.gsa.gov/re/n26skin.htm to place an order or to read or print out these and hundreds of other federal publications for free or call toll-free 1-(888) 8 PUEBLO. Little Company Helps Bereaved Children

The Heart Connection Program at Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers will offer a grief support program for children, ages five to 17 years, who are mourning the death of a loved one, starting Monday, Sept. 12 from 6:15 to 7:30 p.m. and concluding on Monday, Nov. 7, at the hospital.

Children can greatly benefit from this support program because it enables them to understand and express their grief. Sara Bonnet Stein, author of About Dying, declared "Until children are quite sure a person is no more, and will never be, they cannot finish the work of mourning."

Chris Rosean, Heart Connection facilitator, guides Gretchen and Joseph Fashlingbauer in making a memory collage of their father who died.

their loved one while enhancing their coping skills. The children are in groups of eight with children their own age and guided in each session by two caring and competent adult group leaders.

Simultaneously to the children's groups, parents and family members will be offered guidance and support by professional grief counselors in caring for their children, as well as attending to their own concerns of grief.

Enrollment in the program is recommended at least three months after the loss; however, consideration is always given to the families' circumstances. The program fills quickly, so pre-registration is required. For more information, call the hospital's Pastoral Care Department, Chaplain Peg Schneider at (708) 229-5484.

Seven Cases Of West Nile Reported

Two new human cases of West Nile disease have been identified in Illinois, bringing to seven the number of cases reported so far this year in the state, Dr. Eric E. Whitaker, state public health director, announced.

The new cases are a 54-year-old woman from Cook County who was hospitalized with West Nile encephalitis and has since been discharged and a 73-year-old man from Cook County who is hospitalized with West Nile encephalitis.

The other cases of West Nile disease identified so far this year have been a 49-year-old man from Kane County with West Nile disease, a 55-year-old man from Kane County with West Nile encephalitis, a 55-year-old man from suburban Cook County with West Nile disease, a 56-year-old woman from Chicago with West Nile encephalitis and a 77-year-old woman from Chicago with West Nile disease.

West Nile virus is transmitted through the bite of a mosquito that has picked up the virus by feeding on an infected bird. Most people with the virus have no clinical symptoms of illness, but some may become ill three to 14 days after the bite of an infected mosquito.

Only about two persons out of 10 who are bitten by an infected mosquito will experience any illness. Illness from West Nile disease is usually mild and includes fever, headache and body aches, but serious illness, such as encephalitis and meningitis, and death are possible.

Person older than 50 years of age have the highest risk of severe disease.

A total of seven humans, 71 birds, 674 mosquito samples and one horse from 30 counties have tested positive for West Nile virus since surveillance for the mosquito-borne disease began on May 1.

In 2004 Illinois recorded 60 human cases of West Nile disease, including four deaths, & in 2003, there were 54 human cases, including one death. The state led the nation in 2002 with 884 human cases of West Nile disease and 67 deaths.

Because West Nile virus activity in Culex mosquitoes increases during hot weather, personal protection against mosquitoes is particularly important during August and September.

Cancer Survivors Celebrate The Gift Of Life And Laughter

Cancer survivors joined their families and friends from all over the Chicagoland community, in celebration of National Cancer Survivors Day. The Cancer Survivors Day Celebration, cosponsored by Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers and the Hilton Oak Lawn, included a spiritual liturgy, delicious brunch and entertainment provided by Joan Murphy, R.N., Ph.D. and motivational speaker.

Little Company's Cancer Center Director Susan Arnold, R.N., emceed the morning's festivities and Mary Freyer, Little Company's chief operating officer, graciously welcomed guests with a beautiful reminder of how blessed The Center is to be able to honor new and returning cancer survivors. Reverend William Venecko then led a beautiful liturgy that set the tone for a joyous morning.

Following a delicious breakfast, Joan Murphy, R.N., Ph.D., a national public speaker and the Director of Community Health at Little Company, entertained guests. Joan presented "How Sweet It Is," a fun and lighthearted workshop that reminded guests to sweeten all of life's special moments.

The celebration included works from The Cancer Center's art gallery. Inspirational artwork was created by talented patient-artists who participated in Little Company's art therapy program, "Art & Soul." Patients work with artist Carole Wilson during chemotherapy treatments to create beautiful watercolor paintings. The artwork is framed and displayed in The Cancer Center and featured in an annual calendar.

Women Can Gauge Their Fitness Level

Researchers have developed a nomogram (alignment chart) specifically for women that can be used to predict their expected exercise capacity at any given age, as well as demonstrated that the resulting measure is a predictor of the risk of death. Women whose exercise capacity was less than 85 percent the age-predicted value had twice the risk of death compared to women reaching at least 85 percent, according to research led by Martha Gulati, MD, a cardiologist at the Bluhm Cardiovascular Institute of Northwestern Memorial Hospital, published in the Aug. 4 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

"This is the first study of its kind in women," said Dr. Gulati. "Despite extensive research on the role of exercise stress testing and exercise capacity, there has been a lack of data on what is normal or expected for healthy women. Until now, they have been evaluated using the men's nomogram, which does not provide an accurate assessment for women."

Spartan Education Foundation Hosts Fundraiser

The Spartan Education Foundation has launched a unique and creative activity, designed to generate awareness and funds for the organization, while giving local supporting businesses the opportunity to promote themselves. Called back-to-school business week, this program offers businesses a chance to contribute to a foundation that has been created to provide scholarships for students, and professional development for faculty, both of Oak Lawn Community High School District 229. Participating businesses have a choice of making a donation of a flat amount, or a percentage of their proceeds on a selected day or week.

The foundation has made arrangements to rent space in the school during student registration on Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 9 and 10. Participating businesses have the option of setting up a table display, featuring materials and products, where they can speak with attendees. Parents and students have been notified that they can browse as they are waiting to register, or after they complete the process. As a special thank-you, the contributing businesses are invited to the school's opening football game, scheduled for Friday,

Aug. 26, complements of the foundation. The owners and managers will be recognized for their support.

This program is a win/win situation for all participants. The foundation generates awareness and funds. The businesses have the opportunity to contribute to a worthwhile cause, promote their entities, and attend an enjoyable student football game. Students and parents have the chance to find out more about the supportive businesses in their community. Parents also have the option to make a donation to the foundation.

The Spartan Educational Foundation is a non-profit 501c3 organization that was established last year. The foundation raises funds for scholarships and professional development at Oak Lawn Community High School District 229. Members include business people, parents, alumni, and other supporters of education. Gathering at a recent meeting are (left to right, back) Dr. Rick Hendricks, Tom Hawkes, Fulton Nolen, superintendent Dr. James Briscoe; (left to right, front) Linda Schlimm, foundation chairman Laura Shallow, Susan Smith, and Brian Anderson.

Protect Children From Environmental Hazards

In an effort to protect Illinois' children from harmful environmental hazards, Gov. Blagojevich signed legislation that will streamline state efforts and provide vital information to parents with questions about a variety of environmental hazards. House Bill 4067 will establish a Children's Environmental Health Officer under the Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) to coordinate with all state agencies involved in environmental issues related to children.

"Children are more at risk to be harmed by hazardous materials than adults. Kids are smaller, and they get closer to dangers by playing in dirt, crawling around on dusty floors or playing in creeks. This effort will help parents, educators and caregivers have an easier time knowing how to protect their children from environmental hazards," said Gov. Blagojevich.

The Children's Environmental Health Officer will serve as the chief advisor to the Director of Public Health on matters relating to environmental protection concerning children. The position will require working with boards, departments and other offices within the Department in assessing the effectiveness of statutes, rules and programs designed to protect children from environmental hazards. The officer will also coordinate research, regulatory efforts and data collection with other state agencies such as, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, Illinois Department of Natural Resources, and the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

"While our Department works with other state agencies to provide helpful information on environmental concerns like lead poisoning, West Nile virus, and pesticide use, this law will create a more centralized approach when collecting data and implementing programs," said Dr. Eric E. Whitaker, state public health director. "This environmental health officer will allow state agencies to best coordinate efforts to ensure parents and caregivers are effectively informed about potential hazards and how they can protect children from toxic exposures."

Some of the responsibilities of the environmental health officer include:

- Evaluate and reduce childhood exposures to dangerous materials at hazardous waste sites, from chemical releases, in schools, at home and from illegal methamphetamine labs.

- Target parents and children with environmental health educational messages.

- Inform education personnel about ways to reduce childhood exposure in schools, especially in the areas of pesticide use and school chemical storage.

- Continue to collect and analyze data on birth defects and childhood cancers.

- Explore asthma triggers and effects as

St. Paul Church Annual Picnic

The annual St. Paul Lutheran Church picnic will be held on Sunday, Aug. 28. The regular 8 a.m. Worship Service will be held indoors, as usual. The 10:30 a.m. Worship Service and Holy Communion will be celebrated at 10:30 a.m. outdoors in the picnic grove in back of the church. Food serving begins at 12:30 p.m. and continues all afternoon. Enjoy a variety of delicious food items, such as brats, hot dogs, steak sandwiches, sauerkraut, homemade German potato salad and desserts, and a selection of beverages at very reasonable prices.

For the children, there will be a clown, face painting, games, races, gifts and prizes. For the adults and teens, there will be a horseshoe tournament, a bean bag tournament, plus Thrivent sponsored free Bingo games. Don't miss the annual egg toss, or the prize drawing for adults and children.

Come spend a delightful day with family and friends, going to church and then staying for the picnic. St. Paul Lutheran Church and School is located at 4660 W. 94th St. (just one block east of Cicero Ave.). Questions can be answered by calling the church office at (708) 423-1040.

House Bill 4067 was sponsored by Rep. Karen May (D-Highland Park) and Sen. Mattie Hunter (D-Chicago).

"I am pleased that the Governor is signing this important legislation and giving the children of Illinois the protection they deserve," said Rep. May. "As children's bodies develop and grow, they are more susceptible than adults to a number of conditions that can greatly reduce their quality of life and, in some cases, can be fatal. Just as we have an office to monitor women's health and minority health, now our children can be extended the same vigilance."

"We want to make sure the right people on environmental advisory boards, state and federal agencies and those directly involved in programs associated with children and the environment have the opportunity to weigh in on how to continue to protect children from the variety of air, water and soil hazards that are in our environment," said Sen. Hunter.

Under the new law, the Children's Environmental Health Officer will produce a report to the General Assembly and the Governor on Jan. 1, 2007 and biannually following that date. The report will include information on progress made by programs within the Department to address children's environmental health issues.

Mosquitoes Sprayed In Oak Lawn

To help reduce the adult mosquito population the Cook County Department of Public Health had the Village of Oak Lawn sprayed by Clarke Mosquito Control on Sunday, Aug. 7th after 8 p.m. when Culex mosquitoes are most active. Several fogging trucks applied a very fine mist of Anvil, an extremely low toxicity chemical, throughout the Village. Adulticiding treatments are used when mosquito populations are at an annoying nuisance level and now that the West Nile virus is present. The adulticide spray is effective for approximately 30 minutes and is almost completely dissipated after sunrise.

Oak Lawn Public Works Department has already applied larvicide to storm drains and backyard catch basins to curb the mosquito population. The application of the adulticide spray will help to knockdown many of the adults that remain. However, don't forget to protect yourselves and your family by applying mosquito repellent containing DEET when going outside even for a short period of time. Wear long pants and long sleeved shirts if you are out between dusk and dawn.

Keep mosquitoes from breeding in areas around your home: remove or garage items that may retain water such as toys, tires and lawn art; empty wading pools, birdbaths and planter saucers every five days; run pool filters and pond pumps at least two hours each week; birdseed must be kept elevated off ground and decks, clean up any spills daily; keep downspouts and gutters clear and free flowing; and keep grass and shrubs well trimmed.

The Village of Oak Lawn is working closely with the Illinois Department of Public Health and the Cook County Department of Public Health to keep all residents safe and healthy.

July Was Sixth Driest Since 1895

The month of July concluded without a significant alteration in the weather trend impacting Illinois. Precipitation levels in Illinois between March 1 and July 31 rank as the sixth driest since 1895, when weather record keeping began in Illinois. Members of Governor Rod Blagojevich's Drought Response Task Force recently analyzed the current conditions, and how the conditions are impacting Illinois residents.

Current economic impact of the drought is felt most seriously by Illinois agribusiness. Illinois farmers recently received support from Governor Blagojevich. U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, Mike Johanns, approved Gov. Blagojevich's request for USDA assistance programs, including low-interest emergency loans. Governor Blagojevich's request was based on reports from county Farm Service Administration offices as well as conditions in the Illinois Weather & Crops Report.

The Illinois Department of Agriculture reports 55% of the corn crop rated very poor to poor, 32% fair, and 13% good. Farmers are concerned about corn ear size, as well as kernel size and weight. The soybean crop condition was rated 34% very poor to poor, 43% fair, and 23% good to excellent. Soybean products have found it necessary to spray for insects as they find infestations of aphids and spider mites.

The Illinois Water Survey, a division of the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, reports the statewide average for precipitation in July was 93% of normal, but regional differences were profound. The western part of Illinois was 45% below normal, while eastern and southern Illinois received 30 percent more rainfall than normal.

The cumulative impact of months of drought can be seen in the network of rivers and streams in Illinois. The Illinois River is approaching historic lows at Marseilles, Henry and Kingston Mines, according to the U.S. Geological Society. In Northern Illinois, the Kishwaukee River is at the lowest July flow according to records dating back to 1940, and the Green River is at the lowest flow of any season since 1976. In Southern Illinois, the Little Wabash River had the lowest total flows on records that date back to 1915.

Those seeking updated information on dry conditions can learn more by visiting the Internet web site <http://www.uiuc.edu/hilites/drought/>. The web site includes an overview of weather conditions, soil moisture maps, information about water supply and demand in Illinois, water conservation tips, and a weekly drought update.

Film Series For Children And Teens

The Oak Lawn Public Library, 5300 W. 95th St., is hosting a free film series for children and teens this August. Tickets are available at the Youth Services Desk two weeks in advance. Letter To The Editor

Letter to the Editor:

Can you believe another school year will be starting in a couple of weeks? Although I am past the school years I look forward to a new school year with the same anticipation I have for spring.

New beginnings are always exciting and challenging. The smell of a school building cleaned and perhaps freshly painted is important for an environment conducive to learning.

An eagerness to do their best will be seen in the students as they enter. They will be dressed in their finest clothes and carrying their new supplies. It is all part of the formula for a successful year.

Administrators, teachers and support staff have a great responsibility in ensuring a safe environment; a well rounded educational agenda; and a loving and caring atmosphere. They are entrusted with life's most precious gift - a child.

I extend to all of them a wish for a safe and successful 2005-2006 school year!

Oak Lawn's Gray Family Vacation

Oak Lawn's Gray family found their July Mexican vacation to be an interesting blend of relaxing and riveting.

Four lazy, sun-filled days into their stay in Riviera Maya, Hurricane Emily approached and resulted in the ultimate tourist trap.

The Grays, Chris and

Sandy, and their children Chelsea, Miranda and Chris Jr., were hurriedly hustled away from their beachfront resort along with 455 other vacationers and rushed to a jungle area about a hundred miles from the shore.

There, the guests would spend the next couple of hours virtually trapped in tiny huts as the uninvited guest Emily did her damage.

When the ferocious storm finally moved on, all were driven back to the beach only to find the resort partly destroyed.

Chevy Chase could base another Vacation sequel on the Gray's episode.

Veterans And Soldiers

Sunday, Aug. 7th was the 223rd anniversary of the Purple Heart which is awarded in the name of the President of the United States to members of the U.S. Armed Forces who are wounded in conflict with an enemy force or while held by an enemy force as a prisoner of war. The Purple Heart is also awarded posthumously to the next of kin of members of our armed forces who are killed in conflict with an enemy force or die of a wound received in conflict with an enemy force.

The Purple Heart is the oldest military decoration in the world still in use. It was established on August 7, 1782, during the Revolutionary War, when General George Washington issued an order establishing the Honorary Badge of Distinction, otherwise known as the Badge of Military Merit. Award of the Purple Heart ceased with the end of the Revolutionary War, but was revived in 1932, the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth.

The Purple Heart represents the most honorable of characteristics in a servicemember and a citizen. It has been awarded to more than 1,535,000 recipients, approximately 550,000 of whom are still living.

To those who have been awarded the Purple Heart we give humble thanks for your service and your sacrifice and may God bless you and our great country.

I found this information very interesting and want to share it with you. Of course, you may already know all about it but it's new to me. There are four VA Polytrauma Rehabilitation Centers in the United States. They provide rehabilitation care for veterans of Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom returning from combat with severe injuries that may include traumatic brain injuries, amputations, wounds, blindness or hearing disorders, complex orthopedic injuries and mental health concerns. They are in Minneapolis, Minnesota; Palo Alto, California; Richmond, Virginia and Tampa, Florida. Patients in the centers have been typically treated at military treatment facilities and are transferred to the VA at a time coordinated between the military and VA for longer term rehabilitation. Dr. Barbara Sigford from the facility in Minnesota said almost half of the patients have mental health concerns in addition to their other injuries.

Navy Airman Cordell J. Clement, son of Tonja and Kendall Wooten of Markham, recently returned from deployment while assigned to the aircraft carrier USS Carl Vinson, homeported in Norfolk, Virginia. Clement is a 2004 graduate of Hillcrest High School in Country Club Hills.

He is the son of Ruby Campbell of Palmetto, Florida and brother of Quinton Campbell of Berwyn. The cadet graduated in the year 2000 from the American School in Lansing.

Commemorate End Of World War II

Mayor Richard M. Daley joined Lieutenant General Ed Soyster (Ret.), U.S. Department of Defense and other members of the armed services at a wreath laying ceremony to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the end of the Second World War, held at Soldier Field.

"We are all very proud of the veterans of World War II," said Mayor Daley. "Their dedication to our country serves as an inspiration to our city and sets an example for America's armed forces around the world."

Laws To Protect Veterans' Benefits And Jobs Signed

Building on his commitment to protect benefits and jobs for the state's one million veterans, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 6th signed into law two bills that will increase penalties for individuals who fraudulently try to obtain state benefits reserved for veterans, and that will extend municipal hiring preferences to all veterans who served at least one year of active military duty. Additionally, the Governor signed legislation that will provide financial assistance to small businesses that lose employees who are called to active duty during military conflict.

Senate Bill 1491, sponsored by Sen.

Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and Rep. James H. Meyer (R-Naperville), increases the penalties to individuals whom fraudulently try to obtain state benefits that are reserved for Illinois veterans and their families.

Under the new law, a fraud of $300 or less is a Class 3 felony, punishable by 2-5 years in prison; a fraud of more than $300 is a Class 2 felony, punishable by 3-7 years in prison.

SB 1491 is effective immediately.

The Governor also signed House Bill 1458, which provides that veterans will get even more hiring preference when it comes to municipal jobs. The new law gives civil service hiring preference to all veterans who served on active duty in the military for at least one year.

Previous law only applied to those who served in the Spanish-American War, World War I, World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War.

The Illinois Assn. of Fire Protection Districts, the Illinois Fire Services Assn., the Illinois Fire Chiefs Assn. and the Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars supported the legislation, which passed both chambers unanimously. The new law is effective immediately.

Senate Bill 323, sponsored by Sen. Arthur "AJ" Wilhelmi (D-Joliet) and Rep. Naomi Jakobsson (D-Champaign), creates the Military Reservist Business Assistance Loan Program, which will financially assist small businesses who lose a key employee due to military service.

Under the new program, the Illinois Dept. of Commerce & Economic Opportunity can make loans of up to $150,000 to small business owners whom experience a financial loss due to a key employee's deployment during military conflict.

SB 323 becomes effective immediately.

Help Find Missing Children

In an effort to increase awareness and help find missing children, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed the "Find Our Children Act" on Aug. 6th. This legislation requires all state agencies that maintain an Internet website to include a hypertext link to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children home page. The Governor also signed House Bill 181, which gives the Illinois State Police (ISP), with written permission of a child's parent or guardian, the authority to retain children's fingerprint cards until their 18th birthday. The fingerprints may only be used to help find children who are missing or abducted.

Sponsored by Sen. Iris Y. Martinez (D-Chicago) and Rep. Maria Antonia Berrios (D-Chicago), the new law, House Bill 2445, requires state agencies to post information concerning AMBER (America's Missing: Broadcast Emergency Response) Alerts, or similar broadcasts, concerning missing children. Combined with the information distributed through a regular AMBER broadcast, interested parties will now have a wider spectrum of resources available to obtain the specific location, description, and possible route to travel of a missing child, and when available, the child's abductor.

Each year in Illinois, an average of 40,000 children are reported missing. Since its inception in February 2000, the AMBER Alert has been activated 10-12 times annually.

House Bill 181, sponsored by Sen. Deanna Demuzio (D-Carlinville) and Rep. Jim Watson (R-Jacksonville), gives the ISP the Authority to fingerprint children and retain the prints with the permission of the child's parents or legal guardians. The records can only be retained until the child reaches the age of 18. At that time, the prints must be destroyed unless asked by the 18-year-old to retain the record.

Once on file, the fingerprint record can only be used if: a child is missing; a child is abducted; an AMBER Alert is issued; and a missing person report is filed.

HB 181 becomes effective Jan. 1 2006 and HB 2445 is effective immediately.

Statement By U.S. Rep. Bobby L. Rush On The Passing of John H. Johnson

Words cannot express the deep sorrow I feel over the loss of John H. Johnson, who was more than just a publishing giant, he was a teacher. Throughout his career, he educated our nation on the life experiences and accomplishments of African Americans in his magazines, Ebony and Jet. For over 60 years, he told our stories of triumph and success that other media outlets often chose to ignore. By providing a voice for African Americans to tell their story, he was able to provide his readers with words, pictures and an archive of our history.

I can still vividly remember the pictures Jet magazine published of Emmett Till's body in 1955. Back then as a young boy, I was horrified by the images as my mother shared the injustice surrounding his death. In 2005, I realize the real horror would have been if Mr. Johnson had bowed down to racial pressure, and not published the photos.

Today, the African-American community lost one of the most dedicated and inspirational publishing pioneers of our time. The legacy of Mr. Johnson's accomplishments will continue to live on as African American journalists and publishers continue to cover, uncover and discover the successes that exist in our culture.

Justice For Victims Of Hit And Run Accidents

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation that will eliminate the statute of limitations for prosecuting drivers involved in hit and run accidents. Sponsored by Rep. Susana A. Mendoza (D-Chicago) and Sen. Dan Cronin (R-Lombard), House Bill 885 gives investigators and prosecutors more time to find and bring to justice drivers who leave the scene of an accident. The new law was inspired by the hit and run death of six-year-old Patrick Leahy in suburban Winfield, Illinois, whose killer was not found before the legal statute of limitation ran out.

House Bill 885 eliminates the current three-year statute of limitation for prosecution of cases involving drivers who leave the scene of an accident or fail to give information or aid following a car crash that results in death, personal injury or damage to an attended vehicle.

HB 885, The Patrick Leahy Law, is named after a six-year-old boy who, while riding his bicycle with his

9-year-old brother and several friends near downtown Winfield on Aug. 17, 1999, was struck and killed by a truck, possibly from a rental company. Despite an intense investigation that included posting thousands of fliers and hypnotizing a witness, Winfield Police and the DuPage County Major Crimes Task Force have never found the male driver.

House Bill 885 is scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1, 2006.

New Theater Group Announces Performance Schedule

Evergreen Park-based ArtCraft Productions has announced the creation of its new community theater group, ArtCraft Theatre Projects, which will kickoff a 2005-2006 winter/spring season of family-oriented and family-affordable theatrical productions in early December.

Auditions, rehearsals and performances will take place in the auditorium of Bethany Union Church, 1750 W. 103rd St., in Beverly.

Producer/Director Glenn Pniewski of Evergreen Park has assembled a production team that includes Karl Kazawitch of Chicago as Technical Director and Dan Flynn of Oak Lawn as production advisor.

Flynn was producer of the Blue Island Park District Showcase Theatre for 25 years until rising rental costs forced the closure of Showcase at 127th and Western in 1997.

Rounding out the production team for this season is Chicago performer Marlene Flood as co-director, Mary Pniewski as Musical Director, Joanne Musial of Riverdale as Box Office Manager, Steve Carmody of Evergreen Park as Production Designer and Chuck Dida of Chicago as House Manager.

Glenn and Mary Pniewski are members of Bethany Union Church and chose the historic building as the performance location in a fund raising effort for the church. The troupe will produce a variety of cultural events under the church's banner effort, the Bethany Union Community Arts Program.

The first production in the season is an early December staging of Gian Carlo Menotti's Christmas Opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors." Open auditions will be held at the church on Tuesday, Sept. 13 and Thursday, Sept. 15 at 7 p.m.

Performances of "Amahl" will take place on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 9 and 10, at 7:30 p.m. A Sunday matinee on Dec. 11 at 3 p.m. will close the production.

Early March will see the premiere of an original musical comedy, "Honeymoon Serenade" with performances on March 3, 4 and 5. This engaging farce is reminiscent of the classic Hollywood screwball comedies with the great songs of wartime America of the 1940s.

You can celebrate St. Patrick's Day on St. Joseph's Day...the afternoon of Sunday, March 19...with a big screen presentation of the 1951 film classic "The Quiet Man" (starring John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara) as part of a dinner-theatre package at 3 p.m.

Shakespeare and special music comes to Beverly in April with "A Night in the Renaissance," a concert of classical music...vocal and instrumental...along with a staging of scenes from "Romeo and Juliet" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The season will round out with the spring musical "Godspell" with performances on May 19-21 and May 26-27.

Tickets at the door of each performance are $12, but tickets will be available for purchase in advance at $10. A season subscription package for all five shows will be available for only $40 per person...a savings of twenty percent. And with the season subscription package, your kids 12 and under come free (one child per adult).

Information on the season and auditions can be obtained by calling ArtCraft at (708) 421-1296.

Tips On Purchasing Identity Theft Insurance

Identity theft is a hot topic today as news stories regularly profile victims who are struggling to recover from its devastating impact. This is helping more consumers to recognize that they need to take preventive measures to better safeguard their personal information and hopefully lessen their risk of falling victim. And, judging by the calls received by Better Business Bureaus, it is leading some consumers to question whether they should also purchase protection in case they do fall victim.

Consumers are asking about advertisements by organizations and businesses that offer identity theft insurance, forms, services or other protection for a fee. They want to know how to evaluate the various services and what factors to consider when making a purchasing decision.

Identity theft insurance provides reimbursement to crime victims for the cost of restoring their identity and repairing credit reports. This would include expenses such as phone bills, lost wages for time taken from work to deal with the fraud, notary expenses, loan reapplication fees, certified mailing costs and sometimes attorney fees, with the prior consent of the insurer.

Some insurance companies now include identity theft insurance as part of their homeowners' insurance policy. Others sell it as either a stand alone policy or as an endorsement or rider to a homeowners or renters insurance policy. According to the Insurance Information Institute, these policies cost, on average, between $25 and $50 for $15,000 to $25,000 worth of coverage.

If you decide in favor of purchasing insurance against identity theft, the BBB suggests:

- Check first with your insurance agent or your homeowners' insurance company to find out if they offer identity theft insurance. Ask what they would recommend for your situation.
 - Be cautious before investing money in a new product being offered by an unknown company. Make sure you are dealing with a reputable organization. Contact the BBB for a reliability report or visit www.bbb.org.
 - Ask about the deductible, coverage limits (some policies place a dollar limit on retaining legal assistance or on the amount of lost wages that will be covered); and, any restrictions on how the money for expenses is to be spent.
 - Have a clear understanding of the services and assistance you would receive in the event of an identity theft when comparing product costs. For instance, some third party insurers reimburse out-of-pocket costs, as well as offer investigators to help victims wend their way through the process of working with creditors, law enforcement, credit bureaus and the like.
- If you do decide to purchase insurance, do not diminish your effort to prevent identity theft. The BBB offers suggestions at www.bbb.org on how to safeguard your personal information.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor:
Aloha!

Arrived home from Hawaii and again The Times and other daily papers had much ado about County Commissioners traveling to Hawaii for the National Association of Counties (NACO) Annual Conference. Some statements were accurate, some not. I'd like to set the record straight.

I thank The Times for reporting that I paid my own airfare and hotel expenses, and that of my staff. However, all County Commissioners are within their rights to attend conferences, and it's up to the discretion of each County Commissioner to pay expenses for themselves or staff out of their budgeted travel fund.

NACO mandates a County's attendance the year prior to hosting the annual conference. Therefore, we attended not only for the educational and networking value but also in order to secure our bid as host in '06. We would have attended this year's conference no matter where it was held.

The positive response received from the conferees indicates that we can expect over 5,000 attendees at the '06 conference which will guarantee anywhere from $5 to $10 million to Chicago.

Governors, Mayors and other professionals belong to organizations and attend conferences that pertain to office or profession. 3,100 county officials from around the nation attended this conference. We participated in meaningful, pertinent discussion and debate on issues that affect our county and the daily lives of our constituents such as the Transportation Re-authorization bill, Eliminating Health Disparities, Increasing Home Ownership, Saving the Community Development Block Grant Program, Fighting the Meth Epidemic, Sharing Information Technology, Homeland Security, and High Speed Rail.

On a personal note, I would like to clarify the statement that stated I missed votes during a Board meeting in order to "vacation" in Hawaii.

I did take a vacation that I paid for myself and gave up part of my personal time for County business. My son, daughter-in-law and my 15-month-old only grandchild who live in California flew in and spent pre-conference time with me. That was the vacation part and it was wonderful. While I did miss a Board meeting, to insinuate I deliberately chose to vacation rather than vote is untrue.

People who work usually get vacations. That means time off from work to relax and have some fun. My plans were made in March, four months prior to the conference. Staff knew my plans, they were marked on my calendar and the meeting date for July had not yet been set, therefore, I gave notice that probably I would not be in attendance at the July meeting. People don't usually cancel pre-paid travel plans unless it is a matter of life or death. This was not.

My attendance record at meetings stands up to those of my fellow Commissioners not only for Board meetings but also for the other 17 committees on which I serve.

"Political travel" is under careful scrutiny and it is the media's job to question. I thank the media for its diligence, and I thank the editors for allowing me to clarify the importance of attending the conference and my reason for going early.

Smaller sessions, "Ask the Experts," will feature roundtable discussions where successful women entrepreneurs discuss issues like taxes, branding your business, sales and marketing, business financing, and a host of other topics relevant to both fledgling and established businesses. The "Get Down to Business" Networking Reception will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 13 from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in Navy Pier's Lakeview Terrace.

Participants can register online at www.wbdc.org or by phone at (312) 853-3477, ext. 24. Tickets for Women's Business Enterprises

New Mobile Unified Command Post

Illinois Terrorism Task Force Chairman Mike Chamness presented a new mobile Unified Command Post to the DuPage County Sheriff's Office on behalf of Governor Blagojevich, saying the vehicle will enhance response coordination and communications to emergencies throughout the Chicago area.

In July 2004, the Illinois Terrorism Task Force (ITTF) awarded $18 million in grants to the state's 19 homeland security regions to help build response and communications capabilities throughout the state. Thirteen regions were selected to receive the mobile Unified Command Post vehicles that will be used during disasters to facilitate communications and coordination between local, state and federal on-scene response organizations.

Chamness noted that while the vehicle will be maintained by the DuPage County Sheriff's Office, it will be used any place in the region or the state where it's needed. DuPage and Kane counties comprise Homeland Security Region 4.

Funds for the vehicles and other equipment approved under the grants come from the state's federal homeland security funding and was allocated by the ITTF and approved by Gov. Blagojevich. The DuPage County Sheriff's Office will provide maintenance, license fees and insurance — costs that are not allowable under federal grant guidelines.

Donation For Tilton Playground

Cop On Horseback Cross Country

Howard Wooldridge is a retired Michigan policeman. Now, he is in the process of riding his horse from L.A. to New York City wearing a t-shirt bearing the comment, "Cops Say Legalize Drugs. Ask Me Why." This is a cause sponsored by LEAP (Law Enforcement Against Prohibition).

Wooldridge believes that just as Paul Revere rode to alert the colonists of impending invasion, so too, he rides now to alert Americans about the failures of Drug Prohibition.

Ask him why and he will tell you that after three decades of fueling the U.S. War on Drugs with over half a trillion tax dollars and increasingly punitive policies, our court system is choked with ever-increasing prosecutions of nonviolent drug violations. Prison population has quadrupled. In fact, building prisons has become the nation's fastest growing industry.

What impact has this had on drugs? They are more prevalent, more potent and less expensive! Wooldridge and LEAP believe that a system of regulation and control is more effective than one of prohibition.

In all, Wooldridge and his horse, Misty, will have traveled 3,660 miles for his cause.

Apply For Refunds

Cook County Treasurer Maria Pappas said on Aug. 1st her office is mailing applications to 43,780 property owners to advise them of nearly $60 million in refunds available for property taxes that have been overpaid since the start of 2004.

Pappas encouraged taxpayers to use her office's Web site and phone system to check their properties from earlier years, because another $67 million in overpayments remain available on earlier years. Valid claims have yet to be filed on those funds, despite earlier mailings. Pappas noted a refund search is available at www.cookcountytreasurer.com, and that the phone system at (312) 443-5100 provides the same information 24 hours a day in English, Spanish and Polish.

The mailing of applications is due to overpayments in calendar years 2004 and the first half of 2005. In all, there are 116,814 overpayments worth $126.75 million that remain available. Signed applications and complete proofs of payments must be submitted for the Office to verify that the applicant is entitled to the refund.

Under state law, refund claims must be initiated before the statute of limitations expires five years after an overpayment is made. "We want to make sure valid claims are filed and processed before the deadline passes when we are unable to recapture those funds from the taxing districts," Pappas said.

Overpayments available to be claimed include:

Tax Year 1999 payable in 2000 — 13,368 PINs, $8,890,051
Tax Year 2000 payable in 2001 — 21,776 PINs, $19,411,052
Tax Year 2001 payable in 2002 — 15,806 PINs, $16,532,695
Tax Year 2002 payable in 2003 — 22,084 PINs, $22,279,847
Tax Year 2003 payable in 2004 — 32,636 PINs, $42,740,794
Tax Year 2004 payable in 2005 — 11,144 PINs, $16,896,490

"Because we want taxpayers to get what is rightfully theirs, we have designed our Automated Phone System and Web site to make it easy to check on possible refunds," Pappas said.

A taxpayer returning a refund application should include proofs of all payments made in that tax year. Examples include:

A copy of the front of a canceled personal check.

A copy of the receipt or front of a cashier's check or money order.

A copy of the teller receipt, if paid by cash.

A bank statement showing funds transferred to the Treasurer's Office, is paid online.

A title company closing statement showing which party paid.

A statement from the mortgage firm, bank or title company, showing the PIN, taxpayer's name and address, and amount of date of payment, if paid by escrow.

"We need proof of payment so that we can issue the refund to the correct party," Pappas said, noting that false claims are made. "Although many double-payments are homeowners paying in addition to their mortgage companies, other times the current or past owner might be the one entitled to the refund. That is why proof is required."

Taxpayers who cannot find records from past years can write for assistance to Attn: Tax Research, Cook County Treasurer's Office, 118 N. Clark St., Suite 112, Chicago, IL 60602-1332.

Moraine Valley Rates High

Moraine Valley Community College graduates who transfer to four-year schools pay the college the ultimate compliment: they would recommend it to their friends.

Ninety-eight percent of the 2002-03 college transfer graduates responding to a survey in spring 2004 said they would recommend Moraine Valley to friends. The most highly rated aspects of the graduates' Moraine Valley experience were the variety of courses, size of classes, scheduling of classes, and quality of instruction.

The graduate transfers survey is conducted every spring, and the results over the past eight years have remained consistent: Nearly 100 percent of the respondents would recommend Moraine Valley to friends, and class size, variety of courses, quality of instruction, and class scheduling have been the top five favorable aspects of the college.

Graduates also were successful after transferring to four-year schools to complete their undergraduate degree. Eighty-five percent of all respondents transferred to a four-year institution with 12 percent of them already graduating and 71 percent still enrolled.

The most popular public transfer four-year schools were Eastern Illinois University, Governors State University, Illinois State University, and University of Illinois at Chicago. The most popular private institutions were Columbia College, DePaul University, Robert Morris College, St. Xavier University, and Trinity Christian College.

The most popular four-year college majors were business; community service, criminal justice, social work; education; health and medical professions; social sciences, economics, psychology; and biological and physical sciences.

Graduates also gave top marks to their overall educational preparation to transfer to a four-year institution, instructors' interest in students, instructors' availability, academic skills center, transfer materials available, registration process, library services, computer services, and lab equipment and supplies.

For more information, call Mark Horstmeyerc, director of College and Community Relations, at (708) 974-5275, or e-mail: horstmeyerc@morainevalley.edu

Enter Letters About Literature Contest

Secretary of State and State Librarian Jesse White is encouraging students in grades four through 12 to enter the annual Letters about Literature contest sponsored by the Illinois Center for the Book, the Center for the Book/Library of Congress and Target Stores.

To enter, readers write a personal letter to an author, living or deceased, from any genre - fiction or nonfiction, contemporary or classic - explaining how that author's work changed the student's way of thinking about the world or themselves. The Illinois Center for the Book will select the top essayists in the state on each of the three competition levels: Level I for children in grades four through six; Level II for grades seven and eight, and Level III, grades nine through twelve.

At the state level, the winning essayist on each competition level will receive a cash award from the Illinois Center for the Book, a $50 Target Gift Card, a plaque and will have the opportunity to meet Secretary White. The first-place winners will then advance for national judging. Two national winners will be selected on each competition level. These six national winners will each receive a $500 gift card from Target Stores. Target Stores will also sponsor travel to the 2006 National Book Festival in Washington, D.C., for the winners and their parents or guardians. The national winners will read their winning letters during the festival, and will tour sites within the nation's capitol.

White said the deadline for entries is Dec. 1. All state and national winners will be notified in March, 2006. Contestant participation guidelines and entry coupons have been mailed to all Illinois schools housing grades 4-12. A teacher guide along with additional entry coupons and contest participation guidelines are available at www.loc.gov/loc/cbook/letters-teachersguide.html. For further information, contact the Illinois Center for the Book at (217) 558-2065, or check the ICB website at http://www.cyberdriveillinois.com/departments/library/who_we_are/icb.html.

Target Stores, along with its parent company Target Corporation (NYSE:TGT), gives back more than $2 million a week to its local communities through grants and special programs. Since opening its first store in 1962, Target has partnered with nonprofit organizations, guests and team members to help meet community needs.

New Law Strengthens Protections For Day Laborers

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation that will make Illinois the most aggressive state in the nation when it comes to safeguarding day laborers from abuses at the hands of day and temporary labor agencies.

House Bill 3471 provides the Illinois Department of Labor (IDOL) with stronger enforcement tools, imposes stiffer penalties on violators, and provides important protections for vulnerable day and temporary laborers. The law will protect over 300,000 day laborers across the state.

According to a survey conducted by the National Employment Law Project, 50 percent of day laborers in Los Angeles, Chicago and Long Island reported non-payment of wages by temporary and day labor agencies. The survey included a day labor study done in Chicago, which revealed that 46 percent of workers who participated in the survey were concerned about their health and safety on the job.

Sponsored by Rep. Cynthia Soto (D-Chicago) and Sen. Miguel del Valle (D-Chicago), HB 3471 will help clean up the day labor industry, by going after those labor agencies that operate outside of IDOL's enforcement radar.

Day laborers and temporary workers are short-term employees working in industries such as landscaping, construction, food processing, domestic and factory work, agriculture and food service industries. According to the National Employment Law Project, the majority of workplace laws protecting day laborers and temporary workers were written for full-time, permanent employees. The short-term nature of the day labor and sub-contracting pose significant barriers to enforcement of laws and the workers do not receive the same benefits or wages as full-time permanent employees performing the same work.

This new law will allow IDOL to impose a $500 penalty against a day labor agency for each day it is not registered. For all other violations, the department may fine first-time violators up to $6,000 and repeat violators up to $2,500 per violation per day. To pay for increased enforcement of the day and temporary labor industry, the legislation increases agency registration fees to $1,000 and adds a fee of $250 per branch office.

If one is a day or temporary laborer and is a victim of unfair working conditions, call the Day Labor Services Hotline at (877) 314-7052 to file a complaint or get information online at www.state.il.us/agency/idol/.

HB 3471 becomes effective Jan. 1.

New Laws Give Homeowners Access To Information

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed into law three bills that will help homebuyers and homeowners obtain access to accurate and important information about their properties, including the status of tax payments and tax exemptions. The Governor also signed legislation that will help simplify home repair contracts.

The Governor signed into law House Bill 1428, which requires lenders to notify homebuyers of accurate and timely property tax payment from the buyer's escrow account; House Bill 2462, which requires property tax exemption information to be included on the seller's transfer declaration; and House Bill 2594, which requires home repair contracts to increase consumer awareness of contract clauses that waive the homeowner's right to trial by jury for repair disputes.

HB 1428 will allow homeowners to know if their lender paid their property taxes in a timely manner. It requires all mortgage lenders to notify a homeowner of payment dates and amounts as well as property identification information used to pay property taxes out of a homeowner's escrow account within 45 days of the payment. To secure the mortgage, lenders often require the buyer to pay into an escrow account from which the lender pays the property taxes. Prior to this legislation, homeowners had no way to know if their lender paid property taxes on time, nor did they have access to documentation that would allow them to dispute late fee charges assessed for delinquent property tax payments.

HB 2462 helps homebuyers be aware of property tax exemptions received by the previous owner. The legislation requires the sellers of a home to detail that information, received on their most recent property tax bills. Declaration of these exemptions will help homebuyers determine more accurately what property taxes they will be required to pay when they purchase the home. This bill becomes effective immediately.

be settled through binding arbitration. This bill becomes effective Jan. 1.

Wash Hands After Contact With Pet Rodents

The Illinois Department of Public Health and Agriculture reminded Illinoisans of the importance of washing their hands after coming into contact with pet rodents in order to prevent diseases, such as lymphocytic choriomeningitis (LCMV).

The recommended way to wash hands is as follows: wet hand with running water; place soap in palms and rub hands together to make a lather; scrub hands vigorously for 20 seconds; rinse soap off hands with running water; and dry hands with a disposable towel and, if possible, use a disposable towel to turn off the water.

Dr. Eric E. Whitaker, state public health director, said that people should wash their hands after contact with all animals because animal fur, hair, skin and saliva can become contaminated with fecal organisms. Transmission can occur when persons pet, touch or are licked by animals or from fecal contamination of environmental surfaces.

LCMV infection usually is either asymptomatic or causes mild self-limited illness in otherwise healthy persons. LCMV, however, can cause aseptic meningitis, but the infection is rarely fatal. Infection during pregnancy, can result in transmission of the virus from mother to fetus, and infection during the first or second trimester can lead to severe illness in the fetus.

LCMV is not normally found in pet rodents, such as hamsters, gerbils and guinea pigs. However, pet rodents can become infected if they have contact with wild house mice in, for example, the breeding facility, pet store or home.

Animals can become ill or can be asymptomatic. Infection in humans occurs primarily through exposure to secretions or excretions of infected animals.

Human-to-human transmission of LCMV has not been reported, with the exception of transmission by organ transplantation or by an infected mother to fetus.

Attract Foreign Businesses & Tourists

Boosting efforts to spur economic growth in innovative ways, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation on July 29th creating the Illinois Global Partnership (IGP), a not-for-profit corporation that will build on the state's successful efforts at spurring international economic development and creating more jobs throughout Illinois.

A 14-member Board of Directors, who will not receive any compensation, but are to be reimbursed for expenses, will govern IGP. The members will consist of the following: five members appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the House Minority Leader, the President of the Senate, the Senate Minority Leader, the Lieutenant Governor, the Director of the Illinois Dept. of Commerce and Economic Opportunity, the Director of the Illinois Dept. of Agriculture, the Executive Director of the Illinois Finance Authority and the Chair of the Illinois Arts Council.

Maxwell Street Market Set To Expand And Move

The Maxwell Street Market plans to expand and move in 2007.

Eleven years after the open-air market relocated to Canal Street to accommodate the expansion of the University of Illinois at Chicago, the Market could gain a permanent home at Desplaines Street and Roosevelt Road.

The temporary relocation of the Market is due to the construction of South Gate Market and the reconstruction of the Canal Street bridge over 16th Street, which according to the Chicago Department of Transportation, is scheduled for completion by May 2006.

To protect the Market's vendors and patrons from current and upcoming construction hazards, some vendors will be shifted outside the market's current borders.

The expanded borders are on Taylor Street between Clinton Street and Canal; on Canal, north of Taylor and south of Northern Trust's entrance, which is accessible on Sundays; and on Canal, south of Depot Place to 18th Street.

The market is currently on Canal, from Taylor to Depot Place.

Bargain hunters, tourists and families visit Chicago's oldest outdoor market every Sunday. A proud link to Chicago's past, the Maxwell Street Market has been supported by generations of immigrants and residents. The market is open to the public - at no cost - from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. every Sunday, year round.

The Park Lawn Players returned to the stage for their second musical review, "Give My Regards to Broadway," a spectacular musical celebration held at Park Lawn School and Activity Center. The choir is made up of 29 individuals with developmental disabilities enrolled in various Park Lawn programs.

They enjoyed the music of some time honored classics such as "Singing in the Rain," "Put on a Happy Face" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy" to selections from today's hit musicals including "Dancing Queen" and "Hakuna Matata." The show concluded with a group sing-along of "Somewhere over the Rainbow."

The production raised over $1500 for future Park Lawn Player productions. The group is already gearing up for a special performance at Park Lawn's 50th anniversary dinner-dance on Oct. 1st at DiNolfo's Banquets in Homer Glen.

Check Immunizations Before School Starts

It's back to school time and Dr. Eric E. Whitaker, state public health director, reminds parents to check their children's immunization and physical records before the 2005-2006 school year begins.

Illinois law requires that children attending any public, private, independent or parochial elementary or secondary school be immunized against nine diseases and children entering school for the first time, kindergarten, fifth and ninth grades must have a school physical examination.

Dr. Whitaker said a child without the state-mandated vaccinations will not be allowed to attend school until all the immunizations have been received or until medical proof has been provided that the child has had the disease or is currently on an acceptable medical schedule to receive needed immunizations. School districts must demonstrate at least 90 percent compliance with the immunization requirements no later than Oct. 15 each year or face a 10 percent loss of state aid. School districts have the option of enforcing the requirement anytime from the opening day of school until Oct. 15.

State law does provide exemptions from the immunization requirements for religious or medical reasons.

For an exemption on religious grounds, the parent or legal guardian must submit a written and signed statement to the local school authority detailing the religious belief that conflicts with immunizations.

A medical exemption must be from a licensed physician and indicate the medical condition that precludes the child from receiving the required immunizations.

To be protected from these diseases and to be in compliance with state law, children entering Illinois elementary or secondary schools for the first time must show vaccination proof for the following: measles; polio; diphtheria; tetanus (lockjaw); pertussis (whooping cough) (DTaP or DTP); mumps; rubella; and varicella.

Hepatitis B is required for those entering daycare or preschool and fifth grade. Three doses of hepatitis B vaccine should be given, with the first two shots at least four weeks apart. The interval between the first and third doses must be at least four months. Laboratory proof of prior or current infection may be submitted as proof of immunity.

Vaccines are available statewide through health care providers, local health department and public clinics. For information on obtaining immunizations or a school physical, individuals should contact their local health department.

In addition to immunizations and a physical exam, state law requires children six months to six years of age who are entering a licensed day care facility, preschool or kindergarten to be screened or assessed for lead poisoning.

Children living in areas determined by the Department to be high-risk for lead poisoning must be screened using a blood lead test. Those who live in low-risk areas must be evaluated individually using a lead risk assessment questionnaire developed by the Department.

Governor Vetoes Bill That Would Allow Teenagers To Get Tattoos

Governor Rod. R. Blagojevich amendatorily vetoed legislation that would have allowed Illinois teenagers to legally get tattoos. The Governor's amendatory veto of House Bill 29 keeps the legal age to get a tattoo at 21 years of age, instead of lowering the age to 18.

By amendatorily vetoing HB 29, the Governor struck down the provision that would have lowered the legal age to get a tattoo, but the Governor supports other parts of the bill becoming law - including increases in penalties for tattooing or body piercing a minor. Penalties for tattooing or piercing a minor would go from a Class C to a Class A misdemeanor. The bill also established a Class A misdemeanor for anyone younger than the age of 18 to be on the premises where tattooing or body piercing is being performed unless that person is accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

House Bill 29 does not apply to ear piercing or to licensed medical procedures, such as acupuncture.

The Governor's changes to House Bill 29 will go before the General Assembly during the Fall Veto Session. If lawmakers vote to accept his changes, the law will take effect on Jan. 1st.

According to the National Council of State Legislatures, 39 states currently regulate tattooing. Illinois remains one of two states where the minimum age to get a tattoo is 21. The minimum age in the other 37 states is 18. The legal age in Illinois for body piercing will remain 18.

To receive the library's fee waiver, you must present a discount card issued by the park district.

Florida Company Sued For Deceptive Advertising

Attorney General Lisa Madigan recently announced the filing of a lawsuit against a Florida corporation that allegedly used deceptive practices to advertise and market its services to uninsured elderly and low-income patients and patients with disabilities eager to find assistance with their high prescription drug costs.

Filed on Aug. 10th in Cook County Circuit Court, Madigan's lawsuit names as a defendant Consumer Savings Direct, Inc., a Florida corporation doing business as Free Medicine Direct. The defendant is charged with violations of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act and the Illinois Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act.

Since at least September 2004, Free Medicine Direct allegedly has charged Illinois consumers to assist them in researching and applying for pharmaceutical companies' Patient Assistance Programs (PAPs). These programs often provide free prescription medications to low-income, uninsured patients for a limited time.

Madigan alleges in the lawsuit that Free Medicine Direct charges consumers yearly fees of $199.95 or $299.95 for services that are otherwise available free to low-income, uninsured patients through their doctors' offices, the Illinois Dept. on Aging and other local programs. Using local newspaper advertisements, television advertisements and an Internet site to promote its services, Free Medicine Direct allegedly falsely represented to consumers that it was authorized by pharmaceutical companies to assist patients with services that otherwise would not be available to them.

Madigan's lawsuit asks the court to prohibit the defendants from engaging in the business of advertising, offering for sale or selling consulting services with regard to PAPs and from further violating Illinois' consumer protection laws. The lawsuit also seeks a civil penalty of $50,000 and additional penalties of $50,000 for each violation found to be committed with the intent to defraud. Additionally, the suit seeks $10,000 per violation committed against a person 65 or older. Finally, Madigan's lawsuit asks the court to order the defendants to pay restitution to consumers.

Legislative Package Aimed At Halting The Ravages Of Methamphetamine In Illinois

In an effort to curb the alarming problem of methamphetamine production and use ravaging Illinois communities, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed several new laws that give law enforcement more tools to protect Illinois families and farmers. The comprehensive legislative package creates new criminal offenses to help law enforcement crack down on people who assist in the dangerous meth-manufacturing process, gives meth-addicted inmates access to treatment and help before they're released back into their communities and provides local law enforcement agencies with more support in closing down and cleaning up illegal meth labs.

The Governor was joined by Attorney General Lisa Madigan, lawmakers and law enforcement.

Methamphetamine or meth, is a powerful stimulant that affects the central nervous system and is derived from ephedrine or pseudoephedrine, commonly used in cold medicine.

Statistics show that meth is a growing problem in Illinois. In 1997, law enforcement seized 24 meth labs. By 2004, that number increased substantially to 959. The drug has quickly become the most dangerous and perplexing problem for law enforcement, particularly in Central and Southern Illinois.

The Governor signed Senate Bill 562, the new Methamphetamine Control and Community Protection Act. The new law creates a new dedicated statute for crimes related to the manufacture, distribution and use of meth.

The new statute created by Senate Bill 562 is expected to improve the ability of law enforcement and prosecutors to hold meth offenders responsible for their crimes. It goes into effect 30 days on September 11th, 2005.

In addition to signing critical legislation to combat meth, the Governor earmarked more than $3.5 million in federal funding to crack down on meth-making, selling and use of meth and other illicit drugs throughout Illinois. This funding will aid 20 multi-jurisdictional narcotics units fighting drug crimes in 61 Illinois counties.

Mayor Richard M. Daley is joined by Ald. Leslie Hairston (5th), Chicago Fire Department Commissioner Cortez Trotter and members of a local Boy Scout Troop as they welcomed the Greater Grand Crossing community to the official dedication of the Fire Department's new Engine 63 Firehouse located at 1440 E. 67th Street.

Recruit Tutor / Mentor Volunteers

The 2005 Chicagoland Back-To-School Tutor/Mentor Volunteer Recruitment Campaign runs from the first of August through the end of September. The campaign links over 300 volunteer-based programs in the Chicago region in a public awareness campaign that is intended to increase the number of volunteers involved in helping kids succeed in school and in life.

Throughout America many children, youth and adults struggle to be part of the American dream because they lack basic education and literacy skills. In the city of Chicago, more than 130,000 children attend poorly performing public schools that are concentrated in inner-city neighborhoods. Without extra help from volunteers, business and professional organizations, faith communities and political leaders, the gap between the prosperous America and the one with no hope will continue to grow.

The 11th Annual Volunteer Recruitment Campaign is a grassroots effort organized by tutor/mentor programs searching for volunteers. It aims to increase awareness of the need for thousands of volunteers to serve in youth and adult tutoring, mentoring and literacy programs throughout the Chicagoland area.

Volunteers can make an incredible impact on youth and adults through their service in tutoring, mentoring and literacy programs. By connecting children with adult tutors and mentors, we broaden their expectations, build their learning skills and help prepare and motivate them to excel in school and beyond. We also enrich the lives of volunteers who become part of this movement and we narrow the gap that divides the many diverse populations in this great country.

Volunteer roles can range from direct service, to tech support, web building, accounting and to leadership and fund raising roles that help build mentoring bridges between school and careers. Anyone who seeks to learn more about tutoring/mentoring in Chicago can use the PROGRAM LOCATOR Directory at <http://www.tutormentorexchange.net>, or the <http://www.chicagovolunteer.net> web service. During August and September, program descriptions will also appear on the Chicago Access CAN CALL42TV.

While the recruitment campaign launches in August, the Tutor/Mentor Connection will host a Tutor/Mentor Volunteer Recruitment Fair at the James Thompson Center in Chicago on Thursday, September 8th from 10:00 a.m. till 3:00 p.m. This will provide opportunities for potential volunteers to meet face-to-face with up to 25 different programs. Additional fairs will be held in September and October. A listing of recruitment fairs in the Chicago region can be found at the www.tutormentorexchange.net web site.

Sign Intermodal Facilities Bill

To capitalize on Illinois' role as a national transportation hub, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation on August 11th making it easier for local communities to work with the private sector to build efficient and effective intermodal rail facilities. Intermodal rail facilities are state-of-the-art transportation terminals that serve as interchange hubs and loading/unloading points for rail shipments moving throughout the state's transportation infrastructure.

Senate Bill 572, sponsored and championed by Senate President Emil Jones Jr. and State Rep. Robert Rita, permits local municipalities to designate areas within their boundaries as intermodal terminal facilities and makes it easier to offer Tax Increment Financing, which is a critical economic development that will help new projects get off the ground. The legislation also provides a sales tax exemption on building materials for each proposed project.

The Chicagoland area is our country's main transportation hub. In fact, Southern Cook County is the only location where all six of the nation's Class I railroads meet and where 50% of our country's industrial economy is within a day's trucking.

In recent years, there have been two major intermodal facility developments in northeastern Illinois: one near Joliet and one in Rochelle. There are roughly 20 rail freight intermodal facilities across Illinois, including several in the Chicagoland area, Decatur, Dupont, East Peoria and East St. Louis. This legislation will spur other intermodal facilities throughout Illinois.

SB 572 is effective January 1, 2006.

Better Business Bureau Issues Alert

The Better Business Bureau system issued an alert about online pharmacy sites that are displaying the BBB's trademarks to market drugs on the Internet. People from every region of the United States are contacting the BBB to inquire about the legitimacy of a "business" that is targeting consumers through spamming. The e-mail messages contain claims that the company is "Verified by the BBB" and include a hyperlink to different web sites all using the same name MyCanadianPharmacy, Ltd. (not to be confused with Canada Drugs, Ltd. that owns www.canadadrugs.com and www.mycanadianpharmacy.com). The web sites involved in this scam use at least the following addresses: www.newhealth-pill.info, www.loveamericaonline.info, www.pillsathome.info, www.onlinepills4u.info, www.directmedz.biz, www.tabletsforall.info, www.exclusivetablets.info and www.pills4life.info.

All of the web sites use the same template, display the BBBOnline Reliability Logo and an untrue message claiming to be "Listed at Better Business Bureau." This practice misleads consumers and violates United States trademark, counterfeiting and copyright laws.

These sites are in no way affiliated with the BBB. The BBB does not recommend visiting these sites, as there is some evidence that the sites may try to download software to visitors' computers.

The Council of Better Business Bureaus is unable to identify precisely who is behind these fraudulent Web sites because whoever registered them submitted phony contact information to the registrar. It does appear, however, that most of the spam messages originate from Korea.

To check if a particular company is a legitimate participant in the BBBOnline program, go to <http://www.bbbonline.org/consumer/>. A BBBOnline Seal MUST be clickable; meaning that once one clicks on the seal, a confirmation window opens and explicitly states that the company is a participant in the BBBOnline program. Also, the address bar on that BBBOnline confirmation page must show an address including <http://www.bbbonline.org>. For example, see the BBBOnline "confirmation page" for BBBOnline participant Procter and Gamble at <http://www.bbbonline.org/cks.asp?id=292000103>.

Chicago Man Sentenced For Stealing From Elderly Investors

Illinois Secretary of State Jesse White announced on Aug. 12th that a Chicago man who fraudulently sold promissory notes to elderly investors, then gambled away the money at casinos, was sentenced to 56 months in prison and ordered to pay over $465,000 in restitution to victims.

Douglas Damon, president of Rothchild Leasing Services, Inc., which operated out of an office at 1212 S. Michigan Ave., falsely represented to investors that he leased hospital equipment, such as dialysis machines, to numerous hospitals, had collateral for promissory notes and had registered with the State of Illinois.

Instead of investing the money as promised, Damon gambled away the investors' funds at casinos, causing a loss of at least $465,415 to at least 14 investors, many of whom were elderly and immigrants.

Damon, who sold promissory notes to investors promising an 11% return, gave investors fraudulent documents with false information about his company. He was sentenced on July 29th.

Damon plead guilty on May 6th to one count of devising and participating in a scheme to defraud and to obtain money and property by means of material false and fraudulent pretenses and misrepresentations.

The Illinois Securities Dept. had previously issued an order of prohibition against Douglas Damon on Aug. 31st, 1990. Damon was permanently prohibited from offering or selling securities in the state of Illinois.

In the past year, the Secretary of State's Office issued over 300 administrative orders against violators of the Illinois Securities Act and assisted prosecutors in 13 criminal cases. Although over $4.5 million was returned to investors through restitution actions, most investors in securities fraud cases never recover the full extent of their losses.

Brokers and investment advisers are required to register in order to conduct business in Illinois. Investors who have questions about an investment opportunity, a broker or an investment adviser should contact the Illinois Securities Dept. at (800) 628-7937.

Laws To Improve Airport Safety And Prevent Terrorist Attacks

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation on Aug. 11th to improve airport safety and prevent terrorist attacks on airlines in Illinois. House Bill 1559, sponsored by Sen. Kirk Dillard (R-Westmont) and Rep. Tom Cross (R-Plainfield), outlaws the impersonation of a pilot in restricted areas of Illinois airports. The governor also renewed his call to federal officials to limit the availability of pilots' uniforms on the Internet.

HB 1559 makes the impersonation of a pilot, airline employee, airport employee or contractor in restricted areas of an airport a Class 4 felony, punishable by one to three years in prison. The bill also prohibits anyone from claiming or falsely representing that they are a pilot, airline employee, airport employee, or contractor at an airport in order to obtain the uniform, identification card, or license of any airport or airline employee.

HB 1559 was prompted by a CLTV investigative report that documented how easy it was for someone to obtain a pilot's uniform and use it as a disguise to deceive airport security. Reporter Bob Arya found that he was able to purchase a pilot's uniform off the Internet without any form of official identification, and it arrived at his doorstep less than two days later. Arya's probe also found that about a third of the time, airline pilot identification is not thoroughly examined at TSA checkpoints, making it likely that someone with a uniform and a fake identification would have access to restricted areas of airports, including airplanes.

On Aug. 11th the governor also signed HB 349, which stiffens penalties for trespassing in an airport's restricted area. The bill makes trespassing in an airport's restricted area a Class 4 felony, and trespassing while in possession of a weapon, replica of a weapon, or ammunition a Class 3 felony. Previously, trespassing in an airport's restricted area was a Class A misdemeanor.

HB 1559, effective immediately, and HB 349, effective Jan. 1st, 2006, build on the state's ongoing homeland security and preparedness efforts.

Record High Gas Prices

Industry analysts say our record high gas prices are likely to climb even higher and everyone is either driving around in circles to find the lowest price or just griping about them. But, according to experts, extra miles can be squeezed out of every fill-up if drivers followed these simple rules.

- Lighten the car's load by removing all unnecessary items from the trunk, such as the bag of sand and shovel from the winter. Every 200 pounds of weight reduces gas efficiency by one mile per gallon. If you have to carry a lot of baggage, avoid using a roof-top container, which will increase the air drag. If you drive a pick-up truck, the open bed will have the same impact, so put a cover on it.
- Incorrectly inflated tires decrease fuel efficiency. Check vehicle and tire manufacturer for proper inflation.
- Don't turn on the air conditioner as a first response to the heat. Start your drive off with the windows open to exhaust the hot air out of the rear windows and then put on the A/C if needed. This will also enable the air conditioning to work faster and more efficiently when turned on.
- Smooth out your driving style by avoiding "jack rabbit" starts and sharp braking. Both expend gas and can present a hazard for others on the road.
- It's estimated that every mile per hour driven above 55 MPH costs 1% of fuel economy. So, slowing down can be both safe and fuel-efficient. Maintaining a constant speed also maximizes your car's performance. If road conditions permit, use your car's cruise control.
- Traveling at a fast speed in a low gear wastes gas.
- Accelerate a little as you approach a hill, rather than hitting the gas and switching gears once on the incline.

Lipinski Delivers Millions In Transportation Dollars Congress Passes $286.4 Billion Federal Highway Bill

Recently Congressman Daniel Lipinski joined his colleagues in passing the Transportation Equity Act a Legacy for Users, a five year reauthorization of federal highway and transit funding. Congressman Lipinski worked hard to ensure that the Third Congressional District of Illinois and the City of Chicago received a significant share of federal transportation funds from this bill.

"I am very pleased to announce that the Third District will receive $26 million in federal dollars to improve our roads, enhance our sidewalks and pedestrian areas, build intermodal parking facilities, construct bike paths, and increase pedestrian safety in our neighborhoods," said Lipinski.

La Grange Village President Elizabeth Asperger commended the Congressman's "steadfast effort" in securing $3.23 million in funds for the village.

"This legislation will have a tremendous impact upon this region's economic health and well-being," President Asperger said. "La Grange residents are grateful for the Congressman's dedication to this community."

Westchester President Paul Gattuso thanked the Congressman for securing $224,000 in funds for road improvements in the village.

"Dan Lipinski has been working since Day One to help Westchester and the other communities in his District improve their transportation infrastructure," President Gattuso said. "His hard work has really paid off for us."

Stickney Township Supervisor Louis Viverito, whose communities will receive more than $2.2 million for street improvements, was also thankful for the Congressman's work.

"This is wonderful news, Rep. Lipinski has really hit the ground running in his first term. We are truly excited about the possibility of improving roads and other infrastructure," Supervisor Viverito said.

Following is a list of projects that were requested by local communities and the amount of federal money secured by Congressman Lipinski:

- Upgrading of streets and implementation of traffic and pedestrian safety signalization improvements in Oak Lawn - $4,112,000
 - A streetscaping project on Harlem Ave. from 71st St. to I-80 in Cook County - $3,280,000
 - Construction of pedestrian walkways and streetscaping projects in Western Springs - $3,553,600
 - Construction of a parking facility in LaGrange - $3,232,000
 - Construction of a parking facility and pedestrian walkways at 94th and South Oak Park Ave. in Oak Lawn - $192,000
 - Construction of bike/pedestrian paths in Chicago, $2,480,000
 - Upgrading streets in Stickney Township - $2,206,400
 - Construction of a bike path, parking facility, and related transportation enhancement projects in North Riverside - $1,920,000
 - Upgrading roads around the Brookfield Zoo - $1,200,000
 - Construction of the Leon Pass overpass in Hodgkins - $768,000
 - Upgrading or roads in Summit - $768,000
 - Construction of a bike/pedestrian path and related facilities in Spring Rock Park in Western Springs - $576,000
 - Street improvements in Merrionette Park - $480,000
 - Street improvements in Westchester - $224,000
 - Streetscaping on Ridgeland Ave., Oak Park Ave., and 26th St. in Berwyn - $768,000
- In addition to the $26 million, Congressman Lipinski was able to secure $100 million directly from the House Democrats for the Chicago Region Environmental and Transportation Efficiency Program (CREATE). This multi-million dollar project will overhaul Chicago's antiquated rail system to alleviate the rail bottleneck that creates days of congestion for our nation's freight rail. This project will upgrade unsafe rails, reduce pollutants and separate rail traffic from commuter traffic.
- "This could not have been accomplished without the backing and direct support of the House Democrats, particularly the great efforts made by Ranking Member Jim Oberstar," stated Lipinski.
- This legislation has been a top priority for Congressman Lipinski and critical to the Third District and Chicago. After its approval by the House, this bill must be passed by the Senate and then quickly sent to the President to be signed and enacted.

This weekend the City of Chicago hosts for the forty-seventh year, the world famous Chicago Air and Water Show on Lake Michigan's magnificent shores. The City anticipates that over two million spectators will visit the lakefront between Saturday, Aug. 20th and Sunday, Aug. 21st to be entertained by the largest and oldest FREE show of its kind held in the United States. The geographic location encompasses Fullerton Avenue to Oak Street, with North Avenue Beach serving as the epicenter of event festivities. The U.S. Army Golden Knights Parachute Team and the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds are this year's headliners. The water show begins at 9 a.m. and the air show runs from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. both days.

The U.S. Army Golden Knights Parachute Team will plunge from altitudes high above to their target on North Avenue Beach, attaining speeds in excess of 120 miles per hour. This precision team has been entertaining audiences worldwide for over 40 years.

Since 1953, the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds have been dazzling audiences with their precision flying. Piloting their F16 Fighting Falcons, this select group of Air Force Pilots performs intricate maneuvers that represent the skills and techniques demanded of every Air Force pilot and are considered a "mirror image" of every front-line fighter pilot.

Strong in tradition and considered one of the world's premier aviation events, the show also includes a wide variety of civilian and military acts. This year's civilian lineup includes the Aero Shell Aerobatic Team, Lima Lima Flight Team, Red Baron Pizza Squadron, Red Bull MIG Magic and Sean D. Tucker and Team Oracle. The Liquid X Freestyle extreme water show will kick off the festivities both days at 9 a.m. performing in Lake Michigan off of North Avenue Beach.

For more information on the Chicago Air and Water Show, call the Mayor's Office of Special Events Hotline, (312) 744-3370, TTY (312) 744-2964 or visit the web at www.cityofchicago.org/specialevents.

News from Springfield...the Illinois Commerce Commission adopted Gov. Blagojevich's Sustainable Energy Plan, which will greatly increase the use of renewable energy and improve energy efficiency. Potential dividends from this bill include the creation of new jobs, additional investment in rural communities, the promotion of energy independence, the stabilization of energy prices, and a cleaner environment.

Under the plan's Renewable Portfolio Standard, the state's largest electric utilities will begin supplying 2% renewable energy to their Illinois customers by Jan. 1st, 2007, increasing 1% to 8% by 2013. Illinois currently gets only about one-half of one percent of its electricity from renewable resources and has only about 100 megawatts of wind energy in operation. Under this plan, this requirement will lead to more than 3,000 megawatts of power generated from renewable resources by 2013, enough to serve about 1 million Illinois households. At least 75% of this renewable energy - or more than 2,000 megawatts - would be generated by wind power, Illinois' most abundant and affordable renewable energy resource.

Both consumer advocates and environmental groups have praised the Sustainable Energy Plan. And both of Illinois two largest electric utilities - ComEd and Ameren Corporation - have pledged to implement the plan and will begin accepting proposals from wind developers this fall.

On the state political scene both parties seem to be busy gearing up for the next gubernatorial race. On the GOP front, Republican candidate Ron Gidwitz secured a major endorsement from one of Illinois' most influential and respected leaders when Congressman Henry Hyde endorsed Gidwitz in the Republican gubernatorial primary. Hyde called Gidwitz the candidate for Governor who will "restore Illinois to the proud land of opportunity for everyone." Congressman Hyde further pointed to Gidwitz's successes as a businessman, education advocate and community leader.

On the Democratic gubernatorial front, the top two Democrats in the Illinois legislature have announced their intention to co-chair Gov. Rod Blagojevich's 2006 reelection campaign committee. Senate President Emil Jones, Jr. and House Speaker Mike Madigan will head the Friends of Blagojevich campaign committee. With this trio of strong, effective Democratic leaders exhibiting such party unity, it is unlikely that other fellow Democrats will consider trying to unseat the present Governor in a primary race.

Locally, a bill co-sponsored by State Senator Maggie Crotty (D-Oak Forest) has been signed into law expanding judges' ability to issue orders of protection when the victim and the offender are family members or otherwise living under the same roof.

The new law, which began as House Bill 793, adds these new offenses which include: unlawful restraint, aggravated unlawful restraint, child pornography, domestic battery, stalking, criminal trespass, or harassment by telephone.

"Anyone who is in a situation where they think they might need an order of protection should get help as soon as possible, and I urge them to contact the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence at (800) 799-SAFE or contact a local shelter for help," noted Senator Crotty.

Stroger Outlines Budget Challenges For 2006, Officials Project $186 Million Shortfall

After meeting with his financial team, the Bureau of Health and other senior staff, Cook County Board President John H. Stroger Jr. released preliminary budget numbers that mirror the challenges facing other governments throughout Illinois and the nation. Citing increases in labor, health care, public safety and other operational areas, County officials are anticipating a shortfall of at least $186 million as they prepare the Fiscal Year 2006 budget.

"These challenges are no different than what the City of Chicago and the State of Illinois are experiencing. We have experienced increased demand for services and declining resources as more and more people are using our health care systems and as the Federal Court is asking for additional correctional officers in our jail," said Stroger.

The Cook County Bureau of Health had in excess of one million visits to its clinic system in 2004 while demands for prescriptions increased from 2.2 million to 2.9 million during the same period. The Bureau of Health is on a pace to fill 3.8 million prescriptions this year.

The status of health care funding from the Federal Government is further adding to the challenge of pinpointing the shortfall for next year. Cook County typically receives $573 million from the federal government for Medicaid patients. Through various Bush Administration proposals, up to $70 million in these funds may be threatened according to Bureau of Health officials.

"We are actively pursuing this matter in Washington. Any decrease in federal funding may result in health care service cuts at a time when more and more Americans are without insurance and relying on the public health system," Stroger added.

Last year, the Board added 283 new correctional officers, at a cost of $14 million, in response to the Duran Consent Decree which has attempted to address overcrowding issues at Cook County Jail, the largest single site jail complex in the nation. That cost will grow to at least $19 million next year depending on the demands of the Federal Court.

"In the status hearing, the court made it perfectly clear to us that more correction officers will be required this year and while I do not know at this time what that number will be, I am prepared to adhere to the court's wishes," said Stroger.

Adding to the uncertainty is the fact that the County is in negotiations with 15 of its unions representing approximately 18,000 employees. Wage increases and health insurance costs drive $100 million of the shortfall. "We are actively pursuing these matters with our unions. It is my hope that they will come to the table with a commitment to share these increasing costs to the taxpayers. If not, the result may be service cuts and corresponding reductions in staffing," said Stroger.

Stroger pledged his commitment to preparing a budget focused on quality, yet cost-effective delivery of services to the taxpayers of Cook County and urged commissioners to refrain from playing politics this year.

"It is my hope that commissioners will set aside the political rhetoric that infiltrated last year's budget for the good of the people who rely on us for some of their very basic needs," said Stroger. "I am committed to remaining fiscally responsible but I can honestly say that this budget will be the most challenging of my tenure as President."

Unlike many other units of government, Stroger has resisted the urge to increase property taxes or cut services since taking office. "I have remained committed to reducing the reliance on property taxes to fund this government. Unfortunately though, everything is on the table this year because I will not turn my back on the medically indigent or our obligations to the County's public safety system."

Since taking office, Stroger has eliminated nearly 2,000 positions, saving taxpayers millions of dollars in the offices he directly controls. Stroger is asking the separately elected officials from the State's Attorney to the Circuit Court Clerk to seek increased efficiencies and bring them to the table during this budget season. "I do not run the day-to-day operations of these offices so I have to rely on the expertise of each of the eleven separately elected officials to do what is in the best interest of the taxpayers," Stroger added. County officials noted that the budgets of these offices represent half of the County's operating budget.

"It is my intention to release the 2006 budget in a timely manner but I am asking the commissioners to give serious consideration to the challenges we are facing, especially in the areas of public health and public safety, and to sincerely assist us in adopting a responsible budget for 2006," said Stroger.

Over the course of the next several weeks, Stroger will meet with commissioners, department heads and elected officials as well as civic, business and community groups to discuss the challenges in the 2006 budget.

Hotel Burnham Announces Fall Architecture Series

Architecture aficionados, building buffs and landmark lovers are in for a special treat this fall. In celebration of the 110th anniversary of the Reliance Building, an internationally recognized historic landmark, the Hotel Burnham is teaming with the Chicago Architecture Foundation to host the first ever Burnham Breakfast Series.

Set for Sept. 10, Oct. 8 and Nov. 12 (the second Saturday of each month), the Burnham Breakfast Series starts at 8 a.m. with breakfast and an introduction to the building in the elegant Atwood Café. After breakfast, at 8:45 a.m., participants will break into small groups and join a certified Chicago Architecture Foundation docent for an intimate and informative 45 minute tour. Each participant also will receive a goody bag filled with special keepsakes.

One of Chicago's great architectural jewels, the Reliance Building is a historic, living landmark developed in 1895 that is the first direct predecessor to Chicago's modern skyscrapers. At the time it was completed, its 14 floors seemed to defy gravity due to its interior iron and steel frame construction and delicate glass and terra cotta façade.

As part of its rebirth as the Hotel Burnham, the Reliance Building underwent a $27.5 million refurbishment and renovation. The first floor's storefront façade was recreated to resemble the original bronze and granite design with wide glass windows. The elevator lobby was reconstructed using imported Italian marble for the walls, ornamental metal elevator grilles and stairwell railings, and an elaborate mosaic tile floor modeled after the original - which had been completely destroyed.

Restoration architects also focused on preserving the upper floors (7-14) where some authentic elements remained in the floor lobbies, guest rooms and corridors. Terrazzo floors and marble walls and ceilings were cleaned and honed in the floor lobbies. Intact plaster ceilings, patterned (Florentine) plate glass, interior storefronts and varnished mahogany doors and trim were restored, as well.

The Burnham Breakfast Series is $25 per person. Space is limited and advance registration is required. Call (312) 325-3521 to reserve a space. A portion of the proceeds will benefit the Chicago Architecture Foundation. The Hotel Burnham is located at 1 W. Washington St. (at the corner of Washington and State streets), in downtown Chicago.

Architecture enthusiasts can enjoy overnight accommodations for two in this historic landmark with a deluxe guestroom or executive suite that also includes passes for both to the Burnham Breakfast Series. For every package booked, the Hotel Burnham will donate ten percent to the Chicago Architecture Foundation.

Offered September through November, this package is based on single or double occupancy, subject to availability and rates are subject to tax. To reserve a space or for more information on the Architecture Loyalty Package call (312) 325-3521.

The Chicago Architecture Foundation is a nonprofit organization dedicated to advancing public interest and education in architecture and related design. The Architecture Foundation pursues this mission through a comprehensive program of exhibits, tours, special events, and lectures, all designed to enhance public appreciation of Chicago's outstanding architectural legacy and to educate the public to expect the highest standards from Chicago's built environment. For more information, call (312) 922-3432 or visit www.architecture.org.

Atwood Café, at 1 W. Washington St., in the historic Reliance Building, is an 80-seat restaurant featuring Heather Terhune's modern interpretation of classic American café fare. The seasonal menu celebrates local farmers and purveyors. For more information go to www.atwoodcafe.com.

The award-winning Hotel Burnham is located in one of Chicago's great architectural jewels. This beautiful 122-room, European-style hotel resides in an historic, living landmark developed in 1895 that is the first direct predecessor to Chicago's modern skyscrapers. Located across from Marshall Field's famous flagship store on State Street, the Hotel Burnham combines a passionate architectural style with a flair for contemporary luxury. For reservations or more information, call (312) 782-1111 or visit www.burnhamhotel.com.

Work Together To Prevent Tobacco Sales To Minors

On Aug. 11th, Attorney General Lisa Madigan announced the signing of an agreement with 7-Eleven convenience stores, the largest national retailer of tobacco products, aimed at curbing the sale of tobacco to minors. Madigan is joined by 40 additional Attorneys General, all of whom have reached similar agreements with the 7-Eleven stores in their jurisdictions.

Under the agreement, all corporate-owned 7-Eleven stores will be required to establish new policies and procedures aimed at reducing the number of minors who illegally purchase tobacco products at their stores. In addition, 7-Eleven will take steps to ensure compliance by its franchisees. There are a total of 5,931 7-Eleven stores in the participating 40 states and Washington, D.C., including 185 stores in Illinois.

This agreement comes as a result of a five-year, nationwide investigation into the sale of tobacco to minors by retail stores conducted by the offices of many Attorneys General. The group's data indicates that when checked for compliance, 7-Eleven made sales of tobacco to minors. The corporate policies or practices behind these sales violate the Consumer Protection statutes of each state.

Madigan announced that Illinois has entered into an Assurance of Voluntary Compliance (AVC) agreement with 7-Eleven. The AVC agreement ensures reform by requiring that 7-Eleven implement tobacco retailing practices. These practices include:

- Providing training to employees on state and local laws regarding the sale of tobacco to minors and the health-related reasons for such laws.
- Conducting internal and external compliance checks to determine whether its stores and staff are complying with youth access laws and the AVC.
- Using registers that prompt the cashier to check identification before the sale of tobacco products.
- Posting signs to inform customers that identification is required to purchase tobacco products.

Madigan said research indicates that every day in the United States, more than 2,000 people under the age of 18 begin smoking and one-third of those persons will one day die from a tobacco-related disease. Young people are particularly susceptible to the addictive elements in cigarettes, with research showing that 80 percent of all adult smokers began smoking before the age of 18.

In recent years, Illinois has signed similar agreements with Wal-Mart and SAM's Club, Walgreens, Exxon/Mobile and BP/Amoc.

Holy Family Parish Jazz Fest

The 3rd Annual Holy Family Parish Jazz Festival will take place on Friday, August 19th from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the Holy Family Church grounds at 1080 W. Roosevelt Road (at May Street 1000 West) in Chicago.

As a musical prelude to the main event, the Festival will feature an eclectic array of high-profile jazz and folk acts, including: Ernest Dawkins Quartet & Friends, led by none other than Ernest Dawkins, a composer, arranger, educator and internationally acclaimed Chicago saxophonist; Ted Sirota's Jazz Rebels, an improvisational jazz drum group will perform a unique musical confluence of Afro-pop, funk, reggae and hip-hop; and, finally, Gerry Dignan, a modern day troubadour, will perform Celtic, African and South American folk songs throughout the main event.

And the highlight of this year's festivities will be an up-close exhibition of 29 recently restored and gilded 19th century wooden angels. These precious artifacts represent the largest collection of sculpture by internationally acclaimed Canadian artist, Charles-Olivier Dauphin (1807-1874).

Dauphin created the wooden art pieces in his Montreal workshop, shipped them to Chicago for placement atop Holy Family's famed hand organ case, hand-carved by another famous Montrealer, Louis Mitchell.

The angels have been declared by officials of the National Gallery of Canada to be "the most elaborate ornamental statues ever carved in Canada" for a church organ case.

Finally, former Holy Family parishioners are invited to view a collection of late 1940's-50's photos of family, school events and celebrations from the parish archives to help identify missing persons in anticipation of Holy Family's 150th anniversary in 2007.

Tickets are $25. You must be at least 21 to enter. Food and beverages will be available to purchase. For more information, you may call Sara Conley or Megan Kortemeyer at (312) 558-1770 or just visit www.holyfamilychurchchicago.info.

Boating Is Big Business

When most people think of boating they think of states with warm year-round climates that border oceans. Florida, California, and Texas no doubt spring to mind. While they are in fact popular boating states, the overwhelming majority of boat owners are located right here in the Great Lakes states.

The eight Great Lakes states - Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin - have about 3.7 million registered recreational boats, or about a third of the nation's total (there are just over 12 million registered boats nationwide).

All told, the Great Lakes boasts five of the top ten boating states in the nation, as determined by number of registered boats. Michigan ranks second (California is first) with just under one million registered boats, Minnesota is fourth, Wisconsin is sixth, Ohio is eighth, and Illinois comes in tenth.

Why Great Lakes states, with short boating seasons and unpredictable weather patterns, prove so popular with boaters can be summed up with one word: Opportunity. The Great Lakes - Huron, Ontario, Michigan, Erie, and Superior - hold more than 1/5 of the freshwater in the entire world. This awesome natural resource provides world-class fishing, sailing, cruising, and lately shipwreck diving opportunities.

The boating lifestyle - cruising, sailing and fishing - will be celebrated at the 26th annual Michigan City In-Water Boat Show. Lake Michigan's biggest in-water boat show, an easy drive from parts of four states (Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and of course Indiana) drops anchor Aug. 25-28 at Washington Park Marina in Michigan City, Indiana.

Selections have been chosen from nearly 40 different Broadway shows including Annie, Bye, Bye Birdie, The Sound of Music, Chicago, Spamalot, West Side Story, Damn Yankees, How to Succeed in Business, and Guys & Dolls. The musical revue was developed by Beverly Theatre Guild members Emil Zbella of Chicago, Marty Donovan of Orland Park, Cheryl Miller of Crestwood, and Cynthia McKown of Palos Hills.

Proceeds from Broadway on the Corner will go toward the purchase of an electronic sign to be installed on the Beverly Arts Center building. The sign will provide information on BAC events to the thousands of cars that pass each day on 111th Street and Western Avenue.

The Beverly Theatre Guild has been supporting the Beverly Arts Center since funds were being raised to build the original Center in the late 1960s. The Center's stage was inaugurated in 1969 with the Beverly Theatre Guild's production of Moss Hart's Light Up the Sky. The Guild has been staging their performances at the BAC ever since, an integral part of the Center's theater season.

The Beverly Theatre Guild also took an active role in the campaign to build the new facility in 2002.

The Beverly Theatre Guild has a long history, first formed in 1929 as a program of the Chicago Park District and performing in Graver and Ridge Parks in the Beverly/Morgan Park neighborhood. The Beverly Theatre Guild usually produces a three-show season at the Beverly Arts Center, traditionally staging a musical, a comedy and a drama. Broadway on the Corner was added to the schedule as a special fund raiser. The BAC is a not-for-profit regional arts facility.

The Beverly Theatre Guild's Broadway on the Corner will be staged Fri., Aug. 19 and Sat., Aug. 20, 8 p.m., and Sun., Aug. 21, 2 p.m. at the Beverly Arts Center, 2407 W. 111th St., Chicago. Tickets are $18.50; $17.50 for seniors and students. 773-445-3838 or www.beverlyartcenter.org.

"Marriage On The Midway"

James and Jeanette Cabit may be the happiest pair at the 2005 Illinois State Fair. The lucky couple has been selected by popular vote to be "Married on the Midway," a special event sponsored by Clear Channel Radio Group/KISS FM in Springfield, and the Illinois State Fair.

James and Jeanette of Lincoln met on a blind date at the Illinois State Fair on Aug. 19th, 1927. That evening was so special that James kept the newspaper from that day. The couple was among 35 other applicants competing for the grand prize. A panel of judges selected the top 10 essays and photos, which were then posted on the Illinois State Fair web site, www.illinoisstatefair.info, and the public voted for the winner. Now James and Jeanette will be renewing their vows in front of 100 of their closest friends and family members at the Carnival Midway area at the 2005 Illinois State Fair.

James and Jeanette and their friends will have access to all the midway has to offer - rides, food and fun. All the needed elements for this special occasion will be provided gratis including a justice of the peace, bouquets from 1-800 Flowers, wedding dress from ABS Gowns, Direct TV package, photographer, cake, Midway food, and unlimited rides for the couple and their guests.

The ceremony will take place on Aug. 20th at 10 a.m.

HUNTING RULES NOW AVAILABLE: The 2005-06 Digest of Hunting and Trapping Regulations is available at your local sporting goods stores, according to the Illinois Department of Natural Resources. Now is a good time to purchase your hunting license and pick up a copy of the regulations. Dove season opens Sept. 1st and is considered migratory fowl and subject to special regulations covered in the digest. Read it carefully, particularly the HIP section.

WING SHOOTING CLINIC: The IDNR and a variety of participating sponsors are hosting a series of wingshooting clinics for beginners and hunters this summer. Saturday session instruction is available for young wingshooters 10-15 years of age. Sunday sessions are for girls and women and are open to all those ages 10 and older.

Instructors are certified by the National Sporting Clays Association. Hunters with wingshooting skills from beginner to advanced are encouraged to attend. A small fee is assessed each hunter clinic participant to cover the cost of clay targets and refreshments.

The closest clinic will be held this weekend, Aug. 20th and 21st, at Shabona Lake State Park in DeKalb County. For information, call (815) 758-2773. These clinics can serve as a tune-up for the upcoming hunting season.

ATTENTION ARTISANS: Illinois artisans are invited to submit applications for the Illinois Artisans Program, a program of the Illinois State Museum. Begun in 1985, the program promotes the work of artisans living in Illinois through exhibitions and activities. All areas of original art and craft are eligible including folk, traditional, contemporary, ethnic and fine art forms. For more information and an application, call (312) 814-1794.

WORMS HOOKED FOR FISHING FEEL NO PAIN: The anti's won't like this! (Great Lakes Basin Report) Worms squirming on a fishhook feel no pain - nor do lobsters and crabs cooked in boiling water, a study funded by the Norwegian government has found. "The common earthworm has a very simple nervous system - it can be cut in two and continue with its business," said Professor Wenche Farstad, who chaired the panel that drew up the report.

Norway might have considered banning the use of live worms as fish bait, if the study had found they felt pain, but Farstad said, "It seems to be only reflex curling when put on a hook...they might sense something, but it not painful and does not compromise their well-being."

IT'S A FACT: The Congressional Sportsmen Foundation says "Sportsmen contribute $54 every second, $3,240 every minute, $194,400 every hour, $4.7 million every day, adding up to $1.7 billion every year for conservation."

TIRE FAILURES TOP LIST OF 2004 BOAT TRAILER BREAKDOWNS: Burdened by the weight of their loads, infrequent use, potholes, the sun's blistering UV rays, winter's freezing temperatures and submersion in water, boat trailers don't have an easy life. Of the thousands of requests for roadside assistance made by Boat U.S. Trailering Club members in 2004, the number one call for assistance was for flat tires, more than twice as many as the next runner-up.

To start with, make sure your tires were made for trailering. A "ST" designation on the sidewall indicates special trailer use for boat trailers. Also, never mix bias ply with radial tires.

Inflation is the most basic tire maintenance issue. Tires should be inflated while cold, before the trip. A spare tire is a must.

A tire's worst enemy is dry rot. If you store your boat and trailer outside during the winter, remove the tires and keep inside if possible.

Moisture can doom a tire if the trailer sits idle on grassy damp ground. Removing the tire is best, but parking on plywood or hard surface can help.

Blue Knights vs. Midlo

Come to Hawkinson Ford Field, 14011 S. Kenton, Crestwood, to see the CPD Blue Knights go against the Midlothian Police Department. This Charity Baseball Game will be held on Saturday, Aug. 27th. The first pitch will be at 6:05 p.m.

The game will benefit the families of police officers and firefighters that were killed in the Line of Duty. Funds collected will be donated to organizations that support benefits and to memorials for the officers.

Hawkinson Ford Field is two blocks east of Cicero Ave., off the Midlothian Turnpike. General Admission is $8 with children five and under free. Senior citizens (65 or older), children wearing Little League jerseys, children wearing Girl Scout, Boy Scout any other youth organizations shirts, all police or fire cadets and Active Armed Services members are $5.

The Public Safety Officers Fund will sponsor a raffle during the game. First prize is $200; second prize is $150; third, fourth and fifth prizes are $50 each. Tickets are $2 each or three for $5. Prizes will be awarded Aug. 27. The winner need not be present. After the game, there will be a huge fireworks display to close the festivities.

Veto Bill Allowing Hunters To Use Snare Traps

Taking action on Aug. 12th to protect Illinois' wildlife, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich vetoed House Bill 1486, which would have allowed hunters to use cable restraints, also known as snares, to trap several species of fur-bearing animals. According to animal rights groups, if not killed immediately by the snares, captured animals may die slowly and painfully from dehydration, starvation, exposure to severe weather or predation from other animals.

Snares generally are made of a light wire cable looped through a lock device, and are designed to tighten around the neck or leg of an animal. According to the animal rights organization Animal Protection Institute (API), snares painfully and cruelly strangle their prey. The more the animal struggles against the snare, the tighter the noose draws. API and other groups call snares an indiscriminate killing method that sometimes catches and kills non-target animals, including house pets, hunting dogs and endangered species.

HB 1486 would have allowed hunters to use snares to trap animals such as raccoons, foxes and beavers on land. Even though the bill required that snares had a mechanism to help reduce the chance of strangulation, the safety provisions were still inadequate to protect animals from suffering. These traps have been banned in Illinois for over 50 years because the trap's wire hoop strangles the animal. Twenty-one states in the nation do not allow the use of snares. Most national animal rights groups, several of which have Illinois chapters, opposed the legislation.

The Humane Society of the United States said snares are the most primitive, indiscriminate and inhumane traps used in the United States. Neck and body snares strangle their victims or crush their vital organs, leading to an agonizing and often prolonged death. These traps are particularly cruel to their targets because the muscles around the animal's windpipe and arteries slow death. According to the Humane Society, animals killed in neck snares are often referred to as "jelly-heads" because of the thick, bloody lymph fluid that swells their heads and necks.

Organizations opposing this legislation further argued that these traps:

May increase the number of animals trapped and killed for their fur. This increase will likely occur because, since cable restraints are cheaper and easier to use than other traps, trappers will use more of them to blanket an area.

Despite new safety mechanisms that are supposed to reduce the chance of strangulation, snares are still inhumane and unsafe.

While hunters place traps in areas where they think they will catch the species of animal they want, these traps can catch any animal whose head or leg fits through the snare's noose.

Host The 3rd Annual Jack Brickhouse Tribute

United Cerebral Palsy Association of Greater Chicago (UCP Chicago) teamed up with the Chicago White Sox to honor the memory of Hall of Fame broadcaster Jack Brickhouse during the White Sox game against the Minnesota Twins on Wednesday, Aug. 17th.

Jack Brickhouse was a founding member of UCP Chicago and dedicated his time, talent and energy by serving on UCP Chicago's Board of Directors for over 35 years. To commemorate Jack's amazing spirit and dedication to UCP Chicago's mission, UCP Chicago instituted the Jack Brickhouse Award for Inspirational Leadership. "I know Jack would be proud to think this award was presented to deserving individuals as a way to carry on his legacy," said Jack's widow, Pat Brickhouse, who presented this year's award at home plate to Richard Melman.

Richard Melman is the Founder and Chairman of Lettuce Entertain You Enterprises, a Chicago-based corporation that owns over 50 restaurants nationwide. He is supportive in many of the same causes as Jack Brickhouse and portrays the same selfless spirit in leading others.

Along with a special presentation of the Jack Brickhouse Award, UCP Chicago had the opportunity to participate in an on-field parade prior to the start of the game. This year's parade grand marshal was Cliff Kelley, talk host of WVON-AM's Cliff Kelley Show.

Those who would like to support the memory of Jack Brickhouse and UCP Chicago's mission can call Kathy Overbeck, Marketing & Special Events Coordinator, at (312) 464-1604, ext. 12 for more information.

Americans Are Spending Less On Back To School Supplies

According to the annual Back-to-School Survey conducted by Myvesta, a nonprofit consumer education organization, Americans plan to spend $225 less this year on back-to-school expenses. The average shopper plans to spend $3,164 this year, down 6.6 percent from $3,389 in 2004. This year's survey shows a return to the back-to-school spending of 2003, where the average shopper planned to spend $3,184. Of those surveyed, 47 percent plan to spend less than $1,000 on their back-to-school expenses in 2005.

"Back-to-school is the most expensive time of year for many American families; more costly than summer vacations and holiday shopping combined," said Steve Rhode, president of Myvesta. "Most families don't have extra cash this year to splurge on the latest and greatest back-to-school gadgets, clothing or dorm room decorations and when they are spending they are looking to get the most for their dollar."

The Myvesta Back-to-School Survey was conducted July 29-31 in a random telephone poll of 1,000 adult Americans. Each respondent was asked about their back-to-school purchases for themselves, family members and others. The average spending in each of seven categories includes: electronics, $281 in 2005, $395 in 2004 (computers, printers, software, calculators, cell phones, etc.); clothing, $374 in 2005, $431 in 2004 (coats, shoes, uniforms, backpacks, accessories, etc.); fees,

$1,952 in 2005, $1,455 in 2004 (application fees, tuition, health assessments, deposits, etc.); sporting/extracurricular activities, $141 in 2005, $207 in 2004 (equipment, jerseys, uniforms, coaching fees, etc.); dorm room supplies, $98 in 2005, $178 in 2004 (bedding, towels, toiletries, refrigerators, cooking supplies, etc.); desk supplies, $146 in 2005, $142 in 2004 (pens, pencils, notebooks, reference materials, etc.); transportation, $462 in 2005, $1,030 in 2004 (air, bus and rail travel, car purchase, subway passes, etc.); total for back-to-school, $3,164 in 2005, $3,389 in 2004 (the average of all responses).

Five of the seven categories included in the survey showed decreases in spending with the largest percentage drops in the categories of transportation and dorm room supplies. The average American plans to spend 55.2 percent less on transportation related expenses and 45 percent less on dorm room supplies. Spending on desk supplies remained relatively unchanged with a slight increase in spending of 2.8 percent. The only category where spending significantly increased was fees, where the average American plans to spend 21.4 percent more than they did last year.

For information and money saving tips on back-to-school shopping, read the Myvesta publication "Back To School: How to save money and teach your kids at the same time." It can be downloaded free by visiting Myvesta.org online.

Drive S.A.F.E. This Summer

With thousands of motorists sharing the highways, accidents are inevitable. In addition to inconvenience, crash victims often suffer medical injuries and costly vehicle repairs. The Illinois Insurance Hotline, an industry-sponsored consumer resource, encourages motorists to be S.A.F.E. drivers. Keep these points in mind as you head to the roadways this summer.

Seatbelts: Seatbelts enable vehicle occupants to absorb the force of a crash without slamming into the steering wheel, windshield, or other interior object. They also prevent occupants from being ejected from the vehicle. Seatbelts were responsible for saving more than 14,500 lives, according to 2002 statistics from the National Highway Safety Administration. Buckle up before putting the car in gear.

Automobile Maintenance: Poorly maintained vehicles are more likely to be involved in accidents. Monitor tires for wear and sufficient air pressure. Replace, rotate and balance tires as appropriate. Examine headlights, taillights, brake lights and blinkers for proper working condition. Replace bulbs as needed. Regularly service the engine. Confirm air and fuel filters, belts and hoses, and radiator, battery and oil fluid levels are in good shape. Replace windshield wipers and replenish wiper fluid when necessary. Take care of your automobile.

Focus: Avoid driver distractions. Anything that diverts attention away from driving increases the likelihood of a crash. Routine activities like talking with passengers, adjusting the radio or CD player, eating or drinking, talking on the cell phone, dealing with children in the back seat, and reading printed materials cause you to lose focus when you're behind the steering wheel. Make a conscious effort to minimize distractions. Focused drivers are less likely to be involved in vehicle crashes.

Expect the Unexpected: Be alert. Anticipate what other motorists will do. Signal turns and lane changes. Maintain a safe distance between vehicles. Confirm intersections are clear before entering. Adjust speed to changes in road conditions. Give aggressive drivers plenty of room. Keep emotions and egos out of the driver's seat. In short, be a defensive driver.

Motorists are more likely to reach their destinations unharmed when they use S.A.F.E. driving strategies. Wear a seatbelt. Maintain your automobile. Stay focused. Drive defensively. In addition, responsible and law abiding motorists have automobile insurance. Buy a policy suitable to your coverage needs.

The Illinois Insurance Hotline is an industry sponsored consumer resource. The hotline can be reached by calling 1(800) 444-3338 Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Thoughts On Health & Nutrition

NEOTAME: NEW KID ON THE BLOCK

The average stick of chewing gum holds its flavor for about ten minutes. Not so for a new sweetener called neotame, which is 8000 times sweeter than sugar, according to Mike Scott, Jupiter, Florida, resident who heads Sweetener Solutions LLC of Savannah, Georgia, a strategic partner of NutraSweet Co. of Chicago, inventor of the new product which won FDA approval in 2002. Neotame joins the artificial sweeteners aspartame (Equal) saccharin (Sweet n Low) and sucralose (Splenda), as part of a $2.1 billion sweeteners market which also includes natural substances such as sugar and honey.

With all the publicity lately about diet sodas and artificial sweeteners adding to the obesity problem in our country, neotame and its partners have come along, according to a recent Palm Beach Post article, "to play a key role in the growing demand by consumers for no-calorie products which taste good, but won't add to the epidemic."

Demand for high intensity, no-calorie sweeteners as food additives is projected to increase to 8.2 percent a year to $89 million in 2008, according to Atlanta-based market analysts The Freedonia Group. The much-publicized shortage of Splenda, used in over 4000 products by food and beverage companies, has boosted the interest in neotame.

Neotame is not sold directly to consumers. Instead it appears as an ingredient on the labels of more than 350 products such as Hershey's Ice Breakers, Liquid Ice Mints and Roman Meal Carb Aware Bread. Neotame can also appear in a blend with sweeteners such as sugar aspartame and Acc-K, which are sold to food and beverage manufacturers.

Neotame's selling points are its clean taste and high potency, giving manufacturers a way to save money, because smaller amounts of neotame can replace larger amounts of other sweeteners. A number of food and beverage manufacturers are working with food chemists at NutraSweet to reformulate their products to make the switch to neotame. "We are not doing this as a way to attack sugar," Scott said. "We are doing it because manufacturers are asking for it. We have the most cost-effective sweetener in the business."

Renee Wilson Performs At Smith Village

Smith Village features Harpist Renee Wilson who will perform music from the 1930s and 1940s at a free afternoon concert on Thursday, Aug. 18th at 2 p.m. at the Smith Village Information Center, 10400 S. Western Ave. in Chicago.

The Morgan Park resident has been playing the harp for 30 years. She performs regularly with the South Bend Symphony and with Harping on the Classics, a harp duo that presents concerts at schools. She also teaches in a Suzuki program with students as young as four years old.

The intimate 30-minute concert will be followed by a reception at Smith Village Information Center. Wilson will join guests during the social hour, answering questions about the instrument and inviting visitors to try their hand at the instrument.

Dog Tick Spreads Illness

Rocky Mountain spotted fever has always been a problem, but one which has been fairly well contained due to the simple dynamics of how the disease is spread.

Only two types of ticks were known to transmit this bacteria-caused disease; neither was particularly common, and only rodents and wild and/or rural dogs occasionally served as carriers.

Now, a common type of tick has been revealed as a capable transmitter of the, sometimes, fatal disease. There is no place on the planet where this tick is not prevalent, and it is a parasite that is common among house pets.

At the moment, experts can provide only one comfort - the already-infected ticks of this type have only been found in Arizona thus far. However, spotted fever cases throughout the United States have been on the rise.

Whether human or pet, there are no symptoms at first. In fact, there may not be for up to ten days at which point fever, bad headaches, nausea, muscle pain and lack of appetite become telltale signs.

"Renee's beautiful music is a refreshing treat," says Bunny Sugarman, director of marketing for Smith Village. "Her wonderful selections evoke terrific memories. And, when you hear them on the harp, it gives old favorites a new life."

While at the Smith Village Information Center, visitors are invited to enjoy complimentary refreshments, view a scale model of Smith Village, which is now under construction, and learn more about the community that will reinvent retirement living for Beverly residents and those in the surrounding area.

Sponsored by Smith Senior Living, a not-for-profit organization dedicated to serving the lifestyle, housing and healthcare needs of seniors for nearly 80 years, Smith Village will provide independent living, assisted living, memory support and skilled nursing care. Its newly constructed campus will feature large apartments and a host of services and amenities.

For more information about numerous ways Smith Village can help seniors enjoy their retirement, call (773) 881-4950 or visit www.SmithVillage.org.

Let Healthy Seniors Go Home

Social service agencies Access Living, and Housing Opportunities & Maintenance For The Elderly, will participate in the Home Again program.

The Home Again program facilitates the return of seniors from nursing homes back into private dwellings once they are healthy enough to do so.

The two agencies would help seniors assess their resources, find housing within their means, and generally help them assimilate back into private living.

To assist the program, the State has promised to upgrade home health care and spend $2 million next year to help restore independence to many able-bodied seniors.

Veterans And Soldiers News

By Lori Taylor

Ph: 708.388.2425

On Sunday, Aug. 14th at Veterans Day at the State Fair, Governor Rod Blagojevich signed three pieces of legislation to improve the lives of veterans, active duty servicemembers and their families.

House Bill 2190 expands the list of mental illnesses that insurance companies must cover to include Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). PTSD is a chronic mental health problem that results from experiencing or witnessing life-threatening events such as military combat, natural disasters, terrorist incidents, serious accidents, or violent personal assaults like rape. This bill becomes effective immediately.

House Bill 3472, the "Illinois Veterans' Health Initiative," creates the Illinois Veterans' Assistance Trust Fund. The Fund will be financed by a new instant scratch-off lottery game modeled on West Virginia's popular "Veterans Cash 5" game that raised $2.4 million to benefit West Virginia veterans nursing homes. A similar game in Illinois is projected to generate as much as $10 million for veterans' health programs. The new veterans' lottery tickets will go on sale Jan. 1st, 2006.

Senate Bill 1827 creates the Family Military Leave Act. The new Act provides 15 to 30 days of leave time to the spouse or parents of a soldier who has been called to more than one month of active duty. This bill becomes effective immediately.

The Moving Wall, a replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, was on display in Country Club Hills from Aug. 10th to 17th. Midlothian Memorial VFW Post 2580 did their "Remembrance Table" ceremony on Sunday, Aug. 14th. The Moving Wall is half the size of the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C. John Devitt, an Army veteran, created the mobile wall after attending the 1982 dedication of the Washington memorial. The names of those who gave their lives in Vietnam and those who are still missing are inscribed on the wall. There are 58,228 names on the wall. The Moving Wall has toured the country for over 20 years. It is made of aluminum panels and stands 6 feet high at the center and gradually tapers to 4 feet at each end and it is about 100 yards long. If you would like more information on the Moving Wall, visit www.themovingwall.org.

Evergreen Park American Legion Post 854 will hold their annual picnic on Sunday, Aug. 28th at 12 noon at the post, 9701 Kedzie Ave. The post is also looking for flags to fly over the Post home. Anyone wishing to have their flag flown over the post is asked to drop it off with the name of the person you want mentioned. You will be notified whose flag is flying through the newsletter. Also, if you have a flag that is tattered or soiled and want to dispose of it, drop it off at the post and it will be properly taken care of.

Midlothian VFW Post 2580 and its Ladies Auxiliary will hold their annual picnic at the Midlothian Park District, 14500 Kostner Ave., from 12 noon until dusk. The post will be closed on that day and there will be no breakfast that morning. There will be games, food available, and the raffle drawing will be held at the close of the picnic.

Bremen VFW Post 2791 and the Ladies and Men's Auxiliaries in Tinley Park will hold their annual picnic on Sunday, Aug. 28th on the post grounds, 172nd and Oak Park Ave. The picnic will begin at noon with the flag raising ceremony by the post color guard. There will be free refreshments and free draft beer. The Tinley Park Fire Department will have a fire truck on exhibit for several hours and also the Tinley Park Police Department will have an exhibit. Games will be played and the Men's Auxiliary will hold a Meat Raffle drawing.

So many of us are at the age (29 for women, 39 for men) when we have loved ones who are disabled or are disabled ourselves so I would like to share this information with you. It comes from Jesse White, Secretary of State: Many people are uncomfortable when dealing with persons with disabilities, according to John D. Kemp, a Washington, D.C. attorney, who advises businesses and individuals on disability policy. Kemp was born with arms that end just above the elbow and legs that end near the knees. He wears prostheses and uses a scooter. According to Kemp: Do not pretend not to see a person with disabilities. Some people think if they avoid the person with the disability, they do not have to deal with the disabled. Do not stare. Persons with disabilities know their differences generate stares, but it is disrespectful if the staring continues too long. When approaching a person with disabilities who may need help ask "How may I help you?" Don't barge ahead on the assumption that your assistance is needed or wanted in a specific way. Use body language to show respect. If you are talking with someone in a wheelchair, for example, try to sit at eye-level with the person. Avoid labels, such as "the blind man" or "the deaf woman." It is more respectful to put the person first - the man who is blind or the woman with a hearing impairment.

Good-bye for this week and may God bless you and your loved ones, and God Bless America.

New Law To Prevent "Baby Tamia" Cases

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation providing sweeping protections for families involved in the adoption process in Illinois, and giving the Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) broader oversight of adoption agencies. The measure takes significant steps toward preventing instances such as the recent "Baby Tamia" case that involved a for-profit adoption agency and led to a court order to return an infant to her mother in Illinois.

House Bill 3628 aligns Illinois law with the best international standards and practices aimed at improving adoption practices, including better access to information about the adoption process, which marks this legislation as a model for other states.

The family of Baby Tamia joined the Governor, who signed the bill at Bishop Larry D. Trotter's Sweet Holy Spirit church on Chicago's South Side. The "Baby Tamia" case brought the tactics of predatory adoption agencies to the public's attention earlier this year. The six-month-old Chicago girl was nearly adopted by alleged drug users in Utah after her birth mother, who was suffering from post-partum depression, gave the baby to a for-profit agency doing business in Illinois through newspaper ads. A legal challenge by the baby's grandmother resulted in a court order returning the infant to Illinois in April.

HB 3628, also known as the Adoption Reform Act, provides basic protections for families including: the creation of a Bill of Rights for Biological Parents and Adoptive Parents; assurances that agencies disclose policies, fees and any circumstances material to a child's placement to prospective adoptive parents in advance of adoption and requirements that the fees agencies charge are reasonable.

Further, the bill requires all child welfare organizations involved in providing adoption services to be 501(c)(3) organizations no later than 24 months after the law becomes effective, moving Illinois to the forefront of protecting families and child against profiteering in the adoption process.

Additionally, the measure bans unlicensed companies from advertising adoption services and requires adoption agencies to disclose their policies, the rights of the birth parents and any fees charged for a child's placement. The bill also requires DCFS to establish a statewide adoption complaint registry and a toll-free telephone number for the public to access substantiated licensing violations.

HB 3628, which is effective immediately, also closes loopholes in the definitions of "adoption services" by including all types of placement services and requires DCFS to license an entity providing adoption services for compensation.

Gov. Blagojevich Proclaims John H. Johnson Day in Illinois

In recognition of John H. Johnson's remarkable achievements and tremendous contribution to the African American community across the country, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on August 15th proclaimed John H. Johnson Day in Illinois. Publisher John H. Johnson passed away on August 8, 2005 at the age of 87.

John H. Johnson was the founder, publisher and chairman of Johnson Publishing Company, Inc., which includes such publications and products as EBONY and JET magazines, Fashion Fair Cosmetics and EBONY Fashion Fair. He began his incredible career with an initial investment of $500. From there, he went on to become the first nationally recognized African-American business person and is known by many as the founder of the African-American consumer market.

Because of his outstanding dedication and tremendous entrepreneurial spirit, Mr. Johnson received numerous awards and honors throughout his career, including the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Magazine Publisher's Association Publisher of the Year Award and the Advertising Hall of Fame Award. In 2003 Howard University in Washington, D.C. established the John H. Johnson School of Communications in his honor.

You Can Go Online To Apply For Extra Help With Medicare Prescription Drug Coverage

By: John Flynn
Social Security District Manager

Medicare beneficiaries who want to apply for the extra financial help that is available under the new prescription drug program can do so at Social Security's website—www.socialsecurity.gov. For anyone who qualifies, this extra help can go a long way in paying for the premiums, deductibles and co-payments related to the Medicare prescription drug program that goes into effect in January 2006. If you are a Medicare beneficiary who qualifies for the extra help, you could save an average of $2,100 annually.

Who qualifies?

Basically, to qualify for the extra help, a person or married couple living together must have limited income and limited resources. You can qualify for this help as an individual if your total annual income is below $14,355 and your resources are valued below $10,000. The limits for a married couple living together are higher: $19,245 in combined annual income and $20,000 in resources. These resources can be slightly higher—an additional $1,500 per person—if you will be using some of your money for burial expenses. Even if your income is higher, you still may be able to get some extra help.

Social Security is working to make sure that everyone who might be eligible for this extra help applies for it. We are mailing letters to nearly 19 million people who are potentially eligible for this extra financial help. And we are working with federal and state agencies, advocacy groups and other interested parties in communities across the country to get the word out about the new program and the extra help that is available.

If people think they might be eligible for the extra help, one of the fastest, easiest and most convenient ways to apply is by going online.

How to apply online

Social Security's website is www.socialsecurity.gov. Just go there and click on "New Medicare Prescription Drug Plan." To get a quick idea as to whether or not you could be eligible for the extra help, choose "Qualifier Tool." After answering a brief series of questions, you will know whether you probably do or do not qualify for the extra help with prescription drug costs.

If you do seem to qualify, simply fill out an Application while online. The Application is easy-to-understand and helpful instruction sheets guide you through the Application process.

It is also especially important for everyone who applies to understand that even if they qualify for the extra help, they still need to enroll in a Medicare-approved prescription drug plan to obtain both coverage and the extra help.

If you don't have Internet access, you can call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778) and representatives will be glad to assist you or send you an Application for the extra help with Medicare prescription drug costs.

To learn more about the Medicare prescription drug plans, which you can sign up for beginning November 15, call 1-800-Medicare (1-800-4227) or visit www.medicare.gov.

Powerful Prayer To The Blessed Virgin

(Never known to fail.)
Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in Eternal Glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. WJD

Thirteen Cases Of West Nile Reported To Date

Two Chicago residents have been identified as having West Nile disease, bringing to 13 the number of cases reported so far this year, Dr. Eric E. Whitaker, state public health director, recently announced.

The new cases are:

- A 69-year-old man who is hospitalized with West Nile encephalitis.
- A 55-year-old woman who has West Nile fever.

There have been two other cases of West Nile disease this year in Chicago. The state's other cases of West Nile disease have been from Cook (5), DuPage and Kane (3) counties.

West Nile virus is transmitted through the bite of a mosquito that has picked up the virus by feeding on an infected bird. Most people with the virus have no clinical symptoms of illness, but some may become ill three to 14 days after the bite of an infected mosquito.

Only about two persons out of 10 who are bitten by an infected mosquito will experience any illness. Illness from West Nile disease is usually mild and includes fever, headache and body aches, but serious illness, such as encephalitis and meningitis, and death are possible. Persons older than 50 years of age have the highest risk of severe disease.

A total of 13 humans, 120 birds, 968 mosquito samples and one horse from 31 counties have tested positive for West Nile virus since surveillance for the mosquito-borne disease began on May 1st.

Dorm Electrical Safety

College students soon will pack into dorms and apartments with study lamps, laptops, TVs, stereos, grooming and other electrical devices. Before unloading and plugging in electronics, make sure your student is educated on safe appliance use and precautions against electrical hazards.

The National Fire Protection Assn. estimates that nearly 1,600 fires occur in campus housing each year. Overloaded circuits are the second leading cause of these campus fires, according to Molly Hall, Safe Electricity Executive Director.

Safety steps to prevent and reduce the risk of electrical fires in student housing include:

Purchase and use only safety-tested and rated electrical appliances and power cords.

Do not overload extension cords, power strips or outlets. Never use extension cords on a continuous basis; they serve temporary solutions only.

Use power strips with an over-current protector that will shut off power automatically if there is too much current being drawn.

Never tack or nail an electrical cord to any surface, or run cords across traffic paths, under rugs or furniture.

Use light bulbs with the correct wattage for lamps. If no indication is on the product, do not use a bulb with more than 60 watts.

Keep all electrical appliances and cords safely away from bedding, curtains and other flammable material.

Older wiring in student housing and apartments may not be able to handle the increased electrical demand of today's college student. If use of an appliance frequently causes power to trip off, or if its power cord or the outlet feels hot, the appliance should be disconnected immediately and the condition reported to the landlord or campus housing staff.

A fire escape plan is essential for every student. It is important that apartment and dorm residents know evacuation procedures and emergency exit locations in the event of a fire.

Emphasize to students that smoke detectors should never be disabled, nor should fire alarms ever be ignored or taken casually as a drill. If a fire alarm sounds, residents should calmly and quickly follow practiced procedures and immediately exit the building. Apartment and dorm doors should be closed behind to prevent fire spread.

Census Bureau To Update Numbers On Employment

U. S. Census Bureau data show that the country's official unemployment rate was 5.0% in June 2005. So what is the source for this important economic indicator?

The information was gathered from the Census Bureau's monthly Current Population Survey (CPS)—which dates from 1942—making it the longest-running household survey in the country.

Every month, Census Bureau field representatives ask selected households questions relevant to characteristics of the U.S. labor force, including employment status, hours of work, earnings, age, sex, race, marital status, educational attainment, occupation and industry. From their answers come estimates of the unemployment rate, released monthly by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS).

Prior to the survey, local households selected in the nationwide sample receive a letter from Census Bureau Director Louis Kincannon.

Some participants are interviewed by telephone and others interviewed in person. The field representatives carry official identification cards.

Sponsored by the BLS and the Census Bureau, the CPS will be conducted during the week of August 19, 2005, when nearly 2,000 Census Bureau field representatives will interview about 78,000 households.

In 2004, Illinois recorded 60 human cases of West Nile disease, including four deaths, and in 2003, there were 54 human cases, including one death. The state led the nation in 2002 with 884 human cases of West Nile disease and 67 deaths.

Because West Nile virus activity in Culex mosquitoes increases during hot weather, personal protection against mosquitoes is particularly important during August and September.

Additional information about West Nile virus can be found on the Department's Web site at www.idph.state.il.us/envhealth/wnv.htm or people can call the West Nile Virus Hotline at (866) 369-9710, Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Topinka Holds Auction At State Fair

Coins and jewelry depicting the late Pope John Paul II; gold kruggerands; comic books, including Batman; and a collection of Elvis wallet calendars (1963-1980), are among items to be auctioned by Illinois Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka at the Illinois State Fair.

For the fifth consecutive year, Topinka is holding the auction during the Fair, with the emphasis on collectible items and jewelry. Scheduled for noon on Saturday, Aug. 20th, the auction includes nearly 36,000 items and will be held on the Director's Lawn of the Illinois State Fairgrounds in Springfield. The items come from safe deposit boxes left abandoned for at least five years and turned over to the State Treasurer's Unclaimed Property Division. Illinois law allows items to be auctioned after all reasonable attempts have been made to contact the owners.

A preview of all auction items is scheduled for 8 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 20th on the Director's Lawn, and all auction items will be displayed in Topinka's tent from Aug. 13th through 19th. A catalog of the items will also be available there. There is no fee to participate in the auction, and payment for successful bids can be made by cash, check, MasterCard or VISA.

For more information about the auction, a list of items to be auctioned, or general information about unclaimed property, call (217) 785-6998 or visit the web site at www.cashdash.net

Online KidCare and FamilyCare Applications

At a ceremony where Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich was presented with the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation's "Covering Kids & Families Champion" award, Gov. Blagojevich announced Illinois families can now use online applications to file for KidCare and FamilyCare through a new Web-based application program that will further improve access to healthcare in Illinois. Once complete, the user-friendly Web-based applications will be directly transmitted into the same system currently used by the state to determine eligibility.

The new online application, which can be found at the state's KidCare web site, www.kidcareillinois.com, offers a new way for a family to apply for KidCare and FamilyCare and allows them to apply conveniently at their home computer or any computer available to them, such as those at the public library. The online applications are secure. Applicants receive a Household ID number and can choose their own password. Only someone who knows the Household ID and the password can access the online applications. In addition, once an application has been submitted electronically, the enrollee must print out a signature page, sign it and then fax or mail it to KidCare, P.O. Box 19122, Springfield, IL 62794.

Currently, a family can apply by going to their local Dept. of Human Services office, by visiting one of over 1,000 community-based KidCare Administrative Agents (KCAAs) statewide, or by printing an application off the KidCare web site and mailing it in. You can call 1(866) 4-OUR-KIDS to find a KCAA in your neighborhood. HFS will unveil the Spanish version of the web-application in the fall.

HES has piloted the English version of the online KidCare/FamilyCare application with three different KCAs - the Champaign County Health Dept., the Lake County Health Dept. and the DuPage County Health Dept. So far, nearly 1,000 applications from these sites have been successfully submitted through the pilot project.

KidCare and FamilyCare provide comprehensive medical coverage that includes doctor's visits, immunizations, hospitalizations, prenatal care and prescription drugs to children and parents.

A family of four earning $40,000 a year or less may qualify and will pay affordable premiums for the medical services covered by the programs. More than one million Illinois children and 365,000 parents have health coverage under KidCare and FamilyCare. These programs provide a cost-effective means of fighting the problem of uninsured children and families because the federal reimbursement to the state is 65 percent, instead of the standard Medicaid reimbursement rate of 50 percent.

Village Players Auditions

The Palos Village Players will hold auditions for its Fall musical, "The Apple Tree" by Sheldon Harnick and Jerry Bock, at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 30 and Thursday, Sept. 1 at All Saints Lutheran Church, 13350 LaGrange Road. Enter from rear parking lot.

Harnick and Bock are the songwriting team who also wrote "Fiddler on the Roof" and "She Loves Me." The play is actually three one-act musicals about men, women and a little thing called temptation. The first, "The Diary of Adam and Eve" is adapted from Mark Twain's "Extracts from Adam's Diary." The second, "The Lady or the Tiger?" is a rock fable which explores the fickleness of love. The final play, "Passionella" is based on Jules Feiffer's off-beat Cinderella story. The director of "The Apple Tree" is actor, musician, director George Machay of Hinsdale.

Auditions are open to the public and will consist of readings from the script plus a demonstration of vocal and movement talent. Production dates are Nov. 11-19. Call (708) 349-7874 or e-mail palosvillageplayers@yahoo.com.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

This year, I sponsored legislation suspending state investment in companies doing business in the Republic of the Sudan. The first of its kind in the nation to pressure Sudan to end its policies of genocide and terrorism, it was recently signed into law by Governor Blagojevich who I would like to thank for his commitment to this important issue. Yet as my colleagues and I discussed this bill in Springfield, we became more aware that too many children in Illinois did not know about similar atrocities occurring around the world.

To give our young people a greater view of the history of the world around them, I joined State Rep. John Fritchey in sponsoring a bill that requires an additional unit of instruction regarding other incidents of genocidal activity, including but not limited to the Armenian Genocide, the Famine-Genocide in Ukraine, & more recent atrocities in Cambodia, Bosnia, Rwanda and Sudan to be included in their studies. Joining us in support of this measure were the Jewish Federation, the Holocaust Memorial Foundation of Illinois, the Ukrainian Genocide Famine Foundation USA and the Illinois Federation of Teachers. Also supporting the legislation is Governor Blagojevich who recently signed this bill into law.

Expanding the current requirement for Holocaust education, established in 1990, to include lessons regarding other genocidal acts committed around the world, this new law represents the need to recognize that crimes of genocide are still perpetrated worldwide and to reaffirm the commitment that should be held by all people to prevent the recurrence of such events. Holocaust and genocide education are also frequently touted by educators as being among the most effective subjects for examination of basic moral issues and what it means to be a responsible citizen.

By studying the Holocaust and other crimes of genocide, our young people will learn that silence and indifference to the suffering of others, or to the infringement of civil rights in any society, can fuel the ambitions of those who see these acts as a viable alternative to living in peace. They will also learn that the Holocaust and other genocide were not accidents of history, but occurred because individuals, organizations and governments made choices which often legalized discrimination permitting prejudice, hatred and mass murder to occur.

As a student of the teachings of Dr. Martin Luther King, I share the philosophy that "the ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy." Teaching our children about these dark lessons of our history will hopefully help shape their moral compass and set our next generation of leaders down a path that will strengthen them when they stand at times of challenge and controversy.

Sincerely,

s/s State Senator Jacqueline Y. Collins
16th Legislative District

Schools Safety Drill Act Signed

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed the School Safety Drill Act that will help keep students, teachers and faculty safer when they're at school. House Bill 2693 significantly improves school emergency preparedness by, for the first time, setting clear, minimum requirements and standards for public and private school emergency planning. The new law also ensures that school officials work more closely with local first responders.

Last October, Gov. Blagojevich announced school security initiatives aimed at providing better protection for the state's school children during emergencies. The Governor directed the Illinois Terrorism Task Force (ITTF), the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) and the Office of the State Fire Marshal (OSFM) to work with schools and first responders to refine the maze of fire and tornado drill statutes and regulations and ensure that school drills effectively address the hazards facing schools in today's world.

House Bill 2693 helps schools and first responders better understand the requirements for conducting safety drills by consolidating seven different statutes and related regulations. Until now, depending on which regulations school officials referenced, schools may have been required to participate in anywhere from three to 10 fire drills, two bus evacuation drills and an undefined number of tornado drills - as many as six to 13 or more drills per year.

The new School Safety Drill Act eliminates that confusion by requiring that each school conduct a minimum of five drills each year, including a minimum of three fire drills, with one requiring the participation of local fire departments; one bus evacuation drill; and one tornado drill.

The new act also strongly encourages schools to conduct one drill in coordination with local law enforcement agencies to focus on law enforcement issues, such as shootings and bomb threats. Such drills should provide instruction on incidents such as lock-downs, shootings, bomb threats and hazardous materials.

The School Safety Drill Act also ensures that school officials and first responders meet once a year to review emergency response and drill plans. Schools will then submit a check-off document to ISBE and OSFM that summarizes their review and goals for the coming year.

Seven New Firefighters Sworn In

On Tuesday, Aug. 9th, at the regularly scheduled Board of Trustees meeting, seven new personnel were sworn in as firefighters for the Village of Oak Lawn.

Additionally, four members of the department received promotions. They include Scott Sobol, Peter Lombardi and Edward Brand to the rank of Fire Captain and Steve Rockey to the rank of Fire Lieutenant.

Illinois To Gain Under Energy Bill

U.S. Rep. Judy Biggert (R-IL-13), Chairman of the House Science Subcommittee on Energy, voted in support of the Conference Report to H.R. 6, the Energy Policy Act of 2005. Biggert served as an Energy Bill conferee, securing provisions in the Conference Report to authorize the construction and operation of the Rare Isotope Accelerator (RIA) and boost funding for energy research conducted at Argonne and Fermi National Laboratories in Illinois.

The Energy Bill Conference Report authorizes $1.1 billion in funding for the construction and operation of RIA, marking the first time Congress has signaled its approval of the project. RIA would be the world's most powerful research facility dedicated to the production and exploration of new rare isotopes that are not found naturally on Earth. RIA would study unique forms of radiation leading to advances and applications in medicine, advanced materials, national security, and environmental protection. The University of Chicago and Argonne National Laboratory hope to compete for the project.

The Conference Report also authorizes an increase of 44 percent for the Dept. of Energy's (DOE) Office of Science over the next three years. This could boost funding by almost $300 million annually for nano-technology, scientific computing, and systems biology research conducted at Argonne and Fermi National Laboratories in Illinois. Between 10 to 15 percent of the total $3.6 billion Office of Science budget goes to Illinois. Only California gets more in funding from the Office of Science than Illinois.

The House passed the Energy Bill Conference Report on July 28th by a vote of 275-156. Senate conferees remain optimistic that the Senate has the votes necessary to pass the Conference Report and send it to the President's desk before Congress adjourns for August recess.

Governor Signs Bill Closing Loopholes In Gun Laws

Improving Safety In High-Rise Buildings

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation on Aug. 19th to help ensure that people do not get trapped in stairwells of new hotels, schools and other high-rise public assembly buildings during fires. The legislation is in response to the October 2003 fire at the Cook County Administration building when six people died.

Senate Bill 46, sponsored by Sen. Ira Silverstein (D-Chicago) and Rep. Sidney Mathias (R-Arlington Heights), requires owners of new hotels, churches, schools, theaters, and other public assembly buildings over four stories to either: (1) ensure that stairwell enclosure doors don't lock and prevent re-entry from the stairwell to the interior of the building; or (2) equip stairwell enclosure doors with an electronic lock release system that is activated upon loss of power, manually by a single switch accessible to building management or firefighters, and automatically by activation of the building's fire alarm system.

Owners who choose the second option must also take certain safety precautions during the time needed to install the lock release and two-way communications systems, including ensuring re-entry into the building interior on the highest or second highest story (whichever allows access to another exit stairway); ensuring that there are no more than four stories between enclosure doors that provide access to another exit stairway, and posting signs at eye level and at the bottom of the door identifying if a door is a re-entry point and, if not, the location of the nearest re-entry door.

Regardless of which option building owners choose, stairwell enclosure doors at the main exit level of the building must remain unlocked from the stairwell side at all times.

In the days following the fire in the Cook County Administration Building, Gov. Blagojevich appointed Federal Emergency Management Agency Director James Lee Witt to conduct a full and independent review of the fire. Witt, widely recognized as the world's top expert in investigating and dealing with tragedies, investigated what happened on Oct. 17th, 2003 and recommended specific actions to make sure it never happens again.

Nearly a year after the fatal fire and extensive research and investigation, James Lee Witt Associates issued its report. The Witt Report found four key factors that led to the six deaths in the Cook County Administration Building. The factors include: lack of automated fire sprinklers, failure to adequately search and account for people in stairwells, opening the 12th floor stairway door allowing smoke and heat to enter the stairway, and locked stairway doors that did not allow people who were trapped to escape.

The Witt Report made a number of recommendations to Cook County and Building Management, City of Chicago, City of Chicago Fire Department and the State of Illinois to prevent future tragedies. Among those recommendations was installing a failsafe system for automatically unlocking stairway doors during emergencies at the Cook County Administration building. The new law the Governor signed builds on that recommendation by requiring owners of new hotels, churches, schools, theaters, and other public assembly buildings over four stories to either ensure stairwell doors do not lock in the event of an emergency or equip stairwells with an electronic lock release system that is activated upon loss of power, manually by a single switch accessible to building management or firefighters, and automatically by activation of the building's fire alarm system.

Building owners must comply with the new law by Jan. 1st.

Legislation To Increase Penalties For Disability Parking Abuse Signed

An initiative of Secretary of State Jesse White to address the fraud and abuse of disability placards and license plates was signed into law by Governor Rod Blagojevich.

Under White's proposal (HB 1316), those caught improperly parking in a disability parking space could face a fine of up to $500 and a driver's license suspension. It also increases penalties against those who illegally alter or fraudulently manufacture disability placards or plates.

Recent sting operations conducted by the Secretary of State's Police Department and other police agencies indicate that many people still consider it worth the risk to abuse the laws reserving parking spaces for persons with disabilities or use a placard or disability plate without the authorized holder present.

The proposed legislation, sponsored by State Rep. Kevin McCarthy (D-Orland Park), will do the following:

1. For vehicles not displaying a disability license plate, disabled veteran plate or placard parked in spaces reserved for persons with disabilities - the mandatory minimum fine will be increased from $100 to $250. The maximum fine municipalities are allowed to impose increases from $100 to $350.
2. For vehicles displaying a disability license plate, disabled veteran plate or placard and parking in a space reserved for persons with disabilities when the authorized holder of the plate or placard is not driving the vehicle or being transported in the vehicle - the mandatory fine is $500, up from $100.

In addition, the Secretary of State can administratively suspend or revoke the driver's license of the driver and the license plates or placard. Suspensions and revocations were not allowed previously.

3. Persons who illegally manufacture or alter plates or placards, obtain plates or placards based on fictitious information, or knowingly transfer plates or placards to others so that they may use privileges granted to authorized holders of the plates or placards will be guilty of a Class A misdemeanor which is a maximum of $1,000 and subject to a fine of not less than $500 for the first offense.

4. Clarifies that all restrictions and penalties related to license plates and placards for persons with disabilities also apply to license plates issued to disabled veterans.

There are over 550,000 placards and over 90,000 disability plates in Illinois. The new law takes effect Jan. 1st.

Make Birth Control Rights Permanent

Legislators serving on the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules (JCAR) voted on Aug. 16th to make permanent Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich's emergency rule that ensures pharmacies in Illinois fill women's prescriptions for contraceptives without delay or hassle. The rule requires licensed pharmacies that dispense FDA-approved contraceptives to fill all birth control prescriptions in the same timely manner they would other prescriptions.

Gov. Blagojevich submitted an emergency rule on April 1st, 2005 clarifying the responsibilities of licensed retail pharmacies to fill prescriptions for all FDA approved contraceptives if the drugstore dispenses birth control medications. That rule remained in effect in an emergency capacity until today (Aug. 16th) when JCAR voted to allow the governor's rule to become permanent.

The rule clearly defines the responsibilities of licensed retail pharmacies in Illinois to fill all FDA approved birth control prescriptions if the drugs are in stock and a legal prescription has been presented. If the drugs requested are not in stock, the pharmacy must do one of the following:

provide a medically acceptable alternative drug, or at the request of the patient, order the drug from their supplier, transfer the prescription to a different drugstore or return the prescription to the patient.

In other efforts to make sure that safe prescription contraceptives are available and affordable to all Illinois women, Gov. Blagojevich authorized changes in I-Save Rx program last month to include seven of the most popular contraceptive prescription drugs to the prescription drug importation program launched in October of 2004.

Prescription contraceptives, such as Ortho-Evra 20-150, Ortho Novum 7/7/7, Ortho-Cyclen, Ortho Tri-Cyclen, Alesse, Micronor and Triphasil, are available from state-inspected suppliers in Canada, Ireland and the United Kingdom through I-Save Rx with savings of up to 79% for a three-month supply. Additional information is available through the I-Save Rx web site: www.I-SaveRx.net, or the toll-free number 1(866) I-SAVE33.

An explanation of the rule and its enforcement is posted on the IDFPR web site at: <http://www.idfpr.com/emergencyruleguidance.asp>.

Governor Asks For The Rejection Of TSA Proposed Carry-On Ban

In a letter to TSA Assistant Secretary of U.S. Dept. of Homeland Security Edmund S. Kip Hawley, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 16th voiced his opposition to the Transportation Security Administration's recently reported proposal to lift the ban on certain carry-on items such as scissors, razorblades, ice picks, and some knives.

The Transportation Security Administration proposal would allow scissors, ice picks, razorblades, and bows and arrows as carry-on on flights. The TSA will meet later this month to discuss the plan, which is designed to reduce checkpoint hassles for the nation's 2 million passengers. It comes after TSA's new head, Edmund S. Kip Hawley, called for a broad review in hopes of making airline screening more passenger-friendly.

Toastmasters Meeting

The Center Toastmasters Club will meet on Wednesdays, Sept. 7th and 21st at 7 p.m. at 12700 Southwest Highway in Palos Park.

Toastmasters International is an organization for people interested in improving and practicing their public speaking skills. According to Center toastmaster Dave Sanders, the members take turns leading the meetings and giving speeches, and they have fun doing it because they are all in this effort together and gain confidence from the encouragement of each other.

The Center Toastmasters meet on the first and third Wednesdays of every month. New members and guests are always welcome. For further information, interested persons should call The Center at (708) 361-3650.

New Teacher Perks

New teachers in Illinois will have new incentives to work in understaffed areas - thanks to a bill sponsored by State Senator Ed Maloney (D-18) that was signed into law recently - creating the Teach Illinois Scholarship Program.

House Bill 60 creates the program which would annually award scholarships to persons preparing to teach in areas of "identified staff shortages." It will be administered by the Illinois Student Assistance Commission (ISAC).

"The Teach Illinois Scholarship Program adds another teacher incentive program to the state's growing list of successful teacher incentive programs," said

Senator Maloney.

Recipients would be required to teach for at least five years in an elementary or secondary school in Illinois where there is an identified shortage. The program's funds would be applied to tuition and fees applicable to courses that will enable the student to obtain teacher certification.

If the student does not fulfill the requirements, the recipient will be required to refund all of his or her awarded scholarships to the Commission. ISAC and the State Board of Education will assist individuals who receive Teach Illinois Scholarships in finding employment within areas of identified staff shortages.

Governor Signs Bill Closing Loophole In Gun Laws

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich took action on Aug. 15th to protect victims of domestic violence by signing a new law that closes a loophole that had allowed criminals convicted of misdemeanor domestic violence to receive their surrendered firearms after they complete their sentences. This statute was in conflict with federal law, which prohibits people convicted of misdemeanor domestic violence from possessing firearms.

House Bill 892 amends current law by deleting a provision that allowed legally possessed firearms to be returned to a person once they complete a sentence for a conviction on a misdemeanor domestic violence charge. Currently, anyone convicted of domestic violence is not allowed to have a Firearm Owner's Identification (FOID) card. House Bill 892, effective

Jan. 1st, 2006, also states that an individual must appear in court to answer charges, submit to the court's orders, cannot leave the state, or violate any criminal act. If the person is found not guilty by reason of insanity, his/her firearms will be retained by law enforcement.

Crafters Needed

Lutheran Church of the Resurrection, 151st and Central Ave., Oak Forest is seeking crafters for its Arts and Crafts Fair on Saturday, Oct. 1st.

Toll Amnesty

Building on reform efforts already underway to improve customer service and accountability at the Illinois Tollway, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation on Aug. 22nd that expands employee ethics guidelines, improves the agency's business practices, and enhances toll violation enforcement and collections, including the authorization of a one-time Amnesty Program for toll violators.

"The Illinois Tollway has made significant strides over the past two and a half years to win back the confidence of Illinois' drivers by proving that toll money is well spent and the Illinois Tollway is accountable to its customers," said Gov. Blagojevich. "With this legislation, we ensure that this reform effort will continue."

Senate Bill 1964 authorizes a one-time, 60-day Amnesty Program for toll scofflaws with outstanding toll violations that started Aug. 23rd and ends Oct. 21st. The amnesty program is the latest component of a Violation Enforcement System debuted in 2003 to collect the money owed to the Tollway and to protect the 97 percent of customers who pay their fair share.

Under the Amnesty Program, violators with outstanding tolls will have 60 days to pay 50-75 percent of their original fines and missed tolls, or face harsher sanctions, including increased fines, suspension of license plates and driver's licenses, towing, booting or impoundment of vehicles, or referral to a collection agency.

"Drivers who cheat their fellow Tollway users have learned an expensive lesson that violating the law is no longer tolerated," said Illinois Tollway Executive Director Jack Hartman. "Like the state's tax amnesty program, the Tollway Amnesty Program is a last chance for violators to settle delinquent violations and clean their slate."

The Illinois Tollway has established several ways for violators to make amnesty payments:

Credit card payments

Online 24 hours a day, seven days a week at <http://vpc.illinoistollway.com>

By phone, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday at 1(877) 715-1235.

Cash payments

Cash, money order, cashiers check, or credit card will be accepted from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday at the Tollway headquarters, 2700 Ogden Ave. in Downers Grove. No personal checks will be accepted.

Pow/Mia Symbolic Display

Recently, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States Post 177 located in Chicago Ridge placed a POW/MIA (Prisoner of War/Missing in Action) Presentation Table in their canteen. This table symbolizes the soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines who are still missing from past conflicts. Each item of the table has its own significance.

Joe Carvelli, Senior Vice Commander got the idea for this table from one of his friends in another states. He presented the idea to POW/MIA Chairman, Paul Marletta, who enthusiastically endorsed the project. They were helped by two members of the VFW Ladies Auxiliary, Cathy Carevilli and Gerri Maton, who donated some of the materials and helped set up the table.

MVCC Meeting Notice

The regular meeting of the Moraine Valley Community College Board of Trustees will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 16th. The meeting will take place in the Board Room, Building D, Room 219, on campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

Help Attract New Business

In an innovative effort to create jobs and grow business in Illinois, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 16th signed legislation that allows the state's economic development agency to establish business parks. A business park creates a site selection advantage for Illinois communities looking to attract new businesses, industries and jobs to their area.

When companies are poised to expand or relocate, they often send business scouts out to identify potential sites that would serve as attractive locations. With this new law, Illinois communities can be officially certified as "business parks," meaning all the ingredients needed for a business to move in and hit the ground running are already in place. House Bill 361 authorizes the Illinois

Economic Development (DCEO) to administer a program for establishing businesses and employers in business parks. Business parks are typically located where motorway, rail and airport facilities are within a short distance, creating a competitive advantage by providing ready access to markets and trade. HB 361 is effective on Jan. 1st, 2006.

Peggy Butler Porker Of The Month

Citizens Against Government Waste (CAGW) recently named defense official Peggy Butler Porker of the Month for encouraging contractors to lobby against an amendment being considered by Sen. Tom Coburn (R-Okla.) that would reduce excessive funding for the Defense Travel System (DTS). Peggy Butler is the senior contracting officer for DTS' acquisitions division at the Information Technology E-Commerce Commercial Contract Center, 18 USC, 1913, prohibits federal employees from using appropriated money to influence the outcome of legislation.

DTS has failed to meet the Pentagon's expectations for a cost-efficient and streamlined in-house travel system. DOD continues to pay $40 to $50 million annually up front for the development, deployment, operation and maintenance of DTS. Since the project is six years behind schedule, the fair approach would be for the contractor to assume such costs and only be paid when the DTS is actually used by DOD travelers, as is the case with the General Services Administration's (GSA) eTravel Service Contract used by the rest of the federal government. Sen. Coburn, chairman of the Subcommittee on Federal Financial Management, Government Information and International Security, is considering an amendment titled "Curtailed Use of Waste Under Department of Defense Web-Based Travel System." The amendment, which would be attached to the Defense Authorization Act, would allow the Pentagon to continue using the DTS, but only paying for actual use by travelers. DOD could also make travel services arrangements through GSA's eTravel program. The amendment would also require that all DOD and GSA eTravel contractors guarantee that airfare purchases are made at the lowest available price. Daniel Pulliam of Government Executive magazine obtained an email sent by Peggy Butler to small travel agency officials that said: "If you have any influence on Capitol Hill, please use it. This bill cannot be passed." Sen. Coburn may also hold hearings on DTS in September or October.

CAGW released a report in September 2004 titled Defense Travel System: The Twilight Zone of Travel. DTS was supposed to cost the DOD a fixed price of $64 million after it had been operationally deployed on every DOD facility and a fee paid to the contractor each time it was used. The total cost for five years with full usage was supposed to be $263.7 million. But DTS has already cost $474 million to date. After prime contractor Northrop Grumman realized that DTS was more cumbersome than anticipated, the original fee-for-service contract was secretly and illegally reworked, foisting all costs associated with the system onto taxpayers. The U.S. Court of Federal Claims determined that the contract modifications violated the Competition in Contracting Act and required part of the revised agreement to be re-bid. Even worse, the system is defective and cannot guarantee the lowest fare. Both the DOD inspector general (IG) and the agency's program and evaluation office have documented problems with DTS; the IG recommended canceling the program in July 2002. The Government Accountability Office is evaluating the program.

Apparently, everyone but Peggy Butler and the DTS Program Management Office knows it would be more efficient and less wasteful to use an alternative to the DTS. DOD could simply use private sector e-travel systems that cost taxpayers nothing to develop and provide quicker and cheaper solutions. With the war on terror and a $331 billion deficit, contracting officers like Peggy Butler should be saving tax dollars, not keeping a wasteful system in place.

For violating the law, for putting the interests of contractors above the interests of taxpayer, and for obstructing efforts to de-fund an unnecessary and mismanaged program, CAGW names Peggy Butler Porker of the Month for August 2005.

Signing Of The Energy Bill

U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin (D-IL) issued the following statement on Monday, Aug. 8th as the President signed the recently passed national energy bill into law:

"The energy bill signed by the President today is good news for oil companies already awash in profits and Saudi royalty who profit from our nation's dependence on their oil exports. But there's no help in this bill for America's drivers facing record gas prices and no clear national goal of reducing our growing dependence on foreign oil."

"The Administration opposed a Democratic amendment to set a national goal of reducing our dependence on foreign oil by 40 percent over the next 20 years. And the Senate defeated my amendment to require increased fuel efficiency in cars and trucks (Senate amendment 902 - 6/23/05) - the single most important thing this energy bill could have done to promote energy conservation."

"The reasons for the defeat of these common-sense measures are clear - too many Members of Congress were swayed by the powerful lobbying efforts by big oil and big auto-makers. But we cannot let this be the final word on a national energy policy."

"This legislation does contain a renewable fuel standard that will increase the use of domestic renewable fuels and reduce oil consumption by 2 billion barrels by 2012. This change will be good for America's economy, good for our energy security, and good for Illinois farmers. But we could - and should - have done more."

We are pleased to report that in an effort to ensure that the upcoming hearings on Commonwealth Edison's (ComEd) proposed rate increase are accessible to the northern Illinois utility's customers, Attorney General Lisa Madigan and Cook County State's Attorney Richard Devine have filed a petition with the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) to reverse a decision to hold the hearings in Springfield instead of Chicago.

For the first time in at least 30 years, the ICC has decided to hold hearings on a ComEd rate increase proposal outside of ComEd's service territory. Madigan and Devine's petition contends that as a result of this proposed action, ComEd's 3.7 million customers will effectively be denied access to the evidence gathered in the hearings. The hearings are scheduled to take place for two weeks, beginning Aug. 29th and ending Sept. 9th.

According to Madigan, "ComEd's service territory is exclusively in northern Illinois. The consumers served by the utility should not have to travel long distances to participate in these hearings. ComEd rate cases are traditionally heard in Chicago and there is no reason these hearings should not also be held in Chicago."

Madigan and Devine also stated in their petition that holding the hearings in Springfield would ignore the Illinois Public Utilities Act, which directs the ICC to hold hearings where the "subject matter of the hearing is situated" or where the hearings will be "most convenient to the parties to be heard." Springfield is approximately 100 miles south of the southern border of ComEd's service territory.

In summary, both elected officials feel that it is important that ComEd customers have the opportunity to attend hearings that will determine whether there are rate hikes. Residential and business customers can be forced to pay as much as a billion dollars more per year for electricity if ComEd is allowed to use an auction to set electric rates based on market prices rather than the actual cost of generating electricity, Madigan said.

U.S. Senator Dick Durbin (D-IL) has introduced legislation requiring the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) to immediately strengthen its Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) services for veterans and their families.

"PTSD is a fairly new term, but it by no means a new problem," said Durbin. "Soldiers who have endured the horrors of the battlefield have long struggled with psychological trauma that is just as real - and can be as deadly - as any other war wounds. Unfortunately, the VA health system is not prepared to provide service members who are dealing with PTSD the health care and other support they and their families need."

According to a study published in the July 2004 New England Journal of Medicine, up to one in five veterans return home from the Middle East with PTSD or related conditions such as major depression or anxiety. Yet a report by the Government Accountability Office (GAO) last September shows that the VA doesn't know how many patients it is currently treating for PTSD. In addition, officials at six of the seven VA facilities visited by the GAO reported that they may not be able to meet the increased demands for PTSD services caused by the war in Iraq.

The Durbin bill (which has been referred to the Committee on Veterans Affairs) requires the VA to implement three key treatment improvement recommendations made by its own Special Committee on PTSD. They are: Establish a PTSD Clinical Team at every one of the nations 157 VA Medical Centers; Provide a certified family therapist within each of the 207 veteran centers across the country; and Appoint a regional PTSD Coordinator within each Veteran Integrated Service Network and Readjustment Counseling Service Region to evaluate programs, promote best practices, and make resource recommendations. This bill would add about 400 mental health professionals to the VA's service staff nationwide.

ComEd/Exelon Urged To Make Good On Its Clean Energy Promise

On Aug. 16th, just two days before the end of the 30-day period for ComEd/Exelon to file its clean energy plan with the Illinois Commerce Commission, clean energy proponents gathered near Millennium Park's Exelon Pavilion to urge the state's largest electric company to make a firm commitment to meeting the state's renewable power goals.

In February, Gov. Blagojevich proposed his Sustainable Energy Plan, including a provision to require the state's retail electric companies to ensure that at least 8% of their power comes from clean wind, solar or other renewable energy sources by 2013. Nineteen other states have already adopted similar policies to spur the development of renewable energy. On July 19th, the Illinois Commerce Commission unanimously passed a resolution adopting a renewable energy standard, but making participation by the utilities voluntary, instead of mandatory as it is in most states. The resolution gave ComEd and the state's other retail electric suppliers 30 days, ending Aug. 18th, to develop and file detailed implementation plans, showing how they will purchase and sell increasing amounts of power generated from clean wind, solar and biomass resources. At that time, ComEd President Frank Clark pledged to implement the plan, stating: "We're committed to following the governor's timetable and, with Commission approval, supporting the level of investment specified in the governor's plan."

While wind gets the most attention in Illinois, Mark Burger, Sales Manager of Spire Solar Chicago, a local photovoltaic, or solar electric, manufacturer, said, "Solar electricity can play a vital part in the governor's Sustainable Energy Plan. Solar electricity, which is non-polluting, generates during peak demand times and near and on buildings. For it to thrive, it must be given a dedicated percentage of the power mix, just like wind. What ComEd, other electric power suppliers and the Illinois Commerce Commission decide in the coming days will determine whether Illinois will be a major producer of solar electricity with manufacturing and installation jobs and businesses contributing to our economy, or a spectator to states like California and New Jersey."

Today, more than 99% of the power sold to Illinois customers is generated by fossil fuel-fired or nuclear power plants, both of which produce large amounts of dangerous pollutants. There is no safe disposal option for radioactive waste produced by nuclear power plants, which will remain deadly to humans for thousands of years and is currently stored on site at reactors throughout the state. Coal-burning power plants are the largest industrial source of the smog that has caused more than a dozen unhealthy air pollution action days in Chicago this summer. In addition, mercury, which has contaminated the fish in lakes and rivers across the state, is a byproduct of burning coal in plants that lack modern pollution control equipment.

While the environmental benefits of wind energy are widely recognized, it is also worth remembering the economic advantages it presents to rural communities. Construction, land leases, and maintenance all work to keep energy dollars in the community, creating jobs and opportunities. For example, using the methodology of a recent study by the Iowa Policy Project, the 32-turbine Crescent Ridge wind project in Bureau County is estimated to generate an annual economic benefit to the local community of approximately $28,500 per turbine. The same study found that wind projects that are locally owned, rather than owned by out-of-state developers, bring nearly ten times as much economic benefit to the communities in which they are located. Economic stimulus on this scale can make the difference between selling out or keeping the family farm for another generation, and so community-owned wind projects represent an environmentally friendly way to revitalize rural communities while helping secure Illinois' energy independence.

The advocates called upon the utilities to ensure that their plans include:

1. Commitment to purchase increasing proportions of electricity for resale to customers from clean, renewable energy generation sources, as follows:
2% by 2007;
3% by 2008;
4% by 2009;
5% by 2010;
6% by 2011;
7% by 2012;
8% by 2013.
2. Commitment that at least 75% of the renewable energy purchased to meet the standard is generated from wind power.
3. Commitment to enter into long-term power purchase contracts of 15 years or more with the wind and solar developers to give sufficient certainty of a market for their power to attract financing.
4. Commitment that the company will report annually to the ICC and that the report will include all necessary data to verify whether or not the company has met the renewable energy standard.

Fair Assessment Of Students With Disabilities

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 23rd signed a law improving the way Illinois measures student progress under the federal No Child Left Behind Act. House Bill 3678 recognizes the individual needs of students with disabilities and makes sure that schools receive credit for their successes in helping students with disabilities, while still requiring schools to focus on areas that need improvement.

"Teachers and students in Illinois are working hard and making steady gains every year," said Gov. Blagojevich. "But we have to be sure that the gains our kids and our schools are making are measured fairly. This law helps schools target their efforts on the subject areas and student groups that need the most attention."

HB 3678 addresses the ongoing concern that Gov. Blagojevich and the General Assembly share about certain aspects of the implementation of the No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Act in Illinois. The law outlines changes to the Illinois Accountability Workbook, the State's plan for NCLB implementation.

"House Bill 3678 eliminates a serious flaw within the federal No Child Left Behind legislation. It creates a level playing field for our special needs and disabled children to succeed. This legislation will have a positive impact on every school district in the state of Illinois," said Rep. Aaron Schock (R-Peoria), a sponsor of the bill.

The new law addresses the current measurement system, which requires students with disabilities to take a State assessment as outlined in NCLB and places schools and districts in "improvement status" if they fail to make adequate yearly progress (AYP) for two consecutive years in any of their subgroups or any subject tested.

"By helping schools focus on specific groups of students and subjects, they will be better able to target their efforts to make progress where it is needed the most," said Sen. Kimberly Lightford (D-Chicago), a sponsor of the bill. "We must make sure that each school's hard work is directed at its unique areas of greatest need and that we are not unfairly labeling them as failing."

The Greatest Show On Water

No doubt the hundreds of power and sailboats, not to mention the four big tents filled with marine products, are the main reasons for attending the Michigan City In-Water Boat Show. But it's the fun attractions that keep people coming back year after year. Several new additions, including the "Bob Vila" of boating and a 4,000-gallon fishing "pond," are set for the 26th annual Michigan City In-Water Boat Show. Lake Michigan's biggest in-water boat show drops anchor from Aug. 25th to 28th at Washington Park Marina in Michigan City, Indiana.

The international fleet of over 500 power and sailboats always takes top billing. "We're able to offer a huge selection of boats, from small daysailers and personal watercraft to 70' luxury motor yachts priced at more than $2 million," says show manager Norm Schultz. "August is also the month when the boating industry typically begins introducing its newest models, and many 2006 models will be on public display for the first time anywhere."

The Boat Show has a selection of pre-owned boats too. The Brokerage Pier is a smart choice for the first-time buyer or the seasoned skipper who wants to upgrade. Boaters will discover a wide variety of pre-owned boats just waiting for inspection.

While the boats may be the show's headliners, the accessory displays are what every boater loves to browse through. The latest wave of new products from hundreds of marine accessory and equipment exhibitors will fill four big tents, showcasing everything from marine electronics and trailers to nautical clothing and sailing accessories.

Finally, in an effort to introduce more youngsters to boating, all children 12 and under will receive free Boat Show admission (when accompanied by an adult).

Chicago-area residents can set sail for a cure in helping the fight against leukemia, Hodgkin and non-Hodgkin lymphoma and myeloma by raising funds for these blood cancers.

The Regatta will kick off on Friday, Aug. 26th with a Skippers Meeting at 6:30 p.m. located at Belmont Harbor. Open to all sailors, this meeting will explain race rules and regulations. A reception, sponsored by Mt. Gay Rum, will follow the Skippers Meeting at 7:30. On race day, Saturday, Aug. 27th, boats will set sail at 1:30 p.m. from Monroe Harbor and return around 5 p.m.

More than 120 boats in five classes are expected to hit the water. Featured boats include: sailboats, power boats, cigarette boats and private yachts. The Ameriprise - sponsored sailboats Windy I and Windy II, usually docked at Navy Pier and only available for tours, will make a special appearance during the regatta as they race each other to the finish line.

Following the race, a reception will be held at Monroe Harbor, sponsored by Goose Island Beer. Top fundraisers will be honored at the reception with prizes including a chartered sailboat trip to Antigua, a trip to sail with ESPN commentator Gary Jobson and a $500 gift card to West Marine Sail Shop.

The Foley & Lardner Leukemia Cup Regatta is one of 40 regattas held nationwide, involving both sail and power boats, which compete for racing and fundraising awards. Last year, the Leukemia Cup Regatta raised more than $100,000 in Illinois for leukemia research and patient services. The regatta race is open to everyone and sailors do not need to be a member of a yacht club to participate. The cost to register is $50 per boat.

For more information on participating in the Regatta, call (312) 651-7350, ext. 246, or visit www.leukemicup.org/il.

On Saturday, Aug. 27th, more than 500 people will participate in the 5th annual MS Slugfest Softball Tournament, a Chicago summer tradition and annual fundraiser for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Greater Illinois Chapter.

MS Slugfest is a one-day, co-ed, 16-inch softball tournament that raises important funds for MS research and services. The tournament, held at the Lincoln Park South Fields at North Ave. and Lake Shore Drive, pits 32 teams from neighborhood establishments, corporations, families and individuals against each other to help support a great cause.

The day includes a fully catered grill-out lunch from Weber Grill restaurant, celebrity appearances, and fabulous fundraising and championship prizes, including a Cubs rooftop party at the famous Budweiser House. All proceeds will benefit the beginning of the annual St. Xavier University's Trenton Turyna Memorial Nursing Scholarship Fund.

The fund was started by Bruce and Jan Turyna, in memory of their son, Trent, who died from injuries sustained in a car accident more than a year ago.

According to Trent's parents, the reason for the scholarship is twofold. It came from Trent's desire to become a nurse and the "remarkable" care he received from the nurses while in the hospital following the car accident.

WAUKEGAN HARBOR CLEANUP UNDERWAY: A $27 million cleanup has started near Waukegan Harbor where 36 acres are contaminated with PCBs and other chemical waste. Officials hope to develop the area into a residential area when the two-year project is completed.

Soil laced with high levels of contaminants and organic compounds will be sent to an out-of-state regulated utility to be burned for power generation. Soil with lower levels of contamination will be buried in a Zion landfill. The contaminated ground water will be pumped to an on-site treatment plant to filter out the arsenic and other dangerous toxins, then ground water will be monitored for at least 30 years, officials said.

A federal consent decree requires North Shore Gas, General Motors and other former owners of the site to pay for the cleanup. Plans call for workers to remove 30,000 to 40,000 cubic yards of contaminated soil before covering the land with six inches of clean topsoil. (Credit: Great Lakes Basin Report.)

ANIMAL RIGHTS GROUP KILLS DOGS AND CATS: Two employees of "People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals" (PETA), have been arrested and charged with multiple felony counts of animal cruelty for allegedly dumping dead puppies and other animals into a dumpster and driving a PETA-owned vehicle that contained the remains of other animals.

Official records show that PETA, a national animal rights group based in Virginia, has killed over 10,000 dogs and cats since 1998. On June 16, police in Ahoskie, North Carolina arrested PETA employees for allegedly picking up dogs and cats from shelters and dumping their dead bodies in garbage cans. Authorities found 18 dead dogs in a dumpster and 13 in a van that was registered to the animal rights organization.

The Center for Consumer Freedom, reports that in 2003, PETA euthanized over 85 percent of the animals it took in and found homes for only 14 percent. By comparison, the Norfolk SPCA found adoptive homes for 73 percent of its animals and the Virginia SPCA placed 66 percent of its animals.

"PETA claims to be uncompromising in its stance against animal cruelty, which its members cite as an excuse to harass hunters, anglers, researchers and others who legally and ethically use animals," said U.S. Sportsmen's Alliance President Bud Pigeon. "It is obviously hypocritical." (Source: U.S. Sportsmen's Alliance.)

Colors Revealed For 2005 Firearm Deer Pins

Deer hunters will sport tans and brown pins if they successfully harvest a deer during firearm season. Archery pins will remain the traditional colors of green and yellow. Both types of pins will also feature the date 2005. As in past years, successful hunters will receive a deer pin free of charge. Hunters will find the pins easier to obtain this year, under the new DNR Direct system. The colors of the pins for the 2005 season were announced by IDNR Director Joel Brunsvold, himself an avid hunter.

Successful deer hunters interested in obtaining a 2005-06 deer pin will be able to submit an application online and deer pins will be mailed to them. The online deer pin application will be available beginning with the opening of the archery season on Oct. 1st.

Deer hunters are reminded that harvest-reporting requirements in Illinois have changed effective with the 2005-06 season. Successful hunters, beginning this fall, must register their harvest by 10 p.m. on the same calendar day the deer is or are taken by calling a toll-free telephone check-in system at 1(866) ILCHECK or by accessing the online check-in system at <http://dnr.state.il.us/vcheck>

Hunters will be provided with a confirmation number to verify that they checked in their harvest. This number must be written by the hunter onto the temporary harvest tag (leg tag). The deer must remain whole (or field dressed) until it has been checked in through the new check-in system.

The changes are part of the implementation of DNR Direct, Illinois' new automated license, permit and registration system.

Local Boys At Millikin University

The southwest suburbs will be well represented as the Millikin University Big Blue football team challenges for the CCIW conference title this year.

The offense will be partly fueled by offensive lineman Shareef Alabi from Country Club Hills, and running backs Jake Polich from Burbank and Troy Stuewe from Oak Forest.

The defense will hope for big years from defensive back Adam Vloedman of Oak Forest, and linebacking brothers Kevin and Matt Rendarman, both of whom attended Marist in Chicago.

Letter Of Intent

Brittanie Crose, a senior guard at Morris High School in Morris, Ill., has signed a letter of intent to continue her athletic and academic career at St. Xavier University in Chicago as a member of the 2006-07 Cougar women's basketball team. Crose, a native of Morris, is currently coached by Luke Windy at Morris High School.

Crose is expected to continue play at the guard position during the fall of 2006 at SXU. As a junior at Morris last season, she averaged 14 points, 6.5 rebounds, 5.0 assists and 3.0 steals per game and was named First Team All-Conference and All-Area. Crose is the daughter of Todd and Vivian Crose of Morris and plans to pursue a degree in psychology at SXU.

Suggestions For Exotic Pet Owners

Prospective pet owners may be looking for something different, the sort of creatures that roamed in the days of dinosaurs. But once they bring exotic reptiles into their homes, they may find it's more modern day nightmare than glimpse into prehistoric fantasy. Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources experts are offering a list of suggestions for prospective pet owners who are considering adoption of such pets as iguanas, pythons, boas, or alligators.

Basic advice before adoption:

- Find out in advance if the pet you're thinking of buying is legal. If the pet is endangered, such as an alligator, a permit is required. Some municipalities and counties have more strict regulations than the state, so check at all levels to see if your purchase is allowed under the law.
- Research the needs of the pet, including what it eats, and how much space is required. Don't just take the word of the dealer from whom you purchase the pet. Talk with a veterinarian, zoologist or herpetologist.
- Learn how big the pet will get, and how long it will live. A Burmese Python may grow several feet in the first six months of life. Iguanas grow to be five feet in length. Pet owners should be committed to take care of a pet for however long it will live. Most zoos have limited budgets and are unable to take in abandoned pets.
- Provide adequate medical care. Many iguanas starve because of parasites in their intestinal track.
- If for some reason you are unable to keep your pet, don't dump it. Consult a reptile rescue agency, or be prepared in extreme circumstances to euthanize it. Most reptiles cannot survive Illinois winters. The creatures do well in tropical climates and Illinois summers, but die in winter. During months they may live in the wild, as invasive species, they can damage the ecosystem with predatory behavior.

Reptiles can be rewarding pets. They are easier to care for than mammals, needing less frequent feedings. However, The IDNR herpetologist says don't confuse a reptile's poikilothermic makeup with affection: when a reptile snuggles, it's to take advantage of body heat, not out of affection. Poikilothermic is just another way of saying cold-blooded.

Pot Cases Stay Local

Oak Lawn is among several area communities who are opting to keep marijuana offenses in local courts. People caught with small amounts of marijuana are more likely to get tickets with fines than find themselves in jail facing jail time.

Oak Lawn officials recently changed its policy on the minor offenses at the Aug. 9th Village Board meeting claiming that police often 'overlooked' cases with small amounts of marijuana fearing that they would be lost in the court system.

Now the police will be able to ticket offenders and impose fines of $500.

Over the protests of some area police chiefs, Lansing, Midlothian and Orland Park have put in place the programs that will allow their police departments to either arrest the offenders and sending them through the circuit court system, or writing a ticket and sending the offenders to traffic court. Fines for the marijuana offenses range from $50 to $1,000. When sent to the local court, the municipality gets the entire amount of the fine. Communities that don't participate in these programs must share the fines with state and county agencies according to county officials.

According to the State's Attorney's Office, the misdemeanor possession fine can be as high as $2,500 as well as a year in jail. Possession of more than 30 grams of marijuana is a felony with fines of $25,000 and up to 15 years in prison.

Statistics are beginning to show that fewer tickets for misdemeanor possession have come down under the new program. However, there is still a consensus that possession is a crime that must go before a judge. It was stated that by being in the system, offenders will be exposed to programs that will help them to stop using drugs as well as fines and jail time being a deterrent to drug use.

Oak Lawn Public Library Director Receives Illinois Librarian Of The Year Award

Oak Lawn Public Library Director, Dr. James B. Casey, is the latest recipient of the prestigious Illinois Librarian of the Year Award issued by the Illinois Library Association. This annual award recognizes "a librarian's distinguished service and leadership in Illinois libraries." Recipients are chosen for their impact and positive contributions to libraries on the local, state and national level. Casey was nominated for this award by peers in the library field.

In his more than 13 years at the Oak Lawn Public Library, Casey has led several capital projects, including the building expansion and renovation project completed in 2004 that increased the library's overall size by 25 percent and allowed for countless additions and improvements to the facility and library services. Previous building projects addressed replacing the library's carpet, roof and HVAC units. Over the years, Casey obtained grant money to remodel the library's 2,600 sq. ft. public meeting rooms and upgrade the library's public elevator and two public service desks for handicapped accessibility. Since starting at the library, Casey has guided the libraries efforts to offer access to new technologies, including the creation of a library-wide computer network with Internet access, an interactive web site (www.oaklawnlibrary.org) and most recently wireless Internet access throughout the building.

Casey has remained actively involved in numerous professional organizations since 1992, including the Illinois Library Association (ILA) and the American Library Association (ALA), where he has served on seven project-oriented committees and most notably as an elected member of the ALA council since 1996. From 1999 to the present, Casey has been a member of the Illinois State Library Construction Grant Review Committee, where funds are issued to Illinois libraries for capital projects. On a local level, Casey participates in committees and action groups led by the Metropolitan Library System (MLS), the largest library system in the U.S., comprised of more than 576 member organizations from academic, public, school and special libraries across Chicagoland.

Casey will be formally recognized at the Illinois Library Association Conference in Peoria this October. The Illinois Librarian of the Year Award is sponsored by C. Berger Group, Inc.

Madigan Joins In Push For More Electronic Monitoring Of Child Sex Offenders

Noting that Illinois has more than 17,000 registered sex offenders, Attorney General Lisa Madigan urged the U.S. Congress to pass legislation sponsored by U.S. Rep. Rahm Emanuel (D-IL) to create a pilot program to provide grants to states to electronically monitor child sexual predators.

Emanuel's bill established a pilot program that authorizes $30 million over three years for grants to states to create programs using Global Positioning System (GPS) and other technologies to monitor child sex offenders. The grants would be administered by the U.S. Attorney General, who also would be required to report to Congress on the effectiveness of the programs. The bill is named after Jessica Lunsford and Sarah Lunde, who were both sexually assaulted and murdered by convicted sex offenders in Florida.

Madigan said tracking more child sex offenders through electronic monitoring is critical because in Illinois, more than 84 percent of registered sex offenders have raped or molested a child. Additionally, according to a National Institutes of Health study, the typical child sex offender molests an average of 117 children.

The law applies to the most dangerous sex offenders - those convicted of the following offenses: Predatory Criminal Sexual Assault, Aggravated Criminal Sexual Assault and Criminal Sexual Assault.

Madigan Seeks Ban

Attorney General Lisa Madigan filed suit against a former Cook County home repair business which accepted down payments from area homeowners and then allegedly failed to do any work.

Since July 2004, homeowners have paid more than $5,000 in down payments for repair and improvement projects to Dunn Right Construction of Illinois, Inc. of Brookfield. Lanise and Anthony Crafton are charged in Madigan's complaint as owners and agents of the company, which was involuntarily dissolved in April 2004.

According to Madigan's complaint, consumers were not provided with the required three-day notice of right to cancel or a copy of the home repair consumer's rights pamphlet required of contractors who sign agreements at customers' homes. The notices are required by the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act and the Home Repair and Remodeling Act. In February 2005, Anthony Crafton failed to appear when Madigan's office subpoenaed him as part of its investigation into consumer complaints against his business.

Madigan's suit seeks a permanent injunction against the company from engaging in the home repair and remodeling business and from further violations of Illinois' consumer protection laws. The suit also seeks restitution, a civil penalty of $50,000 and an additional $50,000 per violation committed with the intent to defraud. In addition, Madigan is asking the court to suspend licenses and permits held by Anthony Crafton until he complies with an administrative subpoena issued by her office during its investigation.

Oak Lawn Children's Museum

The Children's Museum in Oak Lawn was recently awarded an Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) grant. More than $198,000 will be issued to the museum for the "Explore and Soar" initiative and will be used to create and enhance the new permanent museum home scheduled to open in December 2006.

The Village of Oak Lawn, The Children's Museum in Oak Lawn and a joint venture between Mid-America/Morningside Group have announced a cooperative effort to build a permanent home for the Children's Museum in Oak Lawn. The new permanent home of the museum will be incorporated into the site plan of the proposed train station development. The Children's Museum will occupy almost 12,000 square feet of space on the second floor of the new commercial building. The designated monies from the IMLS grant will be specifically used for the Museum's operations and exhibit development.

The Children's Museum in Oak Lawn's mission is to empower and engage children, and those who love and care for them, in the joy of learning. As they explore their world with changing, hands-on exhibits and activities, they will soar with their newfound knowledge. For more information on The Children's Museum in Oak Lawn, contact Elizabeth Gelman at (708) 423-6709.

This project is funded through the Institute of Museum and Library Services by an Act of Congress, in accordance with the FY 2005 Consolidated Appropriations Bill.

Four New Cases Of West Nile Virus Confirmed

Dr. Eric E. Whitaker, state public health director, announced four new West Nile cases have been identified in Illinois, bringing to 33 the number of cases reported so far this year in the state.

The new cases are a 77-year-old man and a 47-year-old woman both from suburban Cook County who are hospitalized with West Nile fever, a 46-year-old man from DuPage County and a 51-year-old man from Kane County, who also have West Nile fever.

There have been 15 other cases of West Nile disease this year in suburban Cook County, two others in DuPage County and three others in Kane County. The state's other cases of West Nile disease have been from Chicago (7), Peoria (1) and Will County (1).

West Nile Virus is transmitted through the bite of a mosquito that has picked up the virus by feeding on an infected bird. Most people with the virus have no clinical symptoms of illness, but some may become ill three to 14 days after the bite of an infected mosquito.

Anyone who develops symptoms such as high fever, confusion, muscle weakness, severe headaches or stiff neck should see a doctor immediately. These symptoms may indicate meningitis or encephalitis, two potentially life-threatening illnesses. Diagnosis is made through a blood test, but no specific medication exists to treat or cure the disease.

For more WNV prevention information or to report a dead bird or animal, call CCDPH at (708) 492-2650, or visit these sites: www.cookcountypublichealth.org

Volunteer Firefighter Job Protection

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich signed legislation on Aug. 16th that protects volunteer emergency medical technicians (EMTs), ambulance personnel and other fire services volunteers from losing their jobs when they take time off to assist in local emergencies.

House Bill 594 provides volunteer EMTs and other volunteer fire services workers with job protection and allows employers to request reasonable verification from the employee to prevent false claims. This move expands the Volunteer Firefighter Job Protection Act, signed into law by Gov. Blagojevich last summer, which protects the jobs of volunteer firefighters in communities with less than 3,500 residents.

The new law will be particularly helpful in rural communities, where volunteers are most needed.

Nearly 70 percent of Illinois' municipalities, particularly small towns and rural areas, rely heavily on volunteer firefighters, EMTs, ambulance drivers and attendants and other first responders.

Volunteer EMTs, paramedics and firefighters assist in providing immediate medical attention in emergencies, which include automobile accidents, heart attacks, drowning, childbirth, gunshot wounds and fire emergencies. They also provide vital pre-hospital attention and care for the sick or injured and transport them safely to hospitals or medical facilities.

Annual Notre Dame Conference

A group of scholars and administrators from Benedictine University has been selected to lead a panel discussion during the Notre Dame Center for Ethics and Culture 2005 Annual Fall Conference, "Joy in the Truth: The Catholic University in the New Millennium," from Sept. 29th to Oct. 1st at the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind.

The conference will bring together hundreds of Catholic, Christian and secular scholars representing all the main academic fields to discuss a broad range of issues relating to the way a Catholic university can best respond to the call by the late Pope John Paul II for a renewal of Catholic institutions of higher learning.

The panelists representing Benedictine University will include Daniel J. Julius, Ph.D., Provost and Vice-President for Academic Affairs at Benedictine University; John Kevin Doyle, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Business Administration; and Alicia Cordoba Tait, D.M.A., Associate Professor and Chair of the Dept. of Fine and Performing Arts.

The session, titled "The Active Embrace of Ex Corde Ecclesiae: The Case Study of a Small Liberal Arts University," will explore how the dialogue between faith and reason is being approached at Benedictine University, ongoing challenges associated with the embrace of Ex Corde Ecclesiae, and how those lessons might be applied elsewhere. Among the speakers scheduled to address the conference are: Bishop John D'Arcy of the Diocese of Fort Wayne-South Bend; Robert Sloan, President Emeritus of Baylor University; John Finnis, Professor of Law and Legal Philosophy at Oxford University; John Cavadini, Chair of the Dept. of Theology at Notre Dame; Helen Alvare, Associate Professor of Law at the Catholic University of America; and Rev. Kevin Wildes, S.J., President of Loyola University, New Orleans.

Emergency Drought Relief Program

Victims of the severe drought which has affected thousands of agriculture producers throughout the state over the last several months can now apply for low-interest loans through local participating financial institutions under Illinois State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka's Emergency Drought Relief Program.

Topinka said the State Treasurer's Office has pledged $100 million in low interest loans through local financial institutions in the 101 counties affected by the drought. The U.S. Agriculture Secretary Mike Johanns issued a disaster declaration as a result of the severe drought conditions that have caused huge crop losses.

Farm service agency assessments report that 117,000 Illinois farmers have suffered production losses this year. That includes 74,000 farmers who estimated that the drought had destroyed 30% or more of their crops and 16% who said they've lost the year's crops all together.

Through the Treasurer's Emergency Drought Relief Program discounted state deposits are made through local financial institutions to fund loans at much less than the prevailing interest rate for consumer loans.

Thoughts On Health & Nutrition

by
Lucinda K. Lysen, RD, RN, BSN

ATHLETES AND DEHYDRATION

Most everyone these days - athletes or not - is aware of the importance of avoiding dehydration. But recreational athletes thinking that "the more fluids I drink, the better off I will be" could potentially put themselves at risk for low sodium (salt) levels in their blood. This occurs when sodium concentration falls abnormally low, causing swelling in the brain which can lead to seizures, coma and even death. Drinking more fluid than what is lost in sweat is a key risk factor for low sodium blood levels, but it can also occur in dehydrated athletes during prolonged exercise. This is a result of large sodium losses in sweat. Also, normal fluid replacement recommendations may be inadequate for people who engage in vigorous physical activity - especially in warm temperatures - or who are heavy sweaters or "salty" sweaters.

To avoid having your blood sodium level fall below normal during exercise, there are some strategies you can undertake. Physically active people should limit their fluids to no more than is needed to minimize dehydration, and should also consume sodium in food or drink during prolonged exercise (two hours or more). To be certain fluid intake does not exceed sweat loss, athletes should weigh themselves before and after training and adjust their fluid intake accordingly. Gaining weight during exercise is a warning sign of excessive fluid intake. Athletes should avoid overdrinking before training or competing as this can lower blood sodium levels before the event.

Awareness Of Meat-Cancer Link Drops

The latest results from a survey conducted every two years by the American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) show that the number of Americans who correctly identify diets high in red meat as a risk factor for developing cancer has dropped by nine percentage points since 2001, to just 30 percent.

The experts at AICR are concerned about the drop because it is one of few consistent trends in cancer risk awareness observed over the course of three biennial Facts vs. Fears Surveys. The latest survey, trended with previous data, can be found online at www.aicr.org/survey/.

"Today, even fewer Americans recognize that diets high in red meat increase cancer risk," said Karen Collins, RD, AICR Nutrition Advisor. "That's particularly troubling because awareness of this particular link was low even when we started conducting these surveys in 2001."

Only 39 percent of Americans were aware of the link between red meat and cancer in 2001. At that time, nutrition experts at AICR and elsewhere saw that low level of awareness as cause to redouble education efforts.

The new survey, which shows an alarming downward trend, has raised the obvious questions: why is awareness of this particular link one of the few that has seen any change, and why has that change been in the wrong direction? The answer, experts believe, lies in a combination of factors. They point to the popularity of high-protein diets over the past few years. Such diets encouraged Americans to think about meat chiefly as a tool for quick weight loss.

The issue was clouded further by the efforts of meat marketers to downplay health risks by emphasizing leaner cuts as "heart-healthy" options. Yet, AICR experts point out that even lean red meat poses cancer risks.

Diet More Crucial Than Supplements

In a special communication piece that appears in the July 20th issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA), Alice Lichtenstein, DSc, senior scientist and director of the Cardiovascular Nutrition Laboratory at the Jean Mayer U.S. Dept. of Agriculture (USDA) Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University, and the Center's director and senior scientist, Robert Russell, MD, report that the most promising data on nutrition and optimal health outcomes relate to dietary patterns, not nutrient supplements. They further state that there are insufficient data to justify altering public health policy from an emphasis on foods and dietary patterns to one on supplements.

The authors emphasize that nutrient supplementation, particularly for certain at-risk populations, has an important place in health care. However, they point out that there is an important difference between observing associations between particular nutrients and health outcomes and detecting causal connections.

"Perhaps no better example exists than the disheartening results of the vitamin E intervention trials for the prevention of cardiovascular disease," says Russell. Lichtenstein explains that although observational studies suggest positive effects, "we lack supporting evidence from intervention trials, and that is critical for making recommendations to the public."

Data are insufficient in other areas as well, according to Lichtenstein. "Disease-nutrient relationships are by their nature very complex. Within the context of high dose nutrient supplementation, outcomes are frequently unexpected. Not only have some studies failed to yield positive results, but occasionally unanticipated negative effects have been observed."

The authors point out that some of the unanticipated findings from high dose single or nutrient cocktails may be because the levels used are much higher than those necessary to prevent deficiency disease. In one study, adding a nutrient antioxidant cocktail to a well established cholesterol-lowering drug treatment actually lessened the beneficial effect. "We still have a lot to learn about the use of high doses of nutrients. The important point is to prevent the cart from getting in front of the horse; we need to validate the science before there is wide scale adoption by the general public as we saw with vitamin E. We can no longer automatically assume there will be no adverse consequences," notes Lichtenstein.

In their overview of the existing literature, Lichtenstein and Russell, both professors at Tufts University's Friedman School of Nutrition Science and Policy and School of Medicine, note that their caution is "based on the lack of a complete understanding of nutrient requirements and interactions, and disappointing results of intervention studies with single nutrients or nutrient cocktails."

"The identification, isolation and purification of nutrients in the early 20th century raised the possibility that optimal health outcomes could be realized through nutrient supplementation," write the authors, but this advance has been "a double-edged sword."

While the current expert opinion is that there is not enough evidence to justify emphasizing nutrient supplements instead of food and diet for maintaining good health, this topic remains under rigorous research, and new data is published regularly. Based on the available information, the authors say, "eat a diet rich in fruits, vegetables, low-fat dairy products, whole grains and fish."

Vaccination Legislation Signed

A bill sponsored by State Sen. Ed Maloney (D-18) helping residents of nursing homes and assisted living facilities with their flu vaccines was signed into law at a recent signing ceremony.

Senate Bill 1220 requires all home health agencies to provide for the administration of the flu vaccination, unless the vaccine is not medically suggested, or the patient chooses not to participate.

The home health agency will document the patient's record as to whether the vaccinations were administered, refused or not medically suggested.

It also allows assisted living, shared housing facilities, and nursing homes to contract with a third party for the administration of the shots.

Proponents of the legislation include AARP, the Illinois Healthcare Assn. and the Illinois Home Care Council.

St. Francis Hospital School Supply Drive Benefits Local Schools

Veterans And Soldiers News

The U.S. Senate adopted Bill S.806 (The Wounded Warrior Bill) by a voice vote, which would create a supplemental disability insurance program for members of the armed services. This bill would provide immediate payment to injured service members and their families as a part of their Servicemembers Group Life Insurance (SGLI). The coverage will provide between $25,000 and $100,000 depending on the severity of injury for just $1 per month. The money is intended to offset the costs families incur when they leave homes and jobs to be with their loved ones while recuperating in military hospitals. This is the same coverage available to the civilian sector for years. You are being asked to contact your legislators and urge them to support this bill. Our troops all over the world are defending our freedom so now is the time to do the right thing for them and their families. This report was from the Washington Weekly dated Aug. 14th.

On July 21st, the Department of Veterans Affairs, in setting up the fiscal 2005-06 health care budget, underestimated the needs of billions of dollars. The VFW, Amvets, Paralyzed Vets and Disabled American Veterans Organizations are all speaking out that the VA's efforts were flawed. John Furgess, the VFW Commander-in-Chief, stated that the VA must change the way it projects future health care needs. Proper funding affects all of the VA medical centers and clinics. Sept. 30th is the end of the government fiscal year and funding OR lack of it will: Shorten hours of operation at the various facilities; Employees leaving will not be replaced; There will be less skilled employees; Less expensive prescription drugs will be prescribed. "This is affecting the accessibility and quality of health care services to our veterans and is of utmost importance. We must act and contact our congressmen, urging them to find a long-term solution to a growing problem," said Furgess.

Illinois Patriot Plan

Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 21st signed into law the Illinois Patriot Plan, which will protect soldiers from unfairly being charged early termination fees on their cellular phone contracts or motor vehicle leases, and will prohibit utility companies from turning off electricity or gas services while they are on active duty. The legislation will also protect soldiers and their immediate family members from interest rate hikes by creditors, or untimely termination of their insurance policies due to nonpayment while on active duty.

"Soldiers on active duty are bravely defending our country. The last thing they should have to worry about is having to pay extra fees for canceling their cellular phone contracts because they have been sent to Iraq or Afghanistan," said Gov. Blagojevich. "This legislation helps us protect their families and their rights."

Senate Bill 2060 creates the Military Personnel Cellular Phone Contract Termination Act. Under the new Act, companies are prohibited from charging soldiers on active duty and their families penalties for terminating a cell phone contract before it's been completed.

The legislation also makes possible for Illinois Dept. of Central Management Services to enter into a contract to purchase bulk long distance telephone services and make them available to the active duty soldier's immediate family members.

The bill amends the Illinois Municipal Code and the Public Utilities Act, by prohibiting municipalities or companies owning a public utility, to turn off a service member's gas or electricity, and by providing for arrangements in which active duty personnel can pay their bills upon returning from deployment.

Additionally, the Illinois Patriot Plan will make sure that life insurance policies for members of armed services, reserve forces or the Illinois National Guard will not be terminated during their military service due to nonpayment; will allow the courts to help deployed service personnel to adjust their rental agreements; and will provide that soldiers on active duty can terminate any motor vehicle lease with a written notice and proof of deployment, without incurring early termination charges.

SB 2060 also bans creditors from increasing a soldier's interest rate by more than 6 percent per year. Spouses of deployed personnel are also protected under this provision. In order to be able to benefit from all these provisions, family members must provide proof that the soldier was called to active duty. The legislation becomes effective immediately.

Gov. Blagojevich Urges President Bush To Release Additional Oil Supplies

Illinois Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 17th called on President George W. Bush to help bring down the cost of gasoline in the United States by releasing additional oil supplies from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. The Reserve is expected to reach capacity at 700 million barrels later this month. In a letter, Gov. Blagojevich urged the President to use his authority to provide consumers relief from record-high gas prices.

Illinois residents are now paying an average of $2.62 per gallon at the pump - 10 cents higher than the national average, and 73 cents more per gallon than they paid for gas this time last year.

The governor urged President Bush to use the country's oil reserve to increase supply and bring temporary relief at the pump while the cost of foreign crude oil soars. According to the United States Dept. of Energy, the Strategic Petroleum Reserve will reach its full capacity of 700 million barrels this month.

In his letter to the President, the governor pointed out that in 2000, an oil swap was used to withdraw 30 million barrels over a 30-day period. The move helped bring prices down by more than $6 per barrel and wholesale gasoline prices by 14 cents per gallon. At that time, a barrel of oil cost $33. Today, that same barrel of oil costs $66.

Powerful Prayer
To The Blessed Virgin

(Never known to fail.)

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in Eternal Glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. WJD

Physical activity is a great way for kids to build strength and stay healthy. Unfortunately, it can sometimes lead to injury. Broken bones require immediate attention, but what about sore shoulders or swollen knees? If not taken seriously, many youth injuries can become chronic later in life. So before your child gets hurt, visit www.aaa.org or visit your Practice Prevention and give all injuries proper attention.

What will they have longer, their trophies or their injuries?

Women's Equality Day

By John Flynn

Social Security District Manager

On Aug. 26th, America observes Women's Equality Day. Historically, this date marks the passage of the 19th amendment, which gave women the right to vote.

Today, women have challenging choices to make. Many spend their entire adulthood in a career or job outside the home. Some may work for a few years, leave the workforce to raise children and eventually return to work. And some may choose not to work outside the home. Whether they work, have worked or have never worked outside the home, it is essential that women understand how Social Security can help them and their families.

That is also why Social Security has a special web page on our Internet site at www.socialsecurity.gov/women entitled "For Women." Here is a sample of the information that is available there, conveniently categorized by the different "roles" that women may play throughout their lives.

Working Women - A "Benefits Planner" explains how you qualify for Social Security benefits, which members of your family may get benefits based on your earnings record, and how and when to apply. Women also can use links to outside web sites that discuss other sources of retirement income and post-retirement concerns such as housing, medical care and leisure activities.

Bride - Brides may find the information about "Changing Your Name" especially useful. If a woman marries and changes her name, she must be sure to tell Social Security and her employer about it. It can help ensure that she will get the benefits she is entitled to when she applies for Social Security. Visitors also can get an application for a new Social Security card on this web page.

New Mother - Learn about the importance of Social Security numbers for newborns and about benefits for children.

Divorced Spouse - At this link, visitors can learn if they would be entitled to divorced spouse's benefits, and also what happens to benefit entitlement if a woman remarries.

Widow - Here visitors can read about the requirements for widow's benefits, and also learn about the importance of Social Security survivors benefits in family financial planning. As the site notes, "If you are married and both you and your spouse are wage earners, you should consider survivors benefits from two perspectives. For one, when you die, members of your family could be eligible for benefits based on your earnings. You also should consider the benefits you and your family would be eligible to receive if your spouse died." Visitors can click on convenient links to learn more about each situation.

Social Security plays an important role in providing economic security to all Americans. Social Security offers a basic level of protection to all women covered by the programs. With nearly 60 percent of the people receiving benefits today being women, it is important that all women understand the benefits to which they may be entitled. Regardless of what a woman's life situation may be, Social Security's web page "For Women" at www.socialsecurity.gov/women can offer useful, practical information.

Arthritis Legislation Signed

In an effort to improve the lives of millions who suffer from the pain of arthritis, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 20th signed legislation that will increase awareness and research of this debilitating disease. One in five adults in the United States reports having doctor-diagnosed arthritis. Arthritis is the leading cause of disability in the United States, limiting daily activities for more than 7 million people. In Illinois, it is estimated that 3 million people suffer from arthritis and/or chronic joint symptoms.

"Millions of Illinoisans live with the daily pain and physical limitations caused by arthritis," said Gov. Blagojevich. "This new law will allow for more arthritis research and hopefully lead to new treatments."

House Bill 2380 creates the Arthritis Prevention, Control and Cure Act, which directs the Illinois Dept. of Public Health (IDPH) to establish, promote and maintain an arthritis program to raise public awareness and educate consumers, and to educate and train health professionals, teachers and human service providers.

The law also requires IDPH to establish a pilot program for the study of innovative arthritis public health projects

New Maps Now

Available For Distribution

Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT) Secretary Timothy W. Martin announced the unveiling of the new state highway map at the Illinois State Fair last week. The new map is proving to be a bargain for taxpayers, costing the state about half of what it paid two years ago.

IDOT was able to reduce the cost to taxpayers by teaming with Best Western International as a corporate partner to offset printing costs. Under the deal, Best Western International pays the state $105,000 and gets to display its logo on the map, as well as map distribution areas throughout Illinois.

After payment for the corporate sponsorship, the total cost to the state for the maps this year will be about $170,000 for the 2.75 million maps produced, down from $328,000 when the map was last updated in 2003.

IDOT produces a new state highway map every other year. The maps are distributed to the public free of charge and are available throughout the state at IDOT rest areas, tourism information centers, government facilities, and other areas frequented by motorists. Maps will also be shared through the Illinois Office of Tourism as part of the Illinois Travel kit (available worldwide upon request).

For one week, downtown Chicago will move to the beat of great jazz performances and events that will culminate in the annual Labor Day Jazz Festival! Pre-Festival events include a free concert at Millennium Park's Pritzker Pavilion on Monday, August 29th. Obert Davis' Swinging Chicago Jazz Philharmonic will showcase its repertoire of original work as well as celebrating the 40th anniversary of Chicago's Association for the Advancement of Creative Musicians by premiering a new composition. This performance is free and the music begins at 6:30p.m.

On Tuesday, August 30th at 8 p.m., the Jazz Institute of Chicago presents the Third Annual Gala Concert entitled "A Tribute To Brother Ray: All-Star Jazz Band Reunion," at the Merle Reskin Theater, 60 E. Balbo. Tickets for this all-star performance are available online at www.tix.com, or call 800-595-4849.

There are two opportunities to prep for the festival on Wednesday night. One option is a free panel discussion entitled, "The Legacy of King Oliver" with Obert Davis, Franz Jackson, Bob Koester and Dr. Richard Wang, moderated by Art Lange of the Jazz Institute of Chicago. The event is presented in cooperation with the Jazz Journalists Association and will take place at 5 p.m. in the 1st floor meeting room (Washington Street), Chicago Cultural Center at 78 E. Washington Street. Call 312-744-6630 or visit www.chicagoculturalcenter.org for more information.

The Jazz Institute's Jazz Club will host a tour of the best Chicago Jazz hot spots and teach a bit of history. The tour starts at 6 p.m. and last until midnight. Then at 5:30 p.m., in the Preston Bradley Hall, relax to an intimate duet performance featuring the legendary pianist and bandleader, Eddie Palmieri, with special guest trumpeter, Brian Lynch. For more information, call 312-744-6630 or visit www.chicagoculturalcenter.org.

All of these wonderful programs prelude the 27th Annual Chicago Jazz Festival running from Sept.

and implementation of community health projects. Under the pilot program, IDPH would grant money to academic and health organizations to study arthritis. Grant applications would be reviewed by IDPH, the Arthritis Foundation and the Illinois Arthritis Partnership. An Advisory Council on Arthritis would be appointed to provide non-governmental input regarding the program.

In Illinois, 22.7 percent (approximately 2.1 million Illinois adults) of the state's citizens reported having doctor-diagnosed arthritis, and another 9.1 percent (more than 850,000 Illinois adults) reported possibly having arthritis, according to data collected from the 2002 Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System. The prevalence of doctor-diagnosed arthritis was higher among persons in rural communities, those with lower income and persons with lower education levels. An estimated 163,000 Illinois adults with doctor-diagnosed arthritis (13 percent) do not have health care coverage.

Research has shown that people who started disease-modifying medications within the first year of being diagnosed with arthritis were less likely to experience disability than people who started treatment five years after the start of the disease. However, of those Illinoisans with possible arthritis, 38 percent had never been seen by a doctor for their joint symptoms, and of those with doctor-diagnosed arthritis, 57 percent were not currently being treated by a doctor for their arthritis.

High-Tail It On Over Rustle Up Some Steak

A tip of the Stetson hat to Mattson's Western Steak House and Saloon. It's located at 8150 S. Cicero in Burbank, but you'll swear you just rode into Texas.

I suspect you're tired of puny portions and prices that are too high-falutin'. So, high-tail it over to Mattson's and have a heap of rootin' tootin' good food at square-shootin' prices. They aim to please.

It's a right neighborly western-style environment where you'll want to kick back, rip off your tie (unless, of course, it's a bolo tie) and set a spell.

When you first mosey on in and get a good gander at all the mouth-watering menu items listed on the wall, you won't have to wait for a waitress to get you in her sites. Just stampee over to the cafeteria style line and bring your best Texas-sized appetite with you.

Yahoo! The cattle drive, is in! Wrangle yourself up a flame-broiled steak, smoked barbecue ribs or, slow-cooked-to-perfection prime rib.

Or pick out a juicy broasted half chicken. They'll slap it right on your plate for you. So, you can leave your bird-dog at home.

If you're in an East-Texas, gulf coast scafood kind a mood, chow down on Mattson's catches. Choose between sumptuous deep-fried shrimp, delectable breaded cod or good ole fried catfish.

If you can't make up your cotton-pickin' mind, enjoy a gut-bustin' steak-chicken combo or a steak-shrimp combo!

There are plenty of plum good sandwiches and kids menu items just in case some young buckaroos rode in with you.

And since good meat ain't complete without a sidekick, pick yourself out some rice pilaf, choice of potato, and Texas toast; and feel obliged to belly up to the all-you-can-eat soup and salad bar, featuring over 40 fixings freshly restocked every few minutes.

Hold your horses! That ain't all! Create for yourself your very own sundae with all manner of fancy new-fangled toppings - at no extra charge!

Now, you might need a mule to haul all these inviting vittles, but it will surely be worth it.

There are three prairie-sized rooms and 285 places to sit. So, scout out a comfortable spot to camp down.

Then, take a load off. Grab your fork. Grab your knife. And ready, set, draw!

At the end of the meal, you'll look at your partner's belly and yours and you'll declare, "This town just ain't big enough for the both of us!"

Don't worry about tipping, less'n you worked up a good thirst. If so, Mattson's purdy waitresses will serve you up domestic or imported beer, wine, frozen cocktails or specialty drinks.

Or feel free to side-wind over to the neat little bar which I reckon you'll want to make your new favorite watering hole.

In keeping with true southern hospitality, Mattson's offers great parking, wheel-chair accessibility and non-smoking areas.

If you are planning a party, Mattson's will put you up in a room that will accommodate a posse of up to 70 people.

From the phenomenal food to the authentic gun cases on the wall, Mattson's Western Steak House And Saloon is a positively wonderfully western experience - and you don't have to hold up a stagecoach to afford it.

So, put a bounty on boredom and be an outlaw from the daily humdrum. Jail-break over to Mattson's. You can give 'em a holler at (708) 424-5884. Ya'll come... ya' hear! No reservations accepted.

Credit Union's Wanna Bee Kids' Club

South Division Credit Union's youngest Owners, their Kid's Club Members, recently sponsored a Night Under the Lights with the Windy City ThunderBolts at Hawkinson Ford Field in Crestwood. It was a grand night of family fun and baseball that saw the home team defeat the visiting Evansville Otters (5-3), the zany antics of SDCU's Kid's Club Wanna Bee and the ThunderBolts Boomer, plus these very active and financially precocious kids raising money for their favorite charity, the Children's Miracle Network.

"Our kids are really great," exclaims Geri Burek, President & CEO of SDCU. "They're not only some of our best Members and Owners, but they really want to be upstanding citizens actively involved in the community. I'm really proud of them tonight. And this was great fun!"

The night was buzzing with activity from the explosive bats of the ThunderBolts' to the hilarious antics of the Wanna Bee and Boomer entertaining the crowd between innings with a slapstick "Race the Mascot," "YMCA" and "T-Shirt Toss," the Kid's Club Night Under the Lights was a beautiful fair weather night for hot dogs, cold drinks, and raising money for their favorite charity with a 50/50 Split the Pot that set a stadium record of over $800. "We raised $450 for the Children's Miracle Network," said Burek after the 8th inning winning ticket ceremony. "That's a lot of money when you consider this is kids helping kids," echoing the Credit Union's motto of "People Helping People."

The Doolan family of Alsip was also thrilled to have joined in the night's activities. "Not only was it exciting to win the Split the Pot raffle," said Sandra Doolan, "but our entire family enjoyed seeing the ThunderBolts play. SDCU put together a very family-friendly event!" The Doolan's are three generations of SDCU Members and Owners. "As soon as our kids started to earn their own money, they immediately became members of South Division," added Ms. Doolan. "Our entire family is involved: my husband and I, our kids, and my husband's parents. In fact, my husband has been a member since he was a teenager. South Division membership is very important to us."

South Division Credit Union was founded in 1935 by the workers of Illinois Bell's South Division. It is now a community and family oriented financial institution serving Chicago's Southside with offices in Evergreen Park and Midlothian. SDCU's newest branch opened in 2004 at Brother Rice High School where students learn first hand how to manage money through a real financial institution that is sensitive to their special needs and abilities.

These proud SDCU Kid's Club Wanna Bees (Connor Doolan, Megan Doolan and Marrsa Fletcher) show their support for the Windy City ThunderBolts at the recent SDCU's Kid's Club Game Night.

Teen REACH After School Grants

As Illinois students begin to go back to school, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich announced $20.5 million in grants for Teen REACH after school programs for Illinois youth. Established by the Illinois Department of Human Services (IDHS) in the year 1998, Teen REACH (Responsibility, Education, Achievement, Caring and Hope) offers positive services and activities for youth between the ages of six and 17 during non-school hours. One hundred twenty-two community-based organizations throughout the state will receive the funding for fiscal year 2006.

Teen REACH services include: improving academic performance; life skills education; parental and community involvement; recreation, sports, cultural and artistic activities; and positive adult mentors.

Mounting evidence shows that how children occupy their time during non-school hours is directly related to their ability to achieve in school and contribute to society. A number of studies have found that children who attend quality after-school programs have better peer relations, emotional adjustment, school grades and conduct than their peers who are unsupervised after school (Posner & Vandell, 1994; Baker and Witt, 1995).

Is Recycling Part Of Your Back To School Routine?

As the upcoming school year rushes into full swing, its time for new lessons: both inside and out of the halls of Chicago's schools. The City of Chicago encourages families to add to the original lessons of reading, writing and arithmetic, modifying the 3 "R's" of education by adding a fourth "R" for Recycling.

With this in mind, the City's Recycling Team is happy to provide some easy-to-use tips for parents, teachers and students to create a tradition of recycling that lasts a lifetime.

- 1) When preparing lunch for the family, be cautious to buy products made from recycled materials. Additionally, refillable containers for soup, beverages and snacks are cheap, easy to clean and fit into lunchboxes perfectly.
- 2) With autumn leaves a-falling, outdoor chores can be a burden on the family. To expedite the process, make a family game out of cleanup. Whoever fills the most Blue Bags with yard waste wins a special prize.
- 3) Before heading out to the local office supply store, look around the house to see what may be lingering under a bed or hidden in a closet. In most cases supplies are overbought, resulting in hundreds of wasted items.
- 4) After homework assignments are returned and no longer needed in the classroom, cut them up and make hundreds of sheets of notepaper perfect for phone messages and meeting reminders.
- 5) As classroom events and birthday parties fill the calendar, spread the word to fellow organizers about the importance of limiting waste. Even the smallest classroom can create hundreds of pounds of trash a month.
- 6) When changing batteries in remote controls, smoke detectors and other devices this fall, remember that thanks to a partnership with the City of Chicago, household batteries can be recycled at area Walgreen's stores and at all Chicago Public Libraries.
- 7) Make sure that a recycling plan is in place in the home to collect paper, yard waste, glass and plastic bottles. Back-to-school is the perfect time to start.

Everyone at the Chicago Recycling Team wishes students, teachers and parents a wonderful 2005-2006 school year and urges all to remember our very own three R's: reduce, reuse and recycle!

For more information on the City's Recycling team or Chicago environmentally-friendly initiatives, visit www.cityofchicago.org or call 311.

Hazardous Waste Collection

Governor Rod R. Blagojevich announced the Illinois EPA will conduct additional household hazardous waste collection events this fall in partnership with local communities and organizations, on Saturdays, starting Sept. 10 through Oct. 29.

The collections to be held this fall will bring the total to 35 for this year, one of the largest numbers since the program started in 1988. Since its inception, 378 collections have been held and more than 331,000 households have participated, turning in 65,732 fifty-five gallon drums of material.

Citizens may bring oil-based paints, thinners, chemical cleaners, antifreeze, motor oil, weed killers, insecticides and pesticides and similar household products. Fluorescent and other high-intensity discharge lamps may also be brought to the collections. The public is encouraged to find alternative uses for latex paint since it is not considered hazardous.

Residents are also encouraged to bring mercury and mercury-containing products such as fever thermometers, old thermostats and elementary mercury, as part of an initiative by Gov. Blagojevich and IEPA to reduce the amount of this hazardous material in our environment.

In addition, cell phones may be turned in and will be passed on to local charitable groups if they are in working order.

Items not accepted include explosives, fire extinguishers, smoke detectors, agricultural chemicals and all business waste. Propane tanks and lead acid auto batteries cannot be accepted at most of the events, but can be taken to local recyclers.

The collection in this area will be held on Saturday, Oct. 1st from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Andrew High School parking lot, 9901 W. 171st St. This collection is cosponsored by the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago.

Household Hazardous Waste collection schedule can also be found on the agency's web page www.epa.state.il.us.

Attacker Sentenced

Courageous Joe Lemus has been a competent and dependable employee of Beverly Records and has earned a living there for twenty years.

Moreover, this harmless 41-year-old Midlothian man is best described as a living, breathing human being with likes and dislikes, hopes and dreams, accomplishments and challenges - just like a man named Phillip Daniel.

The difference between the two is that Joe Lemus possesses and exercises qualities that enable him to respect and consider others regardless of whether or not it results in personal gain.

Phillip Daniel apparently lacked the strength to make his own way, let alone appropriate for others.

As a result, whatever after-work personal plans Joe might have had on one fateful day in 2003 were preempted when 42-year-old Chicagoan, Phillip Daniel attempted (unsuccessfully) to dehumanize him.

Daniel entered the record store, waited for the right moment, locked the door, and declared that he was robbing the store.

After finding only $36 in the cash drawer, Daniel suddenly began strangling Lemus with a scarf until he lost consciousness. He then dragged him to the back of the store and set him on fire.

Lemus awoke ablaze and valiantly crawled to an office phone to dial 911. Beverly police arrived, broke in and tended to Lemus.

Daniel was soon found curiously hiding in a storage area of the store before being apprehended.

As for Joe, he began his uphill battle hospitalized for a month at Loyola University Medical Center's burn unit.

Two years later, Joe is reaching milestones during his honorable comeback. In March of this year, Joe Lemus returned to work at Beverly Records for a three-month stint between surgeries.

In July, he braved adversity and underwent his tenth surgery for burns on his head, neck, back and chest.

And, last week, Joe was rewarded with a little peace of mind and a measure of justice in the form of a 39-year prison sentence pronounced for Phillip Daniel for attempted murder and robbery and, unofficially, attempted dehumanization.

In an effort to clarify in Daniel's mind exactly what he was being punished for, Lemus had the Cook County States Attorney read a statement he had prepared, which detailed the pain and suffering that Daniel has caused Lemus to have to rise above.

While Daniel, hopefully, ponders his actions over the next several decades, Joe Lemus will continue to travel on the road toward recovery.

Soon, according to store manager, Jack Dreznes, Joe will be returning to work. He will be earning a living and making his own way just like any human being is entitled to.

And the ultimate justice would be if Joe were able to completely put this chapter of his life behind him and resume the pursuit of normal hopes and dreams; with routine accomplishments and challenges so that, ultimately, all Daniel will have succeeded in doing is bringing out the hero in Joe Lemus.

Offer Irish Sagas Course

The Carmelite Spiritual Center will offer a new course entitled "Irish Sagas & Folktales - II" from Sept. 26 to Oct. 31. The Monday course will be held from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 7 to 9 p.m., and is open to the public. Rev. Kevin O'Neill Shanley, a noted Celtic scholar, will teach the new course. Students may choose to attend either morning or evening sessions. A textbook is available.

In the course, Fr. Kevin will introduce such Irish sagas as "Deirdre of the Sorrows and the Sons of Uisneach"; "Oisín in Tir Na Nog (Land of Eternal Youth)"; and "The Cattle Raid of Cooley."

Fr. Kevin, whose parents are immigrants from Ireland in the mid-1920s, is a graduate of the International Summer School at University College Dublin. He has taught courses in Irish History and Literature for several decades at St. Xavier University in Chicago and elsewhere. He has also written extensively about Ireland and the Irish. Since 1977 he has written a column entitled "The Tinker's Dam" each month for the "Irish American News" of Chicago.

Seniors To Discover The Best Of Beverly

Festivals, shopping, restaurants and education opportunities make a neighborhood thrive, according to Willie Winters, executive director of the Beverly Area Planning Association. Local seniors will have the opportunity to find out more about all Beverly has to offer and even get the inside scoop on what's on the horizon for the neighborhood at a free presentation by Winters on Monday, Sept. 12, at 2 p.m. in the Smith Village Information Center, 10400 S. Western Ave. in Chicago.

Visitors will learn about classes and continuing education programs, upcoming festivals, events and services for seniors. Plus, Winters will offer tips on Beverly's best shopping, restaurants and transportation.

"Beverly is such a dynamic community that there is always something to discover," says Winters. "Even people who have lived in the area for decades often are delighted to learn about new offerings. With so much recent development activity in our community, there's news to share." Winters will provide the insider's perspective about upcoming development, so visitors will be in the know more about the future of Beverly.

Smith Village is a big part of Beverly's growth and development, according to Winters. Slated to open in 2007, the $65 million community is the largest development project in the history of Chicago's Beverly neighborhood.

"Being a part of the Beverly community is such a benefit to our residents," says Bunny Sugarman, director of marketing for Smith Village. "This dynamic, vibrant neighborhood is a perfect match for the active seniors at Smith Village."

While at the Smith Village Information Center, visitors are invited to enjoy complimentary refreshments, view a scale model of Smith Village and learn more about the community that will reinvent retirement living in Beverly and the surrounding area. Visitors will also have the opportunity to be among the next 15 people to take advantage of a new incentive that could save them thousands of dollars: $5,000 of their entrance fee or towards a decorator/upgrade package as well as no monthly fee for two full months.

Sponsored by Smith Senior Living, a not-for-profit organization dedicated to serving the lifestyle, housing and healthcare needs of seniors for nearly 80 years, Smith Village will provide independent living, assisted living, memory support and skilled nursing care. Its newly constructed campus will feature large apartments and a host of services and amenities.

Moraine Valley Learning Center Reports Record Summer Numbers

More participants than ever attended Moraine Valley Community College's Valley Learning Center this summer. Some 1,080 participants enrolled in a variety of programs, camps and classes, resulting in a record-setting enrollment and an 11 percent increase over last year's attendance.

The Valley Learning Center offers on-campus workshops and courses for students from 4 to 15 years old who wish to pursue their interests in classes created just for them - technology-minded kids can master the latest software; future scientists can study chemistry or learn about space; artistic children can attend theater workshops, play musical instruments, or learn to paint; and young athletes will improve their abilities at sports camps.

The Valley Learning Center offered 146 sections of 60 classes, including such new classes as Lego Robot Programming, 3D Computer-Assisted Design, Introduction to Creating Web Pages, Meteorology, Arts and Crafts Camp, Introduction to Desktop Publishing, and Introduction to Photoshop.

The response from parents also was positive. In a survey distributed by staff at the Center, respondents said they "attend the Valley Learning Center program every year and refer other parents to the programs." Moraine Valley also provides a safe, positive environment.

In addition, Moraine Valley offers academic help for kids to improve their reading, math and writing skills without the stress of grades or homework. State-certified instructors teach all academic courses, so parents can feel confident about the education their child receives. Moreover, 50 percent of participants in the Valley Learning Center end up taking academic classes at Moraine Valley.

Bridge Named In Memory Of Emmett Till

Citing Illinois' strong tradition of combating discrimination and hate-based violence, Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 28th issued an Executive Order creating the Commission on Discrimination and Hate Crimes. The Commission will work in partnership with community leaders, educators, religious leaders, social service agencies, elected officials and the public to identify and uproot sources of discrimination and bias at their source, and will report to the Governor and the General Assembly with recommendations on how to eliminate discrimination and hate-based violence through statute and program changes.

The Commission will also work with educators throughout Illinois to confront issues of discrimination and hate, and will ensure that prosecutors swiftly and appropriately respond to hate-motivated crimes and incidents. They will also be involved in implementing their recommendations by working with the Governor's agencies, the General Assembly, the business community, the social service community and other organizations.

The membership of the Commission consists of a chair and 20 to 30 members, all appointed by the Governor. Members may include, but are not limited to, persons who are active in and knowledgeable about the following areas: law enforcement, the criminal and civil justice system, education, human rights, business and industry, arts and culture, social services and religion. Each year by March 30th, the Commission will submit a report to the Governor and the General Assembly.

The Governor has appointed Rev. Willie T. Barrow to chair the Commission. Rev. Barrow, an author as well as a minister at the Vernon Park Church of God in Chicago, serves on the Rainbow/PUSH Coalition Board. She is also a lifelong activist, having fought against school segregation in her Texas hometown as well as working as a field organizer for Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. during the 1950s and 60s and now with Rev. Jesse Jackson.

State Rep. Larry McKeon (D-Chicago) will also serve on the Commission.

The Governor also proclaimed Sunday, Aug. 28th as Emmett Till and Mamie Till Mobley Day in Illinois and named Chicago's 71st St. bridge Emmett Till Memorial Bridge to honor the 50th anniversary of the lynching of Emmett Till and his mother's courageous effort to share his story with the world, which sparked a renewed call for justice and freedom during the Civil Rights Movement.

The Emmett Till Memorial Bridge crosses over the Dan Ryan Expressway and connects the two sides of Emmett Till Way, Chicago's 71st St. Signs bearing the new name will be installed on each end of the bridge next week.

In 1955, 14-year-old Emmett Till was slain after he spoke to a white woman in a local store in Mississippi. Mamie Till Mobley, Emmett Till's mother, insisted the public see what her 14-year-old son's killers did, despite the severe disfigurement of his body. More than 50,000 people attended the funeral, and Jet Magazine published a picture of the disfigured corpse of Emmett Till, which circulated in newspapers around the world.

The effect of Mamie Till Mobley's courageous defiance sent shock waves of grief and outrage across the nation, and enflamed racial tensions that sparked the Civil Rights Movement to extend equal protection of the law to black men and women. Just 100 days after Emmett's death, Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat to a white passenger on a Montgomery city bus and was arrested for violating Alabama's bus segregation laws.

A number of commemoration and remembrance events were held in Chicago last weekend, including a benefit musical "Music for Emmett," performances of The Face of Emmett Till, a play co-authored by Mamie Till Mobley, and the 50th Anniversary Hands Across Emmett Till Road celebration on 71st St.

Drunk Driving Fatalities Drop 5%

Illinois Secretary of State Jesse White cited a dramatic downward trend in the number of alcohol-related traffic fatalities statewide as he unveiled four new video Public Service Announcements (PSAs) in his continued effort to combat drunk driving. The PSAs were distributed statewide preceding the Labor Day Holiday weekend.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), in 2004, 604 people lost their lives in alcohol-related crashes as opposed to the year before when 637 people were killed. This is a 5.2 percent decrease - the largest drop since Illinois adopted .08 Blood Alcohol Concentration (BAC) standard in 1997.

This two-year trend coincides with important legislative initiatives including primary enforcement of safety belts and Secretary White's 2001 comprehensive DUI package which included mandatory jail time and fines for driving drunk with a child in the vehicle and driving drunk at double the legal limit (.16 BAC).

The videos, which were sent out to broadcast and cable stations across the state, remind viewers of the consequences of drinking and driving.

In 2004, over 40 percent of all fatalities on Labor Day weekend were alcohol-related, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT). Law enforcement arrested 40,147 drivers statewide for DUI in 2004.

Funding for the PSAs was provided through a grant from IDOT. Representatives from Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) and Alliance Against Intoxicated Motorists (AAIM) participated in the unveiling of the PSAs.

Governor Calls For Oil Release

As Hurricane Katrina blasts through the heart of oil and refinery operations in the Gulf of Mexico, Illinois Gov. Rod R. Blagojevich on Aug. 29th once again called on President George W. Bush to help bring down the cost of gasoline in the United States by releasing additional oil supplies from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. The Governor also sent a letter to Illinois Attorney General Lisa Madigan asking her to investigate potential price gouging at gas pumps.

On Sunday, Hurricane Katrina, a Category 4 storm, halted an estimated 633,000 barrels of daily crude oil production, 42% of the daily average output from the Gulf Coast. At least eight refineries with a combined capacity of 1.8 million barrels per day were also shut down, according to operators. On Monday morning, gas stations across Illinois increased their prices - in some cases as much as 40 cents to nearly $3 a gallon.

Tapping the strategic oil reserve in response to a hurricane is not unprecedented. Last year when Hurricane Ivan disrupted gas supplies, the government exchanged more than 5 million barrels of crude oil from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

In his letter to President Bush, the Governor pointed out that in 2000, an oil swap was used to withdraw 30 million barrels over a 30-day period. The move helped bring prices down by more than $6 per barrel and wholesale gasoline prices by 14 cents per gallon. At that time, a barrel of oil cost $33. Today, that same barrel of oil costs $66.

Bills Signed By Governor Blagojevich

A number of bills have been signed by Gov. Blagojevich which should be of interest to our readers. We will recap a few of them below:

- According to Cook County Clerk David Orr under House Bill 1968, resident voters of Illinois will now be able to cast their ballot in person at a designated location before Election Day without having to provide a reason or excuse for voting early. The "no-excuse" early voting will begin 22 days before an election and conclude the Thursday before election day. This does not affect absentee voting, which will still be allowed by mail. However, any qualified voters who applies to vote absentee by mail must show cause as required under current law.
- The rationale behind this bill includes: the convenience for all registered voters to get out and vote and the possibility of shortening the time spent waiting to vote at the polls. Hopefully more people will participate in the elective process.
- The Illinois Department of Public Health called upon the expertise of southside elected officials Sen. Ed Maloney (D-Chicago) and Rep. Kevin Joyce (D-Worth) in initializing House Bill 2531, legislation that requires Illinois health care facilities to provide a criminal history record check for all employees, excluding physicians, hired on or after that date with duties that may involve contact with residents, access to their living quarters or access to their financial, medical or personal records. Presently, only certified nurses aides and other direct care, unlicensed staff are included in the background checks. The law is effective Jan. 1st.
- In an effort to improve customer service and accountability at the Illinois Tollway, the Governor signed Senate Bill 1964, which authorizes a one-time, 60-day Amnesty Program for toll scofflaws with outstanding toll violations. Beginning Aug. 23rd and ending Oct. 21st, violators with outstanding tolls have 60 days to pay 50-75 percent of their original fines and missed tolls, or face harsher sanctions; including increased fines, suspensions of license plates and driver's licenses, towing, booting or impoundment of vehicles, or referral to a collection agency.

For more information on how violators can make amnesty payments call 1-877-715-1235 Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. or go online to: <http://vpc.illinois tollway.com>, 24 hours, seven days a week.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

Governor Blagojevich thinks anyone under 21 does not have sufficient judgment or perspective to get a tattoo. On Aug. 10th, he vetoed the provision of HB 29 that would have reduced the legal age for getting tattoos from 21 to 18.

So why does the Governor think teenagers of any age, even pre-teens, have sufficient judgment and perspective to get an abortion? Consider his logic. He stated, "As a parent, I don't want my daughters to rush to get tattoos on their 18th birthday. At that age, most kids are still in high school and don't have the judgment or perspective to decide on something as permanent as tattooing your skin. Teenagers may not realize getting a tattoo is a decision they'll live with, and potentially regret, for the rest of their lives. That's why I refuse to support legislation that allows teenagers to get tattoos."

Just replace "tattoo" with "abortion" at each occurrence above and then ask again, why does the Governor think teenagers of any age have the judgment and perspective to get an abortion? Which decision do you think is more likely to be "a decision they'll live with, and potentially regret, for the rest of their lives?" Why does Governor Blagojevich oppose even parental notification before an underage girl can get an abortion?

Early Voting Bill Approved

Illinois voters will no longer have to wait until Election Day to cast their ballots, Cook County Clerk David Orr said Tuesday, Aug. 23rd.

On Aug. 22nd, Gov. Rod Blagojevich signed a bill that will allow residents to vote in person at a designated location before Election Day without having to provide a reason or excuse. The early voting legislation promoted by Orr is part of a larger election reform package that takes effect prior to the March 21, 2006, gubernatorial primary election.

Under the bill (HB 1968), "no excuse" early voting will begin 22 days prior to the election and end the Thursday before. Absentee voting will still be allowed by mail. However, any qualified voter applying to vote absentee by mail would have to provide a reason as required under current law.

More than 30 states allow no-excuse early voting at the office of their local election authority or at designated voting locations.

Orr hopes that people will take advantage of the in-person voting provision in Illinois.

Registered voters who show proof of identification will be able to vote at designated sites in suburban Cook County or at Orr's downtown office using one of the county's new touch screen voting machines.

Officials administering early voting will be required to provide the names of early voters to the election authority for each jurisdiction. The names of early voters would be made public on a daily basis.

The counting of ballots voted during the 22-day period would take place after the polls close on Election Day just as absentee ballots are counted now.

All Points Southwest

By THOMAS E. GAVIN

With the Labor Day weekend nearly upon us expect travelers to be on the highways in record numbers in spite of record gasoline prices. According to AAA Chicago's most recent fuel gauge report, the average price of regular unleaded gas in Illinois, now averages $2.70 per gallon, which is up about 80 cents from last year's prices! In northern Indiana, gas prices now average about $2.59 per gallon, which is up 72 cents from last year's prices.

In Cook County, self-serve regular unleaded gas now averages $2.805 per gallon, which is up over 90 cents from last year. Drivers in Illinois are aware that gas in this state is among the highest priced in the nation. (Ask your respective legislators for details.) Add to this scenario the Hurricane Katrina disaster and analysts suggest that unleaded gas prices could climb another 20-25 cents per gallon in a few short weeks. Readers and drivers continue to ask "why."

According to the Federal Energy Information Administration, over the past two summers (2003-2005) the cost of a gallon of regular gas has risen over 60 percent. In Chicagoland, several retailers are presently charging well over $3 per gallon.

The taxes on Illinois gas purchases are among the highest in the nation. Combine them with the recent severe damages caused by Hurricane Katrina to petroleum infrastructures in the Gulf of Mexico and you have a recipe for disaster. Any sustained interruption of the refining of crude oil, and gas and oil production in the Gulf area, will cause major economic repercussions to the region and the entire United States.

Realistically, it is up to each vehicle owner/driver to be more judicious with his vehicle usage. It is idyllic to believe that Americans will forego their automobiles and concentrate on the improvement of additional public transportation whenever possible. Only time...and continually rising costs...will bring this dilemma to a head.

Last Friday, Aug. 26th, a noon rally at the Daley Plaza in Chicago kicked off a weekend themed "Salute to Chicago's Finest," commemorating a permanent memorial to Chicago Police Officers killed in the line and performance of duty. During the rally the Motorola Corporation announced that they have made a multi-year commitment to the Chicago Police Memorial Foundation and a leadership donation of $750,000. Motorola's donation is the largest single contribution the Foundation has received in its efforts to raise funds needed to construct the Gold Star Families Memorial and Park, located just east of Soldier Field.

A host of celebrities were present to lend their time and support to this worthy cause. They included host/comedian Tom Dreesen, actors Dennis Farina (former Chicago Police Officer), George Wendt, Joe Mantegna and Larry Manetti.

Looking for a great place to visit this holiday weekend? Chicago's Millennium Park has something for every family member. Millennium Park will be partially closed for a private event on Thursday, Sept. 8th. On that day, The Crown Fountain, Lurie Garden, Wrigley Square, Welcome Center, Bicycle Station and Harris Theater box office will remain open to the public. The remainder of the park will be closed for the entire day.

Chicagoans and visitors are encouraged to return on Saturday, Sept. 10th through Monday, Sept. 12th for the park's "Blockbuster Weekend" featuring free performances by the Lyric Opera of Chicago (9/10), the Chicago Symphony Orchestra (9/11), and Steppenwolf Theatre Company (9/12).

Located in downtown Chicago on Michigan Ave. between Randolph and Monroe Streets, the 24-acre Millennium Park is an unprecedented center for world class art, music, architecture and landscape design.

For more information about Millennium Park visit www.millenniumpark.org or call (312) 742-1168.

More than 30 top leaders of the AFL-CIO state and local bodies from around the nation sent an open letter recently to all the unions in the AFL-CIO and in Change to Win — the organization of the unions that disaffiliated from the AFL-CIO — urging solidarity at the local and state level.

The leaders asked for "good-faith efforts of all unions to re-establish the unit of the labor movement at the state and local levels," and say that they believe that the Solidarity Charter proposal offered by the AFL-CIO provides the basis for meeting that goal.

Solidarity Charters would allow a local union of a disaffiliated union to continue to be part of the central labor council (clc) or state federation. As of this writing the AFL-CIO Executive Council is still voting on whether to approve the new Solidarity Charters.

In the letter, the local leaders "recognize the willingness of the Change to Win unions to continue to support our state federations and central labor councils. We are encouraged that so many local unions of the Change to Win unions in our state have expressed their willingness to participate in our organizations as well."

What seems to be remarkable about this call for solidarity is that the very concept of allowing continued participation in local central bodies by unions which have disaffiliated from the national AFL-CIO is as unprecedented as it is important. We'll keep our eyes on this one.

A Cook County Public Health Public Hearing is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 13th, at 11 a.m. in Room 569 of the County Building located at 118 N. Clark St. in Chicago.

Commissioner Joan Patricia Murphy will sponsor a resolution to establish the Partners Against Animal Cruelty "PAAC" Task Force in order to promote education regarding cruelty to animals within Cook County and prevent and reduce animal abuse and other related interpersonal violence. (Co-sponsors of this task force include: The Honorable John H. Stroger Jr., President; Elizabeth Ann Doody Gorman, and Debra Sines, County Commissioners.)

The meeting will provide an open forum for all interested parties to voice their support of the need to formalize the "PAAC" Task Force and to voice their outrage against heinous acts of animal cruelty, animal abuse and dog fighting as well as a variety of other criminal activities which plague their neighborhoods.

To obtain a copy of the "PAAC" Strategic Plan or to register to speak at the hearing, call Dolores McLaughlin at the Office of Cook County Commissioner Joan Patricia Murphy at (708) 389-2125 or (312) 603-4216, or contact via e-mail to: jpmurphy@cookcountygov.com.

On Wednesday, Sept. 14th, the Moraine Valley Community College Foundation will host its 24th annual golf outing at Silver Lake Country Club, 147th St. and 82nd Ave. in Orland Park. Proceeds from this event help to fund the Foundation's scholarship-program, in addition to other programs at the college.

The Foundation's annual golf outing also provides a number of opportunities for community participation and support through various levels of sponsorship. A variety of sponsorship opportunities are available. They include: dinner sponsor, golf cart sponsor, hole sponsor, and prize donor. Each of these sponsorships will be fully recognized in the program and clubhouse and are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law. Official gift receipts and letters are provided.

For more information about sponsorship or to get your business or company involved, call the Foundation office at (708) 974-5740.

Happy Labor Day!

This is decidedly a day which most Americans prefer to honor by not working at all. Labor Day weekend is the unofficial end of summer; a final chance to enjoy a trip to the beach or the mountains, or maybe a ballgame. And for many, Labor Day means going back to school and a return to real life and real work. Vacation time is over. Back to business, everybody!

Well, there's nothing wrong with that. Balancing work and rest should be part of the natural cycle of life. For too many people, though, the problem is work itself. It's either stressful or it's boring. It's too demanding or it's mind-numbing. Often, apparently, all at the same time.

Even some men and women who are good at what they do don't seem to find great meaning or simple satisfaction in their daily efforts. And that's too bad, not just for them and their loved ones but also their co-workers, who probably have to put up with their griping and discontent.

There's a story about folks like these that Father James Keller, who founded The Christophers 60 years ago, used to tell. Three laborers were asked about their jobs.

The first replied, "I cut blocks of stone."

The second, a carpenter, answered, "I earn a living for myself and my family."

The third, who carried the stone and wood for the others, said, "What am I doing? Why, I'm building a cathedral!"

It's a matter of perspective, isn't it? That's certainly what Father Keller believed.

In an early Christopher book, Careers That Change Your World, he reminded people that "every individual, young or old, rich or poor, in low position or high, can play an important part however small, under God, in changing our world. Mere complaining or criticizing accomplishes nothing. 'Better to light one candle than to curse the darkness' sums up our approach. In exact proportion as light is added, so does the darkness disappear."

"Because God has implanted in every human being a desire to be creative, to make a certain contribution to the peace of the world that no one else can make, the Christopher approach stresses individual initiative. As this simple, hopeful, constructive process is developed, so will the peace of Christ be restored to a weary, desolate world."

"You are important! No one else can substitute or supply the contribution that you - and you alone - can make. With this motivation, the most difficult task can become a labor of love."

There's no doubt that Father Keller liked to think big. He was firmly convinced that God gives each one of us talents and gifts that are ours alone. Whether at home, in our neighborhood - or on the job - we have a unique opportunity to make a difference.

I believe that too. That doesn't mean that every task at work is enjoyable or exciting, but it always has meaning. And it's always part of God's plan - and our mission. Make it a labor of love.

Exelon Corporation, proud parent of ComEd, donated $100,000 to the Chicago Police Memorial Foundation to support fundraising efforts to build the Gold Star Families Memorial and Park, a permanent memorial to Chicago police officers killed in the line of duty. Exelon challenged Chicago businesses to match their donation to raise $1 million towards the Chicago Police Memorial Foundation's $5 million goal.

On Saturday, Aug. 27, donors attended the Celebrity Tribute at Arie Crown Theater, which featured comedy and music performances by a host of Chicago actors, comedians, performers and sports figures including Dennis Farina, Gary Sinise, Vince Vaughn, Joe Mantegna, Peter Cetera, and George Wendt with 'Da Bears' Mike Ditka and the '85 Superbowl Champions. The weekend salute ended at the Gold Star Families Memorial and Park site located between Burnham Harbor and Soldier Field with an all-faith ecumenical service on Sunday, Aug. 28 officiated by Fr. Vest-A-Dog

Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan (left) prepares to Vest-a-Dog at a recent ceremony where four vests were donated to the Cook County Jail's Canine Unit.

The protective gear was donated by Illinois Vest-a-Dog, a non-profit organization that raises money to purchase bullet and stab-proof vests for police dogs. In just over two years, the group has donated 100 canine vests to law enforcement agencies throughout Illinois. Each vest cost more than $800.

The Cook County Jail canine unit provides security to the county's sprawling criminal justice facility at 26th and California. The dogs are specially trained to search for contraband throughout the jail and assist correctional officers in supervising the inmate population.

Statement On Gasoline Prices

Attorney General Lisa Madigan and her consumer protection and antitrust lawyers have been closely monitoring gasoline prices for possible violations of the law because of the large impact gas prices have on Illinois consumers and businesses. This scrutiny has increased in the past several weeks due to increasing prices at the pumps.

Last week, the Attorney General and her staff met with representatives of the gasoline industry to discuss the summer spike in gasoline prices. Madigan sent a letter to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) calling on that agency to continue its monitoring of wholesale and retail gasoline prices for illegal activity. Madigan also specifically asked the FTC, consistent with its obligations under the recently enacted federal Energy Policy Act, to investigate to determine whether the price of gasoline is being artificially manipulated in Illinois by reducing refinery capacity or by any other form of market manipulation.

Madigan's scrutiny of gasoline prices has continued to increase in the wake of Hurricane Katrina. Although the ultimate impact of Hurricane Katrina is unknown at this time, Katrina has created a temporary supply disruption that has contributed to gasoline price volatility and price increases. Oil companies report that refineries in the Gulf area have shut down, and transportation of crude oil to some refineries serving

Push For Tougher Controls On Meth Ingredient Sales

With law enforcement evidence showing that methamphetamine makers coming to Illinois to buy meth ingredients that have been severely restricted in their states, Attorney General Lisa Madigan said on Aug. 26th she will propose legislation during the fall veto session to bring Illinois law in line with its border states so that Illinois does not become the "meth shopping mall of the Midwest."

Speaking at an afternoon news conference at the DuQuoin State Fair where she was joined by law enforcement and agriculture leaders, Madigan said she will propose that Illinois adopt a law similar to the one that took effect in Iowa on May 21st, 2005. According to Iowa law enforcement authorities, the Iowa law has led to a 75 percent drop in the number of meth labs reported in that state. Oklahoma officials report a 60 percent drop in reported meth labs since a similar law took effect there in April 2004.

The Iowa law makes ephedrine and pseudoephedrine (PSE) "schedule V controlled substances" - meaning that they must be kept behind pharmacy counters. Although customers wishing to purchase such products do not need a prescription, they must display a photo ID and sign a log. The law requires that single and multi-active ingredient products, tablets, liquids and gel caps be placed behind the counter.

On Jan. 1st, 2005, a law proposed by Madigan took effect in Illinois that required placing adult-strength cold tablets containing ephedrine or PSE as their only active ingredient behind store counters. The law also limited to two packages per transaction the purchase of adult-strength cold tablets containing ephedrine or PSE as the sole active ingredient or in combination with other active ingredients. Additionally, the law required education and training for retail sales personnel. At the time, the law was among the toughest in the nation and the strongest law among our border states. However, since that date, several states have passed laws more restrictive than the Illinois law to combat the meth epidemic.

Madigan said that reports from law enforcement authorities - including the Illinois State Police Meth Response Teams - indicate that meth makers from Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana are coming to Illinois to purchase PSE products.

Illinois has been interrupted, resulting in refinery production cutbacks.

Madigan warns Illinois oil companies, suppliers and gasoline retailers against exploiting this natural disaster and taking unfair advantage of consumers by charging unconscionably high prices for gasoline. Oil companies, suppliers and retailers are encouraged to maintain production and retail availability of gasoline at levels as near to normal as possible during the recovery from Hurricane Katrina.

The Attorney General's Office is receiving reports from citizens statewide that gasoline prices have risen dramatically. Madigan will send investigators to stations to investigate these increases, and retailers and suppliers will be contacted by the legal staff. Madigan will take action against retailers or suppliers that have increased their prices unjustifiably.

Statement Signed By AFL-CIO President

"The Illinois AFL-CIO and union members throughout the state fought against Medical Malpractice legislation because it is inherently unfair. While parts of this legislation go after the real culprits of rising medical malpractice rates - the insurance industry - the arbitrary limits placed on damages a victim can recover only serve to block justice for the very people our system was created to protect. I can only hope that the courts will do the right thing - like they have previously in Illinois and in other states - and declare this law unconstitutional."

Present "Jabberwock" In Dinner Theater

The Jubal Players haven't been working since June on another fun dinner theater production, just for all of you. The play is "Jabberwock" by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee and is based on the life of comic James Thurber. Before the comic shenanigans of Jim Carey or Robin Williams, there was James Thurber. Thurber had an especially interesting and bizarre childhood, which he wrote about in "The Night the Bell Fell."

The hilarity is brought to life in the play. Comic characters abound, but the love and closeness of family is certainly the central theme.

This promises to be yet another quality production by the Jubal players, a group who enjoys elevating the art of community theater. The production will be held at the First Nazarene, 12725 Bell Road in Lemont. For a wonderfully entertaining evening of great food in an intimate setting, call (708) 349-0454.

Tickets are $18 for adults, $12 for seniors (62+) and children (12 and under). Two weekends are available: Sept. 23 & 24 at 7 p.m. or Sept. 30, Oct. 1 at 7 p.m. and Oct. 2 at 1:30 p.m.

Reptiles Return To Chicago

Almost 47 million households in the U.S. have a resident reptile, according to a recent study by the American Pet Products Manufacturing Association. That number is up 7% since 2002 and could certainly be up even higher this year as over 5,000 "herp lovers" are expected to attend the fifth annual North American Reptile Breeders Conference and Trade Show in Chicago on Oct. 8th and 9th.

The cold-blooded creatures at this amazing exhibition and sale of pet-friendly "herps" are among the finest in the world. With prices ranging from $5 to $75,000 everything from the common gecko to extraordinarily rare breeds of snakes with unusual morphing of colors will be represented. Open to the public, this high-quality, captive-bred-only reptile show produced by ECO Wear and Publishing and Chicago Reptile House, Inc. will feature over 100 dealers from across the country offering over 10,000 geckos, frogs, iguanas, snakes, lizards and tortoises. T-Rex, Timberline and Gourmet Rodent sponsor the event.

Both the reptile connoisseur and the reptile-curious shouldn't miss this educational and exciting opportunity to encounter alternative pets along with all of the supplies needed to support a herp hobby. All of the animals at the North American Reptile Breeders Conference & Trade Show are audited to ensure compliance with all federal and state laws as well as the guidelines of the Herpetological Society and the Pet Industry Joint Advisory Council (PIJAC).

The North American Reptile Breeders Conference and Trade Show is open to the public on Saturday, Oct. 8th from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 9th from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Convention Center at Tinley Park Holiday Inn Select, 18501 S. Body Worlds Exhibit Open 24 Hours A Day

After a weekend of sold-out attendance for Gunther von Hagens' BODY WORLDS: The Anatomical Exhibition of Real Human Bodies, the Museum of Science and Industry will open the exhibit 24-hours-a-day beginning on Saturday, Sept. 3 at 9:30 a.m. through Monday, Sept. 5 at 9 p.m. This is the first time in the Museum's history, and Chicago's history, that a museum exhibit will be open around the clock for two days.

To date, more than 700,000 guests have experienced this eye-opening exhibition in Chicago. Prior to coming to Chicago, BODY WORLDS was at the California Science Center in Los Angeles, where 665,019 guests went through during its six month run.

The exhibit includes specimens that detail the body's diverse anatomy and numerous systems, including the locomotive, digestive, nervous and vascular systems, and even the development of life in the womb. Twenty-five whole bodies, referred to in the exhibit as "plastinates," reveal the true-to-life spatial relationships among organs, and the complex beauty of the human body. Some plastinates are authentically posed playing soccer or basketball, pondering a chess move, swimming and running, allowing visitors to comprehend the intricate inter-connectedness of the muscle, organ and vascular systems and view them in various positions.

"The Blues Brothers" At Beverly Arts Center

A 25th anniversary screening of "The Blues Brothers" followed by live music from the movie by Blues Fever begins at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 15 at the Beverly Arts Center, 2407 W. 111th St. Don't miss this chance to view one of Chicago's favorite films on the big screen then rock to the movie's tunes played live. Tickets are $10.

"The Blues Brothers," directed by John Landis and written by Landis and Dan Akroyd, is the story of brothers Joliet Jake Blues (John Belushi) and Elwood Blues (Akroyd) and their "mission from God" to reunite their old band and save the Catholic orphanage where they grew up. Their wild romp through Chicago brings them in contact with music legends that include Cab Calloway, Ray Charles, Aretha Franklin and James Brown. Brief appearances by notables such as John Landis, Steven Spielberg, Twiggy, John Lee Hooker and many more keep viewers on their toes.

Known for its irreverent brushes with Chicago's finest, its record for most car crashes in a movie, and its outstanding music - from "RESPECT" to "Rawhide" - "The Blues Brothers" is one of the most popular comedies ever made.

Senior Living At Smith Village

The excitement is building at Smith Village in Chicago's Beverly neighborhood. Local seniors are snapping up apartments in the new independent living community that will be part of the state-of-the-art continuing care retirement community (CCRC). To build on the momentum, Smith Village is offering a remarkable incentive package to the next 15 people who select independent living apartments and place their deposits. Nearly 70 percent of the independent living apartments that are part of Smith Village have been reserved.

For a limited time, seniors who make a commitment will receive a $5,000 incentive that can be applied to their entrance fee or used for decorator upgrades. Additionally, these newest depositors will pay no monthly fee for the first two months after they move into Smith Village, a value between $3,600 and $6,000. With these two discounts, new depositors could save more than $10,000.

These incentives make a strong value even better and are sure to go quickly, according to Michael A. Flynn, chief financial officer for Smith Senior Living that sponsors Smith Village. "As a not-for-profit organization, we have lower operating expenses than most for-profit institutions, allowing us to provide highest-quality lifestyle services and residents for seniors," states Flynn.

"Our entrance fee provides seniors with real security," Flynn explains. "Not only do independent living residents select an apartment where every detail is designed to meet their specific needs, they also receive a 15 percent life-time discount on healthcare services at Smith Village. Residents can feel confident knowing that even if their health situation changes, they won't have to be dependent on anyone. When people have confidence that their physical, financial and healthcare needs are under control, they're free to really enjoy life."

The healthcare plan translates to significant savings for residents who move to the assisted living or nursing units later in life. Also, residents can accumulate as many as 100 free days in Smith Village's assisted living or nursing communities, should they require extra help. Some people take advantage of this benefit so that they do not need to impose on family while recovering from illness or surgery, according to Flynn.

Additionally, Smith Village's monthly fee streamlines daily expenses for seniors. Honor Eugene Smith

The national Society of St. Vincent de Paul will honor Eugene Smith, St. Vincent de Paul's president for the past six years, at the Society's national meeting in Chicago, now through Sept. 30th, at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel and Towers. Smith will officially step down from his role as president, a volunteer position, on Sept. 30th. His six-year tenure is the maximum a president can serve in the organization.

Following the recent national election by the membership, Joseph D. Flannigan of East Brunswick, N.J. will be installed as the Society's new president at the Labor Day weekend meeting. Joseph Flannigan has been an active member of the Society since April 1991. He is currently a Vice-President of the National Council of the Society and Chair of the Finance and Operations Committee.

Approximately 800 Vincentians are expected to attend the Chicago meeting, which will focus on the spirituality behind volunteerism. Also featured will be keynote speakers John Carr, Director of the Dept. of Social Development and World Peace of U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, and Very Rev. G. Gregory Gay, C.M., Superior General of the Congregation of the Mission, and noted author and psychoanalyst Dr. Nancy Reeves, who will host several special workshops on grieving and loss. In addition, religious iconographer Bro. Robert Lentz, O.F.M., will present several special workshops.

Inspired by Gospel values, the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, a Catholic lay organization, leads women and men to join together to grow spiritually by offering person-to-person service to those who are needy and suffering in the tradition of its founder, Blessed Frederic Ozanam, and patron, St. Vincent de Paul. Last year, the Society's 70,000 members assisted more than 13,728,500 persons throughout the United States.

Together We Cope

A Tinley Park food pantry is unusually short on supplies. As of last week, Together We Cope food pantry was down to two cans of green beans in its vegetable supply. Soup and fruit ran out earlier last week. The pantry also is low on everything else, according to Tinley Park food pantry officials.

The pantry had to cut down on the rations they give to each family, officials said.

Because of the low economy and high gas prices, other pantries in the Southland are in a similar situation, according to a spokesman for the Greater Chicago Food Depository.

A Together We Cope spokesman said that pantry dispensed 158 tons of food last year. That's up from 110 in 2003 and 93 tons in 2002.

Warning To Medicare Recipients

Attorney General Lisa Madigan reminded Illinoisans with Medicare coverage to beware of all unsolicited offers for help making decisions about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage.

Madigan urged Medicare recipients to take advantage of free, trustworthy assistance regarding the new Medicare prescription drug coverage available through the Illinois Senior Health Insurance Program (SHIP) at 1(800) 548-9034 or the Illinois Dept. on Aging Senior HelpLine at 1(800) 252-8966.

Madigan's office already has received reports of persons alleging they are "authorized" or "funded" by Medicare to contact Medicare beneficiaries by telephone or door-to-door to offer assistance with the new Medicare prescription drug coverage. Consumers should be aware that any unsolicited personal contact may represent an attempt to scam a Medicare beneficiary out of money or sell a product that may not be suitable. Madigan said that because of these reports, it is important for people with Medicare to remember:

- Medicare beneficiaries should never give an unsolicited caller or visitor their Social Security number, bank account numbers or personal financial information.
- No payment for a Medicare prescription drug plan should be made before Nov. 15th, 2005. Prescription drug plans may begin marketing Oct. 1st, 2005, but enrollment does not begin until Nov. 15th.
- When prescription drug plan enrollment begins Nov. 15th, 2005, people with Medicare should make sure they enroll with a Medicare-approved prescription drug plan. To verify if a plan is approved, consumers may call Medicare's toll-free number at 1(800) 633-4227.

From May through August, the Social Security Administration has been mailing application forms to people with Medicare who may qualify for extra help with drug plan costs. Almost half of all Medicare beneficiaries will receive an application for extra help. The Social Security Administration may ask for general financial information on the extra help application form, but never specific bank account numbers.

On approximately Oct. 15th, the Centers for Medicare

& Medicaid Services will send information to Medicare recipients describing the Medicare prescription drug plans that will be available to them. The initial enrollment period for Medicare prescription drug coverage will be from Nov. 15th, 2005 through May 15th, 2006. This six-month period will give people with Medicare time to learn about their options and choose what is best for their particular circumstances.

It is important for people with Medicare to carefully read any mail they receive from the Social Security Administration or the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services during the implementation of the new Medicare prescription drug benefit. If consumers have any questions related to the new Medicare prescription drug benefit, they should contact:

- The Illinois Senior Health Insurance Program (SHIP) at 1(800) 548-9034.
- The Illinois Dept. on Aging Senior HelpLine at 1(800) 252-8966.

Additional information is available at www.medicare.gov.

Consumers with concerns or information about people misrepresenting themselves or fraudulently promoting the new Medicare prescription drug benefit should report the situation to Madigan's Consumer Fraud Hotline at 1(800) 243-0618.

CEO Exchange Premieres In March

WTTW National Productions, the award-winning PBS affiliate in Chicago, and the human resource management firm, Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM), have announced an exclusive, long-term underwriting agreement in support of CEO Exchange, the renowned television series which originally premiered in February 2000.

Each program in this fourth season of ten one-hour programs will feature in-depth, candid conversations with internationally recognized and respected CEOs from Fortune 500 companies. CEO Exchange will premiere on public television stations nationwide in March 2006 and internationally the following year.

Respected journalist Jeff Greenfield will moderate the programs, which will be taped before live MBA student audiences on the campuses of top business schools throughout the U.S. and Europe. "You can talk to a business leader and ask about products and services, profits and losses, and maybe you'll learn whether you should invest in that company. But considering the scope of what they have to deal with every day of their lives - how to keep their companies vital in an environment that is utterly different from what it was less than a decade ago; balancing the demands of shareholders with a workplace that respects the needs of his employees - CEO Exchange is a more vital and relevant series than ever before," says Greenfield.

Thoughts On Health & Nutrition

by
Lucinda K. Lysen, RD, RN, BSN

DOCTORS ADVICE TO LOSE WEIGHT

Next time you are in your doctor's office, if his sage advice is to "lose weight," you may want to rise above your attitude and heed his words. Over half of adult America is overweight, and as each year passes the percentage climbs. A big problem until recently is that most doctors did not discuss obesity with their patients. Not to say that being condescending or inflammatory is the way to reach you; usually it backfires sending a patient home insulted or irate, threatening to never go back. But until now doctors for the most part have steered away from this topic due to lack of tools or skills on how to approach it, concrete suggestions on how to manage it, or merely the lack of time it would take to address the subject in a way that would prove beneficial to the patient.

Fortunately, we have come a long way in the educational process. Medical schools and residencies are incorporating nutrition into their programs, (we dietitians have done a lot to move this along) and physicians now have more resources (besides the "one-way" discussion) to provide them with the proper information to distribute to patients—at least to get them "jump-started." Registered dietitians are accessible in hospitals, outpatient clinics, and private practice settings to work with patients. Insurance benefits are becoming more prevalent and diseases like diabetes and renal disease are receiving Medicare coverage for nutrition counseling. And the media is bombarded with information daily prepared by qualified medical/nutrition professionals. The American Dietetic Association, the "mother" organization to over 75,000 dietitians, has a media spokesperson program to provide dietitians to the media in most major US cities and surrounding areas. These dietitians go through a rigorous training program to prepare for public speaking and writing, and for interviewing on TV and radio.

The truth is that the truth hurts. We eat wrong, exercise sparingly, and stress ourselves out at work and with family. And doctors and the health care community in general are seeing that dietary habits influence disease outcome in outrageous proportions. The cost of caring for patients and their medical complications is becoming prohibitive, and poor diet is to blame for a lot of the problem to begin with. Just picture the cardiac patient in the ICU. Prevention is much less costly than attempts to cure.

I recently read in one of our Chicago daily papers that Dr. Terry Bennett, in Rochester, New Hampshire, was investigated by a panel of the New Hampshire Board of Medicine, which recommended that he be sent a confidential letter of concern over his dialogue to a patient—including the statement that she was "obese." The Board rejected the suggestion and asked the Attorney General's office to investigate. Bennett rejected that office's proposal that he attend a medical education course and acknowledge that he made a mistake. "What really makes me angry is that he told the truth," another patient whom he helped lose 150 pounds stated. "I have been in this lady's shoes. I have been angry and left his practice...in my car taking off angry," the patient said. "But once you think about it, you're angry at yourself, not Dr. Bennett."

Now isn't this food for thought?

Stem Cell Research

On Aug. 29th Governor Rod R. Blagojevich and Comptroller Dan Hynes sent a letter to 30 doctors and scientists currently conducting stem cell research in Missouri encouraging them to explore research opportunities in Illinois. Last month, the Governor and Comptroller made Illinois the first state in the Midwest, and only the fourth state in the nation, to commit public funds to the life-saving work of stem cell research. Studying stem cells allows scientists and doctors to better understand what causes serious medical illnesses and conditions in hopes of discovering new ways to treat or even cure them.

Stem cells are cells that have the potential to develop into many different types of healthy new cells in the body. As described by the National Institutes of Health, they act like an internal repair system for the body. Stem cells can divide to replenish other cells for as long as the body is alive. When a stem cell divides, each new cell has the potential to either remain a stem cell or become another type of cell like muscle cell, a red blood cell, or a brain cell.

Studying stem cells allows doctors to try to analyze how cells transform into other cells. Many of the most serious illnesses or birth defects are caused by problems in this process. So, understanding the process better may help doctors discover how to prevent, treat or cure illnesses and conditions.

A potential way to use stem cells is to make new cells or tissues for medical therapies. Currently, donated organs and tissues are used to replace those that are diseased or destroyed. But, there are far more people who need organ transplants than there are organs available. Some stem cells offer the possibility of making replacement cells and tissues to treat various diseases and conditions including Alzheimer's, spinal cord injury, stroke, burns, heart disease, diabetes, osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis.

The Governor's Executive Order dictated that the IRMI (Illinois Regenerative Medicine Institute) program will provide funding for stem cell research that involves adult, cord blood and embryonic stem cells. Medical and scientific accountability standards and rules will generally be consistent with those issued by the National Academies of Sciences and the National Institutes of Health, and the Department of Public Health will issue an annual report that details IRMI's operation.

The Executive Order also mandated that no funding will be authorized for research involving human cloning, nor will funding be awarded to anyone who purchases or sells embryonic or fetal tissue for research purposes, and time limits will be set for extracting cells from blastocysts.

Home Health & Hospice Bill

Gov. Rod Blagojevich has signed HB 130, a home care bill, into law.

HB 130, now called Public Act 94-0638, was initiated by the Illinois HomeCare Council (IHCC) and creates the "Home Health and Hospice Drug Dispensation and Administration Act." This law protects home health care and hospice consumers by allowing registered nurses and advanced practice nurses in home health and hospice to have five specific prescription drugs available in their nursing bags to be used as needed, provided a physician gives a verbal order. These drugs are saline, heparin, sterile water, Benadryl and Epinephrine.

The issue positively affects patients around the state,

Governor Signs Medical Malpractice Reform

Flanked by physicians, patients, hospital administrators and legislators, Governor Rod R. Blagojevich signed critical legislation on Aug. 25th to address the growing cost of medical malpractice insurance. In an effort to improve patient access to health care, the new law caps monetary awards for pain and suffering, gives the state the authority to more aggressively regulate malpractice insurance companies premium increases, increases the ability of Illinois regulators to enforce physician practices and finally, allows consumers to learn about previous judgments or complaints against any physician licensed in Illinois.

Senate Bill 475, limits the amount a jury can award for personal pain and suffering to $500,000 from physicians and $1,000,000 for hospital judgments. While these limits were higher than some had advocated for, they represent reasonable restraints on the awards that can be made to victims of malpractice. By establishing award ceilings, insurance companies, self-insured health care providers and physicians will be able to better plan for the monetary costs associated with malpractice awards. To reduce frivolous lawsuits the bill also requires that before a case can be brought against a physician or hospital, another doctor must certify that the action has merit and should be brought to court.

SB 475 makes it possible for the state, for the first time, to deny medical malpractice rate increases. In addition to eliminating a requirement that the business climate in Illinois be deemed "non-competitive," the Department of Financial and Professional Regulation (IDFPR) will also collect and make available actuarial data relied upon for pricing by every medical malpractice insurer.

The new law also makes changes to the way physicians are regulated and the Medical Practice Act is enforced. Two additional public members, who are not physicians, will be appointed to the Medical Disciplinary Board, which reviews citizen complaints and disciplinary actions against licensed doctors.

SB 475 creates a new opportunity for Illinoisans to learn about the doctors who treat them. An Internet site will be created with access to background information about doctors, containing data on the previous five years' history, involving criminal convictions, malpractice awards and disciplinary actions taken by the State of Illinois or reported by other states.

SB 475 becomes effective immediately.

"Life Without Lupus" 5K Walk & Fun Run

To highlight the critical need for early diagnosis and treatment, the Lupus Foundation of Illinois' 5th annual "Life Without Lupus" 5K Walk & Fun Run will be held on Sunday, Sept. 18 at Chicago's Lincoln Park beginning at 9 a.m. More than 3,000 participants are expected to join together to promote public awareness of lupus, and to raise funds in support of lupus education, advocacy, patient services, and research. There is a pre-race registration fee of $35 per person and a race day registration fee of $40. Activities will include a free Kids' Dash for children 10 and under, prizes for runners and teams, pre and post race refreshments, a "Living with Lupus" tent featuring lupus information, and a doctor to answer questions. For more information or registration forms, contact the Lupus Foundation of Illinois at 1-800-2 LUPUS 2 or online at www.lupusil.org.

but especially in rural areas. If a patient goes into anaphylactic shock, a major allergic reaction that can result in death, and needs Benadryl or Epinephrine quickly, the nurse would have to drive to the nearest pharmacy to get the drug. This law eliminates this dangerous possibility by allowing nurses to carry the drugs that can help a patient immediately. Similar legislation has already been passed in Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Texas and Vermont.

"Illinois is proud to have this new law to better serve home health and hospice patients around the state, and especially in rural Illinois," Nancy S. Nelson, IHCC Executive Director, said.

Navy Seaman Recruit John W. Schneider, son of Regina Schneider of Alsip and James T. McTighe of Mesa, Arizona, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes. Schneider is a 2004 graduate of Dwight D. Eisenhower High School in Blue Island.

Air Force Reserve Airman Laura C. Boehm has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. She is the daughter of Suzanne Walsh of Chicago and Dave Boehm of Worth. The airman is a 2005 graduate of Mother McAuley High School in Chicago.

Navy Seaman Michael S. Zylus, son of Karen Bonomo of Burbank and Charles Zylus of Oak Lawn, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes. Zylus is a 2004 graduate of Oak Lawn Community High School.

The Illinois Student Assistance Commission, in partnership with the state's public universities and community colleges, will award more than $26 million to eligible Illinois veterans during the 2005-06 academic year to help pay for their college education. The Illinois Veteran Grant program, administered by the Commission, pays tuition and mandatory fees for eligible students enrolling in an Illinois community college or public university.

The governor recently signed legislation proposed by ISAC that rewrites the long-term Illinois Veteran Grant program.

Individuals are eligible for the grant if they enter federal active duty service as an Illinois resident, serve at least one year of federal active duty service or less than a year if the service is in a foreign country, and have an honorable service record. Those who have left service must return to Illinois within six months to maintain eligibility. Beneficiaries of the Illinois Veteran Grant are not required to pay tuition or mandatory fees while attending a state university or community college for the equivalent of four years of full-time enrollment, including summer terms.

Members of the Illinois National Guard are eligible for the grant if they meet the eligibility criteria. National Guard members can also receive the Illinois National Guard Grant which covers tuition and some fees. The bill recently signed by the governor expands the grant to be available for officers in the National Guard and allows recipients to accept the grant for the equivalent of four years of full-time enrollment, including summer terms.

For more information about the two grants, call the Illinois Student Assistance Commission. In addition to these military service grants, the agency provides fourteen other scholarship and grant programs, as well as educational loans for students and parents. All program administration and outreach activities focused on helping Illinois students and families are supported by ISAC's student loan programs. The ISAC staff can be reached toll-free at (800) 899-ISAC (4722). Applications for the programs are online at the comprehensive college planning web site, CollegeZone.com. College Zone counselors and materials are available in Spanish.

Good-bye for this week. God bless you and God bless America.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

Voters in eighteen states across America - people of all races, creeds, religions and political affiliations - have spoken clearly by amending their state constitutions with overwhelming majorities (an average of just over 70 percent) to defend marriage from those who seek to redefine it.

Citizens of Illinois would also like to have the opportunity to vote on an amendment to their state constitution which will define marriage clearly and protect it from those who are willing to impose a vast, untested, social experiment upon our culture and children.

Those who truly believe in our democratic way of life must get involved. If this issue isn't decided by Illinois voters, it will be decided for us by unelected, activist judges as evidenced in Massachusetts.

If you want to get involved in this historic effort, or if you just want to learn more, please visit www.protectmarriageill.org or call toll-free (877) 787-8011.

We invite you to take part in the Protect Marriage Illinois petition drive to put a referendum on the 2006 ballot to call on the General Assembly to establish marriage as it is intended by nature, tradition and common sense - between one man and one woman.

David E. Smith, Project Director

Ozone Air Pollution Tour

A busload of federal and state environmental protection authorities toured 15 north side businesses recently to see firsthand how some Chicagoans are voluntarily reducing ozone air pollution.

The tour was organized by Clean Air Counts, a program of the Metropolitan Mayors Caucus that has so far recruited more than 260 businesses and other organizations, half of them in the city of Chicago, half in the suburbs.

Among those touring the Clybourn Avenue corridor and Goose Island were six U.S. Environmental Protection Agency executives, including Robert Brenner, director, Office of Policy Analysis and Review; EPA Office of Air & Radiation. Illinois EPA executives were also aboard, and Sen. Richard Durbin, Sen. Barack Obama and Lt. Gov. Patrick Quinn all sent representatives along for the ride.

Midlothian Mayor Tom Murawski, chairman of the Metropolitan Mayors Caucus and incoming chair of Clean Air Counts, led the tour, saying, "In less than two years we have introduced a new model for corporate environmental citizenship. Collectively our participating organizations are removing about a ton and a half of pollutants from the air every day."

Each business chooses clean air strategies that fit its circumstances best. They include workplace transportation options, employee bicycle racks, low-energy lighting and office equipment, cleaner manufacturing processes, native landscaping and use of paints and cleaners that are low in volatile organic compounds.

Clean Air Counts is a collaborative partnership of the Metropolitan Mayors Caucus, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, City of Chicago and Illinois EPA. The campaign offers a voluntary approach to targeting smog-inducing pollutants from unregulated sources, coupled with an innovative quantification and reporting system. The campaign's goal is to remove from the air five tons per day of VOCs and nitrogen oxide pollutants. Information about what Illinoisans can do is at www.cleanaircounts.org.

Passenger Rail Travel

The Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT) and Amtrak announced on Aug. 24th that all of the trains Amtrak runs under contract with the IDOT moved a record number of passengers in the state's fiscal year 2005. Three trains, the State House (Chicago-St. Louis), the Illini (Chicago-Carbondale) and the Hiawatha Service (Chicago-Milwaukee) posted double-digit increases, while the fourth state assisted train, the Illinois Zephyr (Chicago-Quincy), reported a ridership increase of almost 8%.

All state sponsored trains posted record levels of ridership. The Chicago-St. Louis train posted an increase of 10.86 percent to 120,852, Chicago-Carbondale was up 10.9 percent to 121,311, and Chicago-Quincy rose 7.6 percent to 113,086 in figures calculated by IDOT for the period July 2004 through June 2005. Figures include only the IDOT-supported trains on those routes.

The Chicago-Milwaukee service had an increase to total 494,075 passengers, up by 10.98 percent, from last year's 439,865. The Hiawathas, run by Amtrak, are sponsored by the Wisconsin Dept. of Transportation and IDOT.

IDOT and Amtrak jointly sponsor regular meetings with community coalitions that work to market and otherwise support the downstate services.

The State of Illinois and Amtrak partner on the three downstate routes to ensure that regular passenger rail service continues to be offered throughout Illinois. During state fiscal year 2005, IDOT's contribution to maintaining regular service of the four routes was approximately $12 million. The General Assembly recently improved spending the same amount in Illinois' fiscal year 2006.

For more information about the Illini, State House, Hiawatha Service, Illinois Zephyr or other Amtrak services, call (800) USA-RAIL or visit the www.amtrak.com web site.

Final Plea For Cook Area Host Families

Foreign high school students are scheduled to arrive soon for academic semester and year program homestays, and the sponsoring organization needs a few more local host families.

According to Pacific Intercultural Exchange (P.I.E.) Executive Director, John Doty, the students are all between the ages of 15 and 18 years, are English-speaking, have their own spending money, carry accident and health insurance, and are anxious to share their cultural experiences with their new American families. P.I.E. currently has programs to match almost every family's needs, ranging in length from a semester to a full academic year, where the students attend local high schools.

P.I.E. area representatives match students with host families by finding common interests and lifestyles through an informal in-home meeting. Prospective host families are able to review student applications and select the perfect match. As there are no "typical" host families, P.I.E. can fit a student into just about any situation, whether it is a single parent, a childless couple, a retired couple or a large family.

Families who host for P.I.E. are also eligible to claim a $50 per month charitable contribution deduction on their itemized tax returns for each month they host a sponsored student.

For the upcoming programs, P.I.E. has students from Germany, the former Soviet Union, Venezuela, Argentina, Brazil, Macedonia, Hungary, Korea, Mexico, Australia, Yugoslavia, China, and many other countries. P.I.E. is also participating in two special government-funded programs to bring scholarship students from the Newly Independent States of the former Soviet Union as well as predominately Islamic countries such as Yemen, Syria, Jordan, Morocco, Kuwait, Iraq and Qatar to the United States. P.I.E. is a non-profit educational organization that has sponsored more than 25,000 students from 45 countries since its founding in 1975. The organization is designated by the United States Department of State and is listed by the Council on Standards for International Educational Travel (CSIET), certifying that the organization complies with the standards set forth in CSIET's Standards for International Educational Travel Programs.

Doty encourages families to contact the program immediately, as it will allow the proper time for the students and hosts to get to know one another before they actually meet for the first time.

Cook area families interested in learning more about student exchange or arranging for a meeting with a community representative may call P.I.E., toll-free, at 1-800-631-1818. The agency also has travel/study program opportunities available for American high school students as well as possibilities for community volunteers to assist and work with area host families, students and schools.

Plan St. Therese Celebration

A feastday celebration in honor of St. Therese of Lisieux will be held at the National Shrine of St. Therese on Friday, Sept. 30, according to the Rev. Robert Colarcsi, O.Carm., director of the Society of the Little Flower.

The celebration will begin with a presentation entitled "The Spirituality of St. Therese" at 9:30 a.m. in the shrine chapel. The Very Rev. John Welch, O.Carm., provincial superior of the Canadian-American Carmelites, will be the speaker.

A feastday mass will be offered at 11:30 a.m., at nearby Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church. Fr. Welch will be the homilist and principal celebrant.

The celebration will conclude with a prayer service honoring St. Therese at 2 p.m. in the shrine chapel. Br. Eric Bell, O.Carm., shrine director, will conduct the service.

The National Shrine of St. Therese is located at 8501 Bailey Rd., in Darien. For information, call (630) 969-3311.
